Interest Gains In Mt. McSauba

Planned and built by volunteer workers to give local young people and adults a place near home to ski, Mt. McSauba is gaining a wide following of outside enthusiasts.

Rambling with sheep

THIS WEEK'S Charlevoix Courier starts something we're downright chummy about. For a fact, you would be absolutely right if you said the editor is just prouder than blazes.

You find an entire editorial page on the current state of the state, and you find it all in one place, you will find it all in one place.

To go a little further, you will find even community residents, and in writing it — in addition to the Courier editor. And the way to make others are easy to read in a feature we hope to run every week.

This may mean too awfully much to you. Maybe you will get some idea of why we're so saucy. If you keep in mind our other Northern Michigan newspaper weekly or daily — offers its readers such a page. Other papers either have their editorial page crammed full of ads, or buy outside columns.

Our editorial page makes a bold break from traditional newspaper clutter and is a line. Not only are the newspaper's opinions expressed, but also the local perspective.

Take a Gander At Our Want Ads

The brightest, easiest to read classified advertising section in Northern Michigan, starts this week in the Charlevoix Courier.

The Courier's new "People Reach" want ad section offers bigger type and clearer reading.

A total of 101 different classified ads are offered to make it easier for you to find what you want. The Courier is for the same old reason.

According to Mt. McSauba Ski Club manager Charles Meier, the non-profit ski area is drawing skiers from as far away as Chicago and many from Detroit and other downstate areas.

A SEASON TICKET holder comes from as far away as Mackinaw City, the George Start family. Meier reports. During the holidays an average of 100 persons a day skied on the slopes.

The final opening of the new run, Meier reports received overwhelming support from intermediate and advanced skiers.

Increased evidence in Mt. McSauba is evidenced in the almost doubled turn-out for tree ski lessons paid for by the Kiwanis Club. In the last two weeks, 99 local

Hunters on TV

Albert Neff's "Michigan Outdoors" TV show tonight (Thurs., 7 p.m.) will feature rabbit hunting on Beaver Island, according to Beaver Island Boat Co. manager James Gallagher.

Neff was on the island, with his cameras in action, last week, taking pictures of local hunters.

War, it is often charged, teaches people bad habits. He that is it may, there is no denying Bill Supernaw picked up an old habit by due to World War II.

Supernaw, a Charlevoix Post Office clerk, has saved enough string since WW II to reach from downtown Charlevoix almost to the Big Rock Nuclear Power Plant.

DURING WAR DAYS string was scarce. Postal employees saved string from packages and bundles. Starting work at the post office in 1940, Supernaw was in on the grass roots of this movement. He left the post office, to make his contribution to the war effort in an Army uniform.

When he came back, perhaps feeling he had been slighted from full participation in the string-saving campaign (though he doesn't say so), he started collecting it.

Many bundles, such as magazines, come to the post office tied in string. Rather than throw it out, Supernaw asked post office workers to throw it in a box conveniently placed near mail sorting areas.

Reveal Plan to Construct $25 Million Cement Plant

To Begin Building Here in '64, or '65

Medusa Portland Applies for Permit to Install Huge Dock

Medusa Portland Cement Co. tentatively plans to construct a $25 million plant on South Point this or next spring, the Charlevoix Courier learned this week.

Worth Loomis, a Medusa Portland vice president, unveiled the company's plans in a long distance telephone call with the Courier.

CONTACTED BY THE newspaper at the firm's Cleveland headquarters, Loomis stated the company is not sure if it will build in 1964 or 1965.

He declared that when the company does build it will "likely" build an entire cement plant, including a dock and quarry. He estimated the cost, roughly, at $25 million.

Initially Medusa Portland, Loomis said, planned to build only a $1 million dock and quarry on South Point. Due to changes in the cement industry, he explained, it is now "more likely" the entire plant will be constructed here.

He made a point of emphasizing that the company's plans are flexible and unsure. "The situation has changed in the last month," Loomis said.

LATE IN 1963, the Medusa vice president said, the company expected to begin construction here this spring. In the last month conditions have changed enough to make the company consider not building until 1965.

The plant will employ approximately 100 people, he pointed out. Medusa Portland owns 1,070 acres including all of South Point and south along the Lake Michigan shore to Bell's Bay. The property is in Charlevoix Township. It is zoned industrial.

The company has applied to the Army Corps of Engineers for a permit to construct a conveyor bridge 1,550 feet into Lake Michigan with a 680 foot dock at the end of it. The bridge and dock would extend on the east side of South Point toward Charlevoix.

THE END OF THE dock will be 1.2 miles from the Pine River entrance. Engineers for the dock and bridge are Gilles and Russell of Detroit.

Plan for July Fete

Notice preparation for next summer's Venetian Festival has already begun, Frank Boss, general chairman, reports.

The Venetian Festival committee met Monday to appoint subcommittee chairmen and begin initial planning for the late July 1964 event.

THE COMMITTEE, Dean Davenport, Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager reports, is considering changing the Venetian Festival from Saturday and Sunday to Friday and Saturday. Davenport outlined three possible advantages to having the festival on Friday and Saturday:

1—Many people have to leave town for home before the festival ends Sunday. If it ended on Saturday these people would be able to stay.

2—Charlevoix ministers have never fully favored having the festival on Sunday.

3—Downtown businessmen are open Saturday.

DAVENPORT ASKED that people let the Chamber know if they favor changing the festival to Friday and Saturday.

Tune up Horn

Charlevoix residents puzzled by the blat of the fog horn on Tuesday — one of the clearest days this winter — need wonder no longer.

Coast Guard technicians were in town to get the fog horn, at the end of the Pine River channel, tuned up for next year. Not exactly the same thing as tuning a piano. But, then, there is a difference in fog horn horns, you know.

THE FOG HORN and channel lights are not a new thing at the end of the Lake Michigan navigation season.

Beet Factory Ruins Due for Demolition

One of Charlevoix's most cursed landmarks will be gone by summer, Hal Forbrig, contractor-developer, announced this week.

Forbrig said the long neglected remains of the sugar beet factory along M-66, near the City Hall, will be torn down.

THE SUGAR BEET plant has reportedly been an eyesore for 50 years. It's partially standing wall, and weed-grown basement stand as a picture of ruin and neglect as one of the first sights visitors coming into town see on M-66.

Forbrig said Stover Creek Marina Inc., of which he is a part, bought the beet factory and 17 acres, including 1,200 feet of Lake Charlevoix frontage. The land was acquired, after eight years of negotiation, with John Laskot of California, the former owner and a one-time Charlevoix resident.

Stover Creek Marina plans to build 22 year-around homes on the property, Forbrig stated. The development will include a "neighbored" recreation area and a trout pond in Stover Creek.

Demolition of the beet plant ruins will begin late this winter, he declared.

CONCRETE FROM the plant will be used to construct an enclosed harbor for owners of the homes. The concrete harbor walls will be constructed as curving docks, so boat owners can walk on them.

Forbrig said he expects to sell the homes to local people and resorters. Though he was not specific on what they will cost, he said the development will be "sort of exclusive."

State Highway Dept. plans to re-route M-66 away from the development are welcomed by Forbrig. "It will be better because it will be quieter and less congested," he said.

Study Gas To Make Electricity

Mayor E. D. Hawley this week announced Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. will be asked by the City Council, to make a study of the feasibility of Charlevoix generating its own electricity with natural gas powered equipment.

The possibility that Charlevoix could return to producing its own power, at considerable savings, by using natural gas driven generators was suggested by Councilman

In addition to asking for a candidate's name, address, and occupation, the questionnaire asks for a candidate's views on various issues.

Not a single exchange paper that crosses our desk, and is published north of Lapeer, Mich., can boast that it offers as many local citizens an opportunity to have their say.

Our new feature, "It's Your Opinion That Counts," will run weekly. We will call people at random asking their opinion. If you have a question you would like to have us ask, just give a call to the Courier office. If you want to comment on the question, that's what we're after — your opinion!

There has been considerable hue and cry raised in the last couple years about lack of citizen participation in public affairs. People making this criticism will have to exempt Charlevoix from their list. Our editorial page is proof positive that local people are letting officials know where they stand.

THIS COLUMN IS usually written between 7 and 8 a.m. on a Thursday or Friday morning. This morning there's been a large white I sat staring out the office window at the sunrise over Round Lake.

The wispiness clouds began to color about 7:45 a.m. By 8 the soft colors had taken on a fleeting look over the Belvedere Club and beyond over Lake Charlevoix. They almost seemed to have a martyred complexion. As if well aware their graceful performance was being ignored by most of us.

At least a half dozen, and maybe a dozen people walked by on their way to work or school during the height of the quiet show. They all had their heads bent to the ground. Not one could take the time to look.

By 8:20 January's flat, gray tone had again captured the sky. It was too late to stop and tuck away for the rest of the day's use this simple reminder that man, in all his pomp and hurry has yet to equal this simple, routine act of Nature. But there is comfort in realizing most of us in Charlevoix are here because we are aware of this silent truth, and cannot help but be reminded of it almost daily.

FOR THE PAST three months Dean Davenport has been closely guarding the Chamber of Commerce's only copy of Bob Miles' beautiful Charlevoix color brochure. Then last week he purchased a new box of them, and I finally talked him out of one.

PTA Fair Scheduled Feb. 15

A planning meeting for the P.T.A. Fair, scheduled for Feb. 15, was called by Mrs. Clarence Smith, co-chairman of the popular event with Fritz Puffball.

Attended by room mothers and teachers, it was decided that the following events and booths would be made a part of the fair: penny pitch, grab bag, ring the thing, basketball toss, a dance, a chicken dinner by reservation ticket only, a cake walk, home baked goods sale, white elephant sale, and booths where old books and comics, lemonade and ice cream, hats, canes and hallions, cotton candy, and popcorn would be offered for sale. There will also be a check room concession.

THE FAIR will be held in the elementary school gymnasium and cafeteria. Mrs. Robert Hamilton will be in charge of both locations.

Mrs. J. L. Feindt and Mrs. M. J. Dixon will be the ticket sales. The Lions Club will be in charge of advertising; the Kiwanis Club will operate a snack booth.

Donald Parsel, Hawley pointed out.

HAWLEY SAID HE asked a Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. official about using gas a year ago, but was told the present engines were too antiquated to be converted to natural gas.

Denton Monroe, Michigan Consolidated's area manager, told the Courier new bulk gas sales might make it possible for the city to buy all new engines and still save considerable money.

However, Monroe stated, he wants it understood the company has "no facts at this time."

Monroe said a group of Charlevoix citizens and Parsel asked him to have the study made. He contacted Mayor Hawley.

IF CITY OFFICIALS ask for the study, it will be made, but not until then, Monroe explained.

He said such a study has been made for Petoskey. "Quite a few communities are using natural gas in their electric plants," he said.

"We're talking about something that may not come up for four years," Monroe pointed out. "Consumers still has four years to run on its contract."

"We don't even know if we'll be in a position to make a proposition to Charlevoix when the study is completed."

"WE HOPE to make a complete study if we're asked to, but until they do we won't know anything," the company's area manager, added.

The company's area manager, added, admitted the study may show natural gas is not the answer for Charlevoix. "Our whole attitude is to get the facts, we're not going to push it," he added.

He stated the study will not consider the condition of power lines here or industry's preference for non-politically controlled electric power sources.

Cement Plant Plans Revealed

chigan Ave., Detroit 26, has posted public notices that persons objecting to plans for the bridge and dock must file written protests with them no later than 4:30 p.m. Feb. 10.

Loomis said the cement plant will be as "clean, pleasant and attractive a plant as possible." Modern construction and design techniques make it possible to almost completely eliminate smoke in new cement plants, he stated.

"We are well aware of the beauty of Charlevoix," he said, "Medusa will attempt to build the plant in the trees so it does not completely dominate the view south of Charlevoix, along Lake Michigan," he added.

"We are very, very anxious to be good neighbors," he said.

CHARLEVOIX MAYOR E. D. Hawley and City Supt. James Taylor have both met with Medusa officials. They contend the company's plant will be an asset to Charlevoix.

Loomis said Medusa officials v spend a lot of time in Charlevoix working with local people to construction begins.

Medusa Plant has owned property here since 1928. It is part of the cost for keeping fruit onto the tip of South Peninsula.

didate's personal qualifications, the questionnaires ask them to explain why they are running, why they feel they are qualified and how they stand on issues.

The "Candidate Questionnaires" were prepared by the newspaper largely to inform the public, but also for the convenience of candidates.

NO STATEMENTS will be accepted by the Courier from a candidate until they have first shown their interest in fairly presenting their qualifications and views to the public by filling out the questionnaire, Sheppard declared.

"We realize this may not be too important in the present city election as issues seem to be few and mild. But our experience has been that this is the best way to make sure voters get a complete story on all candidates," Sheppard said.

Answers to the questionnaires will appear in the Feb. 6 issue of the Courier.

velvet headbands and nose veils and carried cascade bouquets of pink roses and lily.

Brendan LaBlance assisted his brother as best man. Another brother, Steven LaBlance, Vincent Brennan Jr., of Elmhurst, brother of the bride, and John Kroger of Oak Park, Ill., seated the guests.

Mrs. Brennan selected a gown of gold and rose brocade with matching rose velvet coat and a mink hat and stole for her daughter's wedding. Her corsage of red roses were pinned to her purse. Mrs. LaBlance, mother of the bridegroom, wore a deep rose silk shantung ensemble and matching accessories. Her corsage was of white gardenias.

A wedding breakfast for the wedding party and more than 200 guests followed at the Elmhurst Country Club.

After a wedding trip to Fort Lauderdale, Fla., the couple will be at home at 1305 N. Hartem ave., Oak Park, Ill. For travel on their air trip south, the bride wore a yellow knit suit, black and yellow check coat and black accessories.

THE BRIDE is a graduate of Immaculate Conception high school where she was a member of the National Honor Society and a graduate of St. Anne's School of Nursing in Elmhurst where she is now employed. Mr. LaBlance is a graduate of the Charlevoix high school and Northern Michigan University, and a veteran of two years in the U. S. Navy. He is employed by the John E. Ireland and

Board Ok's Student Code

The Charlevoix Board of Education has armed itself with the necessary powers to "get tough" with drinking students. To aid in formulating and enforcing high standards of conduct, the board adopted a student code, establishing definite standards of behavior and punishment for violation.

"ANY STUDENT who drinks intoxicating beverages, contributes to such drinking by other students, who commits criminal acts, or whose conduct is deemed detrimental to the good reputation of Charlevoix Public Schools, shall, after hearing, be liable to disciplinary action and penalties assessed, including participation in any extracurricular activity, or suspension and warrant lawful expulsion from the public school."

First drafted in rough form by Supt. Rex Milligan, the resolution was finally adopted and quoted here was prepared in Flint by Attorney John N. Thomas.

The "code" will be in effect only until a student code is completed by the Student Council, probably later this year. BOARD MEMBERS contend adoption of the code gives them a uniform policy for dealing with delinquent students. In the past each case has been treated, or ignored, without board members, or administrators, having written guidelines to follow.

It was also pointed out the policy will be enforced by administrators. Such matters are not expected to come before the board.

PTA Gets Romney for Gordon's Lowdown Minimum Wage Plan

A bold new outline for teaching mathematics was presented to the Charlevoix P.T.A. at its January meeting in the elementary school.

Richard Ford of the Silver Burdett Co., told P.T.A. members "modern mathematics" teaches the best of traditional arithmetic along with the best of new ideas. He pointed out that teachers actually begin with some facets of geometry.

NINTH GRADE mothers were thanked by Ernest March, hospital director, for serving refreshments. Serving were Lillian Kemp, Phyllis Gill, Beatrice Bass and Carolyn Bader.

Louise Gill, membership chairman, reported the P.T.A. has 355 paid up members.

The next meeting will be Feb. 4, at the high school cafeteria at 8 p.m. Fifth grade's will be caretakers and their mothers serve refreshments.

Blanche Smith presented the $2 attendance prize money to Jeanette Novak's room.

(Special to Courier)
Governor George Romney, in his State of the State message, has supported a Minimum Wage proposal offered by Representative Dan Gordon (R-Charlevoix District).

Representative Gordon, only Michigan lawmaker to be named in the Governor's nine-page message, opposed minimum wage legislation during the 1963 session. He headed a Senate House committee to draw up a plan generally acceptable to management and labor.

THE GORDON committee, after conducting what the Governor described as "exhaustive research into this human problem," has recommended a five-point law which would:

(1) Apply only to workers between the ages of 18 and 62 for women, 65 for men.

(2) Follow the pattern of Workmen's Compensation law in applying only to employers of four or more.

(3) Follow the pattern of Unemployment Compensation law in applying only after 13 weeks of unemployment.

(4) Start the minimum wage at $1.00 an hour in 1964, stepping up to $1.15 in 1965 and finally $1.25 in 1966, thus giving employers more time to make adjustments.

(5) Contain provisions for deduction to allow for physically, lodging, and the hiring of physically and mentally handicapped.

REPRESENTATIVE Gordon has pointed out that both management and labor have a considerable stake in minimum wage legislation. "If Michigan is to have a minimum wage law," he said, "it should make as much sense as possible."

The federal wage and hour law applies only to firms engaged in interstate commerce, but 35 of the 50 states have adopted their own minimum standards. A Minimum Wage law is one of Governor Romney's chief goals for 1964.

Boy Scouts Get 11 Promotions

By Jon Goldstick

At a Boy Scout court of honor Wednesday in City Hall, nine members of Troop 11 received second class awards and two others were given tenderfoot awards.

To receive a second class award the Scout must know how to take compass readings, to measure distances with his own height, to tie knots and to give first aid.

SECOND CLASS awards went to Paul Fiedoruk, Duane Wilks, Mark Kantola, Stanley Warner, Tom Burns, Mike Etienne, Gordon Solomon, Larry Anders and Paul Belding.

Tim Anders and Mike Thorpe received tenderfoot awards.

Awards were presented by Bruce Kroken, Jim Stewart and Scoutmaster Louis Edwards.

Will Pick Student For UN Pilgrimage

A Charlevoix County high school student will be selected to take part in the 15th annual United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth, sponsored by the Independent Order of Odd-fellows and the Rebekahs.

Students eligible to compete for points to make the trip are juniors or sophomores and will not be more than 17 by Aug. 1. Entry forms can be obtained from Dr. William Ratigan, at the high school.

THE WINNING student will attend the United Nations in New York City for one week.

All contestants will start the procedure of selection by taking a 100 question examination on the UN in February. Study kits are available at Dr. Ratigan's office for interested students.

A selection committee will review contestants, and interview them, to determine comparative qualities of scholarship, leadership, character, interest in community welfare, concern in world affairs and general fitness to participate in the project.

The winner will be determined by a public speaking contest. The contest must be completed and the "delegate" selected by the end of March.

More than a thousand students from all over the U.S. and Canada will take part in the 15th annual United Nations Pilgrimage for Youth. The project has been widely praised as one of the most outstanding in the country for educating teenagers in inter-national understanding.

Norwood Church Adopts Foster Child in India

Parents the world over like to talk about their children. Members of the Norwood Methodist Church school are no different.

NOOKATHATTI

The Church school doesn't have as much to talk about their adopted youngster, as most parents do. This church's foster child, Thammaji Nookathatti, 10, lives at Mrs. Webb's Memorial Orphanage in India.

MRS. MILTON Richardson, the church school superintendent, explains Thammaji was "adopted" through the Christian Children's Fund, Inc. Though he will continue to live in India, the church school will help provide for him through monthly contributions.

Youngsters of the Northern Lake Michigan church will become acquainted with Thammaji through letters.

AT WEATHER'S MERCY — Brian Seymour, left, and Julius Gilbert admire their snow sculpting attraction at The Lodge. Seymour and Gilbert spent 12 hours making the snow seal, using truckloads of snow donated by city street crews. The snow, Gilbert explains, was mixed with water and made into a slush, then allowed to freeze, making it almost as solid as ice. The early week thaw effected the seal, but did not ruin it. The seal, Gilbert pointed out, is modeled after the wood-carved seal he holds here and that has won two awards at the Waterfront Fair. (Courier Photo)

Area Scouts Set for Test Against Winter

Boys from Charlevoix County Scout troops, in Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Walloon Lake and Charlevoix, will join 150 others to test their skills against winter at Gaylord Saturday, Jan. 25. Guy Mobley, district executive, reports.

The Charlevoix County Boy Scouts, led by Scoutmasters Lou Edwards of Charlevoix, Ed Mueller of Boyne Falls, and Arthur Laurie of Walloon Lake, will participate in the annual Northern District Klondike Derby.

SCOUTS FROM Charlevoix, Okego, Antrim, Emmet and Otsego counties will converge on Gaylord for the derby.

This year, for the first time, the derby will be held after dark under the lights of Gaylord High School. The big event begins with a parade through town at 4 p.m. The actual derby starts at 6 p.m. Approximately 50 patrols, of four boys each, will test their Scoutin' skills against winter's challenge. Each patrol will have a sled carry in rear, across a course set up at the Gaylord High School football field.

Along the course the Scouts will be tested on their skills in knot tying, first aid, compass and map reading, fire building and wildlife identification.

THERE WILL ALSO be a relay race contest on the sleds. Some of the patrols are building sleds from Virginia Smith is still confined to Charlevoix Hospital but we hope she will be home soon.

Mr. Glen Krohn is also in a Charlevoix hospital from a back injury and at latest report will be there four to six weeks.

With the south arm of Lake Charlevoix frozen over, Iron-ton's teenagers from the Walker Scouts, Williams, Kroll, Stokes, Kamm and Parshall families have taken to fishing and ice skating after school.

The perch fishing according to many old timers is the very best in many years with over 250 ice fishermen counted at 10 a.m. Sunday morning on the South Arm. Ice shanties have the appearance of an old time boom town, springing up almost overnight.

Sony Williams' biggest catch has been a 37½-inch perch, weighing almost 2 pounds.

Nineteen students from Purdue University are visiting Iron-ton for a week. The students, all young men, some of whom were here last year, picked our area for skiing, and ice fishing in nearby resorts.

Mr. and Mrs. Virgil McClure of Benton Harbor visited their daughter, Mrs. Virginia Stokes and family over the weekend while here on a business trip. The McClures have a resort in Horton Bay and are building a home there and plan to live there next year, when Mr. McClure retires.

Sgt. and Mrs. B. Taylor have moved from Iron-ton to Petoskey in order to be close to the Air Force station on Rt. 31 where Sgt. Taylor is assigned.

CHS Ski Squad In First Meet

Charlevoix High School skiers in the first ski meet the school has ever competed in did "an excellent job," coach Jim Luther declared.

The Rayder ski squad's first encounter with official competition came last Friday against Leelanau, Manistee and Cadillac, all well established ski competitors. The Charlevoix boys placed third and the girls fourth.

THE LOCAL SKIERS had never before seen a complete giant slalom course. Luther, whose main job is teaching science, pointed out. Next week the Rayder skiers go to Manistee to take on Manistee and Traverse City St. Francis.

"We will not be at the bottom when we go to the state meet Feb. 15," Luther said. "But we won't be the first place winner, either."

Skiing for Charlevoix in the school's first official meet were:

Girls — Terri Freedman, Alice Anne, Colleen Smith and Nancy Novak; Boys — Jim Ragland, Larry Hutchinson, Andy Carcy, John Ochs and Robert Foster.

Cribbage Scores

The Oddfellow Lodge's cribbage players won the third round of the annual winter tournament by 166 points. This cut the Masonic Temple's lead to five points.

High men for the third round were Ed Welly, 964,400F, and O. D. Hilton, 936,400F.

Rematch with Rams

The Charlevoix Rayders will take on the Harbor Springs Rams in a return game as the second round of their 16-game schedule gets underway here Friday.

In other games, Pellston, sharing first place with the Rayders, will invade Gaylord. Boyne City will travel 16 miles to East Jordan to host Grayling.

CAGE PROFILE

Towering Norton Clears Backboards

Height is one of the prime requisites of a well balanced basketball team, according to students of the game.

This season, for the first time in a number of years, the Charlevoix Rayders have this in the person of Dave Norton, 6 ft. 5 in. junior, whose efforts are one of the reasons the Rayders are currently sharing the league lead with Pellston.

In the center position, Dave gives the Rayders a chance at clearing backboards and a scoring threat that no team can ignore, both advantages that the Rayders would lack without him.

Today he is among the top ten scorers in the league and one of the top two in the Rayder squad with 89 points in seven league games. Like so many big boys who have grown fast, Dave has not reached the point he has today without a great deal of hard work on his part. Even before he started school, he was making use of the basketball backboard and bucket in the family's back yard and when he was old enough (at the grown-up age of seven years) he started playing with the Coleman Cats. Not blessed with a great deal of natural skill, he has worked hard, spending hours on the court, to develop his skill to its present point and, according to him, he hopes to better it as time goes on.

What does it take? The right attitude, desire and determination is the way Dave spells it out. He apparently has had the ingredients in the right proportions for they seem to be paying off for him and for the Rayders. He continues his efforts with the same determination he has displayed in the past; he should play a lot of good basketball for the Rayders before he graduates in June, 1965.

LIKE MOST YOUNG athletes, his interests are varied. Though he likes basketball as a participant, he hopes to someday teach science. His chief interests are in biology and chemistry and right now he plans to attend Central Michigan University to prepare for a teaching career. He is a member of the Charlevoix high school band, having started as a drummer in the sixth grade. He is also a member of the Future Teachers club and is on the staff of the class year book, the Rayder.

His favorite hobbies are hunting and fishing, and when his dad can snag him from his many other interests, he keeps him busy at Norton's Service Station.

Dave is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Norton who are among his most ardent supporters. He has one brother, John, a student at Michigan Tech.

DAVE NORTON

JV's Trounce Mancelona 67-30

Charlevoix's JV squad rolled up a 67-30 win over the Mancelona Reserves as all 15 members of the young Rayder outfit saw action.

The Mancelona quintet, playing without six of their top players who had joined the Varsity in mid-week, trailed Charlevoix 19-6 at the quarter, 45-13 at halftime and 53-25 going into the final period.

STEVE SMITH led the Rayder scoring with 14 points followed by John Ferguson with nine, Larry Skippergosh, six; Alan Lusk, five; Neil Cross, Aaron Brock, Paul Martin, Dick Kenny, and Bob Holtzman, four points each; Andy Peters, three; and Mark Bourgoin, Gary Plum, Jerry Stewart, Gary Crain and Larry Feindt, two points each.

Frank Patton had seven points for Mancelona.

shared by Ed Clear (24), Mike Thompson (23) and Doug Lovassen (22) while in their game, Gaylord's Tom Lick scored 23 and Ron Snell 19 points.

If Pellston can stop Lick by keeping him off the backboards and from his excellent shooting, they may be able to stop the Blue Devils as Charlevoix did. On their home floor, however, Gaylord will have a marked advantage, and could knock Pellston out of first place. Pellston, on the other hand, is a determined outfit and may just have what it takes to repeat as a championship team.

GRAYLING, PRESENTLY, tied with Boyne City for third place after being edged by the Ramblers (43-42) Friday night, will travel to East Jordan to take on the Jordanites who have but one win to their credit. Unless the Vikings are having a very bad night, they should get back in the win column.

In the only other game of the night, Boyne City will meet Mancelona on the latter's floor in a game that should see the Ramblers hold their present position in league standings. The Ironmen have yet to post a victory.

OUTDOOR RAMBLING

With GLEN SHEPPARD

NOW THAT WE'VE HAD nearly two months to study the 48 page citizens committee report advocating sweeping changes in management of Michigan's natural resources it seems reasonable to make some observations.

It first seems necessary to point out the 21 men who made the report obviously knew what they were about. The report is probably the most direct and easily understood I have ever seen come from a citizens or government group. It says what it has to say so that even a sordid tundra rat would get the point.

HAVING READ THE report, at least three times, I am convinced it can be the best thing to happen to Michigan's outdoors since the massive conservation programs of the 1930's. As in all things, there are parts we cannot all agree with. But the meat of the recommendations are solid and logical. Whether they will ever come out of the pot depends on Gov. Romney and Conservation Dept. leaders.

The basic tone of the report seems to be that the Department's administrators have been procrastinating, probably because they were hogtied by a legislature that is too often mired in its own muck. If the legislature alone is not to blame for the stand-off in Department headquarters, then the report suggests, administrators have been listening too much to crackpots and bigmouths. Instead of listening and letting them should start acting.

The trick is to quit coddling the old dullers and worn out practices and get to the job at hand. Department Director Gerald Eddy has indicated, by his action in recent weeks, that this is his intention. Whether he will be allowed to do the job depends on Gov. Romney's support, the Conservation Commission and, unfortunately, the Legislature.

WITH THE POSSIBLE exception of some conservation officers, the report appears to have the almost complete support of Department personnel. They are tired of playing ring-around-the-rose and never being sure where the ring is or who rose is.

As the committee suggests, it is time to quit the cops and robbers game with our wildlife. To heck with putting thousands of dollars into chasing casual game law violators.

There are, of course, the almost-professional violators and others who make a sport of it. They seldom get caught. The guy who goes up before the Justice of Peace usually doesn't have any more criminal intent than you do when you jay walk in the big city.

So, the committee recommends a highly specialized team of law enforcement officers be put in the field, with headquarters in Lansing, to nab the real criminal poachers.

"THE SCOPE OF OUTDOOR recreation has been enlarged from the male fishing or hunting outing of a generation ago into a family adventure which embraces all ages all sports, all seasons and which is much more deeply and importantly rooted in human values than the hobby hunting party of old or the "rough-it" fishing trip ever were," the committee pointed out.

As unpleasant as this is for those of us who like to think of the outdoors as the domain of the angler and hunter, the truth must be faced. This new trend, which has already snowballed into something far bigger than male only hunting and fishing ever was, is going to double and triple.

Men and the kiddies are now camping, canoeing and roasting hot dogs along our once-lovely trout streams and bass lakes.

This calls for a complete new tact in managing our forests, our streams, lakes and swamps. The committee's recommendations give a solid outline for this change in pace. Let's demand they are carried out.

Rayders Barely Survive Ironmen

Last Place Mancelona Humbles Charlevoix Until Last Seconds

The Charlevoix Rayders squeaked past the last place Mancelona Ironmen by a score of 48-43 to remain in a first place tie with Pellston as the Northern Michigan Class C league wrapped up the first half of the current schedule.

Charlevoix took a slim 15-12 first period lead which the Ironmen trimmed to one point, 25-24, at halftime. The Rayders managed to pick up two points for a 36-33 advantage going into the final period when Mancelona, with approximately three minutes remaining, went ahead 43-42. The Rayders, however, managed to roll away for a six-point victory as time ran out.

MANCELONA PLAYED the game without their top scorers, Pat Dutcher and Barry Moeke, Bob Dean and Jerry Lockman, the latter a regular, all of whom were benched earlier in the week for disciplinary reasons.

Ken Parrish had 14 points, Dave Norton, 12, Jim Uhrick, 10, and Bruce Kroken, nine. Del Terrill was the fifth member of the starting lineup. Others who saw action were Warren Belding who had two points, Dave Smith, who had one point, Doug Winnell and Gary Stutzman.

game midway in the final period with five personal fouls, passed the game with 16 points and Mike Scheppeler had 14 points. Dave Prudden, one of two regulars who started the game, was benched midway in the third period with five personal fouls.

Dear Dick: I messed up the fender on the car and tore up the side of another lady's auto. Excuses for Not Joining Chamber Become Monotonous

A FEW MONTHS BACK, when it didn't seem awfully important, we were talking to a Charlevoix businessman who outlined his reasons for not joining the Chamber of Commerce.

His excuses for not belonging to the Chamber seemed rather trite and conventional. You hear just about the same thing from business, professional and industrial people in every small town we've been in.

THEIR DEFENSE FOR letting others carry the load and do the work that must be done to keep a community vibrant and growing seldom changes:

"They don't do anything for me."

Don't Leave Your Blood

POLICE CHIEF Joseph Smith got around to a subject the other day that evidently left a bitter loathsome taste. The horror of highway accidents, Smith reluctantly recalled the unbelievable gore that characterizes tragedy on the highways. He told of an accident near East Jordan a few years back. As Smith talked his face told you the memory was putting considerable strain on his stomach.

WHEN DEPUTIES tried to lift one of the victims onto a stretcher, the chief related, their hands literally ran right through the woman's body. They came out dripping with entrails and blood. The officer couldn't take it. Even his years of experience couldn't keep his stomach and nerves under control.

A terrible story to relate in a family newspaper? Yes, it is. But it is a part of every loving family's life.

Will this happen to you? Or one of your children? We pray it won't. But only YOU can prevent it.

Newspapers and policemen have been urging safe driving for years. Yet the traffic toll continues to grow. Every day more children end up as blobs of blood on the highway.

PERHAPS NEWSPAPER editorial writers have exercised too much restraint in their choice of words. Maybe they haven't terrorized people enough. We will not be blamed for this today. We hope our shock tactics pay dividends.

"They (the hard working men and women of the Chamber or Board of Commerce) just want my money. They're a clique. Since I won't join up with them and get in their 'select circle' they're out to get me. You got to be one of the boys, and do what they tell you to; if you're going to get anything around here."

And on and on they blubber. As the tears roll their business, or profession is waxing fat on the initiative and extra-hours work of others.

If an industrialist, his employees are content because they live in a progressive community and he is enjoying the benefits of a reasonable tax base and pleasant home because Chamber members have done a little more than their share.

THERE IS A BIG difference in Charlevoix. Compared to other towns of similar size, more Charlevoix business, professional and industrial people belong to the Chamber of Commerce and take an active part in making its program effective.

But there are still a few who are enjoying the benefits gained for the community by these many Chamber members, while contributing nothing themselves.

As mentioned earlier, when the Charlevoix merchant was defending his anti-Chamber position to us several months ago, we nodded and shrugged it off. There didn't appear to be anything to gain by arguing with him. Now there does.

The Chamber has one day left in its unique 3 1/2 day membership drive. Forty Charlevoix men and women are pitching in to recruit new Chamber members. The intensive 3 1/2 day all-out effort is the best planned membership campaign we have ever seen.

ACTUALLY THE CHAMBER, is putting a lot on the line by consolidating its push for new members into one brief effort. Membership drives are commonly slow starting, drawn out affairs that never really seem to end. A person under these conditions can hold out his membership for months and the Chamber still has a chance of getting it.

However, by putting an 84-hour time limit on its campaign, the Chamber is not giving potential joiners a chance to procrastinate. They either pledge their participation in making a better community or they make it clear they will remain as takers, not willing to give in return.

'N' ...Ends

By FRAN MARTIN

Charlevoix is home ground for many people with a variety of talents. . . . one of these people popped out to print just recently and in the New York Times, no less. . . . She is Mrs. Julius (Edith) Gilbert who's written an article on skiing in general and the new Harbor Highlands with its triple chairlifts, the only in the country, so we're told. . . . A wonderful plug for skiing in Northern Michigan. . . . and this is certainly a feather in her pretty bonnet, what with New York being so close to ski resorts throughout the East. . . .

And speaking of Mrs. G. . . . she and Mr. G. are spending more and more time in Charlevoix. . . . Detroit may be home base for them but I believe their hearts are really here. . . . and as you know, home is where the heart is. . . . Certainly both do wonderful things for our town. . . . One of her projects is the Waterfront Fair. . . . a mid-summer event. . . . the finest in the north to my way of thinking. . . . and Mrs. Gilbert is always looking for ways to improve it. . . .

THERE WAS ALSO a time when one met Tom Leeb on the street and remarked it was good to see him and to have him back in Charlevoix. . . . Now he's "gone native" and only hears the remark when he visits old haunts elsewhere. . . .

And don't think this hasn't had its effects on other summer residents. . . . Sends of 'em were back during the holidays and we'll be seeing them just about every week end from now on as they come north to enjoy the winter sports. . . . In the event you were wondering what was going on out on Lake Charlevoix the other day. . . . what with the helicopter hovering over one of the lifeboats from the Coast Guard station. . . . the latter was a new 44 footer that was added to the local fleet last summer and was being put through its paces as an ice-breaker as the "copter" overhead, captured its progress on film. . . .

By the way, did you notice the super article about skiing in Northern Michigan written by Mrs. John B. Martin that appeared in a recent issue of the GR-Press. . . . if that doesn't bring winter visitors to our area, nothing will. . . .

IT'S THAT TIME of the year when the days seem to grow longer by hours instead of by minutes as they really do. . . . Perhaps it's because the air has been so clear and the days have been so bright and beautiful. . . . And it's the time when the sun seems to grow brighter, even when it storms. . . . and that night sky. . . . when it's that midnight blue with the stars so bright and so close you can almost reach out and pick them. . . . well, to my way of thinking, that's "livin'". . . . And one of the reasons I wouldn't want to live any place else, even when it storms. . . .

How about that "way-out" cap that a certain local M.D. is wearing on the ski slopes these days. . . . the conventional head warmer looking very much like a real sharp snowman. . . .

And that basketball team. . . .

They were a joy to behold in that Gaylord game. . . . team work, good ball handling, all the ingredients of a good team and an outstanding game. . . . One of the many reasons why the Raiders continue to be my favorite team. . . . as always. . . .

Everyone talks about skiing when winter sports are mentioned but little mention is made of the ice rink where the song of sharp skates as they glide over the ice on a cold night can be heard for blocks. . . . and many adults as well as kids are enjoying the sport. . . . among them a Minnecoured gal, Mrs. Charles Mildred, and her husband, Lt. Mildred, C. O. at the C. G. Group office. . . .

AND COASTING. . . . nothing's more fun than that when you're nine and in possession of a new sled. . . . And if you run and belly-slip just right. . . . oh, boy! . . . And there's always tobogganing on the slopes at the Belvedere in the soft, new-fallen snow. . . . And if that isn't enough, the ice boats are beginning to appear on Lake Charlevoix. . . . Now if you've never been an active participant in this sport, you've just never lived. . . . And if I haven't tired you out too much, I'll see you next week.

'A Lift for Living'
Dirty Window Soils Inner View

By Rev. Harold E. Kohn

A close relationship exists between good character and a sound understanding of the world around us. And the connection is especially close between what we inwardly are and how accurately we evaluate the characters and capacities of other people.

Gen. William Henry Chase Whiting was a renowned Confederate soldier, famed for his brilliance. He had graduated first in the class of 1845 at the United States Military Academy. After he entered the service of the Southern Confederacy in 1861 he rose rapidly in rank.

PERHAPS HIS advancements since his vain, for he was certain he was more capable than his military superiors, and he became a merciless critic of southern military leaders. Whiting was particularly severe in his reproaches of General Robert E. Lee, and Lee was informed of Whiting's censures of Lee's conduct of the war.

Then one day President Jefferson Davis called General Lee to his office for a conference concerning certain proposed promotions among the South's military commanders. Other general officers were also present. The President of the Confederacy asked Lee what he thought of General Whiting, and Lee praised Whiting in the highest terms, commending him as one of the most competent, clear-headed leaders in the Confederate Army.

One of the officers present was astonished at Lee's attitude and asked if the great general did not know the harsh things Whiting had said about him. Robert E. Lee responded: "I understand that the President desired to know my opinion of General Whiting, not Whiting's opinion of me."

SUCH OBJECTIVENESS is possible only to the great-hearted. The outgiving and reverent are incapable of such a truthful and magnanimous response. Their vision of others is distorted by past hurts and lingering resentments.

SCHOOL REPORT CARD

The Case of Oswald Reveals Need for Special Education

By DR. WILLIAM RATIGAN

Director Personnel and Guidance, Charlevoix Public Schools
In a rapidly changing world that grows more complicated and uncertain by the hour, the schools face their gravest responsibility in history. The American system of education must prepare our children for a future so fantastic that not even the wildest editor of a science-fiction magazine would have accepted such a "far out" story.

In order to face this challenge of the unknown with any hope of success, our schools and our teachers need every tool and aid they can be given. They need special help, special education, specialists in education. They need experienced personnel especially trained in such vital areas as impaired hearing, defective speech, crippled sight, muscular and motor handicaps, mental retardation, and emotional disturbances.

THE URGENCY of the need for special education was brought home to us not quite two months ago when a fatherless young man from a culturally deprived home and with a history of maladjustment in and out of school, ambushed the President of the United States.

Lee Harvey Oswald was identified years before his crime, as a potential menace to himself and to society. But no one, in the various schools and classrooms he visited, ever "got through" to him. The history of education, and of civilization, is full of "ifs." In the case of Oswald, if the right teacher had made the correct referral to the proper source in the special education program, and if the specialist had followed through to bring about a satisfactory adjustment in the boy and in his home.

matic implications of recent history in one branch of special education. We have taken for granted that places on the pupil personnel team—alongside the school psychologist, nurse, attendance officer, counselor and night worker (visiting teacher)—would be reserved for the specialist who dealt with impaired hearing and vision, defective speech and crippling disorders, among other handicaps.

TIE-MALADJUSTMENT of Oswald is symptomatic of our times. About half of those discharged from military service for disability reasons in World War II were discharged for reasons of psychiatric illness. The Bureau of Census has estimated that each year 840,000 children become markedly neurotic. Across the nation teachers are heard to say that they notice more disturbed children in their classrooms every year.

In the December 21st issue of Saturday Review, the distinguished editor Norman Cousins raised the question: "Can civilization be assassinated?" He reminded that when people say they still find it hard to believe the President was murdered, what they are really saying is that they just don't know how to conceive of a man who, warped mind could have produced such havoc all by itself.

"Yet this is precisely the ultimate significance of the atomic age," Norman Cousins elaborated. "Not just a President but all civilization is now vulnerable to a single burning of a disturbed mind. Both the Soviet Union and the United States have placed in the hands of numerous individuals the power to start the chain reaction. It takes only one man in our time to trigger the assassination of his man society."

In this paper, for obvious reasons, we have dwelt on the dramatic implications of recent history in one branch of special education. We have taken for granted that places on the pupil personnel team—alongside the school psychologist, nurse, attendance officer, counselor and night worker (visiting teacher)—would be reserved for the specialist who dealt with impaired hearing and vision, defective speech and crippling disorders, among other handicaps.

Our 20th century martyred President was well known as a friend of special education. It might be said that he had learned his lesson by heart: one of his sisters, a victim of severe retardation, is institutionalized here in the Midwest. Perhaps from what happened to John Fitzgerald Kennedy, we have learned our lesson by heart.

HOW MANY potential Oswalds are there? We wonder in the classrooms of the United States? What would be the cost of setting up special education programs to help convert these maladjusted children into participating members of society? The most meaningful answer lies in another question: "What is the price we paid for ONE Oswald?"

The state has agreed to share a substantial part of all special education expenses. This is simply good economy. Research has proven time and again that the cost of special education in floating mental and physical disabilities is a fraction of the cost our society pays for the results of disabilities untreated: juvenile delinquency, unemployed youth and institutionalized victims of neglected disorders.

In this paper, for obvious reasons, we have dwelt on the dramatic implications of recent history in one branch of special education. We have taken for granted that places on the pupil personnel team—alongside the school psychologist, nurse, attendance officer, counselor and night worker (visiting teacher)—would be reserved for the specialist who dealt with impaired hearing and vision, defective speech and crippling disorders, among other handicaps.

be lastingly right for him. OUR OWN SOUL is the window through which we view the world. A tinted window tinges impressions of our environment and colors the understanding of the meaning of our existence. If the window is dirty the world appears more sordid than it actually is. If the window is warped and full of distortions our view of the world is untrue and perverted. Most of us are dissatisfied with the world and believe it should be improved, and some of us are discontented with those around us and believe our fellows should be changed. But where should we begin to affect needed changes? With ourselves and our inner condition! For until we are inwardly cleansed by God, we cannot see the world as it is or others as they are, or really know what is right and what is wrong, or visualize what can be done.

One of the world's great needs is for some Divine window washing.

Select Detergents With Care

TO THE EDITOR:

Two stories in the January issue of "Michigan Out of Doors" should be of interest to every Charlevoix area housewife. Parts of these articles are quoted below.

"One of the disgusting and dangerous problems of pollution is the blighting suds of 'hard' detergents which do not break down chemically in sewage systems, but go on sudsing and polluting our streams."

The person who signed his name "OHS Student" will have to identify himself before the Courier will run his letter to the Editor received Monday, Jan. 20.

"THE DIFFERENCE in this particular aspect of the pollution situation is there is something WE can do something about NOW."

The articles report that several soap manufacturers are producing products that do not contain the "hard" detergents. They recommend that housewives switch to these products and give the following list:

Products which contain no ABS (Reference: Chemical Engineering News, Health Bulletin; All, All, Army Products, Mr. Clegg, Dial Soap, Dial Shampoo, Daz Soap, Instant Flakes, Ivory Flakes, Ivory Snow, Ivory Liquid, Hanser Soap Flakes, Joy, Lux Soap Flakes, Liquid All, Lestoil, Lanosheen, Rinso

Soap, Thrill Quick Solve, Spic & Span, Vel-O-Matic, Cascade, Fels Naptha Cleaner, all Calgon products.

I AM SWITCHING to one of these non-polluting detergents. For the sake of our natural beauty I hope all housewives will do the same.

Wisconsin has already passed a law outlawing use of detergents that cannot be destroyed in the normal treatment of sewage.

Boy Scouts Plan Event

TO THE EDITOR:

Twenty-five years ago, in 1939, a small group of dedicated men organized the Scenic Trails Boy Scout Council in Traverse City. Through the years the Council has served untold thousands of boys, including those of the Charlevoix or Northern District. In recognition of the 25 years a special Scout-O-Rama show, featuring the many facets of scouting, will be held at the Petoskey High School gym April 11.

Scout-O-Rama will feature live demonstrations in a series of booths made and operated by Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts and Explorers. It will show the general public the skills that made scouting a great training ground for Charlevoix County boys. . . .

BOYS JUST naturally, like to strut their stuff, and the Scout-O-Rama makes it possible for boys to do just that. And adults, just naturally, like to see them do it.

G. B. L.

So Scout-O-Rama will be a big success, and a fitting salute to 25 years of local scouting. If adult leaders will get their packs, troops, posts and ships started now to making their booth a worthy display.

Band Sale Work

TO THE EDITOR:

My wife and I were talking the other night about one from the band stopping to sell us a subscription. She wondered why. Then we saw the story in last week's Courier that said that only 62 of the 164 bandmen have sold any subscriptions. This is too bad. We hope the kids start working harder for themselves. Compared to other things they have had to raise money you people are giving them an awful good deal. They are real fine bunch of kids. We would hate to see them miss out when all they have to do is work a little harder.

Johnson, Romney are Popular Here

IF THE OPINIONS of Charlevoix people are an indication of local, state and national thinking, George Romney will be elected governor and L.B. Johnson will continue as president after this fall's election.

With no pretense of going at it "scientifically"—like the big city pollsters—the Courier asked nine local people for their opinion on candidates for governor and president.

Though the majority indicated they are Republicans, they seemed to agree that President Johnson will be returned to office.

It was perhaps even more nearly unanimous that Gov. Romney should run for re-election in Michigan, and not seek national office.

FRED TYLER of 208 Alice said Romney's "been a good governor so far. But I would like to watch him a bit more."

Tyler pointed out he is not "wedded to either party."

"I'm pretty much in favor of continuing Johnson where he is," Tyler added. But, again, pointed out he hasn't made a firm decision.

Who does Tyler think the Republicans should, or will, run for President?

"This man Scrantom seems to be coming to the front. He seems to be as good a candidate as any of them." Asked if he would go far Barry Goldwater, Tyler was emphatic, "never!" Nelson Rockefeller, he considers, "mild." Nixon, he also feels is a "good man."

As far as the Democratic candidate for governor, Tyler said, he thinks Neil Staebler is the party's best candidate.

MEL YOUNG, 203 Ferry Ave., said Romney is "better off right where he's at. So far he's done quite a little bit for governor."

"It's a toss-up on Johnson," Young told the Courier. He declared he wouldn't vote for Johnson, but he thinks he might have voted for the late President John F. Kennedy. He would prefer Goldwater as the GOP presidential candidate over Rockefeller, but isn't very enthusiastic about either of them.

"I think Romney's doing a real good job as governor," MRS. ORVILLE HILTON, US 31, stated. She said she would vote for Romney if he runs for re-election and thinks he would "probably make a good president. But I think he should stick to Michigan."

"Johnson," Mrs. Hilton said, "hasn't really had a chance to show what he'll do. But he's starting out real good." As far as Goldwater is concerned, she "doesn't like the sound of him at all." Rockefeller, she adds, is "probably a little better."

WALT TAYLOR of 114 W. Lincoln is solidly behind Romney. . . . for governor. "I think he's doing pretty good as it is," Taylor told the Courier, "and he should stay on. He probably wouldn't have much chance for president."

Taylor expects to see Johnson re-elected, though he didn't say he was for him. He hasn't made up his mind about Rockefeller and Goldwater.

MRS. ALBIN DURANCE, Mercer Blvd., says she "doesn't think much" of Romney's running for president. But she's "all for him being governor." "I think he's a good governor," Mrs. Durance said.

She hasn't decided between Goldwater and Rockefeller. Mrs. Durance said Richard Nixon is her real preference for president. Though she won't vote for him, she too, expects Johnson to be re-elected president.

MRS. NORMAN COOK of 821 State St., said Romney "better stick with Michigan." She added, however, that she isn't sure she will vote for Romney if he runs for re-election in Michigan.

"Johnson," she said, "looks like a good president." She pointed out she has no opinion on Goldwater.

ART OSBORN, 300 Park, was the only person contacted by the Courier who was opposed to Romney.

ney. "He's sure trying hard," Osborn said of Romney's prospects as a presidential candidate. "He's just itching to get it (the nomination), but I don't think he has a fighting chance. The Old Guard doesn't want anything to do with him."

Osborn doesn't expect to see Romney re-elected governor. He contends Staebler will be elected, if he is nominated. "Staebler, above all things, is a politician. He'll get it."

Johnson, Osborn feels confident, will be returned for a full term as president. He predicts the GOP will nominate a darkhorse candidate, "like Scrantom" for president. Goldwater, Osborn declares started his campaign too soon.

MRS. SIMS BAKER of 309 Mason St., told the Courier Romney "should do a job in Michigan first. I don't think, so far, he has shown he has the qualities to be president," Mrs. Baker explained.

"I mean I like him, but think it's just a little bit too quick," she added.

Mrs. Baker said she usually doesn't vote Democratic, but she likes Johnson and hasn't made up her mind yet. She said she will probably decide the month before the election.

"That's what you're supposed to do—pick a party and stick with it. But I don't. I vote for the man," Mrs. Baker said.

She said she doesn't know enough about Goldwater or Rockefeller to make a decision on them.

"I think we should vote for the best man, whether he's a Democrat or Republican. . . . even though, I think, I've always voted Republican."

MRS. LILLY MOORE, 807 Bridge, told the Courier, Mrs. Moore said she likes Romney as a governor.

Rockefeller won't get Mrs. Moore's vote, and she doubts Goldwater will.

"Although I'm not a Democrat, I think I would vote for Johnson, if things stay as they have been," Mrs. Moore said.

He succeeds Ralph Gillam, who resigned recently to become manager of the Park Place Motor Inn in Traverse City.

MR. FRITZ SAIL is a liquidating the property at Torch Lake which has a half mile of lake frontage of the north end of Torch Lake, 18 buildings and a partially completed golf course. He plans to subdivide the property and dispose of it.

Fred Tayler Episcopal Man of Year

Fred Tayler was named "Churchman of the Year" at the Christ Episcopal Church's annual meeting last week, Jan. 16.

Taylor was selected by Rev. Alexander Wood, who cited his "amazingly faithful record as a member of the choir over a long period of years." The Bishop's Award Cross will be presented to Taylor at the Diocesan Convention in Traverse City this spring.

OFFICERS ELECTED to the church's congregation at the annual meeting were Mike Hamlin, warden; Byron Wright, treasurer, and Mrs. Donald Brown, secretary.

Elected to three year terms on the Bishop's Committee were John Geer and Robert Reed. They replace Tom Carey and Terri Rice,

"Reports from all organizations and the Vicar showed a very satisfactory year of activity and accomplishment, with a notable increase in membership and attendance at Church school," church leaders stated.

Kids Get Thrill On Sliding Hill

IT'S HIGH SPEED EXCITEMENT

It used to be that all small towns had their "sliding hill." It was the center of winter sport for youngsters and, sometimes, adults.

Television and the diversified activities of post-war life has changed this in many communities. But not in Charlevoix. Here youngsters, and dozens of others from Charlevoix, flock to the "sliding hill" on Grant St. for high speed thrills.

They are carefully supervised by a fulltime city employee, who directs traffic and discourages overzealous youngsters.

DARING SET — Robert Grose risks a tear in his britches as he abandons his sled to slide down this icy path on the hill. Watching is Jack Armstrong.

Remain Undecided on Plant

Conflicting stories in news media throughout the Midwest concerning the report originating in last week's Courier about construction of a $25 million cement plant here were clarified Friday.

The Courier, in another long distance call with Medusa Portland Cement Co. Vice President, Worth Loomis in Cleveland, Ohio, verified its original story.

IN A THREE-WAY conversation with Loomis, Courier business manager Tom McDaniels and editor Glen Sheppard, the cement company's chief administrative officer and secretary confirmed the Courier story was an accurate report of his earlier interview with the newspaper.

He, again, stressed that the company's plans are flexible and unsure, as reported in last week's newspaper.

Loomis also told the Courier he was concerned over the great deal of interest the story in the Charlevoix newspaper created throughout the Midwest.

While at no time questioning the accuracy of the Courier story, Loomis pointed out other newspapers were evidently taking it to mean the company had committed itself not to build here in 1965.

HE REPEATED his earlier statement — as reported in the Courier — that none of the company's plans were positive. He did not build here this year or 1965.

Early this week (Tuesday), Loomis telephoned the Courier with a revised statement on the company's position. His statement indicates the company has changed the position he outlined to the Courier earlier as far as building a processing plant at the same time dock and quarry facilities are constructed.

His statement reads:

"We do not want to leave the people of Charlevoix with the impression that we are likely to start major construction any time in the near future. It is true we have long been anxious to develop South Point and have thought we could do so with profit to ourselves and to the community.

WE ARE ALSO impressed with Charlevoix's central location on fresh water and the potential of using water transportation to open new markets around the Great Lakes complex.

"Nevertheless we have not yet decided to start construction. When we do, it will probably consist of the dock and quarry first, with a plant to be built later, if at all.

"For the present, we are going through with the formalities to obtain the necessary permits to construct the dock. We do this in order to obtain better estimates of a major item of cost and to avoid the delay that would otherwise have to follow any decision to go ahead."

CC Membership at Record

Name 8 Members To Develop Plan

Charlevoix business, professional and industrial leaders have never had such confidence in the future.

That's the way Chamber of Commerce officials are interpreting the unprecedented success of last week's unique membership drive.

AT THE DRIVE'S conclusion Friday the Chamber announced it has achieved the highest membership in Charlevoix history.

During the 3½ day campaign Don Anders, drive chairman, reports 34 new members were signed up, 16 who had dropped out re-instated, 106 former members continued their membership and 22 out-of-town members recruited.

"Probably the most exuberant man in town over the campaign's success was Don Meggison. But, if so, he had close rivals in the other 40 men and women who participated in the all-out campaign. Meggison was captain of the Red Team, which recruited more members than any of the other two teams. Glenn Kenney, Blue Team captain and Marguerite Wallace, White Team captain, however, were in plenty high spirits.

MEGGISON'S entire team will be honored at the Argonne this Saturday, 6:30 p.m. Dean Davenport, Chamber secretary-manager, has asked that all persons planning to attend the dinner confirm their reservations at his office.

The dinner for the winning team is being paid for by Charlevoix banks and automobile dealers.

These firms also paid campaign promotion costs.

Davenport pointed out that the membership drive's success is the most emphatic proof possible that Charlevoix business, professional and industrial leaders are united in a common effort for a better Charlevoix.

'People Reacher' Ads Get Results

We were glad to cancel Larry Wynsma's Courier "People Reacher" Want Ad. Larry's classified ad was scheduled to run three weeks. He canceled it last week, after only one insertion, in the newly-dressed Courier Want Ad page.

"I sold it on the first call," Wynsma happily told us. This is the way his message appeared on the most read Want Ad page in Charlevoix County:

1951 CHEVROLET — Stick shift, will make good transportation. Good tires with snow tires in rear. 209 Park (little house in back) Charlevoix. Wynsma said he decided to sell the car because the family no longer needed it. You too must have something around the house you no longer need. Why not sell it to someone who does, and put some extra change in your pocket.

Board of Education Expects Recommendations on Millage

An eight-member citizens lay committee to study Charlevoix Public Schools future financial needs was appointed Monday evening.

The Board of Education appointed the long discussed committee to draft a proposal for millage requirements over the next several years.

MEMBERS OF THE committee are James Hiller, Russell Curtis, Alun Bevan, Ted Brow, Dean Davenport, Carleton Smith, Phillis Gill and Leona Bartlett.

Supt. Rex Milligan announced plans are already in motion to call a meeting of the committee, if possible this week, but more likely early next week. All committee members were contacted before the board passed on the appointments.

The committee was created because the school district's 1.5-mill, voted operating levy expired this year.

The committee is expected to determine what the district's future millage needs will be in preparation for a vote on the issue this spring.

ALL SCHOOL records will be available to the committee, Milligan explained.

He added that school administrators and board members will work closely with the committee to explain the district's financial position and future needs. Teachers will also be asked to assist committee members in any way possible, he announced.

Milligan and board members have gone on record that they hope the committee will be able to draft positive recommendations to meet future needs that voters can support.

Viewers Rue Ham's Jamming

Sheriff Glenn Rose reports he is looking for a ham radio operator who is jamming Charlevoix area TV sets and "probably doesn't even know it."

Rose said his office has been getting constant complaints from families — especially on the north side of town — reporting their TV reception completely knocked out. Rose, and some of the interrupted TV viewers, suspect a ham radio set is causing the interference.

"I don't think he realizes he's doing it," Rose said of the unknown radio operator. "When we find out who it is, and he realizes what's going on, I expect we will be able to work it out."

Saturday, Feb. 1, the annual smorgasbord will be held at the Airport Inn, with serving starting at 10:00 a.m. Mrs. Perry Smith and Mrs. Mary Smith are chairmen. They report a wide selection of home-cooked foods will be offered.

The annual buffet dinner at the Weatherstone Inn was held Wednesday night with arrangements in charge of Mrs. Marguerite Wallace.

Mrs. DeMoor reported the blanket pitch at the Charlevoix-Harbor Springs basketball game netted $53.85.

Engineers Will Repair Channel

Major repairs to the Pine River channel piers from Lake Michigan into Round Lake are planned this summer by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The Corps has been allocated $150,000 for the channel improvement. The work will include placing metal sheet piling along sections of both the north and south wall of the piers.

SHEET PILING will also be installed along a 368 foot section of the channel between Round Lake and Lake Charlevoix.

City Councilman Bob Gill Monday evening declared the end of the north pier into Lake Michigan is near collapse.

Mayor E. D. Hawley stated he had hoped the Corps would extend the north pier, to make it easier for ships to enter the channel during a northerly storm. This is not planned, however.

Natural Gas Due For City Hall

Charlevoix's much-acclaimed City Hall should be less trouble to keep clean next winter, according to councilmen, who Monday evening decided to switch from coal to natural gas heat.

Councilmen are asking for bids to convert the heating plant to natural gas. Conversion costs were estimated at $1,200.

COUNCILMAN JACK Grubough warned that he has had a bad experience with a similar conversion at home and advised against it.

Coal smoke dust, Mayor E. D. Hawley pointed out, creates a cleaning problem and expense at the City Hall. Estimates were that from $200 to $300 a year will be saved on cleaning bills.

Savings were also predicted in manpower that will no longer be required to fill the stoker.

Grand Rapids Scene of Nuptials

By FIAN MARTIN

Berean Bible church in Grand Rapids was the scene Saturday of the wedding of Mary Jean Spoelstra, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Spoelstra of Grand Rapids and E. Ralph Brock.

Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Brock of Charlevoix are parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Wayne A. Webb officiated at the service.

THE BRIDE selected a tissue-lafetta gown designed with a bateau neckline, long sleeves and a semi-bell-shaped skirt and chapel train for her wedding. Lace appliques with seedpearls trimmed the bodice and neckline. Her veil of English illusion fell from a demiloup Alencon lace and tulle petals trimmed with pearls. She carried a white Bible adorned with a cascade of white carnations and red sweetheart roses.

Mrs. Glendel Davis of Kalamazoo was her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Joyce Molenkamp of Grand Rapids and Dagmar Brock of Charlevoix, sister of the bridegroom.

The bride and groom wore identical ballroom-length gowns of red velvet styled with fitted bodices and bell-shaped skirts and matching velvet bows and veils. They carried heart-shaped bouquets of rosepoint carnations.

Peter Brock of Charlevoix assisted his brother as best man. Mr. Davis and another brother of the bridegroom, Aaron Brock Jr. of Charlevoix seated the guests.

A RECEPTION followed at the church parlors with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spoelstra of Grand Rapids, uncle and aunt of the bride, serving as master and mistress of ceremonies.

The couple will live at 124 Union N.E. in Grand Rapids following a brief wedding trip.

City Outlines Nuisances

Pollution, noise and littering will become an illegal nuisance in City Councilmen approve ordinance changes submitted for their consideration by City Attorney John Michael.

Mayor E. D. Hawley Monday evening gave councilmen copies of suggested changes to the city nuisance ordinance. He asked that they be studied and discussed at a future meeting.

THE RECOMMENDATIONS call for strengthening present city controls to give the city power to effectively condemn and demand razing of buildings that are deemed "dangerous." If a condemn-nation order is not carried out by the property owner, the city would have authority to tear the building down and bill the owner. Other things deemed a public nuisance by the proposed changes include:

- Maintaining a pond, pool or vessel of stagnant water.
- Littering and allowing trash and rubbish to accumulate in a public or private place so that it is unsanitary and creates a health problem.
- Water or land pollution created by home, business or industrial wastes.
- Indecent or obscene reading material.
- Gambling.
- Houses of prostitution.
- Dangerous, unguarded excavations or machinery.
- Construction noise; would be outlawed on Sunday and expect between 7 a.m. and 6 p.m. on weekdays.

Tom Mendius, one of our Purdue students visiting Ironton last week, has his stay cut short via a broken leg while skiing at a local resort.

Tom's last report had broken on his left leg in three places and after treatment at a local hospital was driven to his home in Chicago.

Completing their week long visit, Purdue students wish to say to our residents, they had a wonderful time here and hope to return again next year.

Mr. and Mrs. Harley Perry are visiting their cottage in Ironton from winter quarters in Lansing. Visiting from Adrian at the Perry home is their daughter, Mrs. Clifford Mansfield and her husband.

Our crazy weather with thunderstorms in mid-January and temperatures in the 40's has thinned the ice on the South Arm and the fishermen are cautioned to be safe—not sorry.

Mr. and Mrs. William Danjowicz from Bloomfield Hills are visiting their summer home here. Daughter Susan is visiting with her parents, also as a guest of Susan and her family is Pat Lench and friend, also from Bloomfield Hills.

Dave Hulick and family are also back visiting in Ironton. Bob was the one who had to have the emergency operation while here on the Christmas holidays.

Ironton's perchman was so fine that the Detroit Free Press wrote it up and brought many of the state's fishermen to our area last week.

Virginia Smith has recovered enough to be able to be home again. Welcome back, Virginia.

Glen Krohn has received many nice flowers and cards from his friends and wishes to thank them all.

Linda Williams spent last week end at her sister's home in Charlevoix. Her dad, Glen, has a severe cold but we hope he is over it soon.

Jerry Walker and "Butch" Parrshall have found a home away from home in an ice shanty on Lake Charlevoix. Wonder if they will try to make it float on water when the ice is gone.

Almost lost a teenager last Saturday when Allan Kroll took an unexpected dip through the ice in the South Arm. No damage, a hot bath couldn't fix, except a torn boat.

Ice fishermen at Ironton are not very thoughtful when they go off leaving holes unmarked. Please mark your holes when finished. Push the ice you took out back into the hole and it will freeze faster and stronger.

Lena Beene is not feeling up in par and fighting what we hear is a severe cold.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Myers spent last weekend in Rose City visiting Mrs. and Mrs. Oliver Schutte, old friends and former Charlevoix county residents.

Anyone interested in joining a Social Activity Club in Ironton or nearby area residents are asked to notify the correspondent at 517-2141.

WHERE IS IT? If you can identify the location of this scene, and are the first to call the Courier with the correct information after 4 p.m. today (Thursday), you will receive a free one year subscription, or renewal to your present subscription. Last week's "mystery picture" the first in a weekly series — caused near chaos at the Courier office. More than 40 persons called in the first 15 minutes after 4 p.m. Because so many people called and correctly identified the picture last week as being at the Lake Michigan bath house, two subscriptions were awarded, to Pat Moran and Rick Miller.

Want Program

The need for a special education program in Charlevoix and Emmet county school districts received top priority from superintendents in local school systems Monday.

Charlevoix-Emmet intermediate District Supt. Charles Robinson reports school superintendents from all districts in the two counties met Monday, and went on record in unqualified favor of special education.

PHASES OF THE special education program the local superintendents felt need the most immediate attention are speech correction, visiting teacher and mentally retarded type A classes, Robinson announced.

Mary Elizabeth Gallagher is home from Western Michigan for the mid-term vacation.

City Eyes Swap on Round Lake

City Council Monday evening withheld action on exchanging property on the Round Lake Harbor with Bernie Ward until a minor legal point is clarified.

The property transfer calls for giving Ward the south 30 feet of frontage off Bridge St. in exchange for property he owns along the harbor north of the old laundry building.

WARD WILL RECEIVE the 30 feet of frontage from Antrim St. north, including the one pier, and only to the depth of the sidewalk. The deed will demand that he maintain the sidewalk in good repair for the public and that no signs or new construction be allowed without city permission.

In exchange the city will obtain the last piece of Round Lake Harbor frontage now in private ownership between the laundry building and channel. City officials hope to use the added frontage to construct new Yacht piers. The laundry building will be razed to make room for a new service building for yachtsmen.

Ward is expected to pay the city approximately $600 cash, in addition to exchanging the property. The agreement, Mayor E. D. Hawley explained, was worked out between Ward and John Michael, City Attorney.

SEVERAL COUNCILMEN questioned the wording of the property description. As soon as this is worked out, they indicated the agreement will be settled. Michael was not at Monday's Council meeting.

Rayders Alone in Loop Top Spot

The Charlevoix Rayders moved into sole possession of first place in Northern Michigan Class C standings Friday after dumping Harbor Springs by a score of 64-51.

While the Rayders were turning back the Rams, the Gaylord Blue Devils were stopping the Pellston Hornets by a score of 73-64, thus knocking the Hornets out of first place. Elsewhere in the League, East Jordan dumped Grayling 64-59 in what might be considered an upset and Boyne City defeated Mancelona 53-39.

Warren Belding -- No Stars

By FIAN MARTIN

"Basketball? I like it because it offers a challenge, I think it is also a game that offers everything... physical participation, study... a little of everything," was the reason Warren Belding, a 16-year old junior forward, gives for playing basketball. He went on to talk about this year's team of which he is a member, and added that one of the reasons he enjoys playing with the Rayders is that there are 15 players... no stars, really, but 15 boys who all have something to contribute to the team. He cited several instances where a player with some special talent came through to give the team that "extra something" that has kept them at the top of the heap.

LIKE THE OTHER members of the squad, Warren has contributed his share to the Rayders' successes this season with the long shots that have added points at crucial moments, the confidence with which he handles the ball even when he may be shaking in his gym shoes.

Warren is like so many of his team-mates... he is quick to tell you that he started with the Coleman Cats and developed his shooting ability in his own backyard or that of a friend who had made the score 14-9 as the period ended.

The Rayders were never headed after this point as they led 33-26 at halftime though the visitors did close the gap at one time to 21-19 in the three minute mark. The tempo slackened in the third period as the Rams outscored the Rayders, 12-10, leaving the score at 43-38 at the three quarter mark.

His other interests include golf... he is hopeful that Charlevoix will eventually have a gold-team bowling (he has an average of 155) and softball, having played with the B league last summer. Earlier he played with the Babe Ruth baseball league.

Warren does not mention the one thing that makes his accomplishments something special, and perhaps won't appreciate it being mentioned here.

HOWEVER, THOSE who have always known him realize that he overcame a serious chest condition that might have given him an excuse, if he felt he needed one, for not becoming an active participant in sports. Today, he seemingly ignores what might have become a handicap and goes about carrying his share of the Rayder load... a most commendable accomplishment.

Right now he plans to enter the field of physical education after graduating from high school. His interests lie in the classroom

WARREN BELDING

The Rams kept up the torrid pace for the first few minutes of the final period when the Rayders depth began to take its toll as the local lads pulled away to a 17 point lead at one time before coach Don Carey started to substitute with the result that the Rayder margin was trimmed to 13 points as the game ended.

PARRISH PACED the scoring with 25 points; Dave Norton added 16; Doug Winnell and Warren Belding eight each; Bruce Kroken and Del Terrill three points each; and Jim Uhrick, two points.

Dave Winegarden had 17, and Mike Lauer 13 and George Lauer 10 points for Harbor Springs.

Tough Tests Friday For NMCC Cage Teams

Teams of the Northern Michigan Class C league will play the second games of the second round Friday with Charlevoix traveling to East Jordan; Boyne City hosting Gaylord; Pellston taking on Mancelona on the Hornet floor and Harbor Springs entertaining Grayling.

In non-league games, Mancelona will play at Kalkaska and Grayling will host Roscommon in return games Tuesday.

GAYLORD WILL probably have the toughest game of the week on Friday when they take on Boyne City on the latter's floor. The Blue Devils had tough luck going last week before taking the Pellston Hornets 73-64, but Tom Lick and Ron Jenkins came through with 20 points each to save the day though Ed Clear did a good job for the Hornets, scoring 20 points. This week's game will pit Lick against Boyne's Tom Spivill who last week scored only 10 points against Mancelona as the Ramblers won handily over the Ironmen (52-39).

Gaylord, sharing second place with the Hornets whom they topped from the league lead, will be favored over the Ramblers, who have a 4-4 record. However, with the return of Bill Danbee, the Ramblers have shown a renewed spirit and will be hard to beat, especially on their home floor.

Charlevoix, alone in first place with a 7-1 record, will travel to East Jordan to take on a Red Devil squad that dumped Grayling in a surprise move last week (64-59), winning the game from the free throw line. Though they have only two wins to their credit, the Devils have shown promise all season and could easily turn into the role of spoiler, especially over a team hit by over-confidence.

The Rayders will be favored but they will have to play top ball all the way.

THE HORNETS will host Mancelona this week in a game that should give the Pellston outfit an easy victory, especially on their home floor.

The Harbor Springs-Grayling game could turn into quite a tussle though the Rams did come through with a nine-point victory in their first meeting on the Viking floor. Harbor showed plenty of fight here last week so should retain their third place standing without too much effort on their part.

JV's Make it Three in Row

Charlevoix's J.V.'s wrapped up the Harbor Springs Reserve game by a score of 52-47 Friday to make it three in a row.

With Larry Skippergosh, Neil Cross, Mark Bourgoin, John Ferguson and Steve Smith starting, the young Rayders rolled up a 17-9 first quarter lead only to have the visiting Rams clip one point from their advantage of 29-22 at halftime.

BOTH TEAMS dumped in 13 points for a score of 39-32 as the game went into the final period when the visitors threatened to close the gap before Charlevoix pulled away for the victory.

Smith led the scoring with 13 points followed by Cross with 12; Bourgoin with 10; Skippergosh and Ferguson with six; Andy Peters with four and Ted Weidman with one. Gary Plum and Jerry Stewart also saw action.

Pete Miller had 13 points for the visitors.

We Welcome Plans For Cement Plant, But Urge Caution

MAN, EVEN WITH THE finest of intentions, has proven he cannot be trusted to exercise the best judgment when the decision is between natural beauty and dollars. There is no debating this truth. It haunts us from corrupted streams, raped forests and stripped mountains.

It is just as true that without dollars mankind's stumbling progress toward being civilized will come to a halt.

CONSEQUENTLY IT IS essential that man and nature be compatible. This can be achieved. But only if man's good intentions are kept alive by unyielding watchdogs armed with powerful controls and restrictions.

Sunday before last, when we were the only ones in Charlevoix County who knew how far along Medusa Portland Cement Co.'s plans for South Point had progressed, we hiked out to the Point. It seemed like a sad occasion. Would this beautiful, quiet landmark become an ugly blot? Ten, 20 or 30 years from now will people turn their backs toward South Point?

Jake White's fishing boat rounded the Point, escorted by a half dozen gulls. The husky boat seemed like a symbol that an era was passing. The hearty, independent Great Lakes fisherman is almost a thing of the past. Is this to be the future of Charlevoix's unequalled natural beauty? A thing of the past?

HOW COULD WE HELP but wonder? As rocks eluded hollowly underfoot, we thought of John Muir, Theodore Roosevelt, Henry Thoreau, and William O. Douglas. Will their warning be heard by Charlevoix leaders? Or will they sit complacently by, trusting that the future will look after itself?

A sizable chunk of gold... will out-talk and out-fight all the nation on a subject like forestry, well smothered in ignorance, and in which the money interests of only a few are conspicuously involved. John Muir said it before the turn of this century.

Unlike Muir's battle to preserve Western mountain wilderness areas, we do not feel Medusa Portland has any evil intentions. In fact our telephone conversation with a Medusa vice president convinced us they are as interested as we are in preserving Charlevoix's natural beauty.

BEFORE SOMEONE GETS the wrong impression, let it be understood the Courier favors construction of the cement plant. And we trust the company's top-level management when it says every effort will be made to avoid defacing the scenic values of South Point.

Furthermore, we believe Medusa Portland can and will build a cement plant, quarry and dock facility that is compatible with our natural beauty.

But we do not put our trust blindly in our pocket and forget it. We will not be content with their, or our, good faith.

The stakes are too large. We are not playing for ourselves. The winners or losers will be our grandchildren and theirs. Can any of us afford to take a chance on losing for them?

MEDUSA PORTLAND, if it is sincere—as we emphatically suspect—will not be discouraged, or angered, if Charlevoix leaders take the steps necessary to guarantee future generations a shift of economic trends will not cause a blot on South Point.

Noise and air pollution ordinances, annexation into the City and other written safeguards are needed to assure us the proposed cement plant will never be anything less than the company intends that it should be.

This will not add to the cost of building the plant. But it will mean that should the cement industry flounder 20 or 40 years from now the company will not be able to save money by reducing the quality of its operation in such a way that the air, water and scenery are corrupted.

Any number of unpredictable things can happen in the future that would make it appear desirable to different company officials to economize at the expense of our natural beauty. When this happens we must have guarantees that nature will win. We must draft these guarantees right now!

It must never be forgotten that our natural beauty is—and always should be—Charlevoix's primary asset.

SCHOOL REPORT CARD

Taxpayers Confused by State Aid Distribution

By REX MILLIGAN
School Superintendent

State aid is a phase that is echoed many times by school administrators, Board members, and others interested in school finance. And why shouldn't they be concerned since a major portion of the revenues for operating the schools of Michigan come from State collected taxes?

This year the Charlevoix Public School will receive a total of $182,261 in State aid, $33,306 in primary money, $18,800 for driver training, and $250 in library and land grant funds.

THE METHOD OF distribution of State Aid, has for many years been a controversial issue, the question being how do we divide these funds so that all children in the State have equal educational opportunities.

There have been, and still are, many proposals for the distribution of State collected taxes. Recent proposals which appear to be receiving strong consideration contain the following factors: ability to pay and effort. Ability to pay would be based on the approximate average State equalized valuation per student or $14,000. Districts with a valuation of less than $14,000 would receive a greater share of State aid than those whose valuation is above $14,000.

The estimated value per membership child in the Charlevoix Public School District for the school year 1964-65 is $14,100. The second, and an important one, is that of effort. It is being proposed that effort be measured by the number of mills levied for operational purposes. Those school districts levying more than 13 mills (which is the appropriate State average) will receive a greater share of State Aid than those districts which levy less. The Charlevoix School District levied 10.4 mills for operation this year.

A FACTOR WHICH has not been given consideration is that of average earnings of the taxpayer. For example, in School District X, where the average family earning is $8,000 per year, 20 mills can be raised as easily as 10 mills in District Y where the average earning per year is only $4,000. Many administrators feel that this factor is extremely important and should be included in the State Aid Formula.

Governor Romney, in his recent message to the legislature, advocated that the gross allowance for State Aid be increased from $224 to $234 per membership child. Many people reading this interpreted it to be a ten-dollar increase per student. This would only be true if the school district had a valuation of zero. Obviously no district would receive a $10 increase, as he proposed a deductible item of 4 1/2 mills on the State Equalized Valuation of each district.

UNDER THE PRESENT State Aid Act, the gross allowance is $224. Again, no school will receive this amount in State aid and primary money as there is a deductible millage of 3 3/4 mills on State equalized valuation of Charlevoix, with a valuation of approximately $19,100 per membership child, will receive $150 per pupil in State aid and primary money.

A Lift for Living

Our Pride Leads Us Astray

BY REV. H. E. KOHN

Man's greatest need is to recognize his need, to know he is not self-sufficient, and to discover where his need can be found.

When we boast of our self-sufficiency, we are "not all there." Our awareness of what we are and what we are able to do is fractional, incomplete. We are but "half-witted" when we witness all that man does and boast of it and rely on it, but have not the wit to see what God does and to depend on it, fully alive, person who is while conscious of the importance of human effort—still knows that effort alone is never enough and prays to a Power beyond his own small powers for resources that human exertions cannot supply.

A CITY DWELLER purchased a small piece of acreage in the country and planted it into gardens. One day he showed the land to a small lad and boasted, "I grew it all by myself—I started with nothing, absolutely nothing, and just look at it now."

The awed youngster exclaimed, "Really, from nothing?" Golly, without even a seed?" The boy's question was wise, full-witted, showing an awareness of the Divine Worker who makes man's work meaningful, the Creator who makes man's creativity possible.

Trace all human accomplishment back far enough and you come to God's accomplishments. As surely as every gardener must begin with something no gardener can make—a seed, as certainly as he must depend upon powers that do not originate in his own flesh, blood or brain, powers such as the energy of the sun and the blessings of rain, so every man, everywhere, must rely upon the grace of Heaven for his earthly existence.

Jesus taught His disciples to talk with God about their needs. "Give us this day our daily bread," He urged them to say. When Jesus bade His disciples to petition God in this fashion He did more than point out that our daily necessities include bread for the body. That much was already assumed. The gift of bread is important, and we cannot endure without it. But more important than this specific petition is the general truth it points to: man's deepest need is to recognize his dependence upon God. We are not self-sufficient. Rather we are derived. We come from God, belong to God and daily we are sustained by God. Our need is to be aware of our need. All prayer found religion begins at the point of recognition of our own inadequacy and God's sufficiency.

MODERN CIVILIZATION suffers from its institutions and its gadgets that supplant God. Our pride in self-reliance through more efficient inventions, our powerlessness to think, our awareness of man's need for strength beyond his strength, the convenient hardness of most of life's physical necessities, all tend to wear us away from the significance of the prayer for "daily bread." Why should we pray for bread? Go to the store for it. The corner grocery seems to have much more to do with daily bread than God does. Pension funds, social security, insurance, bank accounts, bonds—these apparently provide more security than Providence does. Why bother God about those things that man can so easily supply?

But the prayer for daily bread is not a request to God for something man can do for himself. Rather, it is the soul's confession that, ultimately, all that man can do is dependent upon what God has already done, or will do, and upon the kind of God He is.

When the first farmer sowed the first seed in the first field and waited for it to sprout and grow, thus beginning the science of agriculture, he saw there was something he could do for himself, and he knew, too, that there were dependable forces at work in the universe that could be relied upon to do for him what he could never do for himself. Man could clear the land and plant the seed. But something else must see that the seed was viable, that the sun would shine, that the rain would fall. No might of man could perform such wonders. So man, through primitive agriculture, learned about himself, his limitations and insufficiency, and began to understand his reliance upon a mighty tenderness that broods over the needs of the earth's creatures. We still need to learn that lesson.

THE MISSISSIPPI grows from a tiny Minnesota stream into one of the world's mightiest rivers by being humble. It is not self-sufficient. After it rises from springs in the basin draining into Lake Itasca in Minnesota, the stream lies low in its valleys, receiving the waters of thousands of tributaries, thus growing in volume and power as it winds toward the Gulf of Mexico. The Mississippi serves the commerce of the nation because it first receives the mercies of the rains and gifts from neighboring streams.

Our strength for serving comes from our receptiveness. We can be relied upon to the degree that we draw upon a strength beyond our own. Thus it is the one who wishes to serve who fervently prays, "Give us... daily bread."

Odd... 'N' .. Ends

By FRAN MARTIN

Who has more fun than kids... especially kids at a circus... Seventy-seven seventh graders plus youngsters from the Retarded Children's Center made the jaunt to Grand Rapids Monday to see the Shrine Circus... which was as much fun as it ever was. I can't understand about circuses... I love 'em and swear that if I have any choice and there's a second time round I'm going to come back with a carnival or circus... not as a performer but just to work with 'em and travel with 'em... And yet today there are few circuses left in this country. They just can't make it financially.

ONE OF THE FEW remaining big ones that perform under the big top most of the time is that has its winter headquarters in Venice, Fla. Among the rollers in attendance while the Ringling Brothers' Barnum and Bailey Circus is at Venice, is Mrs. H. (Mildred) Paddock... Ev winter she sends me all sorts of stories on the circus and by spring when she comes home get together and she relays to all the little sidekicks that never hears about otherwise.

You wouldn't believe it, but this show on the road is in a minimum of time... The circus returns to its winter quarters in December... It's a day as the train pulls in... it's holiday for all schools in the area... City officials, school bus everyone turns out to escort circus personnel, everyone in the top performers to the local workman from the train, to the winter quarters... It's a busy time as the returns greet the friends in the area and in plans for the forthcoming holiday... From the time of their arrival until after New Year's Day is vacation time.

But come Jan. 2, everybody's work from early morning till every day in the week for their must be ready to roll in the weeks.

Meanwhile, new acts arrive from around the world, old acts changed and plans made for a season which will begin before a month is out... And through all, designers are coming and going, whipping costumes into shape.

SPECTATORS CAN go every day to watch the performers at a rehearsal... As Mrs. Paddock wrote "You told me to watch a circus for you and I did... once, but as often as I could... there." This year the theme of the costumes has a Spanish flavor with the bright colors of the garments embroidered with beautiful designs... After a dress rehearsal on Thursday, a show was scheduled to pull out Monday for the season... W everyone at the station to them well... a gift-y kind of life but so exciting... or so seems... but I can't imagine being just another job, even circus people...

Favors Code for Students

TO THE EDITOR:

What about teachers? This pertaining to a letter from the "CHS Student" in the Jan. 16 issue. I agree that this code is a good thing for the students of CHS. This person said "what about the teachers that are seen drinking?" So what if the teachers drink? It's their own privilege. They say they have seen them drinking outside of a bar. I would like to know where they saw them drinking? I'm sure they weren't drinking on the streets. Myself I have never seen a teacher drinking. Students don't think it's alright for them to drink. I they see their parents drink. Why should they think it's alright to drink if the teachers drink?

TEACHERS ARE grownups just like parents. In case this person didn't know, so if the Board of Education adopts a "Code of Ethics" for the teachers they might as well adopt one for the parents.

Fishing — Bah!

TO THE EDITOR:

I know people are paying a lot more attention to your paper and reading it almost every word. But that doesn't make it good. We can get our news in person about government and school things. So why does the Courier have to make a story out of everything?

And I think you give too much space to sports and fishing. There aren't many people who care about basketball or ice fishing. I'm one of them that would rather read a out something else.

The Courier's saturation coverage of Board of Education affairs is, I am sure, appreciated by everyone in town. I know parents appreciate it. I also think the board should. I have lived in four small towns with weekly newspapers and never seen school business reported so objectively or fully. And the chance you are giving the teachers to tell their story on the editorial page is also generous of you. But I wonder how many parents are interested enough to read it. I know this space is precious to you, but I wonder if the teachers know how much of an opportunity the Courier is giving them.

I'm not complaining, but it doesn't seem as though you give the City Council the same coverage the schools get. I think the school is more important, but why don't you attend city meetings, too? Won't they give you the information? You still do a better job of covering city news than the Courier ever before has.

A MOTHER
NOTE: The Courier has attempted to cover City Council meetings. Unfortunately they often fall on the same Monday evening as the School Board meetings. The School Board has re-scheduled its meetings so they are now held every second and fourth Monday. If City Council meetings are set for every first and third Monday, they, too, will be covered — Editor.

Perch Stories

Your last week's articles on Round Lake perch are just wonderful. We really enjoy your new paper. I especially think it is good that you have stories like the one about the perch. My wife even says she likes how some of the grocery store ads look.

But about the perch, I have also heard a lot of people cussing because the perch were gone. They all seemed to think they could bring them back. It is a good thing to have the truth from someone who knows.

AND MR. PETERSON was certainly right. There are plenty of perch in Lake Charlevoix. But they don't jump in the boat for you. If those guys will quit cussing and go fishing, they'll find them.

IT'S YOUR OPINION THAT COUNTS

Everyone Agrees: Library Essential

If one thing stands out above all else when you ask Charlevoix area residents about the public library, it is that they wouldn't want to be without it.

The Charlevoix Courier, in its second weekly public opinion survey, asked what people think of the library. Nine persons names were picked at random from the telephone book and called.

THE NEWSPAPER DOES not contend the opinions expressed represent a carefully selected cross-section of public thinking. They are, however, the opinions of Charlevoix people who do not usually get a chance to speak out on matters of public interest.

Though not all of the people called by the newspaper are regular library users, they have been, or have children who are. They also pay taxes to support the library.

Most of these contacted admitted they have not thoroughly studied the method by which the library's operation is financed. Nor did they have opinions on whether the public library would give better service if it were divorced from the school library.

Money to operate the school and public library and buy new books for them comes from a half-mill tax levy approved by voters in 1962. This half-mill is earmarked for library use, only. However, how much of it will be spent on the public library and how much on the school library is not defined. This is left to the Board of Education to decide. The board is responsible for running the library.

MRS. H. J. FELIX, North Point, told the Courier that she hasn't used the library much in recent years, but she used to enjoy it. "We'd be lost without it," Mrs. Felix said.

ROBERT MATCHETT, 219 E. Huribul, said he has been "well satisfied" with the library. As far as he knows, it is open enough hours.

"A lot of people use the library who might not come in contact with books without it," MRS. CLARENCE MURRAY, 807 Grant, said. Mrs. Murray pointed out she doesn't use the library much anymore, but thinks it's a real good thing.

"I'm sure glad we have it," MRS. JOHN POWELL, 301 Sheridan, told the Courier. She said her children use the library regularly. "We probably get a better book selection due to the school being part of it," she added. She pointed out her children always get the books they want and "enjoy it an awful lot."

MRS. ALBERT BALCH, US-31, says that though she hasn't had any young children at home, she thinks the public library should be open at hours that are convenient for everyone, and that a large selection of books should be offered. She pointed out she is satisfied with the building's appearance.

MRS. STANLEY BARGER, 708 Park, reports she seldom gets to the library any more, but her grandchildren use it almost every week. "I haven't heard any complaints from them," she said. She, too, pointed out she feels the library is a necessity.

The most outspoken critic of the library encountered by the Courier survey was MRS. MILDRED CORLENTZ, 209 Antrim. Mrs. Corleintz has taken an active interest in the library's operation for several years.

"I think the city operated the library years ago when we had a lot less money, and it would be better if they did now," Mrs. Corleintz said. She contends school officials slight adult readers, to spend money on children's books and the library in the high school.

"I don't think the City Council had any right to give the library building away (to the school) without a vote of the people. She don't think it will be very long before the library will be in the school. That won't be fair," she said.

(City officials turned the deed to the library over to the Board of Education this winter.)

THE SCHOOL WILL up and sell it (the library building) just like they did the Washington and Lincoln schools," Mrs. Corleintz said.

The library has a "pretty good selection of books for a town this size," MRS. JAMES DEARTH, of Petoskey Rd., said. She pointed out limited library hours make it difficult for some adults to use the facility.

"As far as I'm concerned our kids get good use from it," MRS. JAMES ELZINGA, 900 May St., said. She added that she thinks the tie-in with the school is good and that the tax for library support is reasonable.

Only Sketchy Memories Survive About Beet Plant

By FRAN MARTIN

An eyesore for 50 years, it's still standing walls and weeds on the site of the abandoned beet factory on M-66 at Ferry Ave. in Charlevoix township.

In several generations Charlevoix residents, the ruins of the plant have been a place of interest. The ruins of the plant have been a place of interest. The ruins of the plant have been a place of interest.

ling a summer job there during the construction period, probably in 1902. As he remembers it, the building was started in 1901.

Other area residents remember various things about the plant. Mrs. Harvey Campbell remembers attending a dinner and dance at the plant before it was placed in operation.

SAM MARTING WAS the manager of the place, and, while here, constructed the house located at 415 Michigan Ave., now owned by the Frank Rothschilds of Chicago.

Ben Harris was remembered as the "contact man" who contracted with farmers to grow sugar beets for the company.

In its early years, like most companies, the business did not show a profit. It was then that the company officials decided to close the operation and move to Ottawa, Ohio.

Several people, including E. J. Miller who came here in 1907 and Allen Campbell, recall that the plant was in operation, 1911.

Allen Campbell, local resident & living at Norwood, recalls get-stockholders, many of whom were local residents, bankers, business people and farmers.

MR. CAMPBELL said many residents as he remembers, felt the operation was just getting on its feet when the stockholders decided on the move to Ohio. It was then that the building was abandoned.

Bob Miles, local photographer, recalls, as a youngster, playing in the abandoned factory building, probably between 1914 and 1917. The windows were out but the roof was intact. The first story had a beautiful hardwood floor in it and we all used to roller skate there.

ground for family pictures and could not be enlarged for newspaper use.

When the last of the ruins are removed this spring to make way for the development planned by Hal Forbrig, contractor-developer, a part of Charlevoix's early history will be lost.

The "castle" of yesteryear, is to be replaced by 22 year-around homes, a marina and recreation area and all that will remain are the memories of the short lived factory that probably was Charlevoix's first industry other than lumbering, which was equally as short-lived.

AMONG THE PEOPLE who recall the factory in its better days, several felt that had it remained in operation another year or two, it undoubtedly would have been successful.

A conflict of interest among the officers was said to be one of the main reasons it was moved to Ohio where, several years later, the company went broke and many local residents lost their savings.

Though no one was found who was employed at the plant, other residents recall seeing farmers, with their horse-drawn wagons piled high with sugar beets, transporting the harvest to the factory where the beets were stored in pits located on the west end, which extended a third of the way to the shore of Lake Charlevoix, then known as Pine Lake.

After the sugar was extracted and refined, it was loaded on rail cars and transported to outlets in Southern Michigan and throughout the Midwest.

LOUIS EDWARDS, whose parents, the Arthur Edwards, live in a house overlooking the factory, remembers his mother, the former Rena Cram, telling of the time when she was a girl and her mother operated a boarding house for men who worked at the plant.

In faded snapshots belonging to Mrs. Edwards can be seen the sugar beet factory in all its glory. However, it was always a back-

IT'S END IN SIGHT — These long standing ruins of the beet factory on M-66 should be removed by early summer, according to contractor Hal Forbrig. Forbrig last week announced the remains of the old plant will be razed to make way for a new high class subdivision.

OUTDOOR RAMBLING

IF WE CONCEDE that next to going fishing every chance you get — and making sure that's often — the next most important thing for anything success is your tackle and how you use it, then it's time to open the tackle box.

If you stowed your tackle at the end of September or October chances are you're going to get it next summer, whether you realize why or not. After a season's use fishing tackle is ready for maintenance and repairs.

THIS CAN BE A dreary chore, more often it provides some of the most pleasant winter evenings a fisherman can put in. If you've a real passion for angling, you're bound to catch more fish while mending tackle than you do while using it.

First thing to make sure you do — even if you do nothing else — is your fly lines. They would have been stripped off reels as soon as trout season ended. If it's not too late, get them off. If you're not sure, get them off. If you're not sure, get them off.

If they're good and dry, wash them in non-detergent soap and water. If you've kept them clean all summer — as you should — they won't need this treatment. Just wipe them clean with a cloth and coil them loosely in the bottom of a box about a foot square, y spring the kinks should be gone.

Next on the agenda is reels. One man don't do a thing to $20.50 fly, spin and plug reels from one season to the next. I've not in ten years with one guy who cursed him day because his $15 plug job was backfiring and dropping the cast short. You could hear the ears pricking up bits of said. He tossed the manufacturer.

THE GUILT, THOUGH, was his. I'd taken the delicate machine apart and washed each part thoroughly with a grease removing agent, then stored it in a dry place for winter, before oiling it in the spring. He would have enjoyed his fishing a hundredfold.

All reels should get this treatment. When your reels and fly lines are taken care of, you're ready for the uttering and dreaming jobs. Rewinding line guides, spotting plugs, resetting or replacing the books, etc.

Unless you're loaded with money, you can't afford to throw away perfectly good $5 to $9 cent flies. It's a good bet to steam clean them to remove last season's accumulation.

A reply to fiction in national magazine article

HERE ARE THE FACTS!

The December issue of the Reader's Digest carries one of the most vicious attacks ever made against the nation's rural electric cooperative program.

It is titled "The REA—A Case Study of Bureaucracy Run Wild" and is a chapter in the multi-million dollar propaganda war being waged by the electric companies to keep the power companies from the electric cooperative program.

The authors of the article — yellow journalism at its worst — are listed as Kenneth Gilmore and Eugene McElhenny, otherwise unidentified. The Digest also is offering dirt cheap reprints of the mudslinging article, to show how anxious it is to dig the graves of co-ops.

Although the Digest periodically castigates REA as being government subsidized (which it is not), the magazine never mentions its own lush government subsidy: a second-class mailing privilege that the Digest estimated in 1958 that it must be considerably more now. This is money that is taken directly from the pockets of U.S. taxpayers and isn't paid back. REA loans are repaid, of course, with interest.

It is also significant that the Digest takes thousands of dollars of advertising each year from the Electric Companies Advertising Program (ECAP) that rips into the rural electric at every opportunity. Our late President John F. Kennedy described this advertising program as "particularly ugly."

Here are some of the many misrepresentations that appear in the current Digest article. The facts follow:

QUOTE: "The REA—A Case Study of Bureaucracy Run Wild."

FACT: This is not a case study but sheer propaganda put out by private power companies as part of their drive to destroy consumer owned electric systems. The United States Congress—not REA—after hearings and committee investigation voted the largest appropriations in REA's history to meet the growing capital needs of the program. Congress even voted more administrative funds than REA asked for to take care of the growing demands. The only thing running wild is the imagination of the two authors and the Reader's Digest.

QUOTE: "to bring electricity to farm areas."

FACT: The REA Act clearly specifies "rural areas." Use of "farm areas" is a calculated power company propaganda ploy, carefully planned over the years to distort the true objectives of REA and put artificial limits on the program's operations.

QUOTE: REA is a "monster eating into the electric power industry."

FACT: REA-financed systems make up only one percent of the entire electric business and this small percentage was created in areas private power companies refused or could not serve. Power company profits are at an all-time high and their flagrant overcharges have been verified by the Federal Power Commission. Will the real "monsters" please stand up?

QUOTE: "eating . . . into the taxpayers' pocketbook as well."

over a billion and a quarter dollars annually to the Gross National Product by creating markets for electric appliances, wiring and equipment. Grade A milk, universal in the U. S., could not be produced economically in quantities but for electric service. Rural homes and businesses are able to enjoy the electric service available, resulting in greater local tax income. Industry is attracted and greater economic activity results. Health standards are raised and modern hospitals are possible. Defense and transportation communication needs are met. For taxpayers outside the rural electric service areas, their tax burdens are lessened by the billions.

QUOTE: Regarding Florida Edgin Air Force Base, "the federal subsidy allowed the tax-free co-op to grab business from a long-established (taxpaying private utility) and 'the Gulf Power Co. offered to furnish the electricity from its nearby power system.'"

FACT: The Comptroller General of the U. S. (no admirer of REA) reviewed the REA loan, and said, "It is clear that Gulf Power would have to extend its lines approximately 15 miles to serve the radar site." The co-op line is 4 miles away. Regarding taxes, he said, "The Air Force states that taxes paid by private companies are dependent upon profits, and many vary from time to time because of numerous factors. Interest paid by the government also varies. To try and isolate these factors and give them a numerical value would be difficult, and would involve considerable speculation."

QUOTE: "Such senseless spending and needless squashing of private enterprise are not all that is involved."

FACT: The REA loan is part of a long-range development plan to bring power to areas of the country that are underdeveloped. The airbase radar load helps the co-op develop its marginal territory and its limited number of consumers into a better system more able to serve future demands.

Gulf's profits and stock ratings along with other power companies are regarded by investors as the "growth stocks" of the financial world. They give the lie to any "mindless squashing" asserted by Reader's Digest writers.

QUOTE: "By diverting the contract from the privately owned Gulf Power Co., the REA has deprived the government of $43,500 a year in corporation taxes."

FACT: Even the Comptroller-General disagreed with this. What Reader's Digest neglected to say is that the government would be paying this $43,500 to the power company, in the first place, plus additional tax liability to cover all the company's tax subsidies, investment credits and their share of gross profits.

QUOTE: Such cases are cropping up across the nation. In Indiana, tax-fed co-ops are pirating away millions of dollars worth of business from private enterprise.

FACT: This is sheer fantasy. Co-ops are private enterprise, incorporated under state laws. Their loans are restricted by federal law so as not to compete with power companies. It is the power companies who invade co-op service areas and pirate away business planned to complete area coverage standards. The government's restrictions confine loans to developing areas the power companies would not or could not serve. It is not — and never was — business that the power companies wanted. Now that development has grown where power companies want to merge rural systems into their own business and become sole electric suppliers in the country, they resent that the little co-ops hurt their business. Actually they get a $100-million dollars in additional power sales to the co-ops.

With the job now virtually completed, REA continued to expand.

FACT: Another line right out of the utility propaganda book. Does Reader's Digest advocate that power companies stop investing $4-billion a year to expand service to customers already receiving service? Rural customers' needs grow the same as urban customers'.

QUOTE: "REA co-ops with their two-percent subsidy and tax-free advantages are competing unfairly with private business."

FACT: The power business is a monopoly and not private competitive enterprise as the term is used in the business world. Reasonable profits are guaranteed by state regulation. Usual business risks are ruled out. REA interest loan rate and non-profit operations are not factors in a utility's ability to carry on its business in its own service areas. There is no competition between electric systems. It is outlawed by state regulations. The interest rate and non-profit status are equalizers for the co-op to help overcome the lack of density in serving marginal territories no one else wanted. Power companies have the same "tax advantages" if they would forego profits.

QUOTE: "REA has barged into the industrial loan business, an activity far removed from its original design."

FACT: More utility propaganda. Reader's Digest writers carefully omit the fact that REA does not make loans as described. The House Oversight Committee held hearings on power company claims, such as Reader's Digest voices, and concluded there was nothing to substantiate the criticism of funds loaned to develop ski resort equipment and the like.

QUOTE: "REA-subsidized co-ops — use their tax-free earnings for a variety of private, profit-making ventures."

FACT: This utility propaganda line was investigated by the Congress several years ago and found to be completely untrue.

QUOTE: Regarding the Indiana generating loan, "it was a pure giveaway, for private enterprise with adequate power facilities was able and willing to supply energy to these co-ops at reasonable rates."

FACT: This loan has not every test invoked by power companies and been proved sound and in the public interest.

QUOTE: Description of Colorado-Ute G-T development.

FACT: The account is taken from power company propaganda sheets and is lacking in credibility and authenticity. Reader's Digest fails to mention the loan was approved by the Colorado regulatory agency.

Emergency Fodder for Local Farms

BOYNE CITY — Charlevoix County has been approved as an emergency area due to a shortage of livestock feed. A telegram received in the County ASCS office states oats and barley are available, in addition to the corn already approved.

The program is intended to preserve and maintain foundation herds until new grazing is available, or a new grain crop is harvested.

THE GRAIN CAN be sold only to those who find it an undue financial hardship to obtain grain through normal trading channels.

Corn, barley and oats are available to feed primary livestock at 75 percent of the local support price. In the case of all other eligible livestock the price is the full support price.

If producers are interested in livestock feed they should contact the County ASCS Office here to determine if they are eligible to purchase grain under this program.

Six Charlevoix County farmers have already made application for emergency feed.

FOR FLYERS ONLY

Secluded Island Resort

What appears to be one of the Midwest's most exclusive resort retreats is being developed on a little-known island in Lake Michigan, approximately 25 miles west of Charlevoix.

Two Detroit brothers, Alger and Frank Sheldon, are reported developing North Fox Island into a plush, secluded vacation hideaway only for persons who fly.

But Forbrig, contractor, said an airstrip and approximately ten miles of road have been constructed.

FORBRIG EXPECTS to renew construction work on the island this spring. Workmen are taken to the island by airplane, and the equipment by barge, he reports.

According to Forbrig, the Sheldon brothers will sell only 40 lots on the island for homes. The rest of the island by two ridge islands will remain as undeveloped "community" recreation property.

Advance information on the Fox Island project describes it as "a tiny continent... with untouched timber, sandy beaches, deer above all with that wilderness repose so seldom found in today's busy recreation areas."

The Fox Island Co., which allegedly owns the entire island, will sell lots, but persons buying them will be responsible for construction of their own homes, Forbrig explained.

LAST CALL —

January 30, 1964

Dear Reader:

The Charlevoix Junior and Senior bands have a wonderful opportunity to earn a much needed instrument for their marching band. The Charlevoix Courier will give us a new Glockenspiel if we can reach our sales quota. Saturday February 1st. will end the Sales Drive.

Up to this point we've had wonderful cooperation. Only 333 more points are needed to win this instrument.

We will most deeply appreciate your support this Saturday, when we will make a city-wide canvas of Charlevoix to wind up our drive in an effort to meet this quota and earn the Glockenspiel.

If you are now a regular reader of the Courier, and are buying it on the newsstand, you can save $2.20 a year by buying a subscription. In addition to this saving, you'll be helping your local band which has represented Charlevoix so admirably at band festivals throughout the years.

We hope that you'll be able to offer your assistance and buy a subscription when we call at your home this Saturday.

Sincerely,
C. A. Odmark

Without ME YOU can do NOTHING

—so the vine said to the branches. Separated from the vine the branch became dead wood. We boast of our strength and the part we play but oh, how dependent on God we really are. The physical body must have goods we cannot get except they come from God... air, food, water, companionship and even wealth. It is all part of a living universe. By itself all of this would be dead wood. The Christian without Christ becomes fruitless... dead. The human is nothing apart from the divine. God not only created life, He also sustains it. Our health, strength, success are all God's gift. Better stop Mister, long enough to give Him credit. Without Him we can do nothing.

In County $3 a Year

EVERYTHING POINTS to Charlevoix having the biggest, most diversified winter sports carnival in Michigan next year. At least, that's the story as we get it.

Bob Neil called the first meeting of the Chamber of Commerce's Winter Sports Committee last week. Members decided it is too late to make anything but a "best effort" this year. So they are planning for next winter.

Before the nearly three hour meeting adjourned plans were in motion to begin making arrangements for ice skating, a fox hunt, speed skating, speed skating, speed skating, snow shoe hike, ski races, and Mt. McSamba and snow sculpting.

Such an event will bring thousands of people into town and stir up fun for all of us. If the committee's enthusiasm holds.

One thing they forgot, though. When the Chamber first proposed the idea, it included a suggestion that a snowfall might be required between Republican and Democratic club members. The Courier will take of the winners.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY'S equalization and welfare departments came in for a house from state officials at the Michigan Supervisors' Assn. meeting in Lansing. Charlevoix County's representatives were present.

Robert came back from the meeting with word that high-level people in both the state welfare and tax departments consider Charlevoix County's operations in these fields better than in the north country.

BEAVER ISLAND immigration, James Gallagher was a bit shy last week after Mort Neil failed to show island rabbit hunting time on his Jan. 21 show. James, 56, may recall from reading this page 4 Courier story, reported Neil would broadcast the Beaver Island films that night. He was a bit sheepish the next time we saw him at the office.

IT LOOKS LIKE Gallagher will be even busier this summer. Word is the passenger capacity of the Beaver Islander has been increased from 150 to 200.

The "Beaver Beacon" hailed this as a "good news for all who have interests on the island, as the greatest share of the island's economy depends on the Beaver Islander. As the transportation increases, so the island grows."

Tom McDaniels and I have had Beaver Island on our agenda for the last five months. To say the least, we're looking forward to something rather exotic. . . . if time ever allows.

ANOTHER ITEM we can't resist passing along from the "Beaver Beacon." Why you be seven years behind in the devil knows your mind.

The spartan little mimeographed Beaver Island newspaper says this year is an old Irish New Year's most. So, like a peasant hoping for the best while expecting the worst.

Railroad Row No Threat Here

The possibility of ending or cutting railroad service to northern sections of lower Michigan across the straits, will be discussed by the Charlevoix Economic Development Corp., President Bill Carey reports.

Carey stated that as he understands it, Charlevoix will not be affected. He said he expects the C & O Railroad to continue its regular service here.

HOWEVER, CAREY pointed out he expects the Economic Development Corp. to write the railroad asking for confirmation of its future plans.

WHAT YOU'LL FIND INSIDE

CHICKENS! LOTS OF chickens! And more than 2 million eggs to boot. It's all on page B-4.

CHARLEVOIX PEOPLE SEEM to be all in favor of a cement plant located on South Point. But they support the Courier's editorial position that proper safeguards need to be taken to protect our natural beauty. See this week's public opinion poll on page 2-B.

HUNDREDS OF YOUNG musicians will gather in Charlevoix this weekend in search of honors. For a complete rundown on what may be the biggest musical event in Charlevoix history see page 6.

THE REAL ESTATE BUSINESS has been booming. The Post Office, of all places, has figures to prove it. See page B-5.

TOPS FOR BAND - These three Charlevoix High School bandmen sold a total of 91 Courier subscriptions in the band's recent campaign to raise cash and earn a clockenspiel. As the band's top salesman Edmund Rogart, left, sold 49 subscriptions. He was followed by John Gibson, right, with 34 and Tom Maxwell with 18. Julie Odmark and Shirley Gibson tied for fourth highest in sales. (Courier photo).

Jail's Use Sets 3-Months Record

Sheriff Glen Rose can't understand it. His jail's been crowded to capacity for three straight months.

Rose reports the Charlevoix County jail has had from eight to six persons more than usual since the first of November.

THIS WEEK 15 prisoners are in the jail. Four of them women. Rose pointed out from seven to nine prisoners are normal for this time of year. The jail's maximum capacity is 47 prisoners.

He can't ever recall having as many prisoners for such a prolonged period.

The number of crimes reported shows very little, if any, increase. Rose stated. So the increase in prisoners isn't due to a crime wave, as would normally be expected.

STATE POLICE Sergeant Jack Howard at Petoskey declared he can't put his finger on any explanation for the heavy jail Charlevoix County's jail is getting.

No more than 15 percent of the prisoners are arrested by the Sheriff's Dept., Rose stated. He explained most of the prisoners are arrested by Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan, or Boyne Falls police. Others are picked up by the State Police and Conservation Dept.

He estimated that as many as 40 percent of the prisoners are arrested by Boyne City police.

Because none of the County's cities maintain their own jail, Charlevoix County handles all prisoners arrested in Charlevoix County.

STATE AND COUNTY officials have called for improvements to the jail. Discussion, and possibly action on these recommendations is expected at the April meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors.

Farmers Program Healthy Conservation Plan Popular

Charlevoix County's 15-year old Soil Conservation District is healthier than ever, cooperators learned at last week's annual meeting in Charlevoix High School.

With 340 farms in the County, 342 are participating in soil conservation practices, Bill Grimm, U. S. soil conservation technical advisor reports.

BOOMING INTEREST in life drainage was reported at the annual meeting. Grimm explained 32,000 feet of this drainage had been put down in the last year in Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Strip cropping continues to be one of the Charlevoix Soil Conservation District's major programs. Between 5,000 and 7,000 acres in Charlevoix county farmland has been put into strip cropping Grimm explained.

Woodland management also remains one of soil conservation's most important programs in Charlevoix County, Grimm stated.

Local farmers have been fast to take advantage of the new wildlife and recreation programs offered through soil conservation, he declared.

THESE PROGRAMS give farmers a chance to earmark and develop idle land into recreation areas. This includes playgrounds, campgrounds and fishing ponds.

The Charlevoix Soil Conservation District is administered by a board of directors made up of local landowners. Technical and other assistance is provided by the U. S. Soil Conservation Service.

Three Charlevoix district cooperators were honored for their outstanding participation in soil conservation at last week's meeting. They are Harry Tompkins, Joseph Stettin and Eric Bosch.

Circuit Judge Charles Brown ordered three women imprisoned in the Detroit House of Correction DeHoCo.

Judge Brown also sentenced three men to probation during a session of court in the Charlevoix County Building. F. R. Bulex, county clerk, reports.

THE THREE WOMEN sentenced to jail terms are Martha J. Pruitt, 37, of Elmira; Mary E. Martin, 42, of Boyne City; and her daughter Mary E. Martin, 19, of Boyne City.

Ordered on two years probation were James A. Adams, 29, and Harold W. Mapes, 19, both of Boyne City. They were also ordered to pay $75 costs, $10 fine and $85.50 restitution each for breaking and entering in the night at the avoidance bar.

Ronald Denning, 23, Wayne, Michigan, was referred to the probation department when he pleaded guilty to larceny from a building.

Denning, below explained, had been charged with larceny from a building.

Consumers Pays $173,355 Taxes

A check for $173,355 is to cover a property tax bill has been paid to Mrs. Annabelle Evers, Charlevoix Township treasurer.

The tax payment - the biggest in Charlevoix county - is from Consumers Power Company on its Big Rock Point Nuclear plant.

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC Schools will get the biggest chunk of the huge tax payment. Of this $173,355 is school district, $14,250 for voted operation, $24,800 for voted debt retirement, and $14,305 for school district 2 and 5.

The county will receive $17,451.67 or $29,108.81, county allocated and $8,312.36, Grandview Medical Facility debt retirement.

The township's share of the taxes is $21,221.75 with $7,130.45 earmarked for township operational costs; $11,260.27, township voted for road; and $2,831.03, township voted for fire protection.

Included in the check was a tax of $1,161.41 which goes into the township's treasury.

To Train Kids With Problems Estimate Cost At $2.50 Each

The decision has been made. Charlevoix and Emmet county parents will have an opportunity to provide special education for handicapped students.

If voters in the two counties approve a half-mill tax levy at the annual June board of education elections a special education district will be created.

THE DISTRICT, Charles Robinson, Intermediate School District superintendent, explained will give special training to children with such handicaps as speech difficulties, emotional problems, mental retardation, and others that hamper students from learning in a regular classroom situation.

Robinson stated the half-mill levy probably will not be levied - it is approved by voters - during the early stages of the program's development.

At present time, he pointed out, to get the program working but its full value can be realized when this is achieved, the annual Special Education District budget could run as high as $100,000, with half, or more, coming from the state.

The half mill in the two counties will raise $32,500. In Charlevoix Public School District it will raise $10,500.

WITH AN EQUALIZED valuation of $20,657,000, Charlevoix Public School District is the second largest in the two counties. Largest is Petoskey with an equalized valuation of $22,198,333.

This means Petoskey and Charlevoix will each pay approximately 20 percent of the program's total revenue.

Charlevoix County school districts have a combined equalized valuation of $71,700,200. Emmet County districts have a total value of $32,562,100.

With the average home having an equalized valuation of approximately $5,000, this means taxpayers contribute $2.50 annually to special education, if the half-mill levy is levied.

THE REMAINDER of the special education budget would come from taxes paid to the state and returned to the local area.

Charlevoix Public School District will vote on the proposition at the board of education election the first Monday in June. The proposition will have to be approved by the majority of voters in the two-county Intermediate District.

Robinson declared the plan is already getting solid support from local school boards, PTA groups, Farm Bureau, Grange and churches. Not a single group has refused to support the half-mill levy, he stated.

An all-out effort will be made to interrupt the public about the proposition, Robinson said. Groups interested in having the matter referred to them should contact his office.

Petoskey Line Busy

There are no telephone conversations between Charlevoix and Petoskey then any other point, local telephone officials at Bell Telephone Co. regional manager reports.

The telephone company, Johnson explained, keeps direct circuits to keep up with the average number of calls between Charlevoix and Petoskey.

JOHNSON SAID the company determines what sort of circuits can be called for no added charge on the number of calls between them. Another consideration is whether the calling area's border each other.

The second most frequently called point from Charlevoix is Boyne City, and then East Jordan. All three - Petoskey, Boyne City, and East Jordan - can be called from Charlevoix for no charge.

No Winners in 34-Year Cribbage Rivalry

The three men around this table have been playing cribbage for 34 years. But there never has been a winner. The game, which is played with a deck of 52 cards, is a game of skill and strategy. The three men are: Ray Moore, who owns the Rayders; Ray Moore, who owns the Rayders; Ray Moore, who owns the Rayders.

WHEN THE MATCHES started there were around 100 men at the weekly contest. Williams reports. Now there are seldom more than 25. The cribbage matches are held weekly on Thursday evenings, alternately in the Outhouse Hall and Masonic Temple. Williams and Mitchell are Oldfellows and Ashton is a Mason.

Asked who the better player of the three is, Williams said he doesn't know. There has never been a "champion named," he explained. At the end of the year, however, the club with the most points enjoys a free supper on the other club.

Williams, who is the youngest of the trio at 57 (Mitchell is 85), was single when he helped organize the long-running rivalry, which he calls a "very enjoyable affair."

Ashton, who has been hospitalized for the last two weeks, Dr. Lignell reports he is in satisfactory condition.

CAGE PROFILE

Doug Winnell—Plays Hard

By Fran Martin
It competitive spirit and the desire to win are the main ingredients in the life of a basketball player. The Charlevoix Rayders can expect to see a major "test" from a 16-year-old player named Doug Winnell who has been seeing a lot of action in recent games.

This 16-year-old, who is a cage player at Charlevoix, is the first full season with the Rayders.

WHEN QUESTIONED about sports, he admits that he has been playing basketball since he was 10 years old. He has been playing basketball since he was 10 years old. He has been playing basketball since he was 10 years old.

"Why do I like participation in sports? I think it's because you have to battle all the time to stay on top. I guess it's the competitive spirit and the chance to better your self by hard work," was his answer to the question being asked by all young Rayders.

Accused of being short-tempered, Doug said he doesn't know. He said he doesn't know. He said he doesn't know. He said he doesn't know. He said he doesn't know.

IN THE CLASSROOM, his chief interests are history, especially U.S. history and math. "Math isn't my best subject but I like it. I like it and more," he added. He is a member of the Varsity Club and outside of the classroom, he likes to hunt and fish. He likes to hunt and fish. He likes to hunt and fish.

"I really haven't made up my mind, but I know whatever I do, I'll have to go on to school. I like to go to school. I like to go to school. I like to go to school."

DOUG WINNELL

Rayders Maintain Lead in League

The Charlevoix Rayders slipped past East Jordan Friday night in a game that saw the Red Devils leading at the end of the first period and trailing by only three points at the three-quarter mark. The final score was 78-67.

THE RAYDERS, playing without Ken Parrish who was benched with a pulled back muscle, trailed East Jordan 15-13 before they found their stride and took a 36-34 halftime advantage.

As the game went into the second half, the Red Devils outscored the visitors 20-19 to trim the Rayder lead by one point at the three-quarter mark.

In the final period, the Rayders got back in the running, pouring in 23 points to the Jordans. 17, though the latter did close the gap to three points as the game went into the final three minutes. Gary Stutzman paced the game with 28 points on 11 of 19 goals and six of eight free throws. He was followed by Dave Norfork who had 17. Other starters, Jim Clark posted nine, Warren Pelling eight, Bruce Kroken six and Doug Winnell four.

OTHERS WHO SAW action were Del Terrill who had five points, Dave Smith, Pete Zeece, Randy Carey, Don Smith, John Blech and Tom Maxwell.

Ray Moore came through with points from the free throw line, 20 points and Chad McDonald and Mickey Bell, 12 points each for the Jordans, who scored 25. East Jordan 21 25 12 21 67

Big Games on Tap This Week

Another big week is in store for all eight teams of the Northern Michigan Class C league as they hit the hardwoods Friday and return for games Tuesday.

Friday will find Charlevoix traveling to Grayling, East Jordan playing at Harbor Springs, Gaylord visiting Mancelona and Boyne City hosting Pellston.

TUESDAY THE J.V. games begin at 6:45 p.m. and Varsity game at 8 p.m. Charlevoix will entertain Boyne City, Gaylord will host Grayling, East Jordan will travel to Mancelona and Harbor Springs and Pellston will clash on the latter's floor.

Last week found favored teams logging victories with Charlevoix remaining the league leader after defeating East Jordan 68-57. Gaylord and Pellston in second place since the Blue Devils had knocked off Boyne City by a score of 64-41. Harbor Springs 72-49, win over Grayling moved them into sole possession of third place while Boyne City dropped to fourth place. Grayling to fifth; East Jordan to sixth and Mancelona in the league cellar with nine straight losses in four days.

Of all the games scheduled for Friday, Charlevoix's game at Grayling will probably be the toughest for the Vikings play their best ball on their home floor. In their first meeting the Rayders got by with a one-point victory; the Vikings have long memories and since they like nothing better than playing the role of underdogs, they're rehearsing all week for this performance in the boys they can pull it off.

However, if the Rayders have Ken Parrish back in the lineup and play heads up ball, they should come through with their top standing intact.

THEY WILL BE faced with an equally tough game on Tuesday when the Boyne City Ramblers come to town for a return game. The Rayders won by a six-point margin the first time around. However, their task won't be an easy Tuesday for the Ramblers have been bolstered by the return of Bill Darbee, a hwy. driver of the local boards and a pretty fair scorer, threat.

This also is one of the hottest rivalries in the area so it will be a good game with the Rayders favored because of their record. But the Ramblers have no respect for such things so will be out to take this one.

East Jordan gave the Rayders a good game Friday and can be counted on to do the same thing when they take on Harbor Springs this week. The Rayders, however, have a hold on third place and will be out to defend this spot with all they have.

Chances are Gaylord will have no trouble with the Mancelona team who have yet to win a league game but Pellston is not to find tough going when they take on Boyne City on the latter's floor. The Ramblers at times have played some excellent ball. Should they choose to do so, when they clash with the Hornets, the latter will find they have a tiger by the tail.

IN OTHER GAMES Tuesday East Jordan will be favored over Mancelona, Gaylord over Grayling, and Pellston over Harbor Springs.

Falcon proves it's America's toughest compact in the rugged Monte Carlo Rallye!

Four Falcons started from Oslo, four from Paris, on routes calculated to be equal in difficulty. Weather conditions varied from clear, but cold through freezing fog to blinding snow—and the time schedules made no provision for delays. Here a Falcon swirls through a sudden snow shower, being traction in a practice run.

Falcon entered two classes in Europe's 2,700-mile winter ordeal—won them both and finished 2nd overall out of 299 cars. That's durability!

In the Rallye's five special Alpine sections, Falcon was first overall in four, tied for first in one. That's roadability!

In the Rallye's final test around the Monte Carlo racing course, Falcons were first and second. That's maneuverability!

MONTÉ CARLO—The 32nd Monte Carlo Rallye started with 299 cars. Some 2,700 miles and 3 1/2 days later, only 163 were still in the rally when the field struggled into Monte Carlo. They included all eight of the specially equipped Falcons that originally started! This eight-out-of-eight record was perhaps more remarkable than the fact that, despite a leanhead formula that favored the smallest cars, a Falcon captured second place overall. One car can have luck . . . but eight have to have total performance. Because the Rallye samples every variety of weather and road conditions the continent can provide, and because it winds up on the most remote byways in the French Maritime Alps, it is a supreme test of all the car's abilities. Falcon's steering had to be flawless on glare ice above a 1,000-foot drop. Those fabulous V-8's had to run like dynamo.

The final results in the Monte Carlo Rallye gave Falcon 2nd place overall, 1st in Class 8 of the Touring category, 1st and 2nd in Class 5 of the much tougher Grand Touring category, 1st and 2nd in the final three-lap test on the Monte Carlo circuit. The best finish by a Valiant was 88th overall. Falcon gained invaluable experience in how to build a car better, make it tougher, sharpen up its total performance. That's the real reason Ford is interested in open competition—and why Ford-built cars have got so much more to show drivers. Drive one and see: it won't have six lights, or a horn you can hear for four miles in stormy weather, or the other special rally equipment—but it'll sure surprise you!

TRY TOTAL PERFORMANCE FOR A CHANGE!

FISHING COUPLE Mrs. Gary (Carla) Spencer, 102 Park, Charlevoix, came to the Courier office with the 12 1/2 inch perch she holds on the left. Her husband caught it at Ironton with her help, and, since he was working, asked her to enter it in the Courier's Ice Fishing Contest. Despite her reluctance to pose with her husband's fish, we finally got this picture. A few days later Gary came in with the 14 inch perch he holds here. It, too, was caught at Ironton on a minnow.

The Courier ice fishing contest will continue until ice-out. Fishermen are invited to enter their catch, whether it is big or small. If you don't win a prize you still have your picture in the paper. Prizes are being offered on pike, perch, bluegills and walleyes. They have to be caught in Charlevoix County.

OUTDOOR RAMBLING

with GLEN SHEPPARD

THE BEAVER ISLAND C. V. ASSN. seems almost certain to entertain the Michigan Outdoor Writers Assn. conclave this June.

Holding the gathering on the island can provide an excellent chance for the entire area to display its outdoor wares to the majority of Michigan's sportsmen.

IF THERE IS a touch of truth to the anonymous tip I've heard repeatedly about Beaver Island's rugged, old-fashioned north country hospitality, the Islanders and Michigan Outdoor Writers Assn. (MOWA) will get along dandy.

For the most part, outdoor writers are talented reporters who took to covering the hunting and fishing beat because they love Northern Michigan. They live and work downstate, but at the big city offices are the only ones with enough money to pay a man to do little more than hunt and fish and write about it.

When I joined the MOWA on my 21st birthday for a year as a staff writer, I was 20. I expected the MOWA to be made up of grizzled woodsmen, strolling at colts, juice, pine resin and booze. Instead they turned out to be some of the state's best newspaper writers conscientiously covering one of the most important and sometimes most complex facets of man's life.

Of course, but not necessarily in a bad way. The group also has many members who belong simply because it's another organization.

IF THE MOWA DOES hold its summer, 1964 meeting on Beaver Island, Conservation Dept. Regional Information chief Charlie Welch seems to be the man to thank. Charlie was in the Courier office early last Autumn, enroute to the island to ask if leaders there were interested. Evidently, they were. They've invited the MOWA.

And though my nickel's worth isn't being solicited, reckon I'll spend it.

As I see it, trout past experience with MOWA meetings, the gathering on Beaver Island will be a complete waste of a unique opportunity unless careful planning is started as soon as the invitation is accepted at the Feb. 15-16 MOWA meeting in Grayling.

Merely entertaining outdoor writers at cocktail parties (a necessity) and showing them Charlevoix county's superb scenery isn't enough. Arrange some fishing expeditions with real meat in them. The area's top bass fishermen should be corralled and asked to come up with snare-fire strategy for getting the writers to top fishing waters . . . and then seeing they catch fish. An admission, but not quite impossible order.

Another excursion that should put the area in big type in the media is a guided tour of the island. The outdoor writers will tell them the truth and tell their story, more could be accomplished than has in years.

THERE ARE MANY other legitimate fishing boasts to be made for the area. The outdoor writers will tell them the truth and tell their story, more could be accomplished than has in years.

But to simply show them through a bit of local history, or a regional center will be in nothing more than a couple inches of dry reading that has been printed time and time again.

If the best area sports fishermen pool their savvy of fish habits they can draw up a plan that will result in outdoor writers watching big bass in the Beaver Island group. This will need to include alternate plans to allow for weather and other factors. But it can be done.

Give these guys battling fish on the end of their rods and the ones with the big audiences will send their readers, and their dollars, swimming through Charlevoix to Beaver Island.

THROW IN A COUPLE colorful, even if outlandish, and phrase-ry and outdoor writers will be in their glory.

A MIGHTY BUSY LITTLE BUSINESS

Keep 5,200 Gals Working

One of the biggest little businesses in Charlevoix County is operated by Russell Dohn on the Marion Center Rd.

You wouldn't guess it, but Dohn can boast his operation produced more than 1,000,000 eggs in the last 14 months. And get this, he has approximately 5,200 workers doing the job for him.

IF IT WASN'T that these workers are all chickens, Dohn would really have the biggest payroll in the country. That's right, Dohn is a chicken farmer. His 5,200 chickens laid 111,493 dozen eggs in the last 14 months. He sold thousands of dozens locally.

You don't produce more than a million eggs a year by going out to the chicken pen and throwing a few handfuls of feed to the hens. Nor do you do it by searching through the lot for eggs, carefully placed in secluded places by hens with an over-developed mother instinct.

Dohn has his chicken factory (which is literally is) automated. All of the chickens' needs are tended to by mechanical means.

FEED AND WATER is distributed on a scientific formula by a machine. The more than a million eggs are collected and delivered to a central sorting spot by another machine.

The chickens peck up more than 1,500 pounds of feed daily. That's a lot of pecking.

Dohn has received a new shipment of 20-week old chickens — 5,200 of them.

The old batch get its reward for averaging 267 eggs per bird. They were sold to Campbell Soup Co. You know what the Campbell Co. did with them.

precate the outstanding performance of the late chickens. He can't afford to be sentimental about them, though.

A chicken's best laying period only lasts 14 months. When that's over, he ships the worn-out birds out and gets a new cropful that are in the prime of laying.

During their 14-month laying spree, the now deceased birds ate 250 tons of feed. That's a half-million pounds.

From the volume of eggs he produces, you might be misled to believe Dohn has a corner on the egg market in Charlevoix County. But he doesn't.

DOHN REPORTS Wayne Saunders, in Ironton, and Dan Hagerty, on the Boyne City Rd., are all so big time in the business.

And, actually, Dohn is only a beginner. He started in the egg business a couple years ago and says 1963 was the first year the chickens paid their way and showed a profit.

Mr. and Mrs. (Jean) Dohn came to Charlevoix in 1952 from Pioneer, Ohio. They started in the beef cattle business, which they still operate.

They have 40 head of beef cattle. Only ten are butchered a year, and sold locally. Dohn declares he hopes to double the size of the herd.

ASSISTING IN THE egg and beef business are the three Dohn children: William, 18; Barbara, 16; and Jerry, 10.

MR. AND MRS. RUSSELL DOHN survey their automated chicken coop amidst some of the 5,000 chickens that produce more than a million eggs annually. (Courier Photos)

BARBARA DOHN puts eggs in boxes after they have been automatically picked up from nesting coops, washed and inspected.

One Million Eggs Yearly in Ironton

IRONTON You would think Russell Dohn's more than a million eggs a year would be enough for Charlevoix County's 13,000 people. But it takes more than twice that many.

Wayne Saunders of Ironton, on old M-66, also has a one million-plus egg factory in operation.

UNTIL TWO YEARS ago Saunders was a bread salesman. He dropped that to go full-time into the farming business, with emphasis on eggs.

He has 5,000 chickens putting out more than 100,000 dozen eggs annually in an automated plant almost exactly like Dohn's.

Saunders reports things really get busy for the four children and mother and father when the chickens reach their peak production every 32 weeks.

The next "peak" period in the THOUGH MACHINERY does the feeding and egg collecting and sorting, eggs still must be packed and other chores tended to.

He also raises beef cattle, and sells maple syrup.

Saunders is a lifelong Ironton resident. He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1947.

Mrs. Saunders is the former Sally McNeal. They have four children: Virginia, 10; Susan, 8; Diane, 4; and Blain, 1.

JERRY DOHN stands by as a conveyor belt feeds eggs into automated egg gathering machine and delivers them to sorting table.

Farm Bureau Poultry Profit Package-

A Program Worth "Crowing About"!

The basic objective of Farm Bureau Services Poultry Profit Package is to give the Michigan producer his best opportunity for profit. All factors of production — buildings, equipment, pullets, feed, financing, etc. . . . are included fully when they meet the test of quality and economy. These production factors then become part of the basic concept of the Entire Egg Marketing Division that includes:—

1. The securing of greater bargaining power for Michigan egg producers.
2. The maintenance of the Michigan egg market for Michigan egg producers.
3. The prevention of the integration of poultry production by outside sources that may not have the welfare of the producer as their primary interest.

The Egg Marketing Division of Farm Bureau Service, Inc. thus dedicates itself to provide for the Michigan egg producer a program that will give him the highest return on his capital and labor.

Close to 50% of all eggs eaten in Michigan are shipped into the State from other egg-producing areas. It is this startling fact that the Board of Directors of Farm Bureau Services wished to eradicate when it formed the Egg Marketing Division. New markets for Michigan-produced eggs are being daily created through the Division. This carton is appearing in more supermarkets throughout the State. More and more housewives are demanding the high quality of the eggs found in this carton and displaying the Fresh Fancy Quality emblem.

Farm Bureau Services, Inc. has two egg processing plants located to efficiently serve the poultryman, as well as serving the market for the eggs he produces. The top illustration is that of the plant located in Jenison and the lower one that of the Brighton plant. Each one is completely equipped with the most efficient storage, grading, and packing facilities in the State. Each one has a Federal egg grader on duty during every working hour. This person tests sample eggs from each shipment to assure that all standards of the Fresh Fancy Quality grade are met.

No Threat to Water Supply

Closely watched Lake Michigan water levels do not threaten Charlevoix's drinking water supply, City Supt. James Taylor told councilmen last week.

Taylor pointed out Lake Michigan would have to drop another two feet before it would cause trouble with the city's water pumping and treatment plant.

A TWO-FOOT DROP in the lake would be a major dilemma for hundreds of communities, he explained. Such a drop is not anticipated by anyone.
 Predictions are the lake will start rising again, from its current low level.

Signup Time For Feed Grain

BOYNE CITY.—Farmers will have an opportunity to sign up in the 1964 feed grain program early in February, according to Robert W. Reidel, Chairman, Charlevoix Area Committee. The sign-up period will be for 7 weeks, from February 10 through March 27.

As in previous years, the chairman explained, the feed grain program is voluntary and each individual producer on farms growing one of the feed grains covered by the program will make his own decision about whether to take part. The program is available for corn and barley.

Chairman Reidel points out that no major improvements have been made in the 1964 crop feed grain program as compared with programs of previous years.

1.—As much as 50 per cent of the total feed grain base may be diverted on any farm. This is up from the 1963 maximum of 40 per cent of the feed grain base.

2.—The average payment per acre for diverting 40 percent or more of the base will be substantially higher than last year.

Real Estate Sales Up to $1.5 Million

Real estate sales hit a million dollar-plus pace in the Charlevoix area last year, according to figures just released by assistant postmaster Dan Geneit.

Geneit announced that Charlevoix Post Office records for 1963 indicate $1,460,000 worth of real estate changed hands in the area.

THIS FIGURE, he pointed out, is based on the sale of $1,606 worth of documentary stamps. These stamps are primarily used as federal tax on deed transfers of property.

Total postal receipts were up almost $9,000 over 1962, Geneit reported. The post office took in $61,384.08 in postal receipts in 1963. Receipts for 1962 totaled $52,973.71.

Non-postal receipts were more than double postal receipts. They totaled $124,809.23 for such services as money orders ($121,194.78), waterfowl hunting stamps, and documentary stamps.

Postal receipts include stamps, bank postage and post office box rentals. The major increase in postal receipts was due to the first class postage, going from four cents to five cents, Geneit explained. Stamp sales totaled $39,000.

The three bids, ranging from $483 to $761, will be studied to see that they meet specifications before they are awarded, Supt. Rex Milligan explained.

Church Gains New Members

The First Congregational Church of Charlevoix announced its financial gains for 1963.

The church gained 41 new members during the year, which was termed "one of the largest gains in a single year." Total membership at the end of 1963 was 281.

ATTENDANCE RECORDS were broken for the second Sunday in April, second and fourth Sundays of November and fourth Sunday in December. Average attendance in July was 214 and 244 in August, the two biggest months. Lowest average weekly attendance was 100 in February.

Antrim Parents Eye Annexation

Antrim County parents groups have stepped up their interest in joining the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District or Central Traverse Intermediate School District.

Charlevoix - Emmet district Superintendent Charles Robinson reports he has been asked to speak at Ellsworth and Central Lake PTA meetings on the subject.

"WE'RE NOT TRYING to sell them on joining us," Robinson told the Courier. "I have only told them what we can offer them."

"I hope they will pick the district that will bring the most benefit to their children."

Antrim county citizens will vote on joining one of the districts. When they will vote is unknown. Robinson expects no decision to be made on when the vote will be held until after the coming session of the legislature.

Sundew Report

The U.S.C.G. Cutter Sundew departed Charlevoix Monday on what should have been the beginning of ice breaking operations for 1964.

However, due to the strange weather recently, there is little, if any, ice for the ship to "conquer." Needing other fields to endeavor, the Sundew was ordered to assist in replacing independent generator units at Pelee Island light station in northern Lake Huron. If the weather again cooperates, this task should be completed in a week or less.

WHEN THE ICE BREAKER is finished, the Sundew will report to Commander Task Group Oil Control, with headquarters at Chicago, for ice breaking duties, it says. The Sundew will join five other Coast Guard vessels in making the Oil Control Task Group which is employed in keeping Lake Michigan open to oil tanker traffic.

Some ice was encountered earlier in the southern reaches of the lake but at the present there is very little ice anywhere. However, if the temperature should take a plunge, there will be plenty of work for all members of Operation Oil Can.

In The Beginning

... God created all things. He gave us science and He gave us religion ... they never conflict. His words and His works harmonize. He can perform both scientific and spiritual miracles. God can take the nucleus, the cell, the molecule and get staggering results. He can also take a body that has almost gone to hell and convert it into a man. The laboratory and the human body are the Lord's work shops. He can pull a switch and set it all to work. He is still saying ... "My thoughts are not as your thoughts; neither are your ways my ways." His church on the corner is a good place to learn that fancied discords blend in perfect harmony. Won't you attend services somewhere this week?

This up-and-down weather can have its drawbacks, however. It just might drive the evening guests Barney Engdahl has been holding out at Camp Charlevoix to winter further north next year.

EDITH HARRIS HAS some interesting observations on winter. She left us this advice for city dwellers and merchants:

"Quit worrying about where our enemies are going to land, and think more about where our friends are landing, now. De-ice

"I believe every citizen should take part in government at all levels and serve where they feel they can contribute something for the benefit of the majority," Hawley said.

HUGH MAYNE

A life time resident of Charlevoix, City Clerk Hugh Mayne, 64, lives at 115 E. Garfield. He and his wife Catherine, have two children, Roberta Albright, 24, and Lynette, 20. A bookkeeper at Erber Oil Co., he is a graduate of Charlevoix High School.

She has held offices in all of these organizations except the Community Chest. Before running for treasurer in 1960, Miss Cunningham was deputy city treasurer for 26 years.

WALTER F. HOFFMAN
Walter Hoffman, 54, a dentist, is making his second bid for Alderman from the second ward. He was defeated in his first attempt last year. He and his wife, Virginia, live at 102 Park. They have been in Charlevoix 12 years.

HE HOLDS DEGREES, including Doctor of Dental Surgery, from the University of Michigan and

Hoffman said he decided to run for office at the request of "some of the electorate of the second and third wards and because I personally feel that I can contribute something to Charlevoix."

He outlined his extensive education and exposure to varied experiences, along with civic pride, financial faith in the community and a sincere effort to make Charlevoix a still better place in which to live, work and play as well as something to Charlevoix.

Chamber Secretary Manager Dean Dayenport said the board of directors, voted to go along with the majority, which is the 37 favoring the change.

Dayenport said 56 non-chamber members also stated they would prefer the festival be held on Friday and Saturday.

...the Friday-Saturday arrangement doesn't work this year, Dayenport said, the festival can be changed back to Saturday and Sunday next year, or extended to three days.

...the majority of the invested money will have to be withdrawn in July when a bond payment is due. It will earn interest until then. The investments will be split 50-50 between the two local banks.

MILLIGAN PRESENTED a detailed breakdown of spending and the amount budgeted. It supported the report that the budget is on the way to balancing at year's end.

This follows, with the amount budgeted for the total year in the first figure, the amount spent is the second figure, and the amount remaining to spend during the school year is the last figure in each category.

Elementary Instruction — $127,031 budgeted, $60,104 spent. Leaving $66,926 in the budget.

Secondary Instruction — $134,170 budgeted, $68,113 spent. Leaving $66,056.

Administration — $18,703, $10,703, $7,996.

Health — $2,725, $1,593, $1,131.

TRANSPORTATION — $28,851, $10,851, $17,999.

Building Operation — $50,720, $29,626, $21,093.

Building Maintenance, $9,100, $1,196, $4,903.

Capital Outlay — $7,200, $5,075, $2,124.

Community services — $9,175, $3,818, $5,356.

...it is difficult to fight a shadow for there seems not to be any critical issues or matters of controversy on the local scene. There do exist, however, many areas worthy of exploration and promotion, which could readily be issues," Hoffman stated.

Hoffman outlined the following specific issues and his stand on them.

TAXATION — THE city/summer rate I feel can be reduced by $1 per thousand on state equalized valuation. Such a rate would put us in line with that of Petoskey, whose present rate is lower than ...that of Charlevoix.

Recreation — Building of some tennis courts. Exploring possibility of lighting the golf course for night play and to be paid for by the issuance of revenue bonds.

Information — An informed public is vital to create an interested public. More publication of city records, financial, council, etc.

Annexation — Industrial activity on the fringe of the city would make it advisable for better control.

Industry — A happy courtship of industry and resort.

City development — Creation of a city planning commission.

man, Ralph Giam, formerly of Charlevoix, was chairman until he moved to Traverse City last fall.

Rebman, county extension, service director said the commission has not set regular meeting dates. Meetings are open to the public.

THE VACANCY on the commission, caused by Giam's resignation, will be filled at the April meeting of the County Board of Supervisors.

The commission was created by an official resolution of the supervisors at its October meeting.

The commission was charged with coordinating and planning future Charlevoix County growth and development to see that it is orderly and in the best interest of the entire county.

Rebman said, he expects next week's meeting to be the last to deal with organization. Thereafter he said, the group will be ready to deal with county planning.

ONE OF THE first proposals to come before it is expected to be a plan to create a huge artificial lake for recreation use out of the Bear River, between Walloon Lake village and Petoskey.

★ Harbor

way, the city must complete negotiations with the Michigan Waterways Commission. The commission tentatively has agreed to pay half of all costs. There is some hope it can be convinced to pay more of the project.

Though the Waterways Commission has shared costs of Charlevoix harbor development on a 50-50 basis in the past, it is said to have contributed more than one-half in other communities.

No cost estimates on what the entire project will come to have been made. When the engineering study is completed, these figures will be available.

COMPLETION OF THE project, probably in the spring of 1965, will see the entire west shore of Round Lake, from the channel to Antrim St., developed for public boating.

Sandra Griswold Wed In Grandville Rites

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Jay Vandenberg have returned to make their home at 505 S. St. in Grandville, following a wedding trip through Canada and New York.

The couple was married at the First Baptist Church in Grandville Jan. 31.

THE BRIDE is the former Sandra Kay Griswold, daughter of Mrs. David T. Griswold of Grandville. Mr. and Mrs. Deibert Zandbergen, Sr. also of Grandville are the parents of the bridegroom.

The Rev. Ralph Manning officiated at the service before an altar decorated with white gladioli and ferns. Cornelius Jonker was the ring bearer and Marilyn Meier the flower girl.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, W. F. Meyer, of Charlevoix, selected a gown of white satin and Chantilly lace for her wedding. The fitted bodice, round neckline and elbow length sleeves were tipped with lace and the full skirt ended in a long train. Her veil fell from a large rose comb. She carried an arrangement of white roses, carnations and stephanotis.

Sandra Van Dyke was maid of honor and Mrs. Carol Tilma, Marcia Vandenberg and Marsha Vrugink were bridesmaids. They wore identical floor length gowns of bright blue velvet, matching blue pillbox hats and carried white bouquets to which arrangements of white carnations tied in matching blue were pinned.

DEIBT AND DESIE Zandbergen, twins, who were the niece and nephew of the bridegroom, were dressed in costumes identical to the bride and groom.

Ronald F. Zandbergen, twin brother of the bridegroom, was best man. Deibert Zandbergen Jr., William VanTulmen and Norman Tilma acted as groomsmen.

Mrs. Griswold wore a blue ensemble and matching accessories and an orchid corsage for her daughter's wedding. Mrs. Zandbergen, mother of the bridegroom, wore a dusty rose dress, matching accessories and a gardenia corsage.

Immediately following the wedding a reception was held in the church parlors. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Smith Jr. of Charlevoix, uncle and aunt of the bride, were master and mistress of ceremonies. They were assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Prochovitz.

IN GRAND RAPIDS the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Meyer, Mr. and Mrs. Smith and three daughters and Richard Meyer.

Nurse's Charm Work Wonders on Patients

By FIAN MAITIN

She's been good medicine for the patients," is the opinion of the entire staff at Charlevoix Hospital.

As for the patients, their comments have been varied but they all agree that Nurse's Charm is a patient who tells under her spell while she is there recently, probably stated it most aptly when he said "We all love her. You can't help but care for her."

WHO IS SHE? A petite brown-eyed nurse from halfway around the world in the Philippines, Mrs. Ernesto Andalis, who used to be a nurse in the Philippines, came here to Northern Michigan when she came here to join her husband, a steward aboard the Coast Guard Cutter Sandew.

Mrs. Andalis, the former Melba Caparros of Alabat in the Province of Quezon, came to this country in December, 1961 to take a Post Graduate course in Pediatrics at Cook County Hospital in Chicago.

In making her decision to come to the United States, she became the first of her family to leave the island because I have a sense of adventure," she explained in perfect English, spoken with a charming accent, typical of her home, Iland.

After completing her work at Cook County Hospital, one of the largest in the U. S., she went to Detroit where she joined the nursing staff at Grace Hospital.

THOUGH BOTH SHE and her husband came from the Province of Quezon and studied at the University of the Philippines, it was not until she went to the U. S. Public Health Hospital in Detroit to visit a friend's husband that she met Ernesto, also a patient there. This was in February, 1963.

He recovered from his illness and returned to duty aboard the Cutter Sandew. However, his frequent trips to Detroit in the ensuing months resulted in their marriage in October. She came here to join him in mid-December. A short time later, she became a regular staff member at the Charlevoix Hospital, where her patients, young and old, love her.

"My family was upset when I told them I was to be married. They had expected me in time of life here and return home. When I came to the States I really hadn't planned to marry here. Now they will have to wait until Ernie's enlistment is up two years from now," she answered in reply to a question regarding her stay here.

She refuses to make any predictions regarding their future. . . . both have families who want them to return, but both like it here. However, for the present, they will remain here (in the U. S., but not necessarily in Charlevoix) until Ernesto's enlistment is up.

BEFORE DECIDING to do something about her wanderlust, Mrs. Andalis had completed a year of college in preparation for entering the University of the Philippines School of Nursing. After three years she became a registered nurse and then decided to study in nursing for a B.S. in nursing which took another two years for she attended night classes while working as a nurse.

Three years later she made her decision to come here to do post graduate work in pediatrics, leaving behind her mother, Mrs. Maxima Caparros, a retired nurse who lives at Alabat; two brothers, Rodolfo, a doctor of medicine who also lives in Alabat, and Remondito, a civil engineer with the highway department in Manila, and three sisters, Mrs. Dionisio (Alicia) Lim, a certified public accountant and lawyer, Mrs. Lyman (Lydia) Mesa, a math teacher in Manila and Myrna, the youngest member of the family who is studying pharmacy at the University of the Philippines. Like her sister, she also hopes to come to this country following graduation.

Her father, a pharmacist, whom she hardly remembers, was killed during World War II while fighting with the guerrillas during the Japanese occupation of the Philippines, leaving her mother to raise the family.

Her husband, when everyone calls Ernie, is from Andagan in Quezon Province where his father is a supervisor of parks and a game warden, a position comparable to one with the Conservation Department or Forestry Service here. He had hoped his son would follow in his footsteps but after three years in the U. S. College of Agriculture, he left school to join the U. S. Coast Guard. After completing boat training at Alameda, Cal., he was assigned to the Ninth C. G. District and ended up at Charlevoix.

THUS, PATIENTS at the Charlevoix Hospital are meeting for the first time a visitor from across the seas and learning a little more about this world which is getting smaller every day.

DARING SPORT THRIVES HERE

Charlevoix Ice Boat Center

Summer power boat speedsters are slow-pokes compared to a half-dozen hearty year-around Charlevoixians who do their boating in the winter.

These cold weather adventurers will travel across Lake Charlevoix at double the speed achieved by most fair-weather boaters.

AND THEY DON'T RELY on a single motorized assist. They're ice boaters.

Through the years ice boaters have gained a reputation for daring and stamina accorded few other Midwestern sportsmen.

Charlevoix boasts of the largest—and some say fastest—ice boat fleet in this part of Northern Michigan. According to the best reports available no other town this far north along Lake Michigan has as many ice boats.

There are six boats in the Charlevoix fleet. They are owned by Mayor E. D. Hawley, Elmer Gibson, Bob Neff, Bob Hamilton, David Patric and Bill Novotny.

VISITING WEEKEND skiers are often seen sitting in their cars at the Ferry Ave. boat launching ramp watching the high speed ice skimmers virtually fly across Lake Charlevoix. They sometimes reach speeds of up to 90 mph.

Take plank, hull and spar, trim it with hardware and Dacron, place it on a frozen lake in a medium breeze and you have the recipe for this thrill-a-minute winter sport.

The interest in ice yachting on Michigan waters is becoming more and more a winter group activity with the development of multi-place craft and promotion of the sport by several Michigan ice yachting clubs and associations.

according to the Michigan Tourist Council.

Several decades ago, amateur ice boaters threw a couple of cross beams together, topped it with canvas and nailed on runners, then laid out a plank where the operator stretched out and guided the craft with a stern-steered tiller. According to present-day standards, the device was economical but without nautical knowledge and balance was very dangerous.

SINCE THEN, ICE boating has come into its own in Michigan with the help of scientifically engineered craft and the development of the sport by interested groups.

Michigan's contribution to ice yachting places the state as a leader in the nation. Of the four most popular, standard boats—the DN, Arrow, Renegade and Skeeter—two were developed in the Detroit area.

In 1937, faced with the challenge of creating a small, economical, easy to build and handle boat, a group of Detroit men fashioned a craft in the Detroit News-Craftsman Shop. The boat was an instant success and has become well known by the initials of the newspaper which fostered it.

The Arrow was created in 1939 by Howard Boston, a Mt. Clemens sailmaker, who saw the need for a two-place ice boat to serve the interest in family recreation. Surpassing the family need, the Arrow soon became one of the fastest ice yachts in competition.

ALTHOUGH THE highest interest in Michigan ice yachting is in the Lake St. Clair area, the sport is also extremely popular at inland lakes near Kalamazoo, Jackson, Pontiac and Holland as well as in the Saginaw Bay region. Rough estimates indicate that between 500 and 600 persons are involved in Michigan competition, and the bulk of these—around 400—are among the DN boaters.

Sooner or later even the most novice boat owners will find themselves engaged in some kind of competition. Regattas and championship events are staged throughout the state, sometimes as late as early March, depending on the weather and ice conditions. The seasons usually begin right after Christmas.

Weather plays an important part in the sport. About four inches of ice is ample to support the speedy craft, and a wind velocity of between 15 to 20 mph is considered ideal for racing. Regattas have been held, however, in a 35 mph wind. The best ice yachting requires a minimum amount of snow.

Those who want to become involved in this speedy sport of riding the wind over glassy ice will find the initial investment comparatively low. For about $300 a beginner can obtain a used DN. For build his own boat, staying close to the blueprint specifications and directions. The top investment in an ice yacht might go as high as $2,500.

SAFETY IS THE watchword among ice boaters, and prior to competition, the course is carefully checked for soft ice, holes, and debris on the surface. Cloning on the ice—usually by the novice—is not tolerated and the infrequent instances are quickly policed by the more seasoned boaters who help patrol each other.

Public Will Get Chance to Review New Library Books

A complete breakdown of new books purchased for the public and school libraries, and their cost was promised at Monday's Board of Education meeting.

Mrs. L. R. Hooper, board member and chairman of the Library Advisory Committee, asked that the report be prepared as soon as possible.

MRS. HOOPER said she feels the public should be kept informed on what books are purchased.

Sen. Rex Milligan said the report is in the process of being prepared. He, and other board members, indicated complete agreement with Mrs. Hooper.

Milligan estimated more than $700 has been spent on new library books so far. The board, on the library committee's recommendation December 1, authorized purchase of at least $3,000 worth of new books.

Mrs. Hooper suggested that the breakdown of book purchases clearly show what books were ordered on the request of teachers and which for adult readers.

MRS. HOOPER SAID Arthur Skelton has offered to donate a new set of Junior Encyclopedia Britannica to the library.

The board agreed to seek bids on installing a hot water heater in the library. Cost is expected to be no more than $150.

It was also decided the next major improvements should be removing lower eaves, renowing upper eaves, face board, drip strip and other deteriorated parts, pointing the masonry exterior masonry walls, and repairing gutter hangers. Cost is estimated at $2,150.

Rayders Lose

The Boyne City Ramblers, fourth place in the league before Tuesday's game, tepped the Charlevoix Rayders into a three-way tie for the league lead as they defeated the local quintet 59-54.

The visitors ferried into an early lead and held on 17-16 at the quarter before the Rayders came back for a 33-39 halftime advantage. As the game went into the second half, the Ramblers scored Charlevoix 18-16 to cut the Rayder lead to 49-48 before taking over 11-5 in the final period.

BOTH TEAMS scored 22 field goals but the Ramblers hit on 15 of 26 free throw attempts as Charlevoix committed 21 personal fouls. The Rayders hit on 10 of 19 attempts as the Ramblers had 15 personal fouls, called.

Warren Belding with 12 points led the scoring for Charlevoix followed by Bruce Kroken with 11, Gary Stutsman, eight, Dave Norton and Del Terrill, six each; Ken Parrish and Dave Smith, four each and Jim Uhrick, three.

Parrish left the game in the second period after twisting his back as he turned to shoot. The injury kept him on the bench.

The Rayders held Fern Spreull to 14 points but Ren Hausler and Bruce Lawton came through with 13 each to compensate for the loss.

CHARLEVOIX'S J-V's came through with a 35-32 win over the Boyne Reserves after the regulation game had ended in a 32-32 tie. Neil Cross broke the tie with a bucket and a free throw in the overtime for the win.

Cross also paced the game with 11 points. Ron Crozier had 16 for the victors.

TIPS FROM THE TACKLE BOX

by B.F. GLADDING

More Fish For The Pan
THE RIGHT RIG, plus a simple gimmick or come-on, will bring you more bites from yellow perch, bluegills and other pan fish.

Use a small hook—No. 10 or 12—on a 6-ft. level leader that tests between 2 and 4 pounds. Most important, use no sinker at all, not even as much as a single split shot.

The "gimmick" of using such light terminal tackle to best advantage consists of nothing more than making repeated casts. Since the small hook and wisp leader will have little effect on your worm or other natural bait, the latter will settle slowly and naturally. Give it time to reach bottom, then bring it in and let it sit again.

It's the slow, realistic settling that turns the trick. Pan fish may not be as wary as trout, but they are nevertheless suspicious of bait that dangles unnaturally from a bobber. On the other hand, they find it hard to resist a worm or grub that drifts slowly down from above, convincingly free from all signs of restraint.

In addition, movement always attracts attention. Your slowly sinking bait will win instant notice from all pan fish in the vicinity, and a good share of these will wind up on your stringer.

City Seeks Congressman's Help

Want More Work on Pier
Into Harbor

Congressman Victor Knox, (Rep., Sault Ste. Marie), will be asked to use his influence to get work done on the Pine River channel piers.

City Councilmen decided on Monday to ask for Knox's help.

THE ARMY CORPS of Engineers contends it does not have funds available to improve the north pier. The Corp has been authorized to spend $150,000 on Pine River channel work, but this does not include the city's request.

Specifically, Councilmen feel the north pier should be extended further westward into Lake Michigan.

This, they predict, would make it easier for large boats to enter the channel, especially with a following sea.

Large boats often have a difficult time maneuvering into position to enter the channel. Extending the north pier would, reportedly, improve this.

North Will Get More Natural Gas

Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. this week reported the size of its Northern District will almost double this year.

The company will build pipelines to serve 42 cities and townships, including Alpena, Tawas and Gaylord. An estimated 500 miles of mains and transmission lines will be required to extend natural gas to these areas.

THROUGHOUT THE state, the company reported it will spend $56,271,000 for construction.

Charlevoix Rolls Over Vikings

RAYDER CAGE PROFILES

CHS Glad to Have Two Smiths

"It's said that every good team should have at least one Smith on it for luck. . . . Charlevoix has two Dave (left) and Don, both 16 and 17th juniors.

However, that is where the similarity ends.

Dave likes all sports but his real love is football. "Mainly because it's more fun, the competition is easier, and the physical requirements greater." He should know because he's played the game for three years, including two on the Varsity squad and one on the Varsity team. Last fall, he was one of the most consistent ground gainers in the Rayder backfield. He is now looking forward to next fall and is marking time until the season opens August 31.

Meanwhile, he plays basketball, making his own contribution to the Rayders whose place at the top of the heap is the result of the combined efforts of 15 players. Come spring, he'll be out for track, running the half mile, "to keep in shape for football," the chief reason he swims and water skis during the summer months.

Dave feels that things like teamwork and learning to work and play together are an important part of growing up. Like the majority of today's youngsters, he has a good idea right now what he wants. It includes going on to college, "Michigan State if I can make it and playing football there if I'm good enough." In the classroom his favorite subject is math but he hopes to go into medicine and become a doctor. He plays chess with the high school band and is a member of the Varsity club.

Came game night, whether football or basketball, he has his own cheering section in his parents, the Clarence Smiths, his little sister Barbara, and his brother, Steve, a freshman who is following in Dave's footsteps, sports-wise. Dave is hopeful that before he graduates in June, 1965 he and Steve can be on the same starting line-up either on the football team or the basketball court.

The second Smith on the squad is Don who plays basketball because he likes it. "I know I'm not the greatest player, but I feel that everyone has something to contribute to a team. If I can do my bit, even if it's only making the first stringers work a little harder during practice because we second and third stringers threaten to replace them, then I think it's worthwhile," was Don's comment on why he stays out for basketball though he seldom if ever, gets to start. "And next year, maybe I'll be good enough to start if I try hard enough."

"Everyone agrees that our team has come as far as it has because of the spirit and the desire to play that all the players have. I just want to do my part in making it a better team if I can," Don added.

Don likes football, too, but a neck injury early in the season sidelined him but he's looking forward to returning to the gridiron in the fall. "Maybe this year I won't estimate the opponent's ability by his size and protect myself a little better than I did last fall," he commented.

He thinks participating in sports is important because it teaches one to get along with people and that you have to work hard to get anything that's worthwhile.

Don has played softball with the Barnard teams, first with the Braves of the Peanut league and, when his work schedule allowed, with the Class B team. "We country boys have done alright in softball. We've won more than our share of trophies in both leagues," he said with pride.

Don's interests in sports extends to writing about them. He's the sports editor for the Crimson Flash, the school publication, and the staff of the annual, the Rayder. He is presently serving as vice president of the Varsity Club.

Like the others, he plans to continue his education, possibly Michigan State, where his older brother is enrolled as a freshman. He thinks he'd like to go into social work of some kind or, he added, "I might do something in politics. I think there is a great need in this field for people who are truly interested in government. I think I'd like it."

Meanwhile his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carlton Smith, and his little sister, Jeanne, like parents of all the team members, scurry around on game night in order to get to the gym to cheer their son and brother, in the event he gets into the line-up.

Stutzman Paces Scoring As Rayders Stay on Top

The Charlevoix Rayders continued to lead the Northern Michigan Class C league Friday after knocking off the Grayling Vikings by a score of 63-48.

The Rayders held a 10-9 first period advantage over the Vikings before forging into a 31-15 advantage at halftime and 46-31 going into the final period.

GARY STUTZMAN paced the scoring for the Rayders with 24 points followed by Bruce Kroken with 13; Warren Belding with 12; Jim Uhrick with six; Ken Parrish, who saw only limited action, three; Del Terrill and Jack Uhrick, two each and Dave Smith, one.

Dave Norton was the fifth starter. Others who saw action were Pete Ance, Randy Carey, Don Smith, John Bleha and Tom Maxwell.

Curt Feldhauser had 11 points for Grayling.

Charlevoix's J.V. squad racked up its sixth win of the season Friday when they downed the Grayling Reserves 59-43.

The young Rayders had to come from behind to win after getting off to a slow start and trailing 10-6 at the quarter.

THEY FOUND the range as the second period got underway to make a 25-22 halftime lead which they increased to 38-34 going into the final eight minutes.

Steve Smith paced the game for the local lads, scoring 16 points. He was followed by Mark Bourgois with 14; Neil Cross with 12; Larry Skippergosh, John Ferguson and Andy Peters with six each.

Others who saw action were Stewart Cunningham, Aaron Brock and Gary Crain.

Tom Wright had 15 and Jack Neal 14, for the Vikings.

Dear Dick Affair

RICHARD DONALDSON

"TAKE A SHOWER"

Dear Dick: My husband, a doctor, treats the strangest cases. One of his lady patients got a toe stuck in the bath tub drain and he spent two and a half hours at her home dressing her toe, giving sedatives, etc. (HE says). There are hundreds more of these similar incidents that make me, NAUSEATED.

DEAR NAUSEATED: Maybe your husband's patients should stick to shower baths. A doctor does have to treat unusual cases, but your hubby seems a little over-attentive. Speaking of attention, you got it when you walk into PUFF'S APPLIANCE CENTER. And when you buy a whirlpool appliance, you can be sure of top service after the sale.—DICK.

Let's Live Up to Con-Con's Intent

THAT MICHIGAN'S NEW constitution neglects to spell out the election procedure for instituting four year terms for county officers is, indeed, unfortunate. But it is by no means cause for crisis.

Legislators and union employers are already making a concerted push to abort the State's new basic law. They had their chance to defeat it at the polls. Having lost, they now attempt to confuse the public with raging howls

Abhor Change

MOST OF US ARE willing to go along with the stream of traffic. Most of us are happy with the status quo. Then along comes some screwball who wants to change us.

These advocates of change are the few who encouraged Wilbur and Orville Wright. The vast majority, the people with their feet solidly on the ground realized even then though that had God intended man to fly he would have equipped them with wings.

HAD IT NOT been for the fact that Wilbur and his crowd was so insistent, the bottom might not have dropped out of the buggy-whip business and we would not now be burdened with all those unemployed buggy-whip makers.

The trouble is the vast majority of us are wishy-washy and allow ourselves to be dragged, kicking and howling into the future. Our problem in the year to come is going to be the same as problems in years past. We must resist change at all cost. We must not allow the screwballs with their new ideas to influence us. Those of us who know the thing won't fly must see to it that it does not fly.

Teachers' Report A Public Service

THE OTHER DAY A City Councilman demanded to know why we give so much favorable editorial space to the Charlevoix Public Schools. He didn't particularly like it. So be it. He should be even more upset this week, because here we go again.

WE CAN DO nothing but applaud the teaching and administrative staff of Charlevoix schools for their interest in keeping parents and taxpayers informed. Our "School Report Card" feature on this page every week, is an outstanding example of teacher dedication to the community as well as students. We have seen such features before. In other newspapers serving both smaller and larger school systems teachers write weekly reports. In many such cases their reports are dull, poorly thought out and sloppily written. When we offered the school professional staff the opportunity to use this page to tell education's story we had our doubts. This space is extremely valuable to the Courier. We feared the teachers' efforts would not meet the quality of public service we feel our editorial page must serve.

We happily found we could forget our doubts. The teachers are doing a better job than we have ever witnessed.

Boulder Park Owners Has Fears

TO THE EDITOR:

We, in Boulder Park, whose proximity to the proposed Medusa Portland Cement plant, bridge and dock are most affected by this construction, never have been informed as to their plans. It is quite by chance your article came to our attention at a time when we were dispersed and unable to protest as a body.

I am certain that the Boulder Park Association, consisting of summer residents of the Charlevoix area, (and taxpayers with no voice in local government since our legal residences are elsewhere) would, as a body, condone this protest.

WHITE DUST (take a look at Petoskey), noisy trucks, hideous docks, just beyond our summer homes! The mayor approves, but does he live there? You approve, but do you live there? Charlevoix is primarily a resort area, but for how long. Isn't it time for Charlevoix to decide whether it wants to be a resort or a factory town? Isn't it just such scenic beauty that Senator Hart is positioning the federal government to purchase and preserve for future generations?

For two years I, personally, have protested to township authorities about the trucks using the lake road to haul sand and gravel from this area. They begin at 7 a.m., two at a time, sides clanking and banging, and proceed to the point, returning an hour later. The township supervisor's reply was "How can we stop them?" So, if a minor annoyance cannot be rectified, what do you plan on doing with a major one? Annexation is your solution. We would protest that too!

Anne M. Harsha,
Boulder Park Assn.
Secretary

Can't Resist

TO THE EDITOR:
About due to hoist anchor and start rowing again. So will you please resume addressing Courier to our Charlevoix address and we hope the postoffice will forward it so that we will ultimately not miss a copy 'cause, dog-gone it, it's become too interesting to miss. Gotta beef about something tho, so here goes, it cuts into our recreation time this year . . . there is so much we can't resist reading.

TO THE EDITOR:

I wish to renew my Courier subscription. Enclosed is my check for four dollars. Thanking you in advance.

We enjoy the Courier very much. Would like to have Courier readers make note of our new address: 1624 N. Genesee Dr., Lansing, Mich. We formerly lived in Clearwater, Fla. Plan to be in Charlevoix in early June.

'N'

Ends

By FRAN MARTIN

The barometer's on its way down and we may be in for some rugged weather . . . but at the moment I can't help but mention the fact that we've been enjoying the kind of days that one might expect in late March or early April . . . bright sunshine, temperatures in the 40's, most of the snow in this area gone, cold nights . . . all climaxed with colorful sunsets . . .

We know it can't last but we're all enjoying it while it's here . . . knowing that with each beautiful day we're one day closer to spring . . .

EVERN THE SUNDAY cruised out of the harbor Thursday morning to take a look-see at the ice conditions in the area of the light stations . . . for it won't be long 'til they'll be manned and the buoys will be back in the lake . . . in readiness for the navigation season . . . Some contrast to last year.

Was out at the hospital the other day when I happened to hear some one say "Most people wear their hearts on their sleeves, if they're going to display them, but me, I wear mine here!" I turned around just in time to see my friend, John Bos of Atwood, showing the nurses the "timer" that he's wearing on the outside of his tummy just below the rib cage . . . I don't know all the technical angles of the gadget that sets the tempo of his heart but I'm sure you've heard about it . . . the gadget that sets the tempo of the heart beat when your heart loses its own . . . One of the wonders of modern science . . . He was the center of attraction as he explained its workings . . . and everyone was happy for him that modern research and developments had added years to his life . . .

For those newcomers to town who have the idea that winter sports are something new to this area, I'd advise that you stop by and take a look in the windows at the Polly Kay shop where its owners have a number of pictures dating back to the mid-1920's when Charlevoix was the winter sports center of the north . . . there was a ski run on the south side of Mt. McSaba where the skier had to be an expert or break his neck . . . a toboggan slide that was one of the most exciting of all events, and, of course, the bobbed run from the North Bridge st. hill to the bridge . . . But that was before the streets were sanded and salted and there was traffic all winter long . . . but it was great sport, as those who remember it will tell you . . .

Many people wonder why Charlevoix didn't follow through on the idea . . . the major reason was that we do not have the snowfall here that lends itself to such an operation . . . The present time is a perfect example of that . . . the resorts away from Lake Michigan have snow and the weather is cold enough to make snow . . . where right here we have almost none . . . The big lake serves as a modifier, one might say, keeping us cool in summer and warm in winter . . . (Warner, for instance, than it is in Ironton, East Jordan, Boyne City, etc. . .) Added to that, the snow-laden clouds, crossing the lake do not release the "white gold" until it collides with this cold air farther inland . . . all very involved but so true . . .

IRISH COLEMAN, long before he was with the Michigan Tech. Corps, made a thorough study of this . . . and to prove his point of ten said "Why do you suppose Boyne Mountain was developed at Boyne Falls if the people involved hadn't found this to be true?" . . .

There are times we have snow, lots of it, but as a rule it comes later, is blown away faster by the nor'westers we get off Lake Michigan and disappears earlier in the spring . . .

All of Michigan was elated last week when a native son brought the first gold medal to the U. S. in the Olympics at Innsbruck . . . This area was especially happy for it seems that at one time Terry McDermott had lived briefly in Petoskey and later on returned there to participate in the Michigan Speedskating races held there in recent years . . . Charlevoix has a very special interest which few people know about . . . You probably noticed that at one time he attended Michigan Tech. . . While he was there Johnny Norton had him for a room-mate for one semester . . . What a small world, huh?

And speaking of the Olympics . . . on the sidelines, L. Doug Smith who ended up flying to Europe in January . . . a note from him written Jan. 29 brought the news that he'd seen all the pre-trials and was hoping to get a job with ABC-TV so he could see the Olympics.

Audio-Visual Tool Vital

By LARRIE TUOMELA

Elementary Teacher

Audio-visual education to many people means television or motion pictures. These are but two of the tools used in this field of education. There are many others which can be classified under the following headings: visual and auditory or a combination of both such as talking pictures.

Visual aids include globes, charts, maps, graphs, pictures, number lines, flash cards, slide and film strip projectors, and others. With the exception of the projector, the other aids are found in all rooms and each teacher determines their use.

AUDIO OR HEARING aids include record players, tape recorders, pianos, and simple musical instruments. These are especially useful in the primary grades. Each kindergarten has its own record player and records. In the music department a stereo-phonograph is used to encourage listening appreciation and understanding of good music.

All equipment found in the science department is included in this program. The upper elementary grades have access to a science laboratory which has such helps as magnets, tuning forks, bells, microscopes, magnifying lenses, etc. These are used extensively by grades three through six.

Trips to nearby establishments are also a part of the school program. These trips include visits to the library, a maple syrup producer, a grocery store, a dairy, the fish hatchery and others.

THE 16 MM SOUND movie projector is used extensively by all grades. The school has no films of its own so films are rented from various sources. The teachers for each grade determine what films they would like. Films are carefully chosen to fulfill a definite need.

Health films are chosen to teach good health habits, safety in the school and on the street, good manners, and good grooming.

Films for social studies, broaden the pupil's viewpoint by depicting and explaining the topography, industries, natural resources, customs, trade, and transportation of various countries.

Films for science are chosen to bring into the classroom concepts which cannot be shown any other way. To explain the various forms and effects of weather, weather films are shown. Conservation is stressed by showing films on conservation of soil, water, plant life, least two overhead projectors; now and animal life.

Soil conservation practices in the county are stressed by having local personnel explain and show slides of the work being done.

THE SCHOOL IS doing a fine job in this field. However, more equipment is necessary. At present there is one opaque projector shared by both schools whereas there should be at least one in each building. There should be at least two overhead projectors; now and animal life. Each room should have its own wall screen. No room in the elementary building has wall screen. At least one more film strip projector is needed. Suitable film strips in reading, arithmetic, social studies, science, and English would help. Two record players and suitable records are essential. One photocopier is necessary.

The teachers feel that with the added equipment the program would be improved.

Lift for Living

It's What You Believe

By REV. H. E. KOHN

We frequently hear someone say "It doesn't matter what you believe as long as you believe in SOMETHING." This statement is meant to stamp the speaker with two noble attributes: he is person of faith, and he is broad-minded. Perhaps he is both, and yet either characteristic is insufficient in itself.

While such a declaration seems like a statement of faith, it merely denotes faith in faith itself, and not faith in anything higher, deeper and more lasting than a person's belief. It means only that one believes in belief.

IT IS A BROAD statement, too, broad like a certain swamp. I know, where the water spreads for miles, but it is only a few inches deep. The idea that belief has value apart from the object of one's belief is a swampy idea, shallow. For even a moment's thought will lead one to conclude that it does matter tremendously what one believes.

Let us briefly examine this widely held idea that what we believe matters little as long as we believe in something.

Is there any difference between snake-handling as an act of worship and holy communion as a sacrament? Of course there is, and the difference springs from a dissimilarity in belief. The snake handler is convinced that he is indulging in a valid way of testing and proving the strength of his religious faith. His belief prompts his weird action.

The communicant at the Lord's Supper believes that through sacred memories, glad thanksgiving, solemn and sincere consecration and the use of holy emblems he is partaking of genuine fellowship with God in Christ. His belief prompts his participation in the sacrament.

THE SNAKE HANDLING ceremony and the rite of Holy Communion are different in quality. The snake handler and the communicant behave differently because they believe differently.

Again, is there any difference between the behavior of George Custer toward the American Indians and the conduct of Marcus Whitman toward members of the same race? In 1868 Major General George A. Custer headed an expedition against Indian Chief Black Kettle who claimed to want peace with the whites. Custer and his men totally wiped out the Indian village and without any discrimination massacred men, women and little children. (Thus Custer and his men repeated an atrocity committed nine years before by white men under the command of William Darg and Isaac Haight. This band of whites, attacked a settlement of Indians and murdered one hundred and twenty men, women and children.)

Isn't there a clear difference between such atrocities and the gentle, kindly care given to Indians of the West Coast by the missionary doctor Marcus Whitman and his wife, Narcissa? The Whitmans eased the pains and healed the diseases of red men, and taught them to read and write, until they met their deaths at the hands of hostile natives. Custer and Whitman treated the Indians differently because they thought of them differently. Whitman placed a high value on an Indian's worth. What Custer and Whitman believed did make a difference.

Everyone agrees that what we do with our lives matters a great deal. What we believe matters then, too, because what we do depends upon what we believe. We shall believe selfishly or unselfishly, hatefully or helpfully, purposefully or aimlessly, helplessly or hopefully, depending upon whether we believe in an "I"-centered world or a God-centered universe—whether we believe that other are against us or others need us—whether we believe that life here is senseless or meaningful; whether we believe that ultimate man's wickedness or an unfeeling and uncaring fate rules the world or that a loving God does; whether we believe we are the creatures of a moment or we were meant for eternity. Action springs from belief. We shall act one way or another because we believe or way or another. Thus, belief matters.

DURING WORLD WAR I Theodore Roosevelt rediscovered his belief and behavior belong to each other. Roosevelt was proud of his three sons who had served their country during the early days of America's participation in the war. But like all parents, Roosevelt was apprehensive concerning the safety of his children. One evening during the war the former president and his wife were sitting in their living room when a telegram arrived from the Roosevelt's four sons, Quentin, informing his parents that he had enlisted in the army. Roosevelt was deeply troubled by the news and sat in brooding silence. Finally Mr. Roosevelt spoke to him saying: "Colonel, you cannot teach your boys to believe like eagles and now expect them to act like sparrows." Of course not. Belief in behavior belong together. Men behave courageously when they possess courageous convictions. Those who have fought bravely in war or against war, have possessed beliefs that made them brave. Matters what a person believes.

An almost illiterate, backwoods preacher is said to have stated that two essentials of the gospel are "believing it and behaving it."

We will "behave it" better when we believe it profoundly enough.

IT'S YOUR OPINION THAT COUNTS

Few Gripes on School Taxes

IT APPEARS THAT Charlevoix Public Schools will face little opposition in seeking support for renewing, and perhaps even increasing, taxes.

This conclusion is based on this week's Courier public opinion survey. Ten Charlevoix residents were called by the newspaper and asked their opinion of the Board of Education's appointment of a citizens committee to study future tax needs.

THE EIGHT MEMBER lay committee was asked to study the entire school picture, including future education needs and what it will cost to provide them. Taking all factors into consideration, including the present financial position of the district, the committee is expected to recommend how much millage should be sought in a special election this Spring.

The school district's 1.5-mill tax levy for operation expired last year. The Citizens Committee's job is to see if voters should be asked to simply continue this millage, or, perhaps, increase or reduce it.

The ten persons asked about the committee by the Courier either had no firm opinion, or thought it was a good idea. Most of them also endorsed the school district's need for money.

MRS. EVA GORMELL, 310 Clinton St. said she doesn't know if appointing the committee is the way to do the job. However, she was emphatic in her support for money for schools. Mrs. Gormell remarked that it seems like everything that is good for the schools is turned down. Almost everyone who has children wants what is good for them, she said.

MRS. KENNETH A. BALCH, 501 Sherman, said she feels the citizens committee should be able to determine what the public wants. She added that school, and other, taxes are often a burden on retired people but are not so bad for those who work.

Charlevoix's school district's tax deal is well outdated, according to ARNOLD COPELAND, N. Mercer Blvd. He feels the school needs more money for operation, and told the Courier the citizens committee seems like a good idea.

MRS. HARRY ENZINGA, 205 Mason, said she has been satisfied with the school taxes. She added that she feels appointing the committee is a fair way to come up with an answer.

Everyone should have their say in school affairs and take part in them, according to MRS. WILLIAM FELKNER, 537 Petoskey, a Coast Guardman's wife who will have her first child in school next Fall. Mrs. Felkner said she has a good impression of the local school system.

SHELBY R. GOSSE, 907 State, told the Courier he guesses the citizens committee is a good way to find out what the school needs, but he hasn't studied it thoroughly. Goss said that if the schools need more money, the voters usually give it to them.

The committee, MRS. GLENN INGALLS, 108 Clinton St., feels, should be able to find out what the taxpayers really want. She said in the past she has felt properly valuations were not fair.

MRS. LOUIS G. HOLM, 401 W. Garfield, said she thinks the committee is a pretty fair way to determine school tax needs. She said the schools have to have money to operate if children are going to learn.

If the citizens committee is qualified, CARL A. JOHNSON, 114 E. Upright, thinks it is a reasonable way to find out how much millage the schools should ask voters for. Johnson said he doesn't think present school taxes are too high.

MRS. KARL E. MILLER, 106 E. Hurlock, pointed out she hasn't given the citizens committee much thought, but is inclined to think it is ok. Mrs. Miller pointed out that people who pay taxes automatically think they are too high. But she contends that when people stop and think about what the school taxes are being used for they seem fair enough.

Your Opinion

The Courier firmly believes that it is the opinion of its readers that counts. Too often the public's opinion is ignored, and more commonly it is never solicited. This weekly feature is the Courier's way of overcoming this all too general small town weakness. So if you have a question on which you feel public opinion should be determined, let us know.

their league lead when they take on the Hornets, who with Harbor Springs are the defending champions.

If the Rayders have Ken Parrish back in the starting line-up, and Doug Winnell, sidelined with a lower leg injury, for depth and if the Rayders play heads-up ball, they should come through with a win, but not without an effort.

On Friday, the Hornets edged a determined Boyne City 72-71, winning the game from the free throw line after they were outscored 32-29 on field goals.

THE THIRD PLACE Harbor Springs Rams will be defending their place in loop standings when they take on Boyne City. The Rams, with a well-balanced team paced by George Lauer, who Friday poured in 35 points against the Ramblers may be able to wear them down for the Rams are lacking in depth.

The East Jordan Red Devils, though they have been playing some good ball recently, will be no match for the second place Gaylord Blue Devils whose only losses have been to Charlevoix and Grayling, who upset them 56-53. The Red Devils do have the distinction of stopping the Vikings so this could develop into quite a game. The Blue Devils' Tom Lick and Ron Snell, however, are expected to be too much for the Jordanites who last week were downed by Harbor Springs (84-64) while Gaylord was trimming Mancelona (66-35).

Stinging from their 63-48 loss to Charlevoix, the Grayling Vikings will likely vent their wrath on the cellar-dwelling Mancelona Ironmen who have yet to post a win this season.

North Country —Briefs—

Essential Northern Michigan News Highlights

BOYNE CITY — There's been a shake-up in personnel at City Hall.

Keith Stanley has been promoted to street department foreman. He replaces Roy McCleary who resigned to take a position with the Charlevoix County Road Commission. John Meyers, a radio dispatcher, is expected to replace Charles Urman as a city police patrolman. Urman has resigned. Patrolman Don Eggers is also leaving the police department, for military service. Don DeHart, a former motel operator, has been appointed to the Board of Review.

The changes in city personnel were explained by City Manager James Anthony. He said they were initiated due to the death of Lawrence Dillon.

EAST JORDAN — There are expected to be some hard thumbs ahead for East Jordan teachers and "oldtimers" this Saturday evening. Fifteen East Jordan High School cage stars of long ago — the "oldtimers" — will take on the school faculty members in a basketball game in the high school.

Expected to report for duty on the oldtimers squad are Chris, Bulow, Joe Hammond, Vale Gee, Hud Somerville, Jim Meredith, Bob DeHart, Spin Chak, Dick Dipinski and Harold Edson. Louis Chak is team manager.

GAYLORD — History is being made in Gaylord, at the expense of city water users. For the first time in known history the city is increasing water rates. They are going up approximately 20 percent. The rate hike was ordered by the Michigan Finance Commission to make the department self supporting.

BOYNE CITY — Two Boy Scouts, Jerome Rodger, 15, and Garry Faculak, 16, sparked a search along the Bear River. The boys started on a boat trip down the river. When they did not show up on time for the pickup car the Conservation Dept. launched a search. The boys showed up on their own, however. They were forced to abandon their boat due to ice and hike out.

EAST JORDAN — Music was in the spotlight at East Jordan this week. Last night East Jordanites were entertained by their local high school band. Tonight the local band travels to Kingsley to present a concert.

GAYLORD — The City Council has formally agreed to pay for development of a "master plan" to set firm guidelines for the community's future development. Professional planners will work along with a local planning commission to draft a "master plan" that fits Gaylord and incorporates safeguards against hodge-podge building and controls industrial abuses. Total cost for the plan will be less than $9,000.

BOYNE CITY — Laura Wheeler represented Boyne City in the Michigan Winter Sports Queen contest in Grayling last weekend. Winter sports queens from all parts of Northern Michigan competed in the contest.

BOYNE FALLS — The community's March of Dimes drive is reported to be a success, though all donations have not yet been collected.

GAYLORD — Chamber of Commerce Secretary Manager Harry Collins was honored by 305 members of the community with a standing ovation and letter of appreciation at a banquet.

EAST JORDAN — The March of Dimes drive this year was reported by Chairman Frank Bretz to have topped last year's effort.

BOYNE CITY — A free course in woodland management being conducted by extension specialists at the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Co. is drawing more than 40 adult students.

County Officers May Not Face Voters Again Until Nov. 1966

Michigan's entire elective process for county and township officers is in "limbo", State Rep. Don Gordon, Charlevoix District, points out.

This means no one knows when Charlevoix County officers will be up for re-election. The confusion is caused by an "oversight" in the new constitution, Gordon explains.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY officers were elected in 1962 for two year terms, expiring in January 1965 with the election planned for November of this year.

Now, due to the constitutional complications, it appears likely they will get a free two-year extension to their terms, not facing election again until November 1966.

"Bear in mind that most Con-Con delegates believed county officers should run for four-year terms concurrent with those of the Governor, but failed to make such provision," Gordon stated.

The delegates clearly spelled out that the governor would be elected to a two-year term this November, but that it will be his last two year term. The governor elected in 1966 will serve four years.

MICHIGAN'S 1963 constitution sets four year terms for governor and county officers. However, it fails to use the same explicit language to outline how county officers will get on the four year term schedule, concurrently with the governor.

A poll of Con-Con delegates by the House of Representatives, reveals the vast majority intended county officers to be elected for their last two-year term this November.

"This," Gordon contends, "leaves the Legislature with two basic choices:

"1.—Set up machinery for an amendment to the Constitution whereby county officers would run in 1964 for a two-year term, then beginning in 1966, run for four year terms. Such an amendment already has been proposed. A two-thirds vote of the legislature would be required to put it on the ballot for a special election on April 28.

"2.—BY LEGISLATIVE action, hold all county officers over for another two years, without elections, so they could begin running for four-year terms in 1966. Such a bill passed the Senate during the special session, but died in the House for lack of enough support. A new bill, which would do the same thing, will be introduced next week by Representative Strange.

"The latter appears to me to be the more likely course of action.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Winnick Sr. were in Lansing for a few days attending Farmer's Week. Mrs. Peter Winnick Jr., and family of Flint came home with them to spend a few days.

The North Bay Farm Bureau will meet at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Dyer's, Feb. 18 at 8 p.m. Guest speaker will be Chas. Elzinga of Charlevoix, Farm Bureau Insurance Co. representative.

Township Elections Possible This Year

If there is confusion on the next county elections, it is compounded in Charlevoix County townships. The new constitution abolishes spring elections of township officials. It directs that townships hold all future elections in November.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY'S present township officers were elected in April 1963 for terms that expire in April 1965. However, due to the constitutional changes there will be no election in April 1965.

The legislature is considering two ways to make the next township elections conform with the constitution, Don Gordon, State Representative, Charlevoix District reports:

"1. Have township officers elected to four year terms, as authorized by the constitution, on the November 1964 ballot.

"2. Call for an amendment to the newly adopted constitution, putting township elections back in the spring.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY, township supervisors elected are: Charles Leis, Bay Township; Joseph Topolinski, Boyne Valley Township; John Howard, Chandler; Clarence Rabach, Charlevoix; Leonard Nelson, Evangeline; William A. Sanderson, Eveline; Lee Sneathen, Jr., Hayes; York Oster, Hudson; Clyde Cunningham, Marion; Larry Mathew, Melrose; Clyde Warner, Norwood; John E. Conaghan, Peaine; Lloyd McDonough St. James; Hugh Graham, South Arm; and William Vron dran, Jr., Wilson.

Township clerks, treasurers, trustees and constables are also involved.

If township officers are put on the ballot this November, the winners won't take office until April 1965. Though the constitution allows lengthening terms, it makes Caucuses will be held next week in an effort to determine whether there is now enough House support to pass this bill," Gordon declared.

Charlevoix County officers effected by the confusion are Clerk F. R. Bulow, Sheriff Glenn Rose, Treasurer Lillis M. Flanders, Register of Deeds Grover Genett and Prosecuting Attorney Harvey Varman.

If no action is taken to clear up the constitution's silence county officers will run for their first four-year term this November.

THE LEGISLATURE must act before the June 16 primary filing deadline for county officers. If it doesn't, county officers will henceforth be elected on the same ballot with the president.

Bulow, as Charlevoix County's top election official, points out he doesn't know what to expect. As things stand, Bulow is ready to hold the election this November, for either two-year or four-year terms.

illegal to shorten them.

Winners of the November 1961 township elections will probably be in office until November 1968. The constitution grants the legislature authority to lengthen township terms from two years to four years.

If no action is taken by the legislature current township officers will stay in office until November 1965, an extra seven months, when they will be up for election to two year terms.

CONCERN has been voiced by local and state officials that to elect presidential, state, county and township officers in 1964 would result in a ballot of such magnitude that it would be impossible for voting machines to accommodate the number of candidates involved.

In Michigan... after bowling, beer is a natural

After you've bowled a game or two, or when you're winding up the evening at the neighborhood bowling center, it's good to relax with friends and compare scores. What better way to add to the sport and the sociableness than with a refreshing glass of beer? However you take your fun—skiing, skating, or at your case in the game room—beer always makes a welcome addition to the party.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasurable reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

Truckers Keep Business Railing

The steady increase in Michigan's truck population over the past fifty years indicates the extent to which business, industry and individuals, have embraced motor transport as a means of moving goods from place to place, according to the Michigan Trucking Association.

Jack L. McNamara, managing director of the association, noted that truck registrations have climbed steadily from 4,000 vehicles in 1914 to an estimated registration for 1964 of 400,000 vehicles.

THE MOST pronounced increase recorded in that period, he said, occurred between 1914 and 1924, when truck registrations skyrocketed—from 4,000 vehicles in 1914 to 83,809 in 1924, an increase of nearly 2,000 percent. This spectacular jump in registrations was attributable in large part to the stimulus of World War I, as well as early recognition of the potentials of highway transport by businessmen who laid the foundations of what has since become the key to the state's transportation system.

The MTA official also noted that steady progress of the nation's economy has had a direct influence on the growth of the state's trucking industry in recent years. Since 1935, when the Motor Carrier Act placed the young trucking industry under regulation, Michigan's truck registrations have more than doubled—from 127,000 in 1935 to the 400,000 or more expected to be registered in 1964.

TRUCKS

Trucks important to a city? You bet! Of the 2625 communities in our state, 1409 are served exclusively by trucks. This is 53.7% of our communities, in which 40% of our people live and make their living.

Take your own city as an example. Chances are the goods you consume would never get to you... or the goods produced by you would never get to market... if you lived in a community not served by truck transportation.

Lessons We Teach

Here are little minds hearing words, receiving impressions, being taught. A passing teacher fixed it that way. "Little pitchers have big ears." That is why wise sayings often fall from tiny lips...they are repeating you. What words are you passing on to your child or your neighbors' children...what are you teaching them? They all have talent but it must first be awakened by someone if it is to grow and be productive. We can give them good tastes in food, recreation, reading and religion. Actually, we carry the next generation on our shoulders. I wonder where we are taking them. Are we giving them good environment? Do we take them to church? Their future depends upon The Lessons We Teach.

Church Group Asks Court to Set Aside Tax

Thumb Lake Youth Camp Argues
It's Property is Tax Exempt

A church youth camp is asking Charlevoix County Circuit Court to exempt it from assessed property taxes. The Lake Louise Christian Community, a Methodist summer camp on Thumb Lake (or Lake Louise), Hudson Township, has started suit to regain taxes already paid and have the levy removed in the future.

Rambling with sheep

THIS WEEK'S story about the Methodist Church camp on Thumb Lake, suing Hudson Township can't help but bring to mind the old questions about church vs. state.

Surely, if churches get special privileges on taxes they are, in a sense, being supported by the state. On the other hand, most non-profit corporations have tax exemption benefits. If we carry this far enough we will get to the question of whether churches are, or are not, in the business of making a profit.

This, of course, would be going a bit too far. But the U. S. Supreme Court seems to have gone even further in its no-prayer ruling. In fact, this would suggest the government is now controlling where we can and cannot worship.

Understand, I'm not about to stick my neck out with an opinion on this business. But it sure opens some interesting possibilities for those-quarter conversations.

Let's keep in mind that such questions have no legitimate bearing on the suit against Hudson Township. The issue involved here is interpretation of state law. Not whether a church should be allowed to duck the tax roll. Neither Hudson Township, or the State Tax Commission is in disagreement on this point.

Not being Circuit Judge Charles Brown, we fortunately, do not have to decide the right or wrong of the suit. We sure can have fun tossing it around, though.

But if the question were whether wilderness areas are needed to teach children in respect and humility, I would have to vote with the church camp.

WHICH BRINGS up the subject I've long been trying to get introduced in the legislature.

The nearer we get to the last Saturday in April, it always seems the further away trout season gets. Especially on warm, sunny days.

So it seems only reasonable to pass a law opening the trout season every day the temperature rises above 50 degrees. This, admittedly, could cause a few very interesting complications.

Like, whose thermometer are you going to believe? The state would probably have to go into the thermometer inspecting business. A fisherman could have his thermometer inspected semi-annually. The state inspector would apply a seal declaring, "This thermometer officially inspected and found to be accurate for measuring temperatures of the air bordering trout streams."

If men who are too lazy to work can draw a regular check from the state, this doesn't seem to be asking too much.

World Friction

International friction is being smoothed out by the husband of a former Charlevoix girl.

Carl Schmidt, U. S. vice-consul in Innsbruck, Austria, during the Olympic Games, was assigned to represent the nation in an incident where three young U. S. athletes were arrested, for driving the wrong way on a one-way street in a "borrowed" car.

THE EVENT created international headlines.

Mrs. Schmidt is the daughter of Mrs. Karl Kohler, Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce secretary.

The church group contends approximately 1,200 acres of its camp has been unjustly put on the tax roll. Boyne City Attorney Guy C. Conkle, Jr., represents the camp.

YORK OSTER, HUDSON Township supervisor, told the Courier the camp owns approximately 2,700 acres (4 1/2 Sections) along Thumb Lake on the extreme eastern end of Charlevoix County.

All the property being actively used and developed for the youth camp is exempted, Oster said. The 1,200 acres the camp is asking the court to exempt was placed on the tax roll because it is not developed, Oster said.

Only areas that are actually being used for organized camp activities are exempted, he said. The property involved in the court suit is assessed at $66,350.

CONKLE, WHO filed the complaint, told the Courier the property in question, though a wilderness area, is an important part of the camp. He said it is used for hiking and nature study by the approximately 1,400 young people at the camp each summer.

Conkle said the church group contends the undeveloped land — on which taxes are levied — is a necessary part to its program.

The Lake Louise Christian Community willingly pays taxes on a portion of its property on which Michigan Democratic party chief Zoltan Ferency will be in Charlevoix Saturday, February 29, to attend a meeting of the Charlevoix County Young Democratic Club in City Hall. Pete Johnson, Boyne City, organizer, reported.

The meeting will be open to the public, beginning at 8 p.m. in the conference room. Accompanying Ferency will be Steve Dobkowski, second vice president of the Michigan Young Democratic Clubs, and Chip Rogers, chairman of the Greater Michigan Division.

A QUESTION AND answer period is planned. Refreshments will be served, Johnson said.

SCHOOL STUDY BEGINS — Meeting for the first time Tuesday were these members of the Charlevoix Public School District's lay study committee. Millage Study Begins

SCHOOL CITIZENS COMMITTEE PROBES BUDGET

The Board of Education's Citizens Committee held its first meeting Tuesday.

The committee immediately started study of school financing and needs. Darrell Dinwiddie, the board president, said.

IT WAS DECIDED the committee will operate informally, without a chairman or other officers. Dinwiddie and Supt. Rex Milligan will preside at meetings.

The next meeting, Dinwiddie said, will be held Tuesday, Feb. 8 in the Board of Education's office. Committee members agreed to try to meet weekly, or as often as possible.

Dinwiddie said committee members showed a "good deal of interest" at Tuesday's meeting. "Wasting no time, the committee immediately launched a study of the school system's budget and last year's audit.

THIS IS EXPECTED to show them what it costs to run the system, how the money is obtained, and where the money is spent on specific phases of the program.

When the committee is thoroughly briefed on the method and cost of school financing it is expected to begin studying future needs.

A summary of recommendations from teachers, and other education leaders, will be presented to the group, Milligan said.

Board of Education members have said they hope the committee will be able to come up with a proposal on what improvements and additions to the curriculum the school system should undertake in the immediate future and a suggestion on how much millage would be needed to finance these steps.

THE SCHOOL'S 1.5-mill voted operating levy expired last year. Rather than ask voters to renew it, the board appointed the committee to thoroughly study future needs.

Voters will be asked this spring to approve a millage levy, probably the one recommended by the committee.

The millage proposal is expected to be for a three to five year levy, to give the continuity to the school program.

County Bank Moves To Increase Space

Charlevoix County State Bank this week announced it has outgrown its present space.

E. D. Hawley, cashier, said the "bank on the corner" has an option to buy the adjoining property, Williams News Stand.

THE BANK, HAWLEY said, needs more bookkeeping, wall, office and conference space.

What the bank will do with the Williams' property hinges on plans being prepared by an architect. No physical changes will be made before this fall, Hawley said.

If architects find it is feasible for the bank to expand by using Williams' building, it will complete the purchase and go ahead with remodeling.

CHS Skiers Look Good in Future

Charlevoix High School's Ski team has concluded its first season in competition with high hopes for next year.

Ski coach Jim Luther reports the outlook for next year is good. Especially with more intensive training.

LUTHER SAID Charlevoix High School would benefit by organizing a junior ski racing program to bring students up through the grades for competition.

The Rayder skiers competed in the State Ski Meet at Manistee on Saturday.

The girls team finished 11 out of 20 teams entered in the Lower Peninsula finals. The boys team was disqualified so did not place. (Continued on Page 2)

The two buildings, Hawley said, would be joined by extending the front on the bank.

JOE WILLIAMS told the Courier he has no definite plans. If the bank completes the purchase, and goes ahead with remodeling, the news stand, and gift shop next door will be included.

BUT NEED $250,000

Hope for Vocational Center

A vocational education center for Charlevoix and other area high school students will be established at East Jordan if a quarter-million dollars can be obtained.

Financing is being sought for the vocational training center. The $225,000 needed to get the program underway would remodel an existing East Jordan building and pay for the necessary classroom equipment.

THE CITY OF EAST Jordan has offered to contribute the concrete building which was constructed, but never completed, by the WPA. It has 13,500 square feet of space that would be converted into classrooms.

The cost of operating the school, once established, would be shared by area school districts. A study group of East Jordan civic leaders has spent more than six months studying the needs of area high school youths and adults for vocational training. Thirteen school districts in Charlevoix, Antrim and Emmet Counties worked with the committee.

The study is reported to have uncovered an immediate need for such a facility for at least 225 students.

Oleson Completes Purchase to Build Super Market Here

Jerry Oleson this week said the last stumbling block holding up construction of what will be Charlevoix's largest super market has been eliminated. Oleson told the Courier he has completed arrangements to purchase the Mol Plumbing building on Antrim. As soon as Mol completes moving into the Moore building on the southwest corner of Antrim and State streets, work on the supermarket will begin.

JOHN MOL AND JACK MOL have been busy around their new building since last week. Oleson said he has workmen remodeling the building to meet Mol's demands. No figures were released on the price Oleson paid for Mol's Antrim St. property.

Hoffman, Whitley Get Nomination

FIRST WARD RETURNS FOCHTMAN

Two new aldermen — Dr. Walter Hoffman and Jerry Whitley — will take seats on the City Council due to Monday's lackluster primary election.

Hoffman and Whitley were nominated to run without competition on the April general election ballot. They will take office after the spring election.

BECAUSE DEMOCRATS failed to enter candidates in the primary election, persons nominated Monday on the Republican ticket will be unopposed on the April general election ballot.

Hoffman beat Robert Lieberman in the race for nomination for the second ward alderman. Whitley soundly upset incumbent Jack Grubaugh and beat Delbert Terrill in the contest for third ward alderman nomination.

Incumbent first ward alderman William E. Fochtmann defeated his only challenger, H. A. Forbrigg, 108 votes to 82.

Election observers appeared most surprised by Dr. Hoffman's victory over Lieberman in the second ward. Hoffman won by a 136 to 103 margin.

HOWEVER, WHITLEY'S success in the third ward was definitely the most decisive in Monday's election. A first-timer on the ballot, Whitley rolled up 153 votes to crush Grubaugh's 33 and Terrill's 64.

Whitley's nomination was credited to an aggressive election day telephone campaign.

Fochtmann's nomination by only a slim 26 votes over Forbrigg surprised several people milling around City Hall while the votes were being tallied.

A total of 704 persons voted Monday. There are 1,600 registered voters in the city. Meaning approximately 45 percent of those eligible cast ballots.

Plenty of Write-ins

The bizarre affliction of Charlevoix voters for write-in candidates was in full flower Monday.

Several dozen candidates were written-in on the City's primary election ballot. Some of them were complete unknowns. Most got no more than one vote.

WRITE-INS WERE cast for every office up for nomination, including mayor.

Election precinct inspectors repeated their complaint that the numerous write-ins add up to little more than harassment. Because the write-ins must be counted even though they are for people who do not exist — they cause extra, unnecessary work for election workers.

As counting the ballots dragged on after 10 p.m., several people suggested that if more legitimate candidates would file nominating petitions, and get on the ballot, the write-in fever would subside.

The only serious write-in campaign Monday was for Justice of Peace. An effort to get Frances Martin's name on the ballot for justice of the peace.

Oleson has owned the other property on the south side of Antrim between State and Bridge Streets since early last fall. He started buying the property in the spring of 1963.

He said men are in Charlevoix this week studying the existing buildings he owns to see what portions of them can be used as part of the super market.

THE VACANT CORNER lot at Bridge and Antrim, site of the former Lakeview Hotel, will become a parking lot, Oleson said. Oleson bought the hotel property last spring and had the building torn down and the land leveled. Mol's frontage on Antrim St. will also become parking space, he said.

The new super market will be on Oleson's sixth in northern Michigan. He said it will be comparable to his Garfield store in Traverse City.

The store will have 10,000 feet of floor space, more than any grocery store in Charlevoix, he said.

Construction on the store will begin as soon as plans can be completed and bids let. Oleson told the Courier in an exclusive long distance telephone interview.

As many as 20 local people will be employed at the Oleson store.

INSIDE

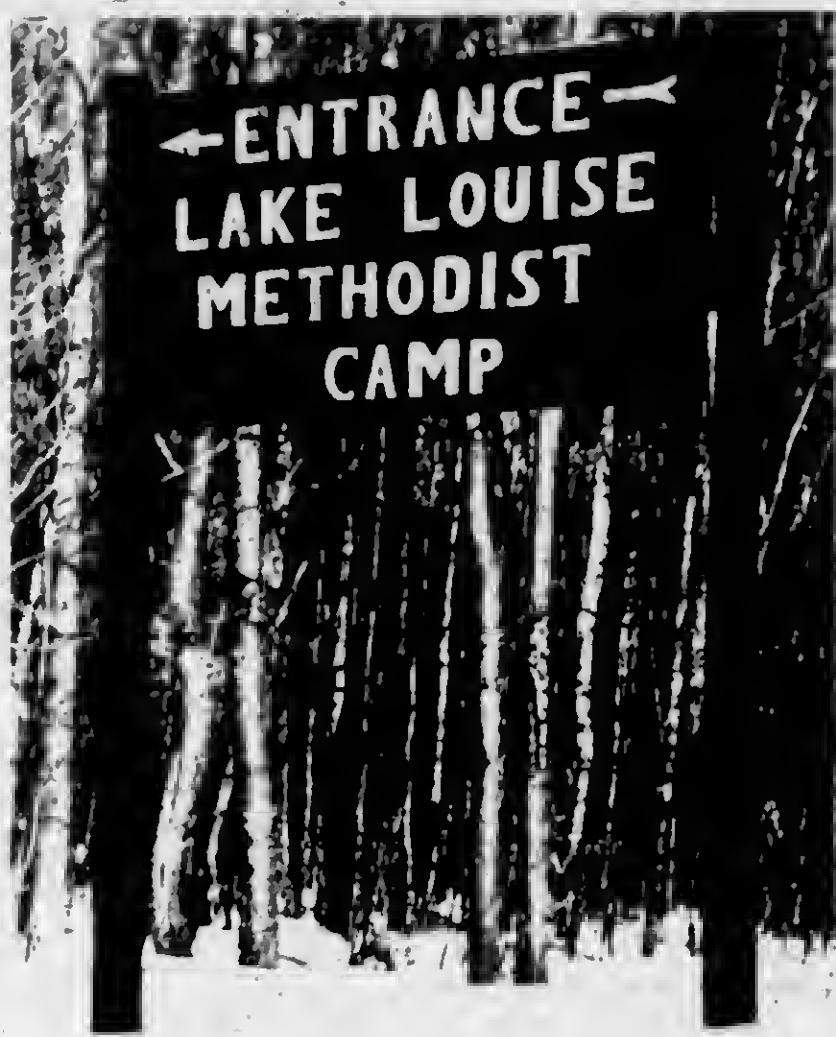

What was Charlevoix's City Attorney doing Saturday evening while tv lawyer Lawrence Preston was defending the innocent? Attorney John Michael wasn't practicing his profession. But he was on camera, as seen above.

Caught unawares by the Courier camera Michael joins hundreds of other Charlevoix people enjoying the simple pleasures of a PTA Fair. For complete pictorial coverage of the PTA Fair see page 6-B.

Also inside this week you will find editorial comment on Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown, page 2-B.

The little understood duties of the Intermediate School District, and a look at Superintendent Charles Robinson, highlights this week's Area News Page, 4-B.

County Road 626 to the Lake Louise Christian Community summer camp is snowbound. And though the camp itself will look idle until late spring, it is stirring up interest with the complaint against Hudson Township its attorney filed in Circuit Court last week asking for a tax adjustment. (Courier Photo)

Camp Fights Taxes

The church's suit contends the camp — including the undeveloped property — is owned for "educational, charitable and benevolent purposes." Its aim is to establish a community in "harmony with the fundamental law of this commonwealth," the complaint states.

Politically it would be suicide. The party that gets such a bill passed will be able to count on 103,000 to 150,000 votes from trout addicts. But the wives will round up every female in the neighborhood to vote against our champions.

Community, the camp's formal name, is described as a non-profit summer camp corporation.

Conkle said $1,147.09 in taxes on the property in question was paid Jan. 11, 1964. He said he paid the tax bill under protest.

Oster, and the Hudson Township Board of Review, does not question that churches are exempt from property taxation under the Michigan law.

The conflict is that the Board of Review contends the undeveloped land is being held in its natural state and as such represents an investment, Oster said.

THE CAMP BANS THE public from the property, Oster said. If it is exempted, he added, the "already heavily burdened taxpayer" will have to pay the amount as it cannot be taken off the township's tax roll.

Conkle said the church group has appealed the assessment to the Board of Review and State Tax Commission. Both have rejected the argument, Circuit Court, he said, is the only recourse left for the camp.

Conkle said the camp allows the public to use part of its land, and does not object to taxation on the cabins leased to ministers.

Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown is expected to schedule the case in March, Hudson Township has 20 days to file its answer.

"WE MUST OFFER educational facilities in keeping with our technological age now to those among us who desire it, need it, and want to remain in our northern area as part of an ever increasing regional labor force," Thorsen said.

Thorsen and his study group agreed that while no one school district in the area has the wealth or population to "go it alone," cooperatively and collectively the area can meet the challenge technological progress has placed at the door of public schools: that of providing effective vocational training for actual jobs.

Indicating an interest in, and working for the vocational center program have been Superintendents of schools from Alanson, Alba, Belaire, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Central Lake, Charlevoix, East Jordan, Ellsworth, Harbor Springs, Manistota, Pellston, Petoskey and Charles Robinson, Intermediate School Superintendent.

Proposed courses at the Area Vocational Education Center—would include: Building Construction Trades (carpentry, masonry, plumbing, wiring, mechanical drawing); Shop Skills (auto mechanics, metal working, tool and die, power mechanics, welding and drafting); Electronics; Business Related Subjects (complete secretarial training, office procedure, business machines, business management, buying and retail selling); Tourism (management and care of facilities, food preparation and serving, selling and advertising); Commercial Art.

INSTRUCTORS WOULD be qualified public school teachers and competent tradesmen certified by the Michigan Department of Public Instruction. Students would take vocational instruction daily, but remain identified with and take academic work daily at their respective schools and the new Vocational Education Center would be operated as part of the public school system, Thorsen said.

So What's Wrong With Money?

Reminder—

We will be closed Saturday, Feb. 22 in observance of George Washington's Birthday, a legal bank holiday.

Nothing that a checking account can't cure. One of the big troubles with cash is that it takes a lot of chasing around town to get it where it's suppose to be, when it's supposed to be there.

A Charlevoix County State Bank checking account stops all that running around. Just mail in checks for your bills. No fuss, no bother. Your canceled checks are legal proof of payment.

Discover the advantages CASH can't match. Open a Charlevoix County State Bank Checking Account soon.

TIPS FROM THE TACKLE BOX
by B. F. GLADDING

Bait On The Button
TRYING TO BUY live bait is often a frustrating business—sceldom seems to be available when and where you want it. A 6-ft. minnow seine solves this problem neatly, yet hardly any fisherman in ten includes this inexpensive item in his inventory of fishing equipment. Maybe it's because most fishermen don't realize how quickly and easily bait can be secured from almost any fishing waters.

In lakes, for instance, surprising numbers of minnows hide unseen in practically every weedy cove. The water may seem barren of bait, but a few hauls of the seine will usually turn up all the minnows needed for a day's fishing. For even faster returns try this: Scatter dry catmeal over a small area, wait a few minutes for it to attract minnows and then drag through the school.

In streams, look for minnows in protected rocky and close-to-shore shallows. But for a variety of catching stream bait anchor your seine in a riffle and then turn over all flat rocks and loose boulders immediately upstream. Dislodged crawfish, hellgrammites and an assortment of useful nymphs will be swept into the net by the current. The bait you secure is not only fresh and lively, but it has the advantage of always being native to the water you plan to fish.

Any fishing questions? Send them to me in care of this newspaper.

have to go out of business, or move to another location.

Bank architects were consulted before the option was obtained, Hawley said. They considered expansion into the adjoining building feasible. A complete architectural study is required before positive steps can be taken, Hawley said.

"We considered building elsewhere," Hawley said. "But we still feel this is the best location in town."

★ Write-ins

The, evidently, poorly organized attempt on Miss Matia's behalf was made with out her knowledge. She did not know about it until after the voting started Monday. And then she did not endorse her supporters.

EVIDENTLY CONFUSE by the unexpired just term, 67 voters wrote Justice of the Peace John Connolly's name. There were no candidates for the term which expires July 3, 1964. Connolly is serving on a other term that doesn't expire until 1967.

Charlevoix, by law, supposed to have two justices. Connolly serves as one of them. The other is vacant.

Because a write-in candidate must get 15 percent of the vote to get on the general election ballot, no man for JP will appear on the April ballot.

BEAVER TALES

Island Lover Faces Icy Death for Girl

(From "The Beaver Beacon")

We will have to guess at the year as 1885, but the story is positive and points out the fact that love often times drives a man to action he would never think of.

Johnny Malloy was a big strapping lad in his early twenties and very much in love with an island girl. Because of his size, Johnny had acquired the nickname of Johnny Buffalo. He was built like a pine stump and not an ounce of fat on him.

HE WAS A GOOD man in the woods and timber was being cut on South Fox Island, so early in the fall, Johnny sailed to the Foxes to work. The work was hard and the days were long. On clear days he could easily see the head of Beaver Island, where his Irish lass was.

A logging camp is a lonely place for a young lad and Johnny had made up his mind that when the ice made, he was going to bridge that gap. Winter was coming on with ice forming along the shore, and each day freezing out just a little further. Currents between the islands retarded the freezing, but finally he could see that it had frozen all the way.

He needed the whole day to make that 18 mile trek across the ice, so after breakfast, he paid no attention to the pleadings of the other men, not to try it, and started out on the ice. The Fox Islands were soon falling behind him and the lighthouse at the head of Beaver Island came into view.

The ice was slick and fresh frozen. Ominous cracking was occurring more frequently. Johnny laid down on the ice to distribute his weight and noticed by the air bubbles in the ice, that it was just a little over an inch thick. Figuring that it would be safer to continue than to turn back, Johnny began to roll towards his goal.

THE MULES WERE slow to pass in this manner but the ice was holding and on he rolled. Finally he reached old ice with a few inches of snow on it and once again he could get to his feet. Beaver Island was just a few short miles away now, with the Lighthouse clearly in sight. Once ground was under foot Johnny Buffalo's pace increased.

His sister lived at Noman, about five miles away, and he would give her quite a surprise. As dusk was closing in, familiar surroundings indicated he was getting near the village.

Needless to say, Johnny's sister was surprised to see him and was astonished to hear how he had come. Not many words were exchanged before Johnny inquired as to how his girl was. His jaw dropped to the floor as she explained that his girl had just recently married another man.

The wound finally healed, however, and Johnny Buffalo found a new love and eventually married Bridget Boyle, settled down to wedded bliss in grand style, as they raised twelve Beaver Island ers.

FUTURE RAYDER HOPE— Though seldom in the spotlight, the Charlevoix High School junior varsity cagers in these two action pictures from Friday's game show they have the spunk and promise that will be needed on the hardwoods by the Rayder varsity in the next two years. (Courier Photos by Larry Edwards)

Title Hopes on Line for Rayders

By FRAN MARTIN
The Charlevoix Rayders will play their most crucial game of the season Friday when they travel to Gaylord to take on the Blue Devils in a bout that will determine the Northern Michigan Class C title.

In other games this week, none of which have any bearing on the loop title and little on league standings, East Jordan will play at Boyne City, Grayling at Pellston and Harbor Springs at Mancelona.

THE RAYDERS WILL be faced with the problem of stopping big Tom Lick, who Friday set a new league scoring record when he poured in 44 points against East Jordan as the Blue Devils dumped the Jordanites 79-66. Lick dumped in 16 field goals and connected on 12 of 17 free throws to accomplish this scoring feat.

In their game here, Charlevoix edged Gaylord 67-58 as they outscored the visitors from the floor 26 to 22. However, the Blue Devils had a better average from the free throw line.

By way of comparison, the Blue Devils have lost to Pellston and Charlevoix while the Rayders have fallen victim to Pellston and Boyne City. Both Charlevoix and Gaylord have defeated Pellston on their respective floors since their first defeats at the hands of the Hornets.

The defending champion, Pellston and Harbor Springs, are out of the running, leaving only the Blue Devils and the Rayders to battle it out for the title.

MUCH IS AT stake for both teams: for the Blue Devils it would mean their first league title since the 1940 season when they won their only cage title and for the Rayders their first since the 1960 season.

It will be a tough game for both squads but Gaylord is expected to be at full strength while Charlevoix will be without Ken Purrish whose defensive play held Lick to six buckets in their first meeting and without Doug Winnell who had been counted on to give the team bench strength.

Added to this, Gaylord will have the advantage of playing on their home floor.

Thus, the match shapes up as the game of the season for both teams with the victory and the title up for grabs to the team that plays the best ball and takes advantage of the breaks.

THE EAST JORDAN - Boyne City tilt could become another close game with the Jordanites hopeful of dumping the Ramblers. This may be possible for the Red Devils have come a long way and are hungry for a victory. If the Ramblers should be without their big boy, Tom Sproull, out with a recurring knee injury, they could very well come up with a win over their arch rivals.

Grayling will be trying, but it is doubtful if they will have a chance against the Pellston Hornets who are always a serious threat on their own floor.

Harbor Springs will invade Mancelona and will likely come away with another victory tucked under their belt.

Win on Final Spurt

The Charlevoix Rayders, battling all 32 minutes of the way to stay in the running for the title, had to come from behind in the final quarter to defeat a scrappy Pellston outfit that played some of the finest basketball seen on the local floor this season before losing the lead and the game.

JV's Lose Tough One

Charlevoix's Little Rayders lost a heart-breaker to the Pellston Reserves in a game that saw them come from behind to take a brief lead in the final minutes before losing on the free throw line. The final score was 47-43.

THE YOUNG Rayders trailed 16-12 at the quarter; 29-24 at halftime and 42-31 going into the final period.

A final attempt saw them come from behind and then lose the game as they fouled in the heat of the game when Pellston went into a stall.

The Charlevoix five outscored the visitors 18-14 in the field goal department while scoring only seven of 12 attempts and collecting 17 personal fouls.

Pellston scored on 18 of 23 attempts and had only 10 personal fouls.

JOHN FERGUSON had 12 and Neil Cross 12 for the Rayders followed by Larry Skippergosh with seven, Mark Bourgoin and Steve Smith, four each and Gary Plum

The final score was 77-71. The Pellston Hornets, intent on knocking the Rayders out of the title race, poured in eight points before Gary Stutzman finally scored one point for the Rayders from the free throw line. With 5:51 remaining on the clock in the first period.

ANOTHER 41 seconds passed before Stutzman hit again, this on the Rayders' first field goal at the 5:10 mark. The score then stood at 14-3 before Bruce Kroken hit for a field goal with 3:30 remaining. At one time the score stood at 17-3 before the local lads found the range and trimmed the Hornets lead to 23-6 at the quarter.

The Rayders came back to knot the score 23-23 as the second period got underway but the battling Hornets pulled away for a nine-point 39-30 halftime margin after outscoring the Rayders 16-14.

As the second half got underway the Hornets continued to lead, at times as much as 10 points, before the Rayders caught fire and trimmed their margin from 52-43 to four points as the period ended on four quick buckets and a free throw. A quick count showed the two points. Tom Reed had 18 and Ron Bodzik and John Bielas, 13 each, for the victors. (Continued on Page 3-B)

Urban Jurists Need Lesson from North

CIRCUIT JUDGE CHARLES L. Brown is something of a paradox to those of us familiar with court affairs in populous downstate counties.

Whereas Wayne County judges, it often seems, spend more time complaining about too much work, Judge Brown doesn't appear to have time for such procrastinating. He has a job to do. He gets to it and does it.

THE JUDGE OF Michigan's 13th Judicial Circuit — Charlevoix, Antrim, Grand Traverse and Leelanau Counties — is too busy for us to become very familiar with him. This we regret.

For Judge Brown is, indeed, an interesting and diverse jurist. Not only has he earned a wide reputation for firmness, compassion and insight on the bench, his handling of the Detroit school tax issue two years ago was one of the most brilliant judgements we have studied.

But there's more to Judge Brown than his decisions from the bench. There's the warm personality you feel immediately. There's the fact he has bucked all the political odds — which always takes courage — and won, again and again.

There's his bold military and civilian record as a pilot. And, let's not overlook his interest in fishing, or apparent love for the north country.

BUT, LET'S GET back to our starting point. The contrast between Judge Brown's busy schedule and that of Wayne County and other urban area circuit benches.

Judge Brown is almost notorious for his tireless energy. If there is need to, he works attorneys, law officers and clerks from morning to late evening to clear the docket. Then, while the lawyers, deputies and clerks are heading home for dinner, he's in his automobile or airplane making the lonely drive back to Traverse City. And the next day he will be in court again.

Ask a lawyer who has spent some time practicing in Detroit if he has ever seen such a thing from a Wayne County Circuit Judge. Not if he has seen it occasionally. But if to his knowledge, such a thing has ever happened. Yet it is a regular routine for Judge Brown, and other north country judges.

IRONICALLY, BROWN and other outstate judges are penalized for their selfless sacrifices of time and energy. When downstate judges find things getting rough, or quite often, a case that could embarrass them, they call in one of our northern, or rural-area, judges to man their bench.

It would be interesting to see figures showing how many hours Judge Brown, and other outstate judges, actually spend on the bench, compared to Wayne County jurists. If we ever do, let's not forget to add the time houses.

Odds . . . 'N' . . . Ends

By FRAN MARTIN

Meant to mention the recent movie I went to see . . . only because it had a Siamese cat in it and I'm addicted to these fabulous animals. The fact that a cat could be taught to do all the things this one did in "The Incredible Journey" amazed not only me but all the people who know anything about cats. . . . Cause cats are just about the most independent of animals. . . .

I've had a Siamese for the major part of the past 14 years or so and the I'm not authority on 'em I know more than a little about them, so, tho I'm not a movie-goer I had to see this one . . . and I loved every minute of it. . . .

SPEAKING OF CATS, I remember one time singing the praises of my feline to Mr. (R.G.) Bennett and trying to sell him on the idea of getting a Siamese as a pet. . . . But he said "no . . . because you never own a cat, it owns you. I'll settle for a dog if I want a pet." . . . I'll want you my Tali, and before her, my Sukki, reigned supreme at 206 Nichols. . . . but I wouldn't have it any other way. . . . I'm sure that all cat fanciers especially those "addicted" to this particular "brand" will agree with me. . . .

Physical Education Wholesome Antidote for Elementary Kids

Recreation plays an important role in the development and maintenance of emotional health. It is a wholesome antidote to monotonous, tense and highly emotional work. Present day programs give attention to recreative interests and skills, and to the social values resulting from pupils learning to play together, to give and take, to choose and respect leaders, and to obey the rules of the game.

A Lift for Living Trifles Can Be Our Ruin

By REV. H. E. KOHN

Pliny the Elder, a contemporary of Saint Paul, said of the Romans of his day that when they failed to make a thing beautiful they were sure to make it big. Apparently even Jesus' disciples were caught up in the Roman fascination for big things. One time as the Master and his disciples left the temple a disciple exclaimed, "Look Teacher, what wonderful stones and what wonderful buildings!" One translator catches the spirit of the awe when he has him saying, "What a size these stones and buildings are!"

Jesus did not frown upon the magnificence of the temple buildings. Doubtless he rejoiced in such grandeur. But while the disciples were enamored of their bigness, something else had caught Jesus' attention. . . . a little thing, a poor woman putting two copper coins in the temple treasury, demonstrating a sacrificial dedication to the holy cause. Jesus noticed this, and it impressed him. To Jesus' mind a sacrifice of two copper coins, when it represented everything the woman owned, was far more notable than a huge stone or a big building.

IN CHRIST'S SCALE of values, little things had tremendous worth. When he spoke of a final judgment he told of LITTLE people doing LITTLE things in loving ways receiving the blessing of the King. However, when the blessed ones were feeding the hungry, giving drink to the thirsty, or lodging to the stranger, or clothing to the naked, or solace and companionship to the sick and imprisoned, they did not know these ministries were great in Christ's eyes.

Love, rather than hope of reward, impelled them. And they did not realize that Christ had any connection with the needs of the people they served. As you did it unto one of the least of these my brethren, you did it unto me." . . . So even the blessed ones missed the importance of doing little things for the world's little people.

Repeatedly people request help from counselors in straightening out a desperate domestic tangle, and when they are asked what the big problem might be they reply, "There is no big problem, but a lot of little ones that make our marriage unbearable." The husband provides well for the family. The wife cooks and keeps house in expert fashion. Neither has ever threatened to shoot the other or shown a great meanness. But lit-

But, thank heaven, small things work for our triumph as well as for our ruin. An ancient Chinese proverb reminds us "The man who removed the mountain was he who began to carry away the small stones." Often "faith removes mountains" in just that way. The greatest tasks are accomplished little by little, and all who have learned to do big things well have begun by learning to do little things faithfully.

THE LONGEST WALK is taken with single steps. The man who learns to put his moments to good use need not worry about the outcome of his days or of his life.

The beauties of the visible world greet our minds after traveling over a tiny, fragile pathway, the optic nerve.

The vast universe is composed of sub-microscopic atoms, revealing the Creator's regard for the smallest things.

Such a program has the following functions:

1. To develop body efficiency.
2. To teach serviceable skill that function in leisure activities for recreational purposes.
3. To ESTABLISH attitudes and racial behavior.
4. To aid in the development of mental and emotional poise, power and control.

FOR THE ENJOYMENT of many forms of recreation a reasonable degree of skill is necessary. When doing the things we do well proficiency in activities requires motor skill and coordination is developed in the formative years of childhood. Physical education makes a distinct contribution to physical, mental and emotional health. Through the daily exercises, rhythmic activities, games, gymnastics, and athletics, physical and social fitness can be established and maintained. Specific teaching and practice for body control, power, agility, and endurance should be provided in our elementary school. Also practice in group activities to develop courage, initiative, self-discipline, cooperation and loyalty should be developed.

When an individual participates in play, his body, mind, and emotions are working together. He is functioning as an integrated personality and it is this integration of functioning which is the foundation for good mental health.

Physical education contributes to health, strength, and physical fitness, to social education, and to the development of enduring interests and skills. Its objectives may be listed as follows:

1. TO PROVIDE activity during school day as a preventive of fatigue, a means of self-expression, a method of relaxation from more formal types of education, an aid to the development of strength, physical fitness, and organic power.
2. To utilize school and after school activities as opportunities for pupils to learn how to react to other pupils and leaders, thus contributing to their social development and helping them to grow in social adaptability.
3. To teach the skills of many types of activities and provide sufficient opportunity to use these skills so that a reasonable degree of proficiency can be obtained, which will encourage participation outside of school and in the years following the completion of school.

IT'S YOUR OPINION THAT COUNTS

People Want to Spend Money Here

CHARLEVOIX PEOPLE do their best to spend money on Bridge St., but often have to spend it in Petoskey.

This is the consensus of this week's Courier public opinion survey. Ten people were called by telephone and asked if they shop in downtown Charlevoix. And if so, or if not, why?

THE COURIER FOUND that Charlevoix's grocery stores get the most solid vote from local families. The biggest single criticism the newspaper found was high prices, and limited selection of children's clothing.

Just about everyone contacted said they did not want merchants to think their statements were in any way personal. Several mothers pointed out they have to stretch their clothing budget as far as possible, and this means going to big department stores in Petoskey.

These people were fast to add they would prefer to spend all their money in Charlevoix . . . and would if bargains and selections were comparable.

MRS. ALFRED AERINE, 225 Park, who said she does all her shopping in Charlevoix, said she likes to patronize local merchants and finds the selection here wide enough. "We love it," Mrs. Aerne said. They recently moved to Charlevoix from Oak Park, Ill., the world's largest village with 75,000 population.

A good shopping district is important to a small town. MRS. WILLIAM ALWARD, of Norwood said. Mrs. Alward added she doesn't think people should go to Petoskey when we have our own town. She said that people probably get a "little better selection out of town. Mrs. Alward pointed out she does almost all of her shopping in Charlevoix, except for a few groceries in Atwood, which is near her home.

MRS. MARIAN ARBUCKLE, 201 W. Huribut, doesn't think people should shop in Petoskey unless it is really necessary. You can get almost anything you want in Charlevoix, unless local stores are out of a certain size, she said. Mrs. Arbuckle explained she buys some children's clothes in Petoskey when she can't get them here.

PETE BENNETT of Ironton said he doesn't do any shopping in Charlevoix. Though East Jordan is further from his home than Charlevoix, Bennett said that is where he shops. He said he gets better buys in East Jordan and feels the shopping district offers more than Charlevoix. Prices do not go up in East Jordan when the tourists arrive, but they do in Charlevoix, he said. He added that in the summer he sees quite a few Charlevoix people in East Jordan.

According to AARON BROCK, Old-M-66, there isn't much difference between prices in Charlevoix and other towns. He said the family does practically all of its shopping here. However, they sometimes have to go out of town for dress clothing for the children and parents.

Uhrick Brothers
Make 'Pat' Hand

By FRAN MARTIN

Two of a kind is good in any card game, especially in poker if it's a Jack or better. For the Charlevoix Rayders who have not only a Jack but a Jim in the Uhricks, two of a set of triplets, one might say they could be considered a 'pat' hand.

The duo, who with their brother Jerry celebrated their seventeenth birthday on the anniversary of that great American, Abraham Lincoln, are juniors with two years of J-V basketball behind them plus the major part of this season as members of the Varsity squad. With still another year of playing time left with the Rayders to whom they have already contributed much, chances are the name of Uhrick will be one to be remembered when June 1965 rolls around.

WHY DO THESE TWO, who delight in confusing everyone with their 'look alikeness', like to play basketball? "Because I like it and it offers a challenge," was Jim's answer while Jack's reply echoed much the same thoughts "I like it, it's fun, it's good to be a part of a team and, of course, it keeps you physically fit."

Both like sports of all kinds so their answers were not surprising. Jim also goes out for track, running the dashes and doing the broad jump. He also plans to go out for football this fall. Jack likes all sports but lists basketball as his top choice. They also play a lot of golf and tennis and water ski during the summer months.

In the classroom Jim's favorite subject is chemistry though he likes all his subjects while Jack said his choice for a favorite subject would be biology.

Jim plays cornet in the high school band; both are members of the Varsity Club.

BOTH PLAN to go on to school and are thinking seriously of going into business administration in order to help their mother, Mrs. John A. Uhrick, in the management of the family business.

On hand at every game is their mother, while their sisters, Diane, a senior at Michigan State, and Karen, a junior at the University of Michigan, attend every game they can. Until he went to Madison last fall to live with another sister, the third member of the trio Jerry, was 'in their corner' at every game.

Asked if it bothers them to be mistaken for one another, they both laughed and said, "No, it's kind of fun to confuse everyone though people who know us well, like our teachers, or our friends, can tell us apart. When you grow up with a situation like this, it doesn't bother you a bit."

Rayders had outscored the visitors 22-17 in the period though they still trailed.

WITH THE GAME going into the final eight minutes, Del Terrill and Kroken scored quick baskets to knot the score. With 40 seconds gone, Norton sunk two free throws to put the Rayders ahead again for the second half.

A free throw by Chub Clear and two more by Bob Shier of Pellston returned the lead to the Hornets at 6-52 but field goals by Terrill and Stutzman put Charlevoix back in the game. Pellston again knotted the score at 67-67 with 2:48 remaining and then went ahead briefly 71-69 with 1:40 left on the clock.

Kroken put Charlevoix ahead with a field goal at 1:11 and from there on in the Rayders held their lead and came out on the long end of the score with Dave Smith scoring a final bucket as the gun sounded. The Rayders had hit a torrid pace in the final period of play as they fought to stay in the race, outscoring the tiring Hornets 25-15.

Mike Thompson, who had picked up three personal fouls in the first half, went to the bench with five in the final minutes of play.

STUTZMAN PACED the scoring with 25 points followed by Kroken with 20. Norton came through with 15, Terrill with 11 and Smith with six. Jim Uhrick and Warren Belding, with Stutzman, Kroken and Norton had been members of the starting five.

Doug Lovnasen had 21, Shier 18 and Ed Clear 10 for the Hornets followed by Ken Cassidy with nine, Mike Thompson, eight, Chub Clear three and Brad Cameron two.

IF IT'S TOO QUIET—TURN ON THE RADIO

Some of the finest comments that come to us from owners of 1964 Cadillacs concern the car's extraordinary quietness of operation.

A Cadillac owner remains comfortably insulated from the distraction and din of the heaviest midtown traffic. And we think that this remarkable characteristic tells a great deal about the quality and goodness of this extraordinary new Cadillac creation.

First of all, it indicates the car's high level of craftsmanship. Every 1964 Cadillac, in fact, now undergoes more than 1490 separate inspections.

It indicates, too, how Cadillac's combination of functional styling, scientific soundproofing and advanced new suspension have reduced to an almost unbelievable degree the sounds normally associated with travel.

And, even more importantly, it speaks of the car's great engineering. Cadillac's dynamic new engine operates with flawless precision, despite its record power. Its new transmissions, both the Hydra-Matic and the Turbo Hydra-Matic, translate that power into smooth, hushed response... and combined with exclusive True-Center drive line, virtually eliminate vibration.

If you have not yet driven a 1964 Cadillac, you will find it a most revealing experience. Your dealer will have one ready any time that's convenient. Just let the car's amazing quiet, do the talking.

CHARLES ROBINSON

Area Kids Rule His Life for 20 Years

Charlevoix County children have been a major part of Charles Robinson's life for 20 years.

CHARLES ROBINSON

Robinson became superintendent of the Charlevoix County School District in 1953. But his interest and work with children started here a decade before that.

HIE HOLDS A masters degree in school administration from the University of Michigan. In 1932 Robinson received one of the first Ford Foundation fellowships to high school teachers. He spent an entire year studying schools around the country. His family traveled with him.

Robinson came to this area as an undergraduate rural teacher in Emmet County.

He returned to college to get his teaching degree and then taught in Tawas. In the early 1940's he came back to Boyne City schools, where he stayed until 1953.

Charles Alvin Robinson and Gordon Wayne Robinson seem to approve of their father's vocation. Charles is a speech teacher in Royal Oak. Gordon is a senior at Central Michigan University, majoring in teaching.

THEIR FATHER'S pet project at the moment is organizing a special education program for handicapped children in all schools in Emmet and Charlevoix counties.

capped children in all schools in Emmet and Charlevoix counties. Electors will vote in June on authorizing a half-mill tax levy to support the program.

Perhaps one of the Intermediate District superintendent's most important jobs is to keep local school boards of education up to date on state legislation affecting education.

He acts as a spokesman for the local boards on his frequent visits to Lansing. In this way lawmakers are kept informed of Charlevoix - Emmet school needs and how local people feel about pending legislation.

SCHOOL'S OUT — Schools were closed Friday as Charlevoix County teachers met at Charlevoix High School. Officers of the Charlevoix County district of the Michigan Education Association (MEA) at the meeting were seated, left to right, Mrs. Charles Bleha of Charlevoix, treasurer; Mrs. Louis Courtade of Charlevoix, immediate past president; Mrs. Adolphe Drapeau of East Jordan, secretary; standing: Del Terrill of Charlevoix, delegate, and James Huggins of Boyne City, vice president. Far Flung School Duties

One of the least understood, least discussed offices in the Charlevoix County Building is the Intermediate School District.

Charles A. Robinson, Intermediate District superintendent, administers a wide - ranging program that is little known to parents and taxpayers.

THE INTERMEDIATE District's responsibility includes all schools in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties. As the title suggests, it acts as an intermediate between local boards of education and the State Department of Public Instruction.

Robinson explains his office provides educational leadership — especially in rural districts — and services and programs that cannot be supplied locally. The Intermediate District's role is to coordinate local districts and coordinate between the state and local school.

Robinson's two-county district operates on a $25,000 budget. Most of this comes from the state, with funds first collected locally as state taxes, taken to Lansing and then re-distributed back to Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

The budget includes collections from an .8 of a mill tax levy allocated by the boards of supervisors in both counties.

ROBINSON, LIKE A local school superintendent, is responsible to a board of education. Members of the Intermediate School District of Education are: Harlan E. Ruback, of Boyne City, president; Mrs. Louise Eppler of Petoskey, vice-president; W. G. Boswell of East Jordan; Carl K. Bush of Petoskey; Mrs. Hazel Evers of Charlevoix; Clayton Mcaley of East Jordan; Mrs. Mildred Lutz of Alanson; Casper Merris of Pellston; Ruby Mummert of Brutus, and William A. Parsons of Charlevoix.

These board members are elected by local boards of education. However, a new law is expected to be approved by the legislature requiring that intermediate district boards be elected by the public. Rural school districts, that do not employ their own administrator, rely on Robinson to act as (Continued on next page)

Bounty Fees Reduce Money For Outdoors

Michigan bounty hunters and trappers cashed in on foxes, bobcats, and coyotes for a near record payment of $242,135 during 1963, the Conservation Department reports.

The latest bounty figure is up $27,000 from 1962 and falls short of the 1961 all-time high by only $160.

FOX CLAIMS WERE the second highest on record for this state. They totaled $172,305 for 34,461 animals against $151,705 the year before. Another $66,890 went for 3,830 bountied coyotes. Only two other payments on coyotes rank higher. Upper Peninsula hunters and trappers collected $2,940 for 588 bobcats.

"Last year's total payment represents a net gain of nothing to the state's sportsmen who foot the bounty bill each year," remarks Department Director Gerald E. Eddy.

"Ironically," Eddy says, "it amounts to throwing the sportsman's money away at a time when there is a crying need for funds to promote game and fish activities which will benefit him. Years of record - keeping prove that the bounty bonododge does not effectively cut down breeding populations of predators. Its supposed role to increase game numbers has also been nil."

Robert Sanford At Air Station

Robert J. Sanford, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mr. and Mrs. Forrest D. Sanford, Sr., of 104 Allee St., recently reported for duty at the Naval Auxiliary Air Station, Kingsville, Tex. The station plays an important part in the training of future Navy, Marine Corps, and Coast Guard aviators.

Eddy reports that the Department of Conservation Commission are seeking an end to bounty payments as part of their eight-point legislative program for 1964. He also notes that Governor Romney's special conservation study committee solidly recommended the elimination of all bounties in favor of a strengthened program of predator control by the Department.

SINCE 1935, Michigan has paid out more than $3,720,000 in hunting and fishing license money on the bountied animals.

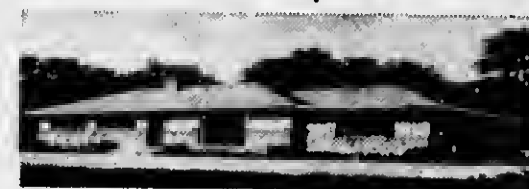

Foxes, bobcats and coyotes - Michigan's bountied threesome - last year continued to place low on the list of animals which stirred damage complaints, among farmers and other landowners in the state.

Of 2,587 problem cases which conservation officers and trapper instructors were called upon to answer during 1963, only 57 involved these three animals. This amounts to about two percent of the total number.

Oldsters, Youngsters Delight in PTA Fair Fun

From Cotton Candy to Nails

YOUNG AND OLD, they thronged to Saturday evening's PTA Fair in the Elementary School gymnasium and cafeteria.

The children literally stuck their heads into clouds of pink cotton candy, on left. A new feature for the Fair, the cotton candy was a number one attraction. There was also hot dogs and coffee for parents, with the Kiwanis Club serving, picture on right.

Adults who can normally be considered reasonably dignified were found hawking carnival hats and doo-dads. On the stage children walked around and around in circles to win a cake.

TEENAGERS WHO can be counted on to maintain a detached, unconcerned front in the presence of adults let their hair down to hammer nails in boards and pitch pennies (once a true gentleman's sport) at a target.

Yummy!

Society has long speculated on the proper way to eat chicken. However, darn few children have this problem. They, quite naturally, just pick it up and gnaw away.

On the left, four of the several hundred youngsters who devoured chicken at Saturday's PTA Fair, demonstrate their technique.

The school cafeteria staff prepared the chicken dinner. The demand was so great the Elementary School cafeteria kitchen looked as busy as the dining room as volunteers tried to keep ahead of the serving and dishwashing duties.

In the gym there was hardly breathing space, as seen on the right. A popular attraction was the hammer and nail test, far right. If you drove two nails into the beam you won a candy bar. The deep concentration required at the penny toss is seen in the picture below.

THE DEPENDABLES: SUCCESS CARS OF '64

Get something off your chest. Your knees, for instance!

Imagine, unwinding and relaxing in a compact. Now you can! And that goes for backseat passengers as well as travelers up front. Because Dart is a compact in the large economy size. Lots of room for hips, heads, feet and knees. Family-size room all-round. And what goes for Dart in the comfort compartment goes ditto in the performance department. Standard engine is the famous Slant 6 that'll outlast the extra-cost engines in most other compacts. For even more action, there's an optional new Dart V8 that takes no sass from any size car.

But don't let the comfort and sizzle fool you. Dart is a compact. Witness its low price, easy upkeep, great gas mileage, and snappy parkability, and you'll know what we mean. If you're tired of cramped, underpowered compacts, talk to the man who can do something about it—your Dependable Dodge Dealer.

Trim Dairy Herd Of Weak Animals

What is It?

BOYNE CITY — If you are not culling 30% of your herd annually, you are below the average of Michigan dairymen in the Dairy Herd Improvement Association program.

Ed Rebmam, County Extension Director in Charlevoix County reports 23,500 of the 78,000 cows in the Michigan DHIA program in 1963 were removed from the herd for various reasons.

DEATH IS NOT the big cause as only 1.6 per cent of the animals died. Accidents took 40 percent of these, milk fever 18 percent and "hardware disease" almost 15 percent.

An indication that dairymen are culling herds more heavily is revealed in the figure that nearly 50 percent of the cows sold, left the herd because of low production. Another 20 percent went out because of sterility and breeding problems.

The county extension agent believes more farmers are paying close attention to total milk production of each animal and disposing of those which are not "money makers." To do this a farmer must have good production and feed cost records. That is why Rebmam believes good dairy farmers must have some kind of a production testing program that will give them the answers on individual cows.

COUNT YOUR BLESSINGS!

...but who could count them? They are too numerous to count. God isn't stingy... He doesn't dish them out to us one by one, but rather pours them out in numbers too big to count. Consider only a few of the greater blessings.

He created us in His image and gave us power of reason, of choice, and the capacity to respond to varied stimuli. He put the world at our disposal and cautioned us about how we use it.

He supplied our homes, our families and gobs of material wealth we never thought possible.

Who could ask for more? Tell us just who among us could even begin to count his blessings?

Maybe it's a good time to start doing something for God... start going to church, for He said, "Blessings are upon the head of the just."

In County $3 a Year

AT FIRST GLANCE it seems a bit shocking, in fact almost flabbergasting, to think the cocky, long maned, young squirt with the peach fuzz on his chin may be voting next year.

Even more unbelievable is the possibility that the giggling young lady who quakes all over at the sight of such oddities as the recent imports from Britain will be casting her ballot in the booth next to you.

Oh, brother! All adult Michiganders will surely stand up to demand redress.

Bah! If the legislature grants the vote to 18 year olds it could be the best thing that's happened to politics in these parts.

County Clerk Pete Hulow got me to thinking along these lines. Until Pete got on the subject I've always had my doubts about letting people under 21 vote. (And who doesn't have doubts about letting some people over 21 vote.)

Pete points out he's often worked with young people. They take a keen interest in government and politics, he contends. Pete's 30-plus years on top of county politics qualifies him as an expert and makes his opinion worth heeding.

It doesn't mean much when a school teacher or social worker suggests teenagers know as much about government as adults, and balk at accepting things as they are simply because it's easier. But when a pro like Pete seconds this theory there must be meat to it.

It's also to Pete's credit that he hastily dismisses the argument that kids should get the vote because they're old enough to die for their country. This is no more a qualification than being able to walk on two feet.

Stop and think a minute. Putting teenagers in voting booths could give politics new vigor. It might also give deadwood politicians the biggest headache.

East Jordan to Vote on Plan For Retirement

EAST JORDAN — City employees here have put their future in the hands of the voters.

City Council has agreed to ask East Jordan voters to approve joining the State Employees Retirement Plan. The proposal will be on the April general election ballot.

IF VOTERS GIVE the nod, East Jordan's eight employees will have assurance that a reasonable standard of living is ahead for them in retirement years.

The state plan based on eight employees, will cost the city no more than $2,600 a year, Mayor James Lilak said. And he expects it to be less after the first year. City employees will contribute 3 to 5 percent of their wages.

Police Chief Joe Hammond said that if voters approve the plan, it cannot be revoked except by an

New County Map In Four Colors

A new four-color Charlevoix County road map has been printed. It was immediately mailed by the chamber of commerce members and others as the finest in the Road Commission's history.

The 34 inch by 23 inch map is being distributed this week. Road Commission Secretary Ralph Hamilton said the map's accuracy was determined by aerial photography.

THE VARIOUS TYPES of roads are in four different colors, making them readily identifiable. All primary roads have names on them. There is an index directing readers to the location of roads.

Area Leaders See Crisis in Rail Pull-Out

Urge More Concern from Public, Possible Threat to Charlevoix

BOYNE CITY — Area leaders in two separate meetings here last week declared Pennsylvania Railroad's request to abandon its northern lines will be a critical blow to Charlevoix County.

These same people expressed concern because the public is not aroused over the threatened withdrawal of rail service to Boyne City and Boyne Falls and other northern points.

Last Week To Get a $3 Courier

Friday is the last day you will be able to buy a one-year Charlevoix Courier subscription for the old $3 price.

As of March 1 Courier subscriptions (as announced for the past three weeks) will go up to $4 a year in the county and $5.50 a year in other areas of the state and nation.

The rate increase, Courier Business Manager Tom McDaniels said, has deliberately been put off until Mar. 1 so everyone will have a chance to renew for as many years in advance as they want to at the old rates. (See ad on page 5-B).

AT WEDNESDAY'S meeting here of the Michigan Municipal League Emil Giggling, Grayling, the district's veteran secretary, said cancellation of rail service could mean closing of the tannery in Boyne City.

Other Boyne City industries will be affected, though not as severely industrial and business leaders predicted at Thursday evening's County Planning Commission meeting at the Top O' Michigan Rural Electric Co. office here.

Walter Thorsen, commission chairman, said he thinks the railroad "wants to quit while it's ahead."

The railroad, Thorsen said, is actually making money, but it's profits are going down and it doesn't want to get in a position where it is losing money.

FEARS WERE expressed that

East Jordan Faces Risk To Aid Ill

EAST JORDAN — Every taxpayer in East Jordan is taking something when the city operated ambulance answers a call for help.

Mayor James Lilak said the city has not been able to obtain insurance to cover its ambulance service from being sued for malpractice.

LILAK AND EAST JORDAN Police Chief Joe Hammond outlined their problem at last week's district meeting in Boyne City of the Michigan Municipal League.

If the ambulance goes out without a doctor to answer an emergency house call the patient could later sue the city for alleged mishandling, Lilak said.

The possibility of this happening on an automobile accident case is slim, Hammond said.

Lilak told the group of officials from nine area cities and villages, that during several periods of the AREA CHAMBERS of commerce and the Board of Supervisors for several years urged name signs be put on county roads. It is impossible to direct visitors to rural areas due to lack of signs, these groups argued.

The Road Commission has waited until this year to start the program, Hamilton said, because agreements had to be reached with townships, money appropriated and names given the roads.

The County Planning Commission entered the project at its meeting last week. On the request of the Road Commission, the planners appointed two members to work on naming and marking the roads.

James Porter and Robert Davis, both of Boyne City, were appointed from the planning group to serve on a committee with the Road Commission and chambers of commerce.

THE SIGNS will be a standard design and size. They will be placed only on primary roads this spring. Primary roads are considered those connecting two major points.

Local, or township roads, will not be signed this year. However, Hamilton said, several townships have indicated they are interested in cooperating on getting their LOW WATER — Clarence Rabach, Charlevoix Township supervisor, right, marks last September's Lake Charlevoix water level at the City's Ferry Ave. launching ramp, showing the lake has dropped approximately 18 inches. Mayor E. D. Hawley's hand marks the lake's usual high water mark, a good 30 inches above its present level. Prospects that the lake level will come up to anywhere near its normal level are dampened by reports from the Charlevoix County Road Commission that there is approximately 40 inches less snow than last year.

District Title Goal Of 10 Teams

By FRAN MARTIN

An estimated 6,000 basketball fans from a three county area are expected to purchase tickets to the eight basketball games scheduled to be played at the Charlevoix high school gymnasium starting Tuesday.

Ten area schools, including five in Class C and another five in Class D will take to the hardwoods, seeking titles held at Harbor Springs and Ellsworth, respectively.

The game which is expected to attract the largest crowd of the week will pit the Charlevoix Raiders against the Boyne City Ramblers at 8:45 p.m. Tuesday. During the regular season the teams split with each losing on its home floor.

HARBOR SPRINGS and East Jordan will tangle in the feature game at the game time Wednesday with Petoskey-St. Francis taking on the winner of the Charlevoix-Boyne City game at 8:45 p.m. Thursday.

The Class C finals are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. Saturday in the only game scheduled for that night.

In the opening game in the Class D bracket, Bellaire will take on Wolverine at 7 p.m. Tuesday to officially open the tournament.

The two strongest teams in this Class, Ellsworth and Central Lake will clash at 7 p.m. Wednesday night with Boyne Falls meeting the winner of the Bellaire-Wolverine game at 7 p.m. Thursday.

THE CLASS D finals are set for 2:30 p.m. Saturday. This is the first time that Charlevoix has hosted both a Class C

Rathburn Dies, Chamber Leader

John F. Rathburn, 58, local businessman died Saturday at Charlevoix Hospital where he was a patient for 10 days.

Masonic funeral rites were held Monday at the Winchester Funeral Home by Rev. A. Robert Harrison. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

A NATIVE OF Lake City, where he was born Jan. 27, 1906, Mr. Rathburn, a printer by trade, first came to Charlevoix in the mid-1920's as an employee at the Charlevoix Courier.

He left here in the late '20's and was at Rockford and several other Southern Michigan cities before returning here in 1946 to again be associated with the Courier. In 1949 he opened his own shop, the Rathburn Print Shop, which he

Polar Bears Romp Again PLAN CLUB TO STAGE WINTER SPECTACULARS

Charlevoix intends to recapture the Michigan winter sports spotlight next year.

Bob Neff reports a completely independent winter sports club is being organized. The club's sole purpose will be to promote and stage a massive annual winter sports spectacular.

ALL CHARLEVOIX area citizens are being invited to join the club. In fact, Neff said Charlevoix's chances for a successful winter sports event depends on active participation by many citizens.

The club, Neff said, will be called the "Polar Bear Club", deriving its name from the community's first winter sports group organized in the late 1920's.

An initial public meeting to get club plans and memberships rolling will be called as soon as the district basketball tournament ends.

The Polar Bear Club will be solely responsible for financing and staging the winter sports events. Neff said it will be independent from the Chamber of Commerce.

THE CLUB IDEA came from a recent meeting of the newly-formed Chamber of Commerce Winter Sports Committee, of which Neff is chairman.

The committee, Neff said, decided it could be more effective and financially more solvent if it organized as a separate club. This will make it possible to raise funds and have hundreds of members from the general public.

"We want to bring Charlevoix back to life in the winter," he said.

Neff urged anyone with ideas on making the Charlevoix winter

PTA Fair Nets Record Profit

Charlevoix's PTA Fair hit the big time. Co-chairman Mrs. Clarence Smith reports the fair netted a clear $1,000 profit.

This, Mrs. Smith said, is thought to be the biggest profit ever raised by the PTA with one event. The many people who voluntarily contributed long hours to making the fair successful were thanked by Mrs. Smith and Co-Chairman Fritz Puffpaff.

AMONG BIG MONEY makers for the fair were the magic show, cake walk, country store and the chicken dinner, Mrs. Smith said.

Would Up Pay at Top To $7,400 Faculty Not Pressing Issue

A proposal to raise teachers salaries between $300 and $800 a year was presented to the Board of Education Monday.

Del Terrill, math and science teacher, reported a teachers' salary committee plan to the board that would hike beginning salaries to $4,800 in 1964-65 and put the maximum for next year at $7,426.

SUPT. REX MILLIGAN estimated the hike could cost the district approximately $33,000 next year.

"I think for the moment this is a matter of information," board president Darrell Dinwiddie said. The board made no attempt to move on the salary increases.

"This has to be realistically faced," Milligan told the board. "I don't think there are any teachers who don't realize we are limited by the budget."

Terrill did not ask the board for a decision. Nor did he indicate teachers are expecting or requesting the board to approve the proposal.

TERRILL SAID THAT if Charlevoix Public School teachers salaries do not increase, they will soon be behind other districts, creating a major problem in hiring and keeping faculty members.

He said the "salary projection" for the next three school years is based on trends around northern Michigan and other areas of the state.

Board members were told in their agenda sheet that "In keeping with our policy of projecting salaries of teachers in our schools, I (Milligan) have requested the salary study committee to submit a proposal projecting salaries for the next three years. Mr. Del Terrill, a representative from the committee will be present to present a progress report of their study."

THE THREE YEAR proposal, as presented by Terrill on mimeographed sheets, gives teachers raises for seniority, graduate study and degrees, including doctorate degrees. Under the plan the maxi-

Students tickets will be sold at night with Boyce Falls meeting participating schools and will not be available at the door. However, tickets for students in the sixth grade and under may be purchased at the door if necessary. H. E. Hurdman, tournament manager, said.

Adult tickets, costing $1.00 each, will be sold at the door on game night. There will be no advance sale or reserve seats, he added.

TOURNAMENT OFFICIALS for Class C games on Tuesday and Thursday will be Richard Johnson and Don Swaney and on Wednesday and Saturday James Emms and John Budinski.

Bob Bacon and Gary Mischley will handle the Class D games on Tuesday and Thursday and Harris Schreiner and Herb Nieuwkoop the games on Wednesday and Saturday.

The Class C district winner will advance to the regional tournament at Petoskey and the Class D winner to the regional meet at Traverse City.

Rambling

they've ever had. These kids often don't have enough to do. So turn them loose on politics. Man, it could be the best sport democracy has seen. All that energy landing square on the back of government and politicians . . .

It isn't very consistent to tell us a person's judgment isn't mature at 18. No one could be absurd enough to suggest it is at 21, or 55. Some people have it. Some don't. Those that do, improve with time.

But, as it is, we now sanction voting by draft dodgers, child beaters, men who drink up the money their children need for food, and worse. (There's even a rumor about Michigan that men who use worms to catch trout are allowed to vote.)

GAYLORD'S VICTORY over the Rayders was a heartbreaker to many CHS patriots. The defeat cost us the league crown. But the Courier's Hilda Gibson—who's as loyal a Rayder fan as any—is pretty decent about the whole thing. "If we've got to lose, I'm glad it was to Gaylord," Hilda says.

Gaylord hasn't had a loop tie in going on two decades. Hilda points out, "They sorta deserve it. And they really wanted it. The mayor even proclaimed 'basketball week'."

Charlevoix has enough laurels in its war bag so it isn't going to lose any dignity because of this one loss, Hilda cootends.

EARL YOUNG is a constant source of amazement. For a couple minutes one day he had us believing the stones he is so fond of—and has done so much for Charlevoix with—actually grow bigger for him. And then he pointed out a piece of "Beaver Island mahogany." "I still don't have that one figured out."

Then the other day I learned we did him a wrong. I haven't felt like as big a loss since coming to Charlevoix. It seems that the real backbone of the winter sports picture display in the downtown store window came straight from Earl's files.

We were under the mistaken understanding they were largely provided by Campbell's Boot Shop and the Courier (both of which supplied some of them). Now we learn that the display would hardly be worth a glance if Earl and Mrs. Young hadn't spent some two hours digging through their old pictures.

★ Ambulance

day no doctor is available in East Jordan. If a doctor accompanies the city ambulance the city is covered, Lilak said.

"WE FEEL OUR people are entitled to this service, but now we are in a position where we wonder if we shouldn't drop it," the mayor said.

The city's ambulance service is the only one in East Jordan, Hammond said. The city charges a fee to persons using the service.

Boyne City Manager James Anthony said insurance agents have assured him Boyne City's ambulance service is insured against this risk.

Earl has contributed too much to making Charlevoix beautiful and unique for us to slight him in any way.

Incidentally, we hear lots of criticism of the A frame house he's building on Round Lake. But, even if some of you don't like to admit it, it's another one of those things that is going to be a Charlevoix landmark we'll all point to, and that will keep outsiders ever mindful of Charlevoix. My only regret is that I can't afford to buy it.

ED REBMAN, county extension director from over Boyne City way, has an electric coffee pot that oughta have a dog license or be impounded by Joe Etienne.

A lively discussion—at last Thursday evening's county planning commission meeting in Boyne City ended abruptly. Ears strained. Two or three people pointed out there was a puppy outside whining to get in. Talking around a mouthful of cigar, Rebman announced it was only his coffee pot perking in the corner.

OUR MYSTERY picture contest is getting us in an awful jam with an awful lot of people. Last week our telephone lines were so busy at least six different people ended up talking to each other at once.

We have only two lines into the office. And that's more than we can handle if Hilda is alone and Tom and I are out. Some weeks we've had 50 people call between 4 and 4:30 p.m. When 20 or 30 people dial our number at once the Liberty exchange is thrown into a panic.

We're looking for a better way to have people get their answers to us. If you can think of one let us know.

YOU'VE HEARD about these 15 shave to a blade razor blades? Has anyone had nerve enough to put them to the test? If so I'd like to see a close-up of their chin right after the 15th shave. Maybe I'm just chicken, but it makes me shiver to think of it.

★ Retirement

other vote of the people. East Jordan employees also have a Social Security.

EMPLOYEES OLD enough to retire now will be able to take immediate advantage of the plan, should voters approve it.

The only retirement program for Charlevoix city employees is Social Security.

WHERE IS IT? — If you're the first person to call the Courier after 4 p.m. today (Thursday) and correctly identify the location of this building you will win a free one year's subscription. Last week's mystery picture winner was Mrs. Joe Schmidt, who identified it as being the mail pick-up rig at the railroad depot. (Courier Photo) operated until his death.

He attended the First Congregational Church, was a director of the Chamber of Commerce and a member of Charlevoix Lodge No. 282 F. & A. M., the DeWitt - Clinton Consistory and the Saladin Temple Shrine of Grand Rapids and the Traverse City Shrine Club. As a member of the latter group, he had made arrangements for local youngsters to attend the Shrine Circus in Grand Rapids for several years.

SURVIVING ARE his wife, the former Lottie Ayer Todd, whom he married in Charlevoix in 1940; three daughters, Mrs. William Richardson of Greensboro, N. C., Mrs. Don Bellinger of Elk Rapids and Mrs. James Williams, Swartz Creek; six grandchildren; a sister, Edna Rathburn of Lansing and three brothers, Jay of Milwaukee, Clare of Brighton and Claude of Lansing.

Mrs. Homer Brady and Mrs. Jack Hamill, the latter of Petoskey, are expected home this weekend from a two weeks visit to Nokomis, Fla., where they stayed with the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Taylor of Petoskey.

★ Teachers

mum salary for a teacher with a doctorate in 1967 would be $7,902.

Starting salary for a teacher with a BS degree is now $4,500. The maximum with a masters degree is approximately $6,400.

The board also moved to give "letters of intent" to retire in all but three teachers on the payroll this year. The three not expected to return are Mrs. Frieda Novak and Floranz Milner, who are retiring, and Mrs. Lucie Martin who does not plan to teach next year.

★ Road Signs

roads signed.

A new county road map has been published, for the first time designating all roads by name.

THE COUNTY HAS 162 miles of primary roads. Another 564 miles are designated as local roads.

Hamilton said the Road Commission hopes to begin signing local roads as soon as possible. But this program depends on township cooperation.

★ Railroad Withdrawals

the trend to abandon northern rail lines, set now by New York Central and Pennsylvania, will spread to include the Chesapeake and Ohio (C & O) line through Charlevoix to Petoskey.

After attending the two Boyne City meetings, the Courier asked Charlevoix city and Chamber of Commerce officials if they have been in contact with the C & O. Representatives from both Charlevoix groups said they have not, and indicated they doubt there is any reason for concern.

The Courier has written to Howard Skidmore, C & O vice president in charge of public relations, requesting a statement on the railroad's plans for this area.

Robert Davis, Planning Commission member from Boyne City, said area businessmen have almost quit using rail service because it is not dependable.

JAMES PORTER, another commission member from Boyne City, said the railroad, like all utilities, has an obligation to provide service. This obligation, he said, comes before profit.

The line Pennsylvania has requested permission to abandon runs through Boyne Falls. Boyne City is served by it by a connecting line of the Boyne City Railroad. If Pennsylvania is granted permission to withdraw service the Boyne City Railroad will be left with no tie in.

State leaders have joined local people in predicting the railroad withdrawals would be a crucial mortal body blow to northern Michigan's growing industrial economy.

Approximately 150 Girl Scouts and leaders representing 15 troops of the Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council were present.

THEME OF THE Caper was

"International Friendship." It was held on World Thinking Day, the birth date of the founder of Scouting, during Girl Scout International Month. held in the United States.

During the all-day program, each troop presented a skit, game, song or a dance representing different countries. Centerpieces followed the same international theme.

Troop 218 of Cadillac was host troop. Kathy Galston of the troop was mistress of ceremonies.

Three Senior Girl Scouts of Troop 230 of Cadillac presented a "Scout's Own" on World Friendship.

ALL SCOUTS present contributed a dime to the "Dime for Dusk Fund" to be used for the Juliette Low World Friendship Fund.

At noon the Scouts enjoyed a nose-bag lunch.

Makel Names Men to Distribute Taxes

Though people give little thought to how their property taxes are set, usually being content to merely squawk about them, the subject is interesting and complex.

The little known six member Charlevoix County Tax Allocation Board pretty much controls tax rates in rural areas. Taxes being the life-blood of any government or school unit, this board can be considered about the most powerful in the county.

THE TAX ALLOCATION Board is responsible for splitting up the state authorized 15 mill tax limitation between townships, schools and county. It determines how much of the 15 mills each unit will be allowed to charge its citizens.

If a township, school district, or the county can't get along on the millage the Allocation Board gives it, a vote of the people is required to raise additional taxes.

Politicians, quite naturally, want to get the biggest possible chunk of the 15 mills for their local unit. Asking the public to approve additional taxes is seldom relished by a vote-seeker.

Three members of the Allocation Board are appointed by County Probate Judge John Makel. The other three — County Treasurer, Intermediate School District Superintendent and Chairman of Board of Supervisors finance committee — are required by state law

Teenagers Subject of BC Program

By CLARE BROWN
Home Economist

BOYNE CITY — We hear that today's teenagers are the most difficult youth of all time. The teenage period is frequently spoken of as one of stress and strain. It was Socrates who observed that the youth of his day often had bad manners, showed disrespect for elders and contempt for authority.

Are there reasons why it is more difficult to bring up youth today? In some ways it creates pressures. How can these pressures be reduced? How can parents best help?

PARENTS NEED to operate on a special wave length in order to be in tune with the teens. To be in tune means in part to try to understand the kind of problems which the young person must solve in the process of growing up.

Young people neither need nor want complete freedom in solving their problems. The kind of help that parents offer, however, should be more in keeping with the wish often expressed by teenagers — they wish their parents would treat them more like adults.

to serve on the board.

MAKEL THIS YEAR re-appointed Bill Carey of Charlevoix, Kenneth Diller of East Jordan and Guy Conkle of Boyne City. The three mandatory members are Lillis M. Flanders, treasurer; Clarence F. Rabach, finance committee, and Charles Robinson, Intermediate School District. County Clerk F. R. Bulow is clerk of the board, but not a voting member.

The board must hold its first meeting April 20 to distribute millage for the 1964 tax roll. Other meetings will be held as needed. The board must finish its business no later than the first Monday in June.

Judge Makel emphasized the importance of the Allocation Board. He would like to see the public more interested and concerned. Seventeen pages of information on the board's duties and the laws it operates under were recently released to the Courier by Makel.

IN SELECTING THE three members to the board, Makel said he looks for someone who is "not too old or not too young."

They should be persons generally well educated, but also well versed in local, state and county government and who have the interests of the whole county at heart, he said.

The judge also feels board members should be men, or women, who feel strongly that our society's future lies with our youth.

Board members, he said, "cannot be politicians, they should have no bearing on who is selected not be harassed, or bogged down by ideas that prevailed years ago," for the board.

"I am interested in pay-as-you-go government, and want these kind of people on the board," Makel said.

fixed candidates be encouraged to seek office.

The Allocation Board should make communities, and school districts face up to their responsibilities by asking voters to approve additional taxes if they are needed, he said. If voters don't want to pay higher taxes then government and school leaders should set their budgets accordingly, the judge said.

Unless a person has been a success in his private life, he cannot be trusted to conduct and handle public business, Makel said. He added that he feels government officials should receive high pay because only in this way can quality candidates be encouraged to seek office.

ACTUALLY, THE Allocation Board only decides who will get seven of the state authorized 15 mills. State law requires that school districts get 4 of the 15 mills, the county 3 and townships one.

Last year the Allocation Board granted 8.4 mills to school districts, one mill to townships, and 5.6 mills to the county for its various operations.

Cities raise their own taxes as they are not controlled by the 15 mill limitation. Townships and school districts that levy more than the allocated tax have received this permission from voters.

County Planners Adopt By-laws

BOYNE CITY — The Charlevoix County Planning Commission set the stage for action in its meeting here Thursday.

The Commission's eight members unanimously adopted by-laws and put its official OK to a revised Overall Economic Development Program (OEDP).

THESE TWO MATTERS had to be settled, commission secretary Ed Rebmam said, before the group could get down to the planning of its work.

The by-laws call for four regular commission meetings annually. They will be held the second Wednesday of January and July and the Wednesday following the second Monday of April and October.

County Board of Supervisors meetings. The commission agreed it will occur during the twice-annual should have a member report at all supervisors meetings.

In addition to the four regular meetings, the commission will hold as many special meetings as necessary. Meeting notices will be sent by mail to all members.

no commission member, or person on an advisory committee will receive pay. Walter Thorsen, chairman, said the planners will "want to solicit as many people" as it can for committees.

The OEDP outlines the commission's goals for improving Charlevoix County's economic condition. This lengthy report opens the door for the county to take advantage of various federal redevelopment programs.

Bulow Cites Confusion Caused by Constitution

Charlevoix County is caught in the middle due to omissions in the new state constitution. And County Clerk F. R. Bulow doesn't see any way out for the county.

Bulow attended a recent meeting in Lansing called by Gov. George Romney to sound out county officials on the confusion about elections and county government caused by the constitution.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY's clerk who has been in office longer than all but two others in Michigan, came back with the opinion no one can possibly predict what will happen.

As Bulow sees it, he expects the county officials, including himself, to be on the ballot this November for four year terms. However, he isn't staking anything on it.

There is also a strong possibility he and other elected county officials will automatically have their present terms extended two years by the legislature.

If this happens the next county election will be November 1966.

BULOW SAID HE has no preference. Whether the legislature calls for elections this fall or holds officials over doesn't matter to him.

But he does wish they would come to a decision soon. Setting up the machinery for an election takes time. There are also going to be complex problems caused by a massive number of candidates if county officials run this November.

The same confusion holds on the township elections. Township officials were to be elected in April 1965. However, the new constitution abolishes spring elections and again, fails to state when township officials will be elected.

The other major bugaboo in the constitution concerning counties is provision for county home rule. The constitution allows home rule, but does not spell out what it will amount to. Consequently several controversial proposals are now before the legislature.

URBAN COUNTIES are championing home rule. It will, Bulow said, definitely streamline county government for metropolitan areas. County home rule would be similar to city government, only on a county-wide basis. This would give counties more power to determine their own responsibilities.

Rural county leaders are waging an active battle against home rule proposals.

However, Bulow says he sees no objections to it. The proposal would give the voters of a county control over whether it went from its present status to home rule.

BULOW DOES NOT feel Charlevoix County would benefit from home rule. He points out Charlevoix County has long been recognized as one of the most progressive in outstate Michigan.

The Board of Supervisors here is head and shoulders above those in other areas, he feels. Charlevoix County was a leader in tax equalization and court house financing, Bulow said.

There may be a time, Bulow said when Charlevoix County outgrows its present form of government. For the present, though, "Charlevoix County is right on the top," Bulow said.

"If the people want home rule, they can vote for it. If they don't want it they can vote it down. And I think that's fair," Bulow said.

Waterfront Plans Depend on State

Plans to expand the Round Lake harbor continue to hinge on the Michigan Waterways Commission (MWC) Mayor E. D. Hawley said after a meeting with a commission representative Monday.

The city's engineering firm, Un-JVS victims

Charlevoix's Little Rayders fell victim in the Gaylord Reserve on Friday night in a game that say ited Associates of Cheboygan, estimated the harbor improvement and expansion project will cost approximately $80,000.

JV's Victims At Gaylord

THIS WILL INCLUDE new piers ($30,000), bulkheads ($30,000) and a building for showers, toilets and harbor master's office ($20,000).

Mayor Hawley said the Waterways Commission has tentatively agreed to go halfway, 50-50, on the harbor project. However, City Council feels the state agency should shoulder more of the cost.

The city has $22,000 invested in property along the harbor, Hawley said. He said the commission will be asked to consider this $22,000 as part of the city's share of the project's cost.

If the MWC goes along with the proposal to carry more of the cost, Hawley said it is hoped work can begin this summer.

IF THE COMMISSION will not accept the city's proposal, Hawley does not expect the piers to be put work to begin on the harbor front building.

The building is expected to be located directly at the foot of Clinton St.

the local lads on the short end of a 52-34 score.

The young Blue Devils, caught up in the "title fever", that had hit Gaylord, rolled to a 12-7 first period lead that Charlevoix never was able to overcome though they did outscore their hosts 12-10 in the second period to trim the lead to 22-19.

AS THE SECOND half got underway, the young Devils pulled away to a 46-27 third period lead before settling to a 52-34 victory.

John Allen took over the scoring duties for the victors, pouring in 24 points to pace the game.

Steve Smith had 11 to top the Rayders scoring. Larry Skipper, Josh contributed eight. John Ferguson, seven, Neil Cross, six and Levi McClellan, two.

Mark Bourgoia, Allan Lusk, Stewart Cunningham, Gary Crain, Ted Weidman and Aaron Brock also saw action.

Aluminum Tops For State Boats

LANSING — A total of 314,804 motorboats — ranging from low horsepower to puddle-jumpers in the most popular under 16-foot class all the way to the sleek Dolphin, a longer than 65-foot yacht owned by the late Horace Dodge — were registered by the Secretary of State's office in 1963.

Secretary of State James M. Hare said that of the total, 93.2 percent or 293,696 boats were outboards.

IRVIAVEST registration was in the less than 16-foot class — a total of 252,131. Next most popular size was the 16 to 26 foot class, where 55,817 boats were registered. Less than 5,000 boats were registered in the 26 to 40 foot class, and only 536 were recorded in the 40 to 65 foot classification.

Aluminum, possibly because of its light weight, edged out wood as the most popular hull material. Of the boats identified by hull construction, aluminum recorded 88,281, while wood had 84,462. Plastic was growing in popularity with 43,461 registrations, while steel trailed with 18,312.

County Welfare Payments Hit $27,000 Monthly

BOYNE CITY — Charlevoix County's monthly welfare payroll totals approximately $27,000, according to a federal government report released here.

The U. S. Bureau of Family Services said old age assistance is being received by 345 people here. The county is said to have 1,776 residents over 65 years old. The 345 are receiving an average of $63 a month in welfare benefits.

NEEDY FAMILIES with 109 independent children, are receiving aid here. Payments average $31 each for the 108 children. Twenty-six disabled Charlevoix County adults between 18 and 65 are receiving $72 monthly.

City Gets Report on Diesels

Converting Charlevoix diesel generators from oil to natural gas is out of the question, an outside engineering firm has informed city council.

Cummins and Bernard, engineers of Ann Arbor, told councilmen in a report read Monday evening, that it would not be practical or feasible to convert the unused generators to natural gas.

ACTING ON THE engineers recommendation City Council authorized dismantling the 35 year old Norberg engine (450 kw) and selling it for scrap value.

Councilmen also approved a $260 a year salary increase for City Treasurer Annabelle Cunningham and Deputy Clerk Herb Campbell.

A bid of $903 to convert the City Hall heating plant to gas was accepted from John Mol.

CITY COUNCILMEN joined the fight to stop New York Central Railroad from abandoning its northeastern Michigan and Straits service. A resolution opposing the move was ordered sent to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Understudy Job Is Major Role

BY FRANK MARTIN

The word 'understudy' is defined as 'one trained to substitute for an actor or actress' . . . in basketball this is better known as 'bench strength' without which a team is lost.

This role is not an easy one to play . . . one must know all the lines, in this instance, the plays, and appear and participate in all practice sessions, just as any other team member.

In other words, do all the work with little opportunity to reap the rewards by playing regularly. However these players are always ready for the time when their names will appear in the starting line-up.

TWO SENIORS on this year's squad, Gary Stutzman and Pete Ance, may well be called the understudies of the squad. After better than a full season in the role, Stutzman has been promoted to a coveted starting position. Ance is still waiting for his chance after an occasional chance to substitute. Patience, determination and tenaciousness, all admirable traits, are among those developed by those who must sit on the bench and when they do get the nod, they can be depended upon to give their best.

This has been shown in the case of Stutzman who, after two years on the JV squad and one on the varsity, has come into his own. "Last year I resented having to sit on the bench but now that I'm playing regularly I realize I just wasn't ready" . . . quite an admission for a 17-year-old to make but proof that he is a finer person for having learned patience.

PETE IS STILL waiting, but if he doesn't make the starting five, still feels it's been worth the time. "I love sports, I love to compete, I love being part of a team and being with my friends. I do get to play occasionally so I think it's been worthwhile" was his comment regarding his spot on the squad.

Both youngsters have been active in sports . . . Gary played J.V.

FIRST IN 24 YEARS

Gaylord Due for Title

With a share of the Northern Michigan Class C championship their first since 1940, at stake, the Gaylord Blue Devils, playing outstanding ball all the way, dumped the Charlevoix Rayders 76-64 on their home floor Friday night.

The Blue Devils have only to eliminate Harbor Springs to win a clear title to the championship they have sought for the past 24 years.

CHARLEVOIX is now in a second place tie with Pellston. Should Gaylord lose their final game at Harbor Springs, which hardly seems likely, there could be a three-way tie should the Rayders and the Hornets post wins over Mancelona and East Jordan respectively.

In Friday's game Charlevoix and Gaylord played to a 17-17 first quarter tie with the Rayders having scored eight field goals plus a charity shot. Gaylord had five free throws and six field goals.

As the second half got under way the Blue Devils continued to find the range, dumping in 16 points to the Rayders 12 as the game went into the second half.

With eight minutes remaining, the Rayders went into their best period of the game, scoring 18 points. The Blue Devils, however, with victory and the title within their reach, dumped in 21 points for the 12-point win.

GARY STUTZMAN paced the game for the Rayders with 17 points followed by Jim Uhrick with 12. Del Terrill with eight, Dave Norton seven and Bruce Kroken with six.

Ken Parrish, who has been benched with a back injury, saw limited action, scoring seven points. Dave Smith had three and Warren Belding four. Jack Uhrick and Randy Carey also saw action.

Big Tom Lick, who last week set a new scoring record of 44 points, had only half that number in this game. Ron Snell, who left the game with five fouls late in the final period, had 16, Ron Jenkins, 15, Bill East 11 and Don Fitzek, eight. John McBride with four points and John Jenkins also played.

Final Week in Loop Cage Play Will Lack Rivalry of Others

Northern Michigan Class C teams will wrap up their 1963-64 schedule this week with Harbor Springs hosting the league-leading Gaylord Blue Devils in the only game that could make any major change in the final standings.

Charlevoix will host Mancelona, Pellston will travel to East Jordan and Boyne City will invade Grayling.

IN DEFEATING Charlevoix last week, Gaylord assured itself of a share of the title. However, there is the possibility, though slight, that Harbor Springs could upset the high flying Blue Devils thus throwing the latter into a three-way tie with Charlevoix and Pellston for the title now held by the Hornets and the Rams.

In their first meeting on the Gaylord floor, the Rams were defeated by a 10 point (61-51) margin. However, they have aspirations of closing out the season in second place in loop standings and the only way this can be accomplished is by upsetting Gaylord. This is not impossible for the Rams have a fine outfit that is near its peak. Gaylord, is also, but the pressure will be on them so the Rams are counting on this and the fact that the game will be on their home floor to bolster their chances for a win.

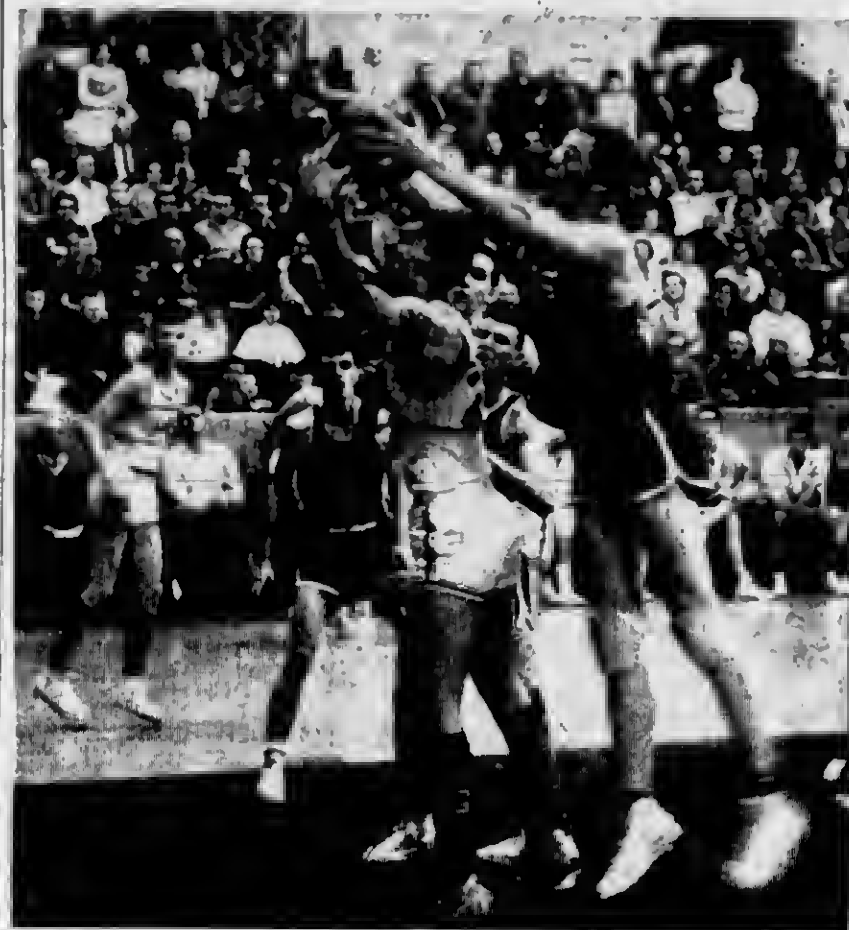

There is no denying the abilities of the Blue Devils who have the tallest player in the league and its top scorer, Tom Lick. Added to that, they are within reach of their first title in 24 years, certainly something to fight for.

In a league where the unusual is par for the season, this season promises to be a 'cliff-hanger' ing for the Rams in hopes of an upset.

AT CHARLEVOIX the Rayders will be hosting the cellar dwelling Mancelona Ironmen who gave the local cagemen a real battle when they clashed at Mancelona.

However, if the Rayders play ball they should end the season in a second place tie with the Hornets who will be playing at East Jordan. Meanwhile, both the Rayders and the Hornets will be root-

VICTORY AT LAST — By losing Friday, in spite of hard fought action like this, Charlevoix almost assured Gaylord of its first cage title in more than two decades. (Courier Photo by Larry Edwards)

DEAR JITTERY: Use the stairs. As for other closed doors, it might be wise to meet behind a few of them with a good psychiatrist to see if the cause of your phobia can be found. Stores Must Earn Loyalty

LAST WEEK'S COURIER public opinion survey indicates Charlevoix families are extremely loyal to their local businessmen. If possible, and reasonable, Charlevoix shoppers are emphatically in favor of spending their dollars here.

Businessmen, however, should not sit back, secure in the feeling that this loyalty is owed to them. It isn't.

RETAILERS HAVE an obligation to their patrons and the community to provide the best possible selection of merchandise at competitive prices in modern, airy, well-lighted stores.

Several Charlevoix merchants have shown this interest in their business. They have lowered ceilings, installed adequate lighting, modern display facilities and remodeled their store fronts. But a few others have pocketed their profits, as though they have no obligation to customers.

We realize small town merchants cannot buy at the prices available to huge chain stores in other communities. Local prices, however, are seldom enough higher to pay the cost of driving (at 10 cents a mile and $1.50 for your time) to the nearest bigger city. You have to save at least $5 to even pay the cost of the trip.

Charlevoix people whom we hear being harshly critical of our downtown business district should take a close look at other nearby towns of similar size. In comparison Charlevoix is a jewel.

AND, UNLIKE MANY other towns, Charlevoix's business district is not on the downward path. On the contrary, New store fronts appear every year. Interior conditions are remodeled and expanded. Prices and selections are improving almost monthly.

OUR HOPE IS that all merchants will join this movement to steadily improve.

Lives or Politics?

"IF SOME TRAGEDY should wipe out the entire population — every man, woman and child — in a town the size of Ulica or Kalkaska or Grand Blanc or Frankfort, public shock and reaction would be unmeasurable.

Yet this is what happened on our highways last year," Gov. George Romney recently told Michigan weekly newspaper editors. And he added, "What makes it even more tragic is that it isn't necessary. We have the resources and ability to cut this shameful toll."

THE GOVERNOR contends highway safety is a vital part of highway operation. He urges the legislature to authorize diversion of some highway tax funds to supporting more and better highway patrol.

Saving lives on our highways is certainly as important as building them. The only reason for not recognizing this is, we suspect, that some lobbyists for road builders will be displeased.

From Charlevoix's Past . . .

Things have changed since this picture was taken 30 or 40 years ago on the Round Lake Harbor. Cars and people of another era are lined up on the docks awaiting the arrival of a passenger ship. Today's passenger ships may be fewer, but the Round Lake Harbor is still the center of much summer activity.

Major changes immediately evident between today and this photograph is the new bridge, a sewage disposal plant on the site these people are standing and improved harbor facilities. Note the old bridge in the background. This picture was loaned the Courier by Earl Young. Earl also dug out several other interesting photographs from earlier Charlevoix days. We'll run them, along with those other people bring us, in a weekly feature. So look around and see if you don't believe it's winter. But I'm still sure that there's going to be a lot of cold weather between

SCHOOL REPORT CARD

Homework in Elementary School

By JEANNETTE NOVOTNY

Elementary Teacher.

Homework has always been an ugly word to some students and their parents. To others it means a pleasant experience.

Usually it is not necessary for the student in the early elementary grades to do much homework. As he advances in school more learning problems arise and there is greater need for more extensive independent study.

STUDIES SHOW THAT homework should be assigned on a basis of pupil need — such as when a particular difficulty is to be overcome, when pupils are not working up to expectancy, when there is need to broaden pupil understanding, when specific abilities need developing, when a capable child is slow and needs more time to finish his work, or when it serves as enrichment for a bright child.

There would be little excuse for assigning pages of arithmetic, spelling, or other drill-type homework to an entire class just for the purpose of doing homework. Most pupils would not profit by such an assignment since they are already familiar with the work. Homework must meet a need or it may only be considered "busy work." Our children do not need that.

Homework is usually thought to be school work assigned by the teacher, finished at home, and returned for the teacher to check. In the elementary grades children need homework occasionally for the reason already mentioned. But this should not be necessary night after night. If such is the case parents should have a conference with the child's teacher as to how best both may help the child.

If the homework is done by the parent so the child will get a better grade, naturally, it is of no value. Often a parent does have to give a little assistance or guidance. Indirectly the parents benefit because through this they learn about the child's activities at school. They get a better idea of how to relate home and school interests for a child's greatest growth.

IF THE CHILD does not have homework, it would be valuable to the child if the parents asked him to talk about what he was learning. Just the telling of it will establish it more firmly in his mind. As the child sees that his parents are really interested in his work, he will have more to tell since it will take on a greater importance for him.

Another type of homework, not necessarily assigned, is research related to the material discussed in social studies, science, or other classes. Many read or discuss it with their parents. A student who is able to contribute something interesting to his class has a feeling of well being which encourages him to do further research on his own.

Reading is probably the most important homework children can do, since there is never enough time in the school day to read all the leisurely pace a good book demands. Home is the place for extending reading pleasure.

The child's physical and emotional health are factors which should be considered along with assigned homework. Children are already tired after six hours in school. Lengthening the study time to eight o'clock would not be beneficial to many children. It is possible to build up an emotional block within the child if conditions for study are not right. A tired and exasperated parent (not a child) trying to help an equally tired child is not a good combination. Under such circumstances little is accomplished.

THERE IS NO ONE answer "Homework or No?" for all elementary children. All factors must be considered and each case is individual matter.

A Lift for Living

God Still Has His Say

By REV. H. E. KOHN

We live in a world where appearances are deceptive, where the extraordinary often looks like everyday stuff.

The Gospel of John tells of an event in the life of Jesus, close to the end of his earthly ministry. He had dined with His friends and He then went to Jerusalem where a great crowd gathered to see Him. There followed a clamorous public demonstration of acclaim. Nearly the entire city turned out for the occasion, some out of curiosity and others in admiration edging on worship. But Jesus seemed aloof from it all. He sensed that His death was near. Perhaps it would come at the hands of some of those who now watched him ride through the streets. He trusted that good would come from His dying, and he prayed, "Father, glorify thy name." "Then," says the Gospel, "a voice came from heaven, 'I have glorified it and I will glorify it again.' The crowd standing by heard it and said it thundered. Others said 'An angel has spoken to Him.'"

THERE WAS A crowd in which everyone heard the same sound. But how variously the people interpreted the sound. The Gospel writer informs us that the sound was from heaven and bore a message of reassurance to Jesus. A few thought an angel had spoken. But most members of the throng standing near the Master lightly shrugged the matter off, saying, "It's thundering."

This passage of Scripture reminds us of something vital about human nature wherever we find it — in ancient Jerusalem or in our town today: we are not so much affected by what happens to us as we are by our interpretation of what happens. We can be like the Jerusalem crowd in the presence of greatness and miss it, or we can be caught up in an earth-shaking event and be quite unaffected by it all. We sometimes shrug off the highest things we see because they seem so commonplace. We look at what others see and hear what others hear, but we miss the grandeur and the meaning.

Most advancements in science are based on someone's noticing what others missed, upon someone's reverent regard for the high revelation that lurks behind life's drab commonplaceness. For centuries men watched lightning as it streaked across the sky, and they casually said "It will soon rain. I saw lightning." But their sight was not blessed with insight and they beheld nothing in lightning but light and the possibility of disaster in anything the lightning might strike.

THEN BENJAMIN Franklin began to wonder if there was more than meets the eye in lightning. Suppose our eyes missed something significant. In 1752, Franklin experimented with a silk kite, a piece of silk ribbon, a key string, a piece of wire, and a key fastened to the kite string, and raised the kite in a thunderstorm. Franklin got sparks from the key tied to the rain-soaked kite string. This was one of the earliest investigations into the nature of electricity and how it is conducted, and all the world has profited from the refusal of one man to shrug his shoulders at a flash of light in the sky and mutter, "It is only lightning."

Franklin knew that all commonplace things will give up meaning to the alert and sensitive person as certainly as mountains surrender precious ores to those who look beneath the surface.

Our nation's greatness can be largely credited to men of courageous insight who looked with hope upon events that shook others with utter despair. In January of 1778 George Washington wrote from Valley Forge to the President of the Continental Congress, reporting that only 572 of his troops were capable of duty. "Unless there is a great and capital change, the army must inevitably be reduced to one or other of these things: starve, dissolve, or disperse in order to obtain subsistence in the best manner they can. Almost 3,000 of Washington's men were unfit for duty because of nakedness. Many were barefooted. Some men described their interpretation of events was that the war was unendurable and quite hopeless. Washington stayed through discouraging, heart-breaking days, suffered the woes of his soldiers and interpreted the conflict as we by or pursuit. All saw the air facts. But how differently they interpreted them!"

IN PITY AT MAN'S dullness and insensitivity to God's activity Hans Denck once exclaimed, "O Lord, how does it happen in the poor old world that Thou are great and nobody finds Thee, that Thou callest so loudly and nobody hears Thee, that Thou art so near and nobody feels Thee, that Thou givest Thyself to everybody and nobody knows Thy name? My flee from Thee and say they can not see Thee: they stop their ears and say they cannot hear Thee. Could we miss hearing God's voice, amidst the clashing noise of international strife in our time? Perhaps, is it possible that we have interpreted to be a meaningless uproar of unpleasant war events is the judgment of heaven, saying something significant to the children of earth, telling us that we no longer have a choice, as we once did, between justice and justice? The option is between understanding and good will or annihilation. That sound we hear, is earth's thunder or is God having His say? And how about your personal, daily life? If your situation seems drab and unattractive do a blame your circumstances, your impoverishment of spirit, riches. Accuse yourself. Tell you self that you are not aware of God because you are looking for less things. Explain to yourself that you do not hear His voice because earth's lesser sounds are too loud to you, or when God speaks you misinterpret the voice to be "only duty calling" or "a twinge of conscience" or "mere impulse" to perform kindness.

God still speaks, and in all His still searches for those who will hear and recognize and obey His voice.

May I air a pet peeve? . . . It's one I'm sure is shared by quite a few others, especially those who worked on the recent election . . . I lost count of the number of times people said to me, when I called to remind them to vote, "I didn't know my one little vote was so important!" . . . What if everyone had that idea? That's how Hitler and Khrushchev and Castro and the like come into being . . .

With our own general election coming up in April and with the county, state and national elections on the docket for later in the year, wouldn't the loss of yourself as a citizen and if you are not registered, do so at once. . . And then, when the time comes to vote comes around, plan to make your way to the polls and cast that "one little vote" that meant so much to our forefathers and the people of our country down through the years that they have given their lives to protect it. . . And now that I've got that out of my system I'll step down from my soapbox . . .

AND MAY I TAKE this opportunity to say "Happy Birthday" to all those people who have a real birthday only once every four years . . . those Leap Year babies . . . among them Mrs. Edward Golden and Jeanette Novak . . . I know there are many more so forgive me for not remembering. But have yourself a ball, come the weekend . . .

One of our former Charlevoixers, Jim Bowman, now coach at the U. S. Air Force Academy, got a mention in Clank Stoppels' column in the Grand Rapids Press a Sunday or so ago . . . Jim was in Michigan for the Coach of the Year football clinic, and according to the story, was becoming the loss of several All-State players to such places as the Ivy League, and the U. of M. among other schools. . . Our Jim wants them for the Falcons . . .

If you come around a corner in Bonito Springs, Fla., and see a sign "The Charlevoix Market," please, please don't lose control of the car and end up at the base of the closest palm tree . . . There really is such a place and it's operated by three Charlevoixians who decided they'd prefer the balmy breezes of the South to the icy blasts off Lake Michigan (Boy were they wrong this year!) . . . Anyway, they traipsed off to Florida, cruised around, came upon what looked like a good spot and hung out a shingle. . . They're Edward (Doony) Heise, Frank Smith and Rodney Belding . . . And among the tomatoes, squash, cucumbers and grapefruit is another sign urging everyone to "Visit beautiful Charlevoix, Michigan!" . . . You can't say these fellows aren't spreading the fame of our community . . . and gaining lots of goodwill too, I'll bet . . .

Wouldn't you be interested in what the comments might be? . . . Perhaps I'd better suggest it . . .

Can you believe it? . . . The month's more than half gone and soon spring will be here . . . Still can't believe it's winter. . . But I'm still sure that there's going to be a lot of cold weather between

IT'S YOUR OPINION THAT COUNTS

Propose Community Center Here

IF MONEY WAS not a consideration, what would you do for the community of Charlevoix?

In other words, what do you think is the one thing that would do Charlevoix the most good? Forget that it costs money. Pretend truckload of the stuff dropped out of the sky on City Hall or the school. What would you do with it that would benefit the most people here for the longest period?

EVEN IF IT isn't very realistic, this kind of question can produce some very interesting answers. There's no telling what would come out if we stopped thinking of everything in terms of money.

The Courier asked this question of nine persons last week for the "It's Your Opinion That Counts" survey.

Surprisingly, we thought, the answers varied only slightly. We sort of expected people to come up with some whoopers. In fact, we suspected there would be proposals to build a lake-spanning monorail to Beaver Island, set up industrial plants to provide jobs, and equally unusual ideas.

But people evidently are not geared to thinking too far out of line with the possible.

The answers we received show that Charlevoix people are largely concerned with our youth. Though they don't feel our children are a real problem, they do think something more should be done for them.

MRS. O. G. NORTHCUTT, 203 Clinton, said she would like to see more for the kids. Her idea is that a civic center should be constructed. It would have an organized program of games and events to interest a wide variety of groups. Such things as ping pong, pool, etc., would be offered in a healthy environment.

HARLOW BETTIS, 203 Burns, doesn't think Charlevoix needs anything. As far as he's concerned it is beautiful here. "I don't think we could do anything to improve it much," he said.

Charlevoix needs some more retail stores, according to MRS. HAROLD BLACK, 519 Petoskey. New people to town, Mrs. Black said, often miss the more extensive shopping facilities they are used to. She feels additional retail outlets would be good for the community and everyone in it.

Another vote for a community center came from MRS. LESLIE EVERTS, 114 W. Lincoln. Young people, she said, need consideration for year around recreation. Such a center could be organized with games and activities. It would provide services for both children and elderly people. Civic and club groups could also use it for a meeting place.

MRS. ALBERT HAYES, 1134 Eaton, proposed a park for children. Her idea is for a huge playground with outdoor activities.

A charity fund to help people who are physically unable to help themselves was suggested by MRS. RUD HEISE, 310 Mason. She said she had in mind disabled fathers and handicapped children. Mrs. Heise would also add onto the new hospital.

ART OSBORN, 300 Park St., said the first thing he would do is hire new school teachers, all between the ages of 25 and 30. Osborn also feels private investigators and auditors should be hired to check on the school, city and county.

A recreation program for young people also gets WALTER JARVIS' vote. Jarvis, 302 Hurlbut, isn't sure teenagers would take advantage of a community center, but thinks it would be worth a try.

He said they are now out all hours of the night because they don't know what to do. A community center might keep them from wandering around and give them a good place to pass the time, Jarvis said.

MR. AND MRS. RALPH DOAN, 308 Meech, said their five sons don't have any trouble finding something to do. The Doans have lived in Charlevoix a year. They said the community seems to have everything their children need. You just have to get acquainted with the town to see what is offered and then take advantage of it, they said.

ASCS Offers Advance Payment For Diverting '64 Feed Grain

Growers who take part in the 1964 Feed Grain Program may receive a part of the diversion payment in advance, Robert Reidel, chairman of the Charlevoix County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. The program is available for corn and barley.

Up to one-half of the estimated total diversion payments may be made in advance, at the request of the participant, at the time of signing up or as soon as possible after that time. The rest of the diversion payment and all of the price support payment offered by the program will be made next fall.

THE ADVANCE PAYMENT provision will be of substantial benefit to growers who can use some extra ready cash during the spring planting season.

The minimum amount that can be diverted is 20 percent of the total feed grain base—the maximum is 50 percent or 25 acres, whichever is the larger.

Eight Charlevoix County farmers have signed up to divert 90 acres from the production of corn and barley to conservation uses.

Last year 39 Charlevoix County farmers diverted more than 300 acres from the production of feed grains.

Sign-up will continue at the county ASCS office through March 27.

Corn Hybrids Pay Dividends

By ED REBMAN,
Extension Director

BOYNE CITY — The highest yielding corn hybrids in the 1963 Michigan corn performance trials have been named. They produced 14 bushels more per acre than the average of 190 hybrids tested over the state.

"Performance results show that you do not need to grow late maturing hybrids to obtain high yields," reports E. C. Rossman, crop scientist at Michigan State University, who conducted the tests. "The best early maturing hybrids will yield as much or more corn than late maturing hybrids."

"PLANTING EARLY maturing hybrids is one form of frost protection. Also, they can be harvested earlier when weather is more favorable and harvest losses are lower."

The hybrid corn trials were conducted at 12 locations in Michigan by the MSU crop science department in cooperation with seed corn companies.

A detailed report of performance records for all hybrids tested in 1962 and 1963 is presented in the Cooperative Extension publication entitled, "Corn Hybrids Compared for 1964," available from the Charlevoix Extension Office.

EAST JORDAN — The race for Third Ward councilman was narrowed down to Bernard Hammond incumbent and Vail Shepard in the primary election here. Hammond collected the biggest vote, Shepard collected the biggest vote, Shepard received 87. They defeated Mrs. Richard Hamerski, Hammond, and Shepard will now battle for the actual election in April. No other city offices were contested in the primary election.

PETOSKEY NEEDS $250,000

Area City Officials Eye Water Rate Woes

BOYNE CITY — Officials from nine area cities and villages put their heads together here last week to smooth out each others' problems.

The District meeting of the Michigan Municipal League was held at the Dilworth Hotel. Mayors, councilmen, village presidents and appointed officials from Boyne City, Boyne Falls, East Jordan, Charlevoix, Grayling, Petoskey, Ellsworth, Gaylord and Harbor Springs were on hand.

FINANCING CITY utilities, the need for heating ordinances, new legislation, and other problems somewhat unique to small Northern Michigan municipalities were discussed and rehearsed.

Water and sewer rates, especially, came in for a long hard look. Petoskey City Manager Richard Gorman, who chaired the meeting, said there simply is no hard and fast criteria for determining water and sewer rates.

He told the group Petoskey is in a pinch because it needs $250,000 worth of water line improvement and expansion. This need, Gorman said, cannot be dismissed. Growth and new building trends make it necessary.

PETOSKEY WATER rates may have to be raised, he said, to pay off revenue bonds that would be sold to obtain financing for the lines.

Petoskey is also pressed for better sewer lines, but Gorman said he did not see an immediate solution.

Officials seemed generally agreed that water and sewer systems should be partially supported by the general fund.

Boyne City Clerk William C. Underhill said his community's water system receives $7,000 annually from the general fund. He blamed this condition on the state's order that Boyne City build a sewage plant.

BOTH GRAYLING and Gaylord officials said they have to supplement their water and sewer departments from the general fund. With water departments losing money, instead of being self-sufficient, none of these communities have money on hand for needed expansion.

Charlevoix Councilman Bill Fochtman told the group Charlevoix is in exactly the opposite position. Charlevoix, he said, has approximately $79,000 cash on hand in its water fund. This will make it possible in the near future to expand water service to the north side of town.

It was pointed out that by staying ahead of the problem and forecasting it, Charlevoix will be able to improve its system without paying the high interest rates on bond issues.

CHARLEVOIX'S WATER rates were compared to others and found to be approximately half of those charged in Grayling.

A representative from Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. addressed the municipal leaders. He urged them to adopt heating ordinances to insure safe installation of new equipment.

Several city officials questioned that they could adequately enforce such an ordinance.

The group voted to accept the invitation of Ellsworth's representative to hold its April 22 meeting there.

Court Has Busy Week On Docket

Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown will convene the March court term in the Charlevoix County Building Monday, March 2.

Judge Brown is expected to hold court here throughout the first part of the month. Court opens daily at 10 a.m.

ON THE COURT calendar, prepared and released by County Clerk F. R. Bulow, are 12 criminal cases, 15 civil cases, 2 automobile negligence cases and 6 divorce cases.

On the jury list for the March term of court are 23 Charlevoix County residents. They are: John Thornton, Frank Kirwan, Zella Stewart, Robert Withers, Clarence Fortin, Lance Russ, Clayton Smith, Edward Zuznik, Carlton H. Smith, Vergene Whitfield, Tony Faculak, Phillip L. Burke, Bertrand McDonough, Frank Shepard, Henry Fitzpatrick, George Griffin, Henry Dougherty, Richard Hocquard, Curt W. Burlin, Albert W. Thorp, Andrew M. Miller, Clinton Blanchard, and Mary Allan Malpass.

Zoning Plans

ELLSWORTH — A public hearing on the proposed Antrim County zoning ordinance will be held in the County Court House, Bellaire, April 13.

The public will be invited to voice their comments on the new ordinance. The County Board of Supervisors is expected to adopt the ordinance after the public hearing.

Draft Board Calls Seven For Physicals

Seven Charlevoix County draft registrants have been ordered to report for pre-induction physical examinations Mar. 11, according to Mrs. Mary Bourgoing, clerk of the draft board.

Among them are Gerald E. Hazard, Gerald L. Johnson Jr., and Barry L. Lambert, all of Charlevoix.

OTHERS ARE JOSEPH V. Jarema, of Boyne Falls, Donald W. Johnson Jr., of East Jordan, Henry C. Zimmerman and Albert R. Stephenson, both of Boyne City.

Charlevoix county did not have a draft call request for March.

Earlier this month, three men left for induction and 11 for pre-induction examinations.

Milk Men Meet

EAST JORDAN — Representatives from the East Jordan plant of Michigan Milk Producers' Association will join with other producers to discuss processing organizations in South Bend, Indiana on Thursday and Friday February 27 and 28, for the 1964 Annual Meeting of Mid-West Producers' Creameries, Inc.

Sundew Report

Since our last report in January there has been little activity involving the Sundew, thanks to the mild weather we've been experiencing.

After we completed the logistics work at Poe Reef light station on July 29, we joined the task group of Operation Oil Can for ice breaking assignments. We returned to Charlevoix on Jan. 29, remaining here until noon the next day when we departed for Milwaukee.

ARRIVING AT Milwaukee early the following day, we picked up our repaired ramp boat and then departed for Muskegon, having received orders from Operation Oil Can to break ice in that area. After steaming toward the eastern shore of the big lake for about two hours, we were informed that our services were no longer needed and we could return to Charlevoix. We arrived home about midnight on Jan. 30.

Feb. 6 found us underway to check our fixed lights on North Lake Michigan. We inspected the light at Gull Island and having found everything satisfactory, proceeded to Naubinway, on Michigan's Upper Peninsula. Enroute we encountered some ice but not enough to slow us down. After checking the light we returned to Charlevoix.

Again, on Tuesday, Feb. 11 we were underway to inspect our lights in Grand Traverse Bay. The lights at Mission Point and Traverse City breakwater checked out "OK" and we were back in Charlevoix a few hours later.

Due to the lack of ice, the Sundew has spent the greater portion of the winter in Charlevoix, giving all hands a chance to enjoy the mild weather.

Sundew Scuttlebutt

Since our last report, there have been many "comings and goings".

On Dec. 2, Keith Mitchell, Damage Controlman Second Class, departed aboard the Cutter Basswood stationed in Honolulu. Harry Klug, Commissaryman Second Class, left on Dec. 20 for Aviation Mechanics school in Elizabeth City, N. J. On Jan. 7 Gary Jenks, Boatswain's Mate, Third Class, and Clay Barry, Seaman, reported aboard from the Ninth District Office.

Larry Heite, Seaman, was transferred to the Seventeenth District in Alaska on Jan. 8. Clifford Drake, Seaman Apprentice, reported aboard on the 22nd from Recruit Training Center at Cape May, N. J. On Jan. 29, Curtis Gruver, Seaman Apprentice, reported aboard from recruit training at Cape May.

Feb. 5 saw John Pelleria, Seaman leave for Storekeepers School at Groton, Conn., and Ralph Fosnot, Commissaryman, Third Class, report aboard for duty from the Loran Station at Yakutat, Alaska.

On Feb. 7 our new operations officer, Ensign Roger Roznoski, reported aboard from Officer Candidate School at Yorktown, Va.

Make Good Neighbor Of Dog, Rose Asks

A GOOD NEIGHBOR?

Sheriff Glenn Rose has launched an intensive program to build good canine neighborhood relations.

"Your dog can't be a better neighbor than you are," a pamphlet being distributed by Rose contends.

"LOVE ME, LOVE MY dog is an old idea that causes a lot of trouble for dogs and dog owners. People who love you aren't necessarily going to love your dog," the brochure continues.

"And even people who love your dog have a right to expect that you will be a good neighbor and will help your dog be one."

"Dogs, of course, are man's best friend", but when they don't get help and training they can cause unhappy neighborhood squabbles and even serious damage.

"Many people are afraid of dogs—many people don't want dogs romping through their gardens or soiling their lawns and very few people enjoy being bitten (more than 600,000 persons are bitten by dogs every year)." SHERIFF ROSE said bad dog neighbors create almost constant work for his department. A fenced yard is the best protection for your dog and your reputation as a good neighbor, Rose contends.

Don't let your dog roam, the Sheriff urges local pet owners. Dogs are happier with human companionship at home, than if shoved outdoors to wander at will.

"No one is going to love you, or your dog if you and your dog are a public and costly nuisance," the brochure declares.

JAMES PETTIS brought in an old newspaper clipping that leaves several questions unanswered. The name of the paper could not be determined, but the date was July, 1916. The story:

"Our little city of East Jordan, already hard hit when more than a hundred of her men were called to the colors some weeks ago suffered another serious setback, when the East Jordan Cabinet Co. factory building burned to the ground, together with 400 tables, machinery, tools, etc., to the value of $17,600.

"The company was enjoying a fine business and their loss will prove a serious handicap."

Anybody know what happened to the East Jordan Cabinet Co. after that? And what's this business about 100 men being "called to the colors" in the summer of 1916? We weren't in WWI then. And when we did get into it the country didn't have enough men on the line to call up 160 from East Jordan, did it?

WHAT STARTED OUT to be a blitz-type operation by the Carey clan (especially Chuck and Jean) to revamp the Campbell Boat Shop appears to have turned into a long, hard campaign.

Word is that just about everybody with a "Carey" tag at the end of their name is helping. The results ought to be something special.

REV. HAROLD KOHN stopped by at 161 Clinton St. last week for one of his too infrequent visits to the Courier.

The last time we visited with Rev. Kohn he seemed anything but at ease. At that time he was in to pick up things he had left at the office and would want to be taking with him when he moved late this coming summer.

However, last week it was a different story. It's been decided.

BOATS SAVED — Smoke curls from the Brown Marina boathouse on Round Lake Monday morning. Owner Tom Loeb reports no boats were damaged by the fire which started at 10 a.m. There was more smoke than flames and for some time spectators along Bridge St. voiced fears the heavy smoke looked like the blaze was out of hand.

Focus on People For Mich. Week

Our greatest resource is our people; Charlevoix's Michigan Week committee contends.

In line with the 1964 Michigan Week theme, "Michigan Great in Resources and Opportunities," the committee is asking all Charlevoix organizations to boast about their achievements.

This will show how Charlevoix people — "our greatest resource" — are taking advantage of their opportunity to serve the community. Dean Davenport, Charlevoix Michigan Week chairman said.

MICHIGAN WEEK IS May 17-23. Communities and counties throughout the state will devote their energy to showing off their products during the week.

County level judging is Mar. 15 on the product of the year, agriculture.

American government through the actual control of city, county and state offices.

When they arrive at East Lansing, the two Charlevoix High School juniors will be assigned to a mythical city, and one of the two political parties.

Candidates for the various state, county and city offices will be nominated and then elected by the boys from around Michigan. After elections they will practice conducting the business of government on all levels.

HARRY PEARSON, Legion commander, said the two local boys were selected by a committee representing each of the four sponsoring groups. The selection committee.

Library Branch Considered for Grade School

Creating a resource center or visual aids library for the Elementary School as a branch of the public library is being considered by the Board of Education.

Supt. Rex Milligan and the Elementary School curriculum committee proposed the idea.

THE RESOURCE CENTER, as Milligan and the committee termed it, would be a room in the high school where visual teaching aids, reference books, equipment and athletic supplies would be kept and loaned out to teachers.

This, Milligan said, would reduce the total school inventory of these items because each classroom would not have a complete supply of its own, but would borrow it only when needed.

Milligan said that if the board decides to establish the facility some books would be transferred from the public library to it.

Medusa Held Up On Pier

Withhold Permit For Cement Co.

The Detroit District of the Army Corps of Engineers has refused to give Medusa Portland Cement Co. permission to construct a conveyor-bridge and dock in Lake Michigan off South Point.

Capt. Edgar C. Newlin, Jr., acting district engineer in the Detroit office, told the Courier last week the company's permit has not been issued.

THE CORPS OF ENGINEERS, Newlin said, had received "several objections" to the cement company's proposed plans. Newlin did not elaborate on the objections.

He said the application and objections to it will be reviewed by the Chief of the Army Corps of Engineers in Washington, D. C.

The captain said it is impossible to estimate how long it will take for the Washington office to reach a decision. The permit would be still in the Detroit office when the Courier contacted Capt. Newlin.

The Cleveland, Ohio, based cement company applied for a permit to construct a 1,350 foot conveyor bridge into Lake Michigan with a 680 foot pier at the end of it.

COMPANY OFFICIALS said the conveyor would move limestone mined at South Point, to ship-decked at the pier.

Medusa Vice President Worth Loomis told the Courier in January the company was considering building a $25 million quarry and cement plant on its 1,000-acre site at South Point.

Loomis then said economic factors would determine if only a quarry and dock facility or the quarry, dock and cement plant will be built. Indications, he said, were that the cement plant employing approximately 100 men, would be included.

He later was quoted as revising this statement and saying the company had no definite plans for the area.

Charlevoix Has Its Own Beetle Invasion

Charlevoix is being overrun by beetles these days — the human kind, that is.

This fact became known when students attended the Leap Year dance at the high school cafeteria Friday night where they found the Charlevoix version of the Beatles had taken over.

Utilizing one of the most difficult of entertainment media, the pantomime, the Charlevoix Beatles use as a background for their amusing act the recordings of Britain's Beatles.

Jury Trial Doubtful

OUT-OF-COURT SETTLEMENT LIKELY

The chances of Charlevoix County having a jury trial this or next week dwindled Monday.

A jury trial was scheduled for the March court term — which opened Monday — in a suit brought by Richard H. Smith against Jordan-Valley Cooperative Creamery.

A MOTION, ENTERED by the creamery's attorney Nathaniel W. Stroup to dismiss the suit was argued Monday before Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown. After an hour of argument between Stroup and Smith's attorney, John R. Michael an out-of-court settlement appeared likely.

Smith is suing the now defunct creamery for alleged breach of contract. He contends he had a two year contract to pick up milk from farms and deliver it to the creamery. Due to injuries suffered in an automobile accident, Michael argued Smith could not perform the responsibilities of his contract temporarily, and during this period his contract was arbitrarily canceled.

It is Smith's claim that this entitles him to payment from the creamery for the money he would have made during the remainder of his contract.

THE CREAMERY asked that the case be dismissed, and not brought before a jury, because Smith was contracted to deliver milk daily and when he did not live up to this arrangement he broke the contract. The creamery's attorney contends Smith was responsible for delivering the milk no matter what personal problems he had.

Judge Brown urged the attorneys to try to settle the issue out of court. If no settlement is reached, Judge Brown will make a decision on the motion to dismiss.

The jury trial was scheduled for today (Thursday), but now, it won't be held until next week, if at all.

Jury trials are rare in Charlevoix County, with approximately one or two held annually.

IN CRIMINAL court action Monday Judge Brown sentenced Ronald Deming, 22, Wayne, $250 fine and costs and two years probation for larceny from Courier Products in Boyne City.

Charges were dismissed against Charles Ponder, bad check, and Don J. Derenzy, jail breaking. John Michael was appointed to represent Gaylord Wheeler, who pleaded guilty to a bad check charge and was referred to the probation department.

David C. McPherson, 19, pleaded guilty to a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol and was referred to the probation department.

CHARGES OF CHILD neglect against Oliver Hastings were dismissed and he was ordered to pay support for his family.

Joseph R. Martin, Jr., has been returned to Jackson State Prison as a parole violator. He was to have faced charges of resisting an officer.

Richard E. Mapes, 16, a juvenile was referred to the probation department after pleading guilty to breaking and entering the Left Bar at Boyne City.

Behind them Smith's workmen make the taps. Both plastic buckets, such as these, and metal buckets are used. Smith and P. H. Danley, both of the Boyne City Rd., are expected to make between 5,000 and 6,000 taps this spring. They are the county's biggest sap collectors. Reberman estimates another ten county people collect sap on a smaller scale.

Bands Earn Top Ratings

Charlevoix High School came up with two more blue ribbon winners over the weekend. The 87-piece Senior Band and the 77-piece Junior High Band both received first division ratings in the District II qualifying festival at Petoskey Saturday.

The Senior band received straight A ratings from all four judges, according to C. A. Odmark, director of both groups. This marks the 11th straight year the high school band has received a coveted top rating and 17th time in 18 years that top honors have been won by the group.

THE RATING qualifies the Senior band to participate in the State Festival at Lansing April 18. Though he was elated over the Senior band's accomplishments, Odmark was even more pleased with the performance of the young group made up of 8th and 9th grade musicians. It was the first time in several years that a first division rating was awarded in the Junior High division.

Participating in the Class C Junior High division, the local group was awarded a 1 rating by all three concert judges. Richard Snook of Grosse Pointe high school, Huger Jacob of the University of Michigan and Loren Richtmyer of Northern Michigan University. A 11 rating was given for sight reading by Dr. Harold Wright of Northern Michigan University.

Adjudication forms, though highly technical in most of their remarks, also carried numerous complimentary comments by the judges relating to the Senior Band such as "This is a fine band . . . Re-line your playing . . . You are receiving fine instruction. Keep it up" from Mr. Jacob; "This band has a very solid and mature sound to it. Good attention was given to details and the results are excellent. Intonation on the whole was good although it broke down at times . . . Good work . . . Your band did a fine job" from Dr. Richtmyer; "This is a fine band! It was the last time I heard it. You play with good style, good feeling, good musicianship but your sound (especially in cornets, and upper clarinets) and intonation leave much to be desired at times. Still, a very fine performance" from Mr. Snook, and from the sight-reading judge, Mr. Wright: "Congratulations on an exceptional ed he will stay in Charlevoix. We're not just sure how this was arranged, but we've been promised the details in due time.

The important thing is Rev. Kohn seemed to me to be greatly relieved that he will be staying in his adopted northern Michigan home.

Among other things we talked about the advantages of big cities and small towns. A person who lives in a small town needs to occasionally visit a big city and come to grips with the mental situation and challenge its private and public institutions offer, we agreed. A small town or rural resident who doesn't do this will begin to live in a narrow, falsely secure world that he feels he must protect against outsiders and new ideas.

Rev. Kohn had just returned from a lecture series at an Illinois college. He reported the experience had been exciting Job! Shows a fine musicianship and firm training."

EVEN THE JUNIOR group came in for its share of praise which was said most aptly by Snook who wrote: "This is a fine Junior High band . . . You play well and you play musically . . . Obviously, you are receiving the finest of training. Congratulations on your playing this morning!"

The very first comment on Mr. Jacob's sheet was most complimentary "A well-mannered band!" Other bands and their ratings followed: Boyne City, directed by Herbert Parrott, and East Jordan, by Dwight Smith, were awarded first division ratings by three of the four judges.

The Charlevoix Junior High Band, which opened the festival at 8:50 a.m. Saturday played the "Storm King" by Finlayson and "Mountain Echoes" by Frankfurter as the junior high division warm-up march and selected number and "Ambassador Overture" by Scarlatti as a required number.

THE CHARLEVOIX High School Band which closed the festival at 3:55 p.m. played "The Foundation" by Goldman as its warm-up march; "Smoky Mountain Suite" by Teron Kirk as its Class C selected number and "Athenian Festival" by Barr as its required number.

and enriching. But he was emphatically glad to be back home.

A CHARLEVOIX COUNTY Bank checkbook more than 40 years old came our way, thanks to Art Osborn.

Only seven checks have been used out of the fooling book. The last stub is dated Sept. 21, 1904. The first in the book is dated Oct. 12, 1903. It evidently belonged to Jeannie Kirby, Cradle of Eastern Star treasurer in those long gone days.

Under the "Charlevoix County Bank" signature on the checks it says "Nicholls, Butlers & Co., Bankers."

Art found the checkbook while cleaning up his attic.

OUR FRIENDLY competitor, Ralph Hamilton, has put his publication "The Kiwanis Klub Kourier" — on record once again as opposed to the Courier editor's views.

If more newspapers had editors with Ralph's knack for presenting differing views, as well as he does democracy would be well served. He even authorized this corner to quote him.

"It seems to me," Ralph wrote, in the Kourier, "that four counties around Wayne carried the state asking for a new constitution. With a little bit of study, they could have amended the old constitution and saved MILLIONS in salaries to Con-Con delegates. And now we have with us confusion that will exist for many years. The apportionment committee can't agree so it goes to the Supreme Court. Do you think that two Democrats and two Republicans can agree sitting as a highway commission? I think the other 78 counties in the state should have a voice and we as a minority should fight every article that will in any way be detrimental to us. And I BELIEVE that one man as Highway Commissioner can do more than four people arguing politics and if we don't like what he is doing WE THE PEOPLE can remove him (Try getting rid of four of them)."

I've asked Ralph to consider writing a regular column for the Courier. He hasn't accepted the offer. But if he does you won't want to miss it.

cultural development of the year and economic achievement of the year. The winners of these contests will then compete on a regional and state level.

Loder said planning for this competition could not be started in time to meet the judging deadline, ten days from today.

HOWEVER, THERE will be plenty of local activity if Devenport's scheme proves popular with Charlevoix area groups.

Devenport has written to all civic, church, women's, armed forces, scouts, fraternal and service organizations asking them to outline their goals and achievements.

Plaques of uniform size and lettering will be prepared for each group telling its story. Devenport said. These will be displayed in a prominent place, maybe the Waterfront Park, during Michigan Week.

Groups, or individuals with other ideas and a willingness to help make Charlevoix's Michigan Week successful should contact Devenport.

Math Sets Dizzy Pace

CHANGES ARE CHALLENGE FOR TEACHERS

High school math isn't what it used to be. Rapid changes and advances in math has benefited students, but thrown a burden on veteran teachers like Roy Kipke.

Kipke, Charlevoix's long-time high school math teacher, told the Board of Education keeping abreast of this fast pace is a real challenge.

KIPKE AND DEL Terrill outlined the school system's mathematics program to the board.

"In the last two or three years the number of students taking all the math available has increased greatly," Kipke said. "It has gone up from 20 to 50 students."

Principal Harry Bingham speculated this is due to the added emphasis industry is putting on math, the publicity it is getting and the glamorizing of space travel.

A Charlevoix High School student is only required to take one math course, general mathematics or algebra I. Terrill teaches the general math. Uno Suomela teaches one of the three algebra I courses and Robert Cook teaches the other two.

SUOMELA IS ALSO helping several students learn descriptive geometry, Kipke said.

Kipke handles 47 plane geometry students and 46 second year algebra students in four classes. Trigonometry and solid geometry are offered on alternate years.

A student can take four years of mathematics.

The problem of providing instruction for all students with their separate interests and abilities is a tremendous one for any high school, Kipke told the board.

"ALTHOUGH THE fundamental objectives of secondary mathematics do not change much, recent studies indicate great changes in point of view regarding the best means of attaining them. These changes in turn require changes in emphasis in the present curriculum offerings in order to meet the needs of modern times," he added.

Kipke suggested "a course in vocational, industrial, or a more advanced course in general mathematics (consumers mathematics) should be available for the boys who take only the general mathematics or algebra I course."

Only boys between 15 and 18 years old were eligible.

Pearson said the Legion is hoping the program can be continued annually, with at least two boys from Charlevoix attending. It costs $46, plus transportation, for each boy sent to Wolverine Boys' State.

THE BOYS were choosing.

"Eight boys were considered for the chance to attend Boys' State. The boys were asked to write their qualifications, goals and opinions. They were judged on their character, mental alertness, enthusiasm, sportsmanship and leadership."

A native of McDonough, Ga., Engineer Selfridge also served in the U. S. Navy from 1946 to '48 during which he saw duty in the Mediterranean and along East Later he served at Key West, Fla., and has been stationed here since July 1962. He and his wife, Kathleen, and their eight-month old son, Anthony, live here.

He has been selected for assignment to Aids to Navigation School at the Coast Guard Training Station, Groton, Conn. After completion of the nine-weeks course, he will return here.

P.S. Dad told this little scamp to say that, but it's so true!
Isn't it time you opened a checking account here?

IN GREAT LAKES

Reap Trash, Not Cash

ED'S NOTE: This article is reprinted from the Michigan Journalist, a publication of the University of Michigan's School of Journalism.

By CHARLES EISENDRATH

Despite the red figures on commercial fishermen's balance sheets and the shrugged shoulders of anglers, the Great Lakes are producing more fish tonnage than ever.

"They're just producing the wrong kinds of fish tonnage," says Walter R. Crowe, associate biologist of the Michigan Conservation Department.

"EVER SINCE THE sea lamprey decimated the Great Lakes populations of whitefish, lake trout and chubs, these valuable species have been replaced by 'trash fish' such as alewives and white perch," Crowe said.

"Although there are plenty of good fish in the ocean, all the ones that seem to get into the Great Lakes through the St. Lawrence Seaway seem to be worthless or worse," Crowe attributes the phenomenon largely to simple bad luck.

SMALL, "TRASH FISH" can be harvested and made into fish flour but the Great Lakes fisheries traditionally have been based on the quality, not the quantity, of the catch. The industry has not yet been able to convert to lower-cost, higher-volume methods.

Although the federal government has produced fish-flour experimentally in a pilot plant, and the product has uses as widely diversified as paint and baby foods, the project has yet to arouse commercial interest among Lakes fishermen.

"I DON'T SEE a great movement for low-cost, high-volume trash fishing for the Great Lakes although it's a possibility," Crowe summarized.

An alternative solution to the ills of Great Lakes sport and commercial fishing is not to make the best of the "trash fish" but to try to replace them with more valuable species once the lampreys are brought under control. It is deciding what kinds of fish will be stocked that arouses controversy.

Many persons cite a few isolated but spectacularly successful introductions of salt water species in an effort to persuade conservation officials to try more of them. The smelt, which is now harvested from the Great Lakes at the rate of more than 16 million pounds a year, is a favorite example.

Crowe answered that: "For every successful introduction of a salt water exotic (nonnative fish) there are many failures. Salt water species do not usually do well here. Unfortunately, however, the undesirable ones such as the alewives, lampreys and white perch have done better than more valuable kinds."

"STRIPED BASS and several other ocean fish have been planted, as well as almost every variety of fresh water fish, but for the most part, they have just disappeared," Crowe added. "Another proposal for stocking striped bass was rejected at the Tri-State (Mich., Wis., Minn.) Fisheries Convention last October. The three states have agreed not to introduce exotics without prior conference."

State Sen. Charles Biondy (D-Detroit) recently suggested that the conservation department "plant the Great Lakes with various species of salmon." Both Crowe and M. J. DeBoer, chief of field management for the fish division of the conservation department, reject the plan for reasons stated by Crowe.

DEBOER ADDED that salmon, an exotic species, is not a suitable fish for the Great Lakes and that he does not think it will ever be abundant enough to become a sports fish.

Recent excitement about stocking the lakes with salmon, DeBoer said, is the result of the escape of some pink salmon from a hatchery in Port Arthur, Ont., in 1956. Some of them reached Lake Ontario and have spawned in streams leading into the lake. Specimens have also been caught in the Lake Superior region.

THE PINK SALMON spawn every two years, but although specimens were taken in both 1959 and 1961, none were detected last year. "I don't think we'd gain anything in trying to plant any exotic species. We'd rather have the money to help the lake trout program," DeBoer concluded.

Conservation officials hope that if the current international lamprey control program is successful, the lake trout population can be brought back to its former level by stocking. Crowe, however, sees this as a difficult job, because other fish now consume the food which the young trout would require to mature.

"Only when adult trout bring down the population of trash fish by feeding on them will enough food be left for the fingerling trout. Trash fish and young trout, unfortunately share an identical diet of microscopic organisms," Crowe explained.

Obituaries

Mrs. G. E. Geneit

Mrs. Grace E. Geneit, 80, resident of this community for 70 years, died Thursday at the Charlevoix Hospital where she was a patient for 10 days. She had been in failing health for several months.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the Winchester Funeral Home with the Rev. Harold E. Kohn officiating. Burial was in Brookside cemetery.

BORN AT GRAND Haven Apr. 23, 1883, the former Grace E. Swartz came to this community as a girl. She was graduated from the Charlevoix High School. In 1904 she was married to Grover C. Geneit who preceded her in death in 1951. She was a member of the First Congregational Church, Charlevoix, Rebekah Lodge No. 293, and its Past Noble Grand Circle. Earlier she had been a member of the Margaret Parker circle of the church and the Macabee Lodge.

Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Edgar (Gwendolyn) Behrens of Midland and Mrs. Raymond (Camille) Gault of Dimondale; two sons, Dan W. and Grover C. of Charlevoix; nine grandchildren; two great grandchildren; two sisters, Mrs. Fred Gill and Mrs. Harry Mohrmann Sr., of Charlevoix; her step-mother, Mrs. Dan Swartz of this city; a step-sister, Mrs. Fred Southwood of Charlevoix and a step brother, Albert Etcher of Boyne City.

ON MARCH 1 ??? — In spring a young man's fancy turns to . . . baseball, of course. And it felt like spring Sunday (Mar. 1) when these two Boyne City brothers, Jon Nichols, at bat, and brother, Daryl were seen on the ice of Lake Charlevoix getting in some early practice. Jon told the Courier photographer the frozen, but soggy, lake made an excellent playing field. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Nichols, Lake Shore Drive, Boyne City. (Courier Photo)

Boyne Dumps Charlevoix From Tournament, 68-67

By FRANK MARTIN

In a game typical of Charlevoix, Boyne City games through the years, Boyne City emerged the victor by a 68-67 margin in the opening game of the Cass C. District tournament here Tuesday.

The Ramblers will go against a weak Petoskey St. Francis outfit in the semi-finals at 7:30 p.m. today (Thursday).

HARBOR SPRINGS and East Jordan were to meet on the local floor Wednesday. The winner of this game, which was expected to be the Rams, will meet the winner of tonight's game in the finals at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Tuesday's game was a battle from the opening whistle as Charlevoix jumped into a 3-0 lead before Boyne's Tom Sproull hit for a bucket. The two teams matched baskets as the quarter ended in a 16-16 tie.

As the game went into the second period, Charlevoix outscored the Ramblers 19-16 for a 35-31 advantage after the local quintet had scored six field goals and seven free throws to four field goals and seven charity for the Ramblers.

With 16 minutes left on the clock, the game became a battle of wits as the Ramblers managed to stay on the Raydors heels all the way through Charlevoix held a one point margin until the 25 second mark of the third period when a field goal by Bruce Lawson put the Ramblers ahead 50-49 as the period ended. Boyne had outscored Charlevoix 19-14 to take over as the game went into its final eight minutes.

THE FINAL PERIOD became a seesaw battle as Gary Stutzman scored a basket to put the Raydors back in the game at 7:51. But Boyne's Bill Durbee countered with a basket and a free throw. He was followed to the free throw line by Del Terrill who had one shot and made it at 7:20. Terrill again was fouled but this time missed on a possible one and one situation but at 6:15 Stutzman scored a bucket. In quick succession Sproull scored at the 6 minute mark; Parrish at 5:21; Jim Mitchell of Boyne at 5:10 and Sproull at 4:45 to put the Ramblers ahead 59-56.

Stutzman scored again at 4:25 followed by Ron Hausler with a bucket and Darbee with a free throw. At 3:55 Parrish was fouled as he scored a bucket but missed both shots. At 2:45 Stutzman again knotted the score 62-62.

At the 2:36 mark Stutzman put Charlevoix ahead and at 2:32 Boyne City called time out.

As play was resumed, Sproull scored at 2:20 to tie the score 64-64. Stutzman countered with a bucket and at the 1:53 mark Sproull knotted the score 66-66. He was fouled by Norton who went to the bench with his fifth personal foul. Sproull missed the free throw. In the excitement that followed, Stutzman was fouled and at 1:42 broke the tie by hitting on the first two shots. With 31 seconds remaining,

Jim Uhrick went to the free throw line where he missed both shots. A jump ball was called with 29 seconds remaining, Boyne's Lawson got the tip-off and went in to score.

WITH NINE SECONDS on the clock, Charlevoix called a time out.

When play was resumed, Charlevoix passed the ball in at mid-court. It was then passed to Stutzman who went in to shoot. As he did, Lawson charged in fouling him. The official, Bernarl Johnson under the basket, blew his whistle and play was halted with the clock still running. Lawson, who had fallen to the floor when he charged Stutzman, remained on the floor as his four team mates and the Charlevoix team waited. Lawson was finally helped to his feet, the official (Johnson) went to the official scorer's and timer's table for a consultation and then, after several minutes had ticked off, announced that Boyne City had won the game.

Beldam followed but the referee's decision stood and Boyne City advanced to the semi-finals.

RAYDER CAGE PROFILES

Next Year Holds Promise

By FRANK MARTIN

Four reasons. In fact, four very good reasons why Charlevoix is already looking forward to an outstanding cage season next year are featured in this last "Cage Profiles" of the current season.

They are Del Terrill, 16, John Bleha, 17, Randy Carey, 16 and Tom Maxwell, 16, all juniors, who are looking forward to next season with great enthusiasm, for as Del, better known to those close to him as "Chip," said, "Most of us have been together since the days of Coleman's Cats and we've been pointing toward our senior year."

AND WHEN YOU talk with this quartet and the other juniors on the squad you realize that they mean everything they say. Meanwhile, they have been working like Trojans for this season and bettering themselves for another year.

Of this group, Chip is the only regular starter at this time. However, all have contributed their share to this year's championship team and are ready to go "all out" when they replace this year's seniors next season.

A scrappy guard, Chip has practically grown up on the basketball floor. This is his third year of high school cage experience including a full season plus several games of a second on the J.V. squad and this season on the Varsity. His career started at Reeths-Puffer high school in Muskegon where his dad, Del Sr., was basketball coach. He has also had several seasons of football, including two years with a junior high group before playing two years of J.V. ball. Last fall he was quarterback on the Rayders' championship football team. He runs the distance in track; played third base on the baseball team before coming here and is an ardent softball player.

In the classroom his favorite subject is language and after graduation he hopes to go into Central Intelligence where he will continue along these lines, possibly at the University of Michigan.

He is a member of the local chapter of the National Honor Society, the Student Council, Varsity Club and the high school band.

IN THE STANDS at every game in his cheering section, his parents, his sister Cathy, and his brother Chuck.

Why does he like basketball? "For several reasons... I grew up with it and I love the competitiveness, not only of basketball but all sports. Then, too, it's fun participating with your friends and it's a good way to make friends with fellows from other schools. I think you make a lot of good friends this way," was his answer.

John Bleha had much the same thoughts on the subject of playing basketball, stating that it was great participating with your friends and being a part of a team and, he added, "It's one sure way of learning sportsmanship. I think it's worth every second of time you give to it."

Johnny should know, for he's given lots of time for he's had three years of basketball now, including two on the J.V. squad. In addition he played J.V. football for two years and during the summer plays softball, holding down a position in the outfield. But golf is his favorite sport. He plays a lot of it and is hopeful that Charlevoix will have a golf team this year.

IN THE CLASSROOM his favorite subject is math. He hopes, after graduation, to continue along this line, either by going into some phase of engineering or becoming a math teacher. He plans to attend the University of Michigan.

He is a member of the local chapter of the National Honor Society, the Future Teachers' Club, and the Varsity Club.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bleha, his dad is his most ardent fan. "My Mom doesn't care much for sports," he added. His brother, Tom, who certainly would be one of his followers if he were here, is with a U. S. Consulate in Japan.

Randy Carey is playing his first year of basketball for Charlevoix, having transferred here from Cheboygan where he played a season of freshman basketball and one of J.V. as a sophomore. He has had three years of football, two with the J.V. squad and one with the Varsity. "I never really liked football till this year and now I can hardly wait till next fall," said this young man who did an excellent job as a defensive end. He plays softball, runs the mile in track, and loves to swim and water ski. "But basketball is still my favorite sport. I've always liked it, even when I would be alone and would dribble and shoot all by myself."

HIS FAVORITE subject? His first answer was "Study hall" but he quickly added "American Lit." He hopes to go on to school and perhaps enter the field of broadcasting, "like my Uncle Bill." He is a member of the Varsity Club here.

On the sidelines every week are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chuck Carey and his brothers, Topper and Pete.

"Why do I like to play basketball? Because of the challenge it offers, I think," Tom Maxwell was quick to answer when asked this one question put to all players. He added that this goes double for other sports like football (he's had three years including one on the Varsity squad as a tackle) and track (he throws the shot). He also holds down an infield position on a softball team during the summer. This is his third year in basketball. He also likes to water ski and, in the winter, likes to go ice fishing.

In the classroom he likes art and speech but after graduation thinks he would like to go on to school and do something along clerical lines.

HE PLAYS BASS with the high school band and sometimes plays with the city band. He is also a member of the Varsity Club.

An avid sports fan through the years, his dad, Tom Sr., can be counted on to be in the stands these days. He says his mother finds the excitement of games too much for her. His sister, Anna Mae, lives in Grand Rapids and seldom gets here for a game.

Rayders Share Basketball Title

CHS Squeaks by Fired-Up Squad In Last Contest

Mancelona Almost Upsets Local Team With Final Quarter Scoring Rampage

Charlevoix's Rayders closed out the season Friday night with a share of the Northern Michigan Class C title by edging Mancelona 47-46.

As a result, Charlevoix, Gaylord and Pellston, became co-champions, the first time in the history of the league that the season has never ended in a three-way tie for the championship.

JV's Revenge Varsity Loss

The Charlevoix J.V. squad wound up their season with a win over the Petoskey Reserves after a hectic game that saw the score change countless times before the visitors emerged with a nine-point victory.

Charlevoix came out of the first period with an 11-7 advantage, but the young Northerners trimmed the lead to two points at halftime 29-27 and to one point, 41-40 going into the final period. The scrappy Rayders, with their advantage fading, found the range and came out of the fray with a victory by a sizeable margin.

STEVE SMITH WAS top scorer for the Rayders and the game with 21 points. John Ferguson added 14; Neil Cross 10; Mark Bourgoin, eight, and Andy Peters and Gary Plum, three each. Al Lusk also saw action.

Easy Going for Junior Varsity

Charlevoix's J.V.'s rolled to a 66-40 win over the visiting Mancelona Ironmen to end the season with an 8-6 record in league play.

Coach Ron Peterson emptied his bench as his young Rayders pumped in 26 points in the third period to rack up the win after holding a one-point 12-11 first quarter lead which the visitors tied at 24 all at halftime.

IN THE FIRST PERIOD, the local lads continued to control the game as they poured in 16 points to seven for the young Ironmen. Neil Cross accounted for 17 points followed by Mark Bourgoin with 12; Andy Peters came through with nine, Steve Smith and John Ferguson, eight each; Gary Plum, four; Al Lusk, Paul Martin, Aaron Brock and Dick Kenney, two each. John LaCroix had 14 for Mancelona.

FOR A WHILE FRIDAY night it looked as though the Rayders might be relegated to the lower ranks as the determined Mancelona Ironmen, playing outstanding ball for a team that hadn't won a loop match this season, came from behind to give the local lads a bad fright as time ran out.

The Charlevoix Rayders forged to a 14-8 first period lead though they were missing many shots.

As the second period got underway, the visitors picked up four points, cutting the halftime margin to 28-20.

In the third period, the Ironmen really took over, outscoring the Rayders 16-11 to trim their lead to 39-33.

WITH EIGHT MINUTES remaining, the game became a free for all with first one team scoring a bucket or making a trip to the free throw line where the Rayders hit on only two of seven tries while Mancelona muffed their chances to upset the Rayders by missing on a free throw attempt as the score stood at 47-46 with seconds remaining.

However, it was from the free throw line that the Rayders won the game after being outscored by Mancelona 20-19 from the floor.

Pat Dutcher, with 17 points, paced the game for Mancelona. He was followed by Dave Prudden with 15; Mike Shepperley, eight; Art Alexander with four and Ron Grody with two.

Gary Stutzman again blazed the way for the Rayders with 15 followed by Ded Terrill with 10; Jim Uhrick and Bruce Kroken with six each and Dave Norton and Ken Parrish, five each. Jim Uhrick, who went to the bench late in the game with five fouls, was replaced by Dave Smith. Warren Belding also saw action in the second period.

TRADITIONAL RIVALRY — Charlevoix's Rayders put up a rugged battle to trim their traditional northern rivals, Petoskey, but to no avail. The Petoskey cagers beat Charlevoix Saturday for the second time this season. (Courier Photo by Larry Edwards)

Petoskey All the Way

The Charlevoix Rayders Saturday evening dropped their second game this season to the Petoskey Northmen, 70-64.

The game wrapped up the Rayders' regular schedule which began Nov. 3.

Petoskey, playing on its home court, forged into a 21-16 first period lead over the Rayders who snapped back for a 37-32 halftime advantage including 13 free throws as a good part of the eight minutes was spent at the free throw line.

PETOSKEY, HOWEVER, was not to be outdone as they came back strong to outscore the visitors 21-15 and go ahead 53-52 as the game went into its final period.

The Northmen continued their torrid pace to roll up 17 points to 12 for the Rayders for a six point win behind the scoring of Fred Rice, who had 17 points. Gale Sheldon contributed 17 points and Jim Concannon 16 for the winning cause.

Ken Parrish paced the game with 25 points for Charlevoix followed by Gary Stutzman and Del Terrill with nine points each. Dave Norton and Doug Winnell, six each; Jim Uhrick, five; Bruce Kroken and Warren Belding, two points each.

Gaylord Doomed by HS Upset

Give Loop Three 1964 Champions

The Harbor Springs Rams upset the Gaylord Blue Devils, 56-46 Friday to throw the door wide open for a three-way claim on the 1964 Northern Michigan Class C cage title.

Charlevoix and Pellston added their own causes by defeating Mancelona (47-46) and East Jordan (81-66), respectively.

THE RAMS, by boxing in Gaylord's scoring ace Tom Lick, went into an early lead over the Blue Devils who were seeking their first title since 1940. Though they managed to tie the score several times, Gaylord never headed the Rams who led 19-14 at the quarter, 32-23 at the half and 46-36 going into the final period.

George Lauer poured in 24 points for the Rams followed by Dave Winegarden with 16. Ron Jenkins with 14 and Ron Snell with 12 were top scorers for the Blue Devils whose Lick was limited to seven points. Until this game, he had averaged just under 23 points a game.

In a fourth game, Boyne City edged Grayling 51-48 after the Vikings had led 14-4; 21-22 and 39-35 by quarters. With 45 seconds remaining the Ramblers came from behind to knot the score 45-45 before pulling away for the victory. Jim Mitchell and Terry Smith tied for scoring honors for their respective teams with 15 points each.

AT EAST JORDAN, the Red Devils managed a brief 23-22 lead over the Hornet powerhouse before Pellston pulled away for a 41-28 halftime and 57-45 third period advantage. Mick Bell of East Jordan had 34 points to pace the game. Doug Lovaaen had 31 for the Hornets.

Masons Cut Lead

The Oddfellows lead in the winter cribbage tournament was cut in half last week as the Masons took 226 points away from the leaders. The I.O.O.F. now has a lead of 202.

High man last week for the Masons was Erwin Belfy with 959. George Smith paced the IOOF with 937.

Dear Dick Affair

RICHARD DONALDSON

"IMPROVE YOUR SWING"

Dear Dick: My 8 year old son is a big problem for his teacher. He poured ink in a girl's hair, left a dead mouse in another girl's desk and gets into fights often. What do you think I should do?—CONCERNED MOM.

DEAR CONCERNED MOM: YOU have the big problem, not the teacher. Get your swinging arm in shape and go to work on him . . . talk afterward. If you have a problem finding time for your work around the house, try some of the new Whirlpool appliances from PUFF'S APPLIANCE CENTER. They're real time-savers, and the convenience is wonderful.—DICK.

Foresight Saves City from Crisis

CHARLEVOIX CITIZENS WOULD have been proud of their city had they been able to attend the district Michigan Municipal League meeting in Boyne City two weeks ago.

Community leaders from just about every north country city sending someone to the event spent a good deal of their time trying to figure out how they are going to pay for improvements their town needs.

THE MOST FREQUENT lament was the need to extend water and sewer lines. These cities already have water and sewer departments that are running up a deficit. Citizens won't stand for a hike in water or sewer rates.

These same cities have problems supporting an adequate police department, street crew, recreation program, chamber of commerce, etc.

If you visit their towns you can't help but realize how fortunate we are to be from Charlevoix. Our streets look better, our recreation program is one of the finest, our chamber of commerce is by no means poor. And you can go on and on citing examples to show Charlevoix excels.

Perhaps the best way to put it is that where Charlevoix gives the impression of good health and vigor, some of these other towns look aged and just able to hobble along.

BUT WHY? WHAT has made Charlevoix different? There's a simple answer, though it may not appeal to some people.

While other communities have been struggling for years just to stay "almost even" with the demands of progress and natural wear and tear, Charlevoix has had the courage to look and plan ahead.

Charlevoix has not ignored all of the small needs until they build into a crisis, and then asked for community support to go into a crash program financed by high interest money.

This, oddly enough, seems to be rather novel for government and schools. It shouldn't be. Businessmen learned the same lesson centuries ago. If you're going to avoid bankruptcy you have to keep ahead, putting a little money in reserve for planned and unexpected improvements.

INSTEAD OF BEING on the brink of disaster calling for near-panic borrowing, the city has money in reserve. There is approximately $250,000 cash on hand in various city funds. Of this $279,000 is in the water fund. Low water pressure in north side homes has caused considerable concern in the last few years. Other cities would be forced to float bonds at 3 to 5 percent interest.

Not Charlevoix. It has been EARNING this interest and can now use the money to extend the lines without a minute's interruption of the regular flow of government. And there will still be some left to meet unexpected emergencies or the needs of a new subdivision or industry.

In the electric fund the city has $150,000 cash. Last year $67,000 was spent for improvements to electric utility property. This year there is money on hand to continue this program. The city was offered $1 million for its electric business. Any million dollar business without a potential reserve of at least $150,000 would be courting disaster. Rather than accumulate this reserve for constant maintenance and improvements other cities would be prone to ignore upkeep and let their systems stagnate . . . until the day of reckoning.

THERE ARE SEVERAL other funds with smaller needs and less reserve. But still a reserve. One of the best examples of these is the fund for a new fire truck. So far the city has accumulated $6,000 toward the new truck. It's total cost will probably be around $20,000. The accepted procedure among Michigan communities is to ignore the need for a new fire equipment until it is crucial . . . then put it off for another year or so. Finally, when there is actual doubt old equipment can make the next run, an emergency is declared and a loan arranged . . . with interest. We prefer Charlevoix's business-like way of preparing for this day.

It is not our intent here to give all this credit to city officials. Charlevoix voters and taxpayers, perhaps sometimes without realizing it, make this sound financial policy possible. In many other towns citizens would not accept such a program of financial responsibility. They would demand that taxes and rates be lowered . . . never realizing that in the long run they will spend more and get much less.

And, incidentally, Charlevoix's tax rate, and generally its utility rates, are lower than in other area communities.

Any community can shave taxes to the bone or insist that every nickel be spent every year. We are all familiar with towns that do just this. All of us prefer to live in one of these towns?

Dandy Road Maps

IF YOU HAVEN'T seen one of the new Charlevoix County road maps you're missing a real treat. Get one and you will find yourself taking unexpected time to study and admire it.

The Road Commission has done itself proud. This pride, we expect, will spread throughout the county this summer when you start showing the map to your downstate and outstate visitors.

FOR THE FIRST TIME, we are told, the map has a name for just about every road. The roads are easy to locate and directions simple to follow.

By using four colors, the map should be clear even to a recently commissioned ROTC infantry second lieutenant. You can't ask much more of any map.

Now, if the county manages to follow through with its declared intention to sign all primary roads by summer we have an unbeatable combination.

When reprints of the map are ordered we might suggest the Road Commission try to get area chambers to submit suitable pictures and words for the massive blank area on the back of the map.

Gaylord Principal Says Thanks

TO THE EDITOR:

May I take this method of expressing to the people of Charlevoix my feelings on the Feb. 21 basketball game in Gaylord? I would appreciate it very much if you would put it in your letter to the editor column.

I know that many fans from Charlevoix drove to Gaylord last evening and were very disappointed to find that the gym doors were locked. For this I am indeed sorry. Our gym seats only 68 people in the permanent type seats and we had in excess of 1200 in the gym. We were simply forced to close the doors. I have written your fine

Miami of North

TO THE EDITOR:

Your edition of February 8 in which caption carried, "News Spreeds." In connection with Rabbi Harry Kaplan of Columbus, O., requesting copy of cement plant story.

Well just hold your hat, Mr. Editor. I've got news for you. The story was carried here in Phoenix last week over TV and in no minor instance.

WHILE IT IS TRUE, Charlevoix being relatively small population-wise, it is however, extensively well known and recognized as the "Miami of the North."

Incidentally Mr. Editor, May I add . . . you're doing a real swell job with your sheet. I anxiously await for its arrival every Monday morning. May I extend my congratulations to Al for his past decision and yourself for the dynamic change you have made.

Edward A. Frank

coach and expressed my sincere congratulations for a wonderful bunch of people from Charlevoix. The student body was very cooperative despite the fact that many of their seats were filled when they arrived. We tried . . . and tried hard . . . to hold him as we had expressed to Mr. Bingham we would. However, too many fans and a high basketball fever made it impossible. For this I am sorry.

YOUR ADULTS WHO did finally get into the gym were very patient and cooperative. For this I am very appreciative. We tried to get them in but fire laws made us shut the doors. Our facilities are not large enough to take care of such a crowd and some one had to be disappointed. I'm sorry that some of the disappointed people were from Charlevoix. We turned away many Gaylord people while holding seats for the Charlevoix fans and they were not very happy.

Once again my sincere thanks to each and every Charlevoix adult fan, student fans, school administration, faculty for their patience. And to Coach Carey and his fine Red Raiders: seldom do you find a finer bunch of boys. They're great and I know I speak for our student body and townspeople. Their comments so far have been in the highest praise of a great Charlevoix team.

Thank you and once again my apologies.

Sincerely,

N' .. Ends

By FRAN MARTIN

Ladies and gentlemen . . . I take great pleasure in introducing to you the new and attractive Coast Guard patch of the Ninth Coast Guard District, Guardian of the Eighth Sea . . . Take one minute to study it and you will find it tells quite a story . . .

YOU'LL BE SEEING A LOT of this little patch so, with a little prompting from the Group office, I'd like to tell you more about it . . . The background is a golden yellow, the lighthouse a deep blue outlined in black, the miniature lighthouse in the lower left corner is done in black and white and the lifeboat in white outlined in black with a touch of red in the flag . . . the Coast Guard insignia marking the district headquarters, Cleveland, on the map is in the conventional gold and blue with the red, white and blue shield with rays of red spreading out over the area covered by the district . . . And best of all for my money, a silhouette in black of an Indian in a canoe and under it the legend "Land of Hiawatha" . . . Look for it.

I'm sure you'll like it as much as I do . . . Oh, yes, it was designed by a couple of the service's own . . . Ron DeFresne Yn 3/c, a native of Menominee serving aboard the Mackinaw and Jim Rochel Sn, another native Michigan, now in the Cleveland office tho' he was on the Mae when the pair collaborated in designing the prize winning patch . . .

As this is being written, there are big fat snowflakes, millions of them, drifting out of a leaden sky . . . but I'm looking at them through a real breath of spring . . . a pot of the loveliest daffodils you'll ever see . . . or so it seems at this time of year when color has been lacking . . .

But I must tell you the story behind the unseasonable flowers . . . There's a girl I know who has a green thumb . . . in fact so green that she's built her own little greenhouse. I call it her conservatory, in the breezeway between her house and the garage . . . Last fall she decided she'd raise a few flowers for Easter which comes unusually early this year . . . So, into the pots went the bulbs and into the ground, in a bed of straw went the pots to await the time to dig them up and bring them in.

That time came in January when the ground was covered with snow but that didn't matter . . . Into the sunshine in the plastic covered conservatory went the plants that had been awakened from their long winter's nap . . .

BUT WHO EVER thought we'd have so many nice bright sunny days? . . . Certainly not my friend . . . As a result, she has the loveliest daffodils, pots of them, already in bloom and which she is sharing with everyone including her co-workers at the city hall and with lucky people like me . . . And soon there'll be tulips and all sorts of cut flowers that are just pushing everyone out of the place . . . In case you haven't guessed her name by now, she of the green thumb and the magic touch is Mrs. Shelby (Bunny) to you. Coase who's having a ball with all this flower bit . . . as is everyone else . . . For with daffodils, even hot house ones in bloom, can spring be far behind?

And may I take this opportunity to wish a happy birthday to a grand Irish gal who'll celebrate her eighty-fourth birthday anniversary come Saturday . . . Anyone who knows her is aware of the fact that some place along the way she managed to kiss the Blarney stone . . . It's always a joy to talk with her for her Irish wit is a sure cure for the blues . . . And if you ever need to know anything about her native island, Beaver Island, that is . . . she's the gal who knows about it . . . I call her "Nellie-me-love" . . . but she's really Mrs. Helen McCafferty . . .

Homework Required to Fulfill Our Struggle for Knowledge

By LAURA COURTADE
English Teacher

What is homework? In the junior and secondary high school it can be practicing a musical instrument, finishing a dress, reading a book, reviewing a test, writing a theme, or in most cases completing an assignment for the following day. Teachers usually give assignments, not homework in the traditional sense. If the assignments can not be completed in school, then they should be finished at home.

Since the amount of academic ability varies among students, and since students do not carry the same number of subjects, the amount of homework will also vary.

CLASSES AT CHARLEVOIX High School are 55 minutes long. The chief advantage of this long session is that it allows for a supervised study period. If students do not understand the work, the teacher is available to help them. This prepares the student to complete the work by himself. The study period also allows most students some open time for study. This time used effectively can reduce the take-home work.

During our complex age, there is an ever-increasing demand for greater knowledge. However, this cannot be obtained by merely attending classes. It must be accomplished through much individual study, usually at home. One may not like the tension which goes with this; yet, today's students must be trained to compete with others, and competition is getting keener.

This struggle for knowledge presents an ever increasing need for students to study more at home, especially the college preparatory students. Young people grow toward educational maturity as well as toward physical, mental, and emotional maturity. The further along they are in school, the more difficult the work becomes, and the more responsibility they must assume for individual studying.

THE AVERAGE HIGH school student carrying an average academic load should spend about 45 hours a week going to classes and studying. Out of the 112 hours a week that he is awake, this would mean about 20 hours for classes and 25 for studying. It would still leave him 67 hours a week for eating, loafing, social activities, extracurricular activities, chores at home, or whatever he chooses.

The bright students might make fair grades with less studying. The poor ones will have to work overtime to meet satisfactory requirements. Also the student who has been absent will need to work longer to make up the material he missed. Thus all high school students must study at home if they are going to be academically successful. How much of this work must be done at home will depend on the ability of the student, the number of subjects he is carrying, the amount of study time he has in school, how well he budgets his time, and his study habits.

Parents play an important part in the homework of their child. They should realize that school is the child's job. Chores at home should not take priority over the school work.

IN SOME CASES the parent himself may have to assume responsibility for certain tasks the child may study. Neither should any parents keep his child out of school to work unless it is an extreme necessity. Any absence, matter how justifiable, will be student's homework, even with the inevitable loss of classroom instruction.

Parents should provide a study area, a quiet, well-lighted and comfortable study place away from TV and family activity. Study should be done about the same time each day. Providing a quiet study environment is conducive to good study habits and can reduce the number of hours of work with a higher degree of success.

If a child appears to be spending long hours on school work with apparent results, an appraisal of his study habits should be made followed by remedial steps.

Students should not study long at one sitting. About every 45 minutes there should be a short break, but not long enough to cause postponement of new work.

SOME PARENTS are concerned about overwork resulting in a nervous breakdown. Science Research Associates, writes, Mr. C. Gerk claims, "It is not work that causes nervous breakdowns. It is the attitude of the worker, plus pressure from many sides, plus inefficient work focused at once on a person who was potential nervous breakdown material long before overwork seemed to cause the breakdown."

Lift for Living

Those Who Stand Alone Fall

By REV. H. E. KOHN

Several years ago an acquaintance of mine purchased a beautiful piece of property on the shore of a dappled rim of one of Michigan's largest inland lakes. His location was heavily wooded, so in order to clear a building site he hired a bulldozer to push over most of the trees with his heavy equipment.

When the trees had been uprooted, they were sawed up and the trimmings burned. All that were left were a few choice spruces, balsams and white birches. Then in the clearing a house was built with a breathtaking view of the lake. But before many months had passed, a ground-sucking rain, lasting several days, saturated and softened the resort's lawn. Then followed a day of fierce, howling winds, and most of the choice trees the resort had saved for beauty's sake toppled to the ground.

HE HAD NOT realized that the roots of the choicest trees had been intertwined with the roots of the trees he had ordered removed. When the disposable trees were bulldozed off the property, the root systems of the beautiful evergreen and graceful birches still standing were disturbed, wrenched and weakened. Rains and winds completed the havoc that the bulldozer had started.

Birches grow singly and in clusters along the brook that families used to study window. So do maples and poplars, balsams, spruce and hemlock. The stream's bank is soaked with moisture from the brook, and the soil has been softened by tiny drops that creep amidst and infiltrate the earth. One would think that the streamside would be unsafe for trees in time of wind. But that is not so.

These brookside trees have known a thousand storms. They have wrestled with every bullying wind that challenged their courage and disrupted their strength. But I have never known one to tumble to a storm. Age and disease take their toll, of course, as they do of all living things.

But in a sudden crisis these brookside trees are not storm-dazzled or vanquished, and for this reason: their roots are intertwined. They support each other.

The crooked fingers of birch roots reach out for other roots and find in them an added strength. The hidden, knobby hands of evergreens and hardwoods secretly, urgently stretch for the reinforcing, reassuring grip of neighboring trees.

THERE SEEMS TO BE a kind of deep awareness in hidden brook trees that if they are to be strong enough to survive the wind-shock and tempests they must depend upon a strength greater than their own. So they reach out to their fellows.

Hidden brook trees do not rely upon solitary strength. Their quiet confident men in windy weather rests upon a fellowship of roots. Each tree's strength is reinforced, being intertwined with the strength of others.

One way human beings build power for surviving crises is joining the roots of being with the roots of others around them. In this way the strength of others supports us and our strength supports others. A trend has developed in modern psychiatry to maneuver patients into wholesome associations with good personalities. Psychiatrists and psychoanalysts have come to see that the treatment of a patient as a solitary problem person is inadequate. He is to gain strength, it must come from somewhere, and a good source is the goodness of his fellows.

Public worship is such an experience of the roots of the spirit, urgently reaching out and embracing the staunch roots of others. Worship is a fellowship of faith. Through hymns and anthems and scripture reading our faith meets the faith of others in times past. We exercise a "communion of saints" in which our hope is reinforced by another's hope. Our trust in God is no longer a long, solitary thing, but part of an intermingled network where our reasons for trusting are augmented by the wisdom of many another belief. Testimony supports testimony. Faith is faith. We see that we are not alone in our struggle to be better; there are others with us.

BOOKS PROVIDE means for intertwining the roots of our lives with the roots of the great people of history. Literature brings to the thoughts of Moses, the faith of Jeremiah, the understanding of a spirit of Christ, the distilled experience of Paul, the reflections of Shakespeare and Milton. Biography refreshes us with insights into the undaunted courage of Washington, the undiscouraged manliness of Lincoln, and the awe-inspiring dignity of Robert E. Lee. James Russell Lowell once asked "Have you ever considered what the ability to read means? It is the key that admits us to the company of saints and sages, of the wisest and the wisest at their wisest and wisest moment." Good reading admits the best in us to fellowship with the best in the great people of all time. Through literature the power of great lives reaches across space and time and strengthens us; their roots mingle with our own.

One of the secrets of successful living is to make the habit of reaching out for fellowship with the highest, most wholesome people we know — the triumphant, the wise, the humble, the self-forgetful creators of the beautiful and appreciators of beauty, knowing that they have something of value for us as did One who promised "My peace I give unto you."

But besides seeking out such people, we must aim to be the kind of person who strengthens. Just a successful marriage is not alone the business of finding the right partner but one of being the right sort of mate, so the world's good is not served alone by our meek connections with the best people; we must be the kind of person from whom others can derive power.

From Charlevoix's Past . . .

The long forgotten lime kiln west of Boulder Park, near the Lake Michigan Shore, is seen in this old post card picture supplied to the Courier by Mrs. Elmer Gibson.

The plant has long since disappeared from view. Only a few people tramping through the woods near South Point would detect any evidence of its existence today. Medusa Portland Cement Co. is constructing a quarry and cement plant in the area.

If you have any old Charlevoix pictures Courier readers would enjoy seeing, bring them to the newspaper office. You will get them back, and everyone will be able to share your memories.

OUTDOOR RAMBLING

With GLEN SHEPPARD

A SUBSTANTIAL loss of interest in fishing over the past half dozen years has caused the Michigan Tourist Council to call for a review of non-resident license fees.

A Tourist Council release suggests Michigan vacationers are spending less time fishing because the license is too expensive. Bill McGraw, council director, knows better.

HOWEVER, he is certainly right that Michigan offers some of the best fishing in North America. Even if the rest of the Tourist Council isn't aware of it, McGraw knows darn well we have plenty of good fishing in spite of inadequate Conservation Dept. financing.

Several things have contributed to fishing losing popularity as the tourist boom continues to swell. Probably the least of them is the license fee. The major cause is people. Nothing more, nothing less. Just too many people.

TOURIST BOOSTERS — including local chambers of commerce and the Tourist Council — have been devoting their talents to making vacations a family affair. Their efforts have paid off handsomely. There's more money in north country tourist cutters every year.

But, no matter what you do about license fees, less and less of this money is coming from fishermen.

This trend can be reversed by ordering families out of their power boats and away from the campgrounds.

Poll after poll has been taken to determine why fewer people are fishing, and those that stick to it are fishing less. They inevitably point out fishermen have decided it's more fun to run a speedboat around with Mom and the kids aboard.

OR, IN THE CASE of ex-anglers who haven't taken to boating, they have had a belly full of trying to fish while dodging boats.

Fishing is basically a quiet sport. When roaring motor boats full of women and children dominate the lakes the angler is out of place. So, in many cases, he has changed his ways and joined the boating fraternity.

This has been good for the north country's overall business. Along the famous AuSable River, for instance, it hasn't paid off. Canoeists are driving trout fishermen out. And canoeists leave darn little money behind them.

But in Charlevoix, and in most tourist centers, it has brought in more money.

THE TOURIST COUNCIL, and all of us, are simply going to have to accept the fact that you can't have both.

Gordon Neff was pointing this out the other day. Gordon is a marked fisherman, he used to do as much fishing as anyone hereabouts. But not anymore. Too much boat and people competition. Though Gordon is not real hasty to admit it, there is definite evidence there are probably more fish per angler than there ever was.

Do you suppose Gordon would want to send away the boaters to get his good fishing days back. He, and all of us in Charlevoix, would be carrying thinner wallets if we did.

I consider my dad a darn good example of what happened. For the first 40 years of his life he used a fly rod as a second source of nourishment. Then, about five years ago, the people got too thick. He bought a sail boat. Fishing was almost a full-time job. He figures he can best get away from it out in the Great Lakes. He must be spending more money sailing in one year than he used to fishing in ten.

BUT GO A STEP further. If somebody walks into the Chamber of Commerce office and asks where he can rent a boat and catch a couple of nice bass, Dean Davenport can't give him a satisfactory answer.

If this same fella wanted to buy a tackle box full of top flight equipment he would have to go to Petoskey . . . and then pay twice what he should.

This isn't Dean's fault. Fishing haunts have changed. Fish are becoming more selective and wary. It's almost impossible to predict where they will be, or what lure they will take.

And because there isn't enough demand, a Charlevoix merchant can't afford to stock a selection

THE BEST EDUCATED guess is that Round Lake's perch runs may have disappeared due to the increase in small boats.

Of course, the Tourist Council's concern over the loss of fishing revenue could lead to a solution. But it will take daring that goes far beyond reducing license fees.

Canoeists would have to be ordered off our best trout streams. The top fishing lakes would have to be restricted to small motor boats used exclusively by anglers.

In the meantime, those of us who can't help ourselves will work a little harder . . . and catch some darn nice fish.

Gordon Sponsors No-Booze Action

LANSING — A bill co-sponsored by Representatives Don Gordon, Charlevoix District, establishing a green driver's license for persons under 21 was passed last week by the Legislature and forwarded to Governor Romney for his approval.

The bill was given immediate effect, allowing the Secretary of State to begin issuing distinguishable colored licenses to deter minors from altering their age to obtain alcoholic beverages. It passed both Senate and House by large majorities and is known to have the Governor's favor.

"ALTHOUGH MOST juveniles are good citizens," Gordon said, "this law may serve to restrain the approximately two percent who tend to get into trouble."

Young adults, on reaching 21, may have their license changed to adult gray at any examining station.

Gordon joined Representative John Toepf of Cadillac in sponsoring the measure.

MYSTERY PICTURE — Where is it? What is it? This week's mystery picture is known to everyone in Charlevoix. The first person to correctly identify it by calling the Courier (L1 7-6558) after 4 p.m. Thursday will receive a free subscription to the newspaper. Last week's picture was the old grist mill at Advance. The first person to correctly identify it was Mrs. Ed Boss. No calls will be taken on the mystery picture until after 4 p.m. Thursday. (Courier Photo)

Wildlife Wasted Due to Seasons ISLANDS NEED LESS CONTROL

BEAVER ISLAND — "The State Legislature could do an awful lot of good for Beaver Island... if it just would," Archie LaFreniere contends.

LaFreniere, Beaver Island Civic Association president, would like the legislature to grant the Conservation Dept. power to set special bag and season limits on all game on the islands.

ACCORDING TO LaFreniere, the Conservation Department would welcome the chance to have more hunting pressure on Beaver Island's wildlife.

The island group's game population is "100 percent wasted," LaFreniere said.

If the hunting seasons could be extended at the discretion of the Conservation Dept., he said, the island's oil season economy would receive a life giving surge.

LaFreniere told the Courier Beaver Island's transportation problem handicaps it in attracting hunters. "We have to offer a lot more over here to get hunters than the mainland does," he said.

Approximately 50 bow and arrow deer hunters come to the island now, LaFreniere said. If an archery season on the island's wild turkeys could be opened during the bow and arrow deer season he estimates between 200 and 300 archers would take advantage of it. The turkey flock would not be harmed because a few are generally killed during winter.

Beaver Island's Game Club imported approximately 40 turkeys several years ago. Due to the mid-winter, LaFreniere speculates the turkeys will be more numerous and healthier than ever this Spring.

THE CONSERVATION Dept., he said, would also like to open the grouse season earlier on the islands. However, the department is powerless to do this without legislative authorization.

LaFreniere said Beaver Island's economy now depends on tourist business during July, August and the rifle deer season in November.

If the legislature gave the Conservation Department permission to set special September and October hunting seasons for Beaver Island it would add two months to the island's business season.

District Conservation Dept. fisheries biologist Don Peterson is working with islanders in hopes of finding a way to bring back the once fabulous spring perch runs, LaFreniere said. Loss of the perch runs and commercial fishing has been "our biggest loss," he added.

Charlevoix High School Principal Harry Bingham attended the National Assn. of Secondary School Principals meeting in Chicago.

The meeting, Bingham reports, brought together the problems and leaders in education, giving them a unique opportunity to discuss and solve complex and everyday difficulties.

TO MAKE EXOTIC WINTER RETREAT Airline Needed by Beavers

BEAVER ISLAND — Everything considered, it might almost be said Beaver Island becomes a separate state when winter closes in. When the ice locks the boat channel between St. James and Charlevoix, services originating from Lansing become virtually nonexistent.

LLOYD McDONOUGH, St. James Township supervisor and Archie LaFreniere, Beaver Island Civic Assn. president, both noted this isolation as a major factor contributing to the island's economic hardships.

While the rest of Northern Michigan is enjoying a new winter sports boom, Beaver Island "just seems to hang on until the next summer," LaFreniere said.

McDonough and LaFreniere both agreed some kind of all-weather scheduled airline flights would be the island's salvation.

Since the state builds highways to all other sections of Michigan they do not feel it would be unreasonable to ask Lansing to subsidize such flights. However, they are not expecting such a windfall.

THE TWO island leaders, interviewed by the Courier, feel people would make Beaver Island a popular winter resort if they could count on dependable transportation.

"Most people are afraid they will get stuck bound if they come over in the winter," LaFreniere said.

Ski Pros Vie For Purse at Boyne Mountain

BOYNE FALLS — The world's top professional skiers, most of them former Olympic champions, will compete for approximately $5,000 in prize money at Boyne Mountain Lodge here Friday, March 6, in the winter resort's Fourth Annual International Professional Races.

The pros will also present demonstrations of various ski techniques on Saturday, March 7.

THE BOYNE RACE is one of ten selected from every county in Michigan. Sponsored by the State 4-H Council and the 4-H Club Foundation, this year's Leadership is based on the theme, "A Waking Field."

Major emphasis throughout the program will be the role of 4-H in this decade and the goals it must achieve in the future.

Participants will include such skiing greats as Stein Eriksen, Arndt Molterer and Christian Pravda, previous winners at Boyne. Tino Spiss, Adrien DuVillard, Peol Gramshammer, Max Marolt, Karl Bartscher, Ernst Tintner, Hlas Leitner and Othmar Schneider, the head professional at Boyne.

Molterer won the 1963 event at Boyne and was one of the 1963 pro racing circuit's top money winners along with DuVillard and Hinterseer.

THE PROFESSIONAL racers will make four runs against time over two 40-gate slalom courses on Boyne's challenging Hemlock slope. Morning competition will start at 11 a.m. and afternoon races will start at 1 p.m.

Pick 4-H Adults For Leadership Conference

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Best of East Jordan and Mrs. Jeannine Kimble and Mrs. William Potter of Charlevoix have been selected as delegates to the eighth annual 4-H Leadership Conference being held at Michigan State University's Kellogg Center from March 7 to 8.

The selected delegates were announced by Ed Robman, County Extension Director.

THEY ARE AMONG 300 leaders selected from every county in Michigan. Sponsored by the State 4-H Council and the 4-H Club Foundation, this year's Leadership is based on the theme, "A Waking Field."

Major emphasis throughout the program will be the role of 4-H in this decade and the goals it must achieve in the future.

Dr. Russell G. Mawby, Assistant Director of Extension, 4-H Club Program, will identify the critical issues facing Michigan's youth and what is being done to meet these challenges. He will describe the role of 4-H in science, careers, and in helping youth be effective citizens.

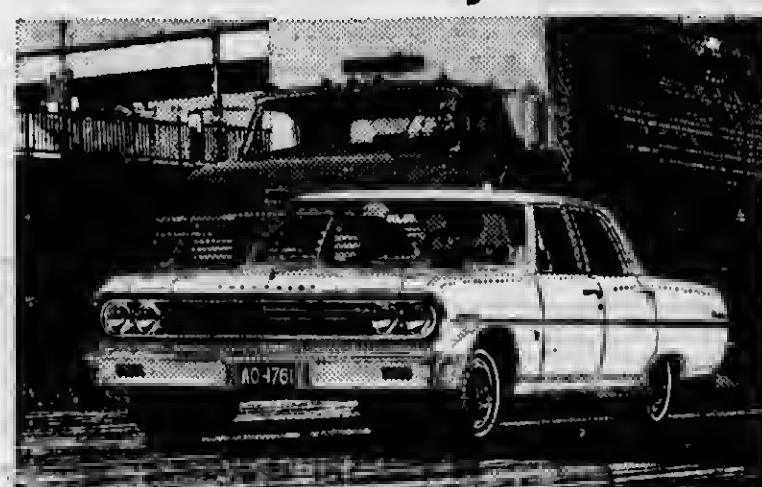

FEATURED SPEAKER at the Annual 4-H Leadership Banquet on Saturday evening will be Dr. Leroy Augusten, chairman of the biophysics department at Michigan State University. He will speak on "Goals for a Decisive Generation."

In addition to those speakers, leaders will participate in discussion groups, analyze their own 4-H program and tour the MSU campus.

Learn Science from 'Doing'

"I like to teach. I don't know of anything that could be more fun," says Jim Luther, Charlevoix's mentor for future scientists. Luther's high school science classes are anything but a one-sided proposition. "I learn something from the kids everyday," Luther told the Board of Education when outlining the science department's program.

CHARLEVOIX'S SCIENCE program begins in the seventh grade. Again this semester, classes are offered in grades 7 through 12. They range from basic natural sciences to complex chemistry and physics problems. Luther told the board he tries to work as much actual laboratory experimentation into classes as possible. Students learn more from seeing real life things than they do from the textbook approach, he said. Experiments sometimes fail to turn out the way the book says they will. Luther feels this teaches an important lesson. "As all of us who have tried to raise flowers know, they don't always come out like they look in the catalog," he said. "This kind of practical learning is beneficial as life doesn't work perfectly."

WE ALL LEARN MORE from doing, board members were reminded. "When a student using a microscope discovers a small egg about to hatch, he's learned more than a book on small eggs could teach him," Luther said.

Luther also offered the board some criticism of the science curriculum. He suggested more basic science be offered in junior high grades. Board members seemed in agreement. An extern teacher has been added this semester to beef up the 8th grade program. Besides Luther, Don Peterson and Del Terrill are teaching some science courses. Luther said the school is making a mistake in teaching only college preparatory chemistry. A chemistry course that would have more practical subject matter for daily life would benefit students not going on to college.

HE ALSO RECOMMENDED that attempts be made to offer chemistry and physics every year. This, he feels, would be more convenient for students and keep the teacher up to date on changes in both subjects. "We all agree it would be nice to offer all courses every year," board president Dorrell Dinwiddie said. "I think that's always been a bone of contention in the community."

Luther said his recommendations are not feasible until the school can afford to employ more science teachers and in other ways bolster the program.

Don Peterson submitted a written report on the 7th and 8th grade programs.

GENERAL SCIENCE in the 7th grade is based on fundamental principles of science. The general areas of study are astronomy and space, atmosphere and weather, plants and animals, and the earth's structure.

Ninth grade general science, Peterson pointed out, is based on the physical sciences.

Peterson explained he tries to work with things students are familiar with and interested in.

"This is my first year of teaching in Charlevoix and I find it very interesting," Peterson's report stated. "The students are very cooperative and I have yet to encounter any discipline problems. I think you have a very fine school, a good faculty, and I'm pleased to be a part of it."

DISCUSSING THE more complex high school courses, Luther said biology (10th grade) is the most interesting and valuable science as it is about life. "The real living process."

Science classes really get difficult in physics. "There isn't any way I know of to sugar coat physics and make it easy," he said.

Physics, he declared, is a subject demanding adequate preparation in algebra and geometry.

Approximately 45 students would take chemistry next year and 30 more physics, if they could both be taught in the same year, he told board members.

SUPT. REX MILLIGAN said the school is planning to do more to help outstanding science students. This is Luther's first year in Charlevoix. He also teaches the high school ski team.

FACE CLASSROOM CROWDING

Need More Teachers in Grades

Heavy classloads are once again posing a problem for Charlevoix Elementary School.

The school's curriculum committee has come up with a list of proposals that call for from one to three new teachers.

IF NO ACTION is taken by the Board of Education on the committee's recommendations the school will have nine classes with more than 30 students, one with 40 and one with 39 when pupils return next September.

These figures, Principal Glenn Snider said, do not include any new students who may move to the district before September. Snider presented the committee's suggestions, including six plans for classroom assignments, to the Board of Education. This year the school has 18 teachers. Classroom loads range from a low of 24 in two split rooms — (third and fourth graders and the fifth and sixth graders) to a high of 33.

SNIDER TOLD THE board the committee does not feel overloading classes in the first three grades is the answer.

Burr Blanchard, board secretary, said the board has informally agreed that first, second and third grade students should not be subjected to crowded classes.

"As far as I've always felt — a teacher can take 50 students as far as discipline goes . . . but not and teach them anything," Snider said.

The Elementary school this year has 18 teachers. The curriculum committee offered a variety of ways to break down classroom assignments next year. Two of these call for two more teachers, one calls for one more teacher and two others call for one added teacher plus an extern teacher.

SNIDER ALSO SAID the committee suggests a remedial reading teacher is needed, an elementary physical education program and continued art and music programs.

Supt. Rex Milligan told the board upgrading the age of kindergarten pupils would relieve some of the pressure on the elementary school and the older children are better prepared to learn. This, he said, would hold back about ten students a year.

"I Shall Keep This Lent"

"LENT" means springtime. It is an old Latin word which means a forty day fasting period next before Easter. It begins with Ash Wednesday and continues till Easter; exclusive of Sundays. It is a time for the conditioning of our soil . . . a time for our Souls to become penitent. It simply means that it is spading up time, the season for planting seeds and for setting blooming trees.

In the realm of the spirit it is a call to get ready for the season of beauty and goodness.

Who amongst us is satisfied with what he is or what he has been? Then let us qualify for the Lenten Season. Let us clear away the rubbish of last year's crop, cut under the old stalks. May we learn from our Lord to give ourselves to good conditioning during Lent. The miracle of Lent is genuine repentance which leads to Newness of Life. A Saintly Keeper of Lent said it well when he spoke the words, "I shall keep this Lent, and hope to refresh my Soul." Amen to be in the middle of testimony and a divorce case. Several others followed.

As the principals involved appeared on the witness stand it was always, frightening to study the low key, stuttering of their voices, watch their sometimes nervous, sometimes bitterness, memories of pain and fear from memories of pain and fear to each other there were two or three moments when their faces and voices showed a fear, dread, doubt and hesitation.

This column certainly doesn't have enough wisdom to consider the justice or need of divorce. But...

DEPUTY CITY Clerk Herb
Counsell and I were good naturally to bring City Treasurer Avery to the Cunningham last week about this business that a body from Maine, I believe, is claiming the presidency. Herb Counsell was trying to pick an election with me, and when I didn't work he decided to bring up the matter by egg-ing on Miss Cunningham.

She put it straight, too. As soon as she saw me, Miss Cunningham said, "I would be more than willing to let you know
I couldn't help but agree. No man in his right mind would try pushing the U. S. around if a woman were sitting in the White House. But is it the men who are sane that we worry about?

As far as being more tolerant goes, how could anyone be more tolerant than the administration has been in recent years? Of course, it's tolerance when our leaders encourage conditions that cause horrible race riots, corruption in Congress, and dividends for people too lazy to work at the expense of their own people who insist on paying their own way.

Who can help but wonder if as Miss Cunningham contends, the foul-mouthed, bearded savage from China wouldn't have been put in his proper place long ago if we had a woman as president... or even a good man?

GETTING BACK TO the court room. Attorneys and Judge Brown should feel somewhat indebted to County Clerk Pete Bilow for a bit of humor he introduced toward the end of a long day for them all.

Next to the last witness of the day approached the stand. Pete told her to face him, and raise her right hand. Pete already had his right hand up as he responded to swear her in. She raised hers. Because they were facing each other, her right was on the opposite of Pete's.

After hour upon hour of drab testimony and legal palaver, Pete probably was thinking about dinner.

He told the witness, "No, your right hand." She promptly lowered her right hand and up came her left. Now that her hand was up on the same side as Pete's, he put her through the oath.

Judge Brown and at least two attorneys caught the mistake, but rather than interrupt, merely let a well hidden but much needed, smile break their stoic masks. It was probably the most refreshing incident of the day. And, certainly, no discredit to anyone.

THE BOARD OF Education at a recent meeting was having a laugh or two at high school principal Harry Bingham's expense. The whole business got started when Harry reported on a recent convention of "high school principals he attended in Chicago.

Somewhat started the usual round of jokes speculating on the questionable extra-curricular activities of convention guests.
It was all in fun, and because Harry was such a good sport things were going pretty good.

Then he put an end to them.
To save expenses, Harry and a principal from Cheboygan drove to Chicago together and shared a hotel room. This, the board agreed, was commendable. The members were also impressed with Harry's report on the convention's program.

But the kidding ended when he pointed out the tell-tale from Cheboygan snored all night.
They almost awarded him a medal for sacrifice above and beyond the call.

MAYBE BECAUSE I had a cold, my stomach almost topped a valve last week during David Brinkley's report on the official welcome of Ethiopia's self-styled god of a ruler.

In fact I got to wondering if the military personnel involved couldn't have been excused conscientious objectors. It certainly should sit on rather harshly the conscience that they earned their bread and butter for buttering up such an out and brav.

It struck me as almost vulgar for a great nation, that puts its highest value on love for humanity, to tower before such a pompos, fraud.

LEAVING THROUGH the latest edition of the "Michigan Manual" came across a couple interesting tidbits, you probably didn't know.

Charlevoix County, for instance, has had more people living in it at one time than any neighboring county. The peak was reached in 1910 when Charlevoix County had a population of 19,157, according to the U. S. census bureau.

In 1960 the county had a population of 13,421, which is down some 51 people from the 13,473 recorded here in the 1950 census. And this is an increase of less than 400 from the 1940 census, which put the population at 13,031.

The turn of the century found 13,956 persons in the county—500 more than today. The first census figures were recorded in 1870, with 1,724 persons here.

But what about our neighboring counties? Antrim, Cheboygan, Emmet, and Otsego.

Only Emmet and Cheboygan are now bigger than Charlevoix.
Emmet has a population of 15-904 and Cheboygan 14,550. Considerably smaller are Antrim,
14,373 and Otsego, 7,545.

The highest population ever reached by Emmet was 18,561 in 1910. Which means that at the peak of population for both counties, Charlevoix had 600 more people than Emmet.

Cheboygan was even further behind. It reached its peak in 1910 with 17,872 people. Antrim's highest population was in 1900 with 16,568 persons. Otsego's population is higher today than it has ever been.

It is also interesting to note
Emmet started long before Charlevoix. The 1854 census showed 4,970 people in Emmet county. In the same year not a single person was recorded in Charlevoix by census takers.

of the property by a charitable and benevolent organization must be proven. The property, his answer argues, is not used by the camp for its charitable and benevolent purposes, but is largely unused.

date on the suit.

Foresee Serious Threat of Fires

Conservation Dept. has been told by the Michigan Department of Natural Resources, inspector Wayne Tennant, district chief, reports.

Unless there is a record of rainfall in the next few weeks, the spring will probably be the dryest in Charlevoix County for a long time.

TENNANT SAID the fire fighting equipment and men at the Boyer City station are already on the alert. Two fire detection planes will be used this year from the Gaylord district office.

Tennant asked that anyone having a fire immediately call the Boyer City station, JT 2-6381. It also pointed out burning permit must be obtained.

Cage Tourney Attendance Tops 6,000 Figure

The district basketball tournament here last week attracted 6,432 persons, according to figures released Monday by Harry E. Bingham, tournament director.

The figure included spectators, who paid admission as well as the workers, officials, team members, cheerleaders, working press, and maintenance personnel, Mr. Bingham said.

THE LARGEST CROWD attended the final Saturday when a total of 2,661 people went through the turnstile. Mr. Bingham explained that this number was not in the gymnasium at one time but included those who came early for the Class D finals and left before the Class C finals.

Fans from ten participating schools as well as others interested in the sport attended the tourney which ran for four days. Attendance was probably cut some when games scheduled for Thursday night were postponed one night because of the storm that hit the area early Thursday, closing all schools and plugging all but main roads.

Harbor Springs, a team of 11 players, defeated Boyne City, a team of 12 players, in a game that was played at the Class D level.

It was Harbor all the way in the final period as they outscored the Bombers 24-13 on seven field goals and 10 free throws in 15 minutes.

THE RAMBLERS' scoring ace, Tom Spauld, who was held to seven points, left the game with 4.3 remaining, and Bill Darbee with 2:57 left on the clock and Jim Mitchell in the last 90 seconds.

With 1:33 Coach Page pulled out his starting five and his team ran out to commit his bench. Coach Paul Phibbs also sent in his reserves and when it became evident the game was lost.

Though Harbor only had four more field goals than the Bombers, 18-14, they made up the difference with free throws, scoring 18 on 25 attempts while collecting only 13 personal fouls. The Bombers, on the other hand, had only eight charity shots on 11 attempts, committing 25 personal fouls.

Make Lauer pulled the victory point for Harbor between the 11 and 12 minutes of the game.

Bellaire Dumped In Play Offs

By FRAN MARTIN

1964 was the season for repeat performances as Harbor Springs repeated in the Class C district champions and Ellsworth in Class D district circles.

Ellsworth's Lancers, a well balanced outfit that captured the Snowland Class D title with no difficulty, dumped the Bellaire Eagles 78-47 to advance to the regional tournament at Traverse City.

THE OUTCOME OF this match was never in doubt as the Lancers led to a 21-8 first period lead, increased it to 41-20 at the halftime and then coasted to a third quarter 54-32 advantage in the tempo of the game slowed when the second half got underway.

Gary Toranzo led the way for the victors with 26 points followed by Chet Boss with 14 and Ken Richardson with 10.

Bryan Smith had 16 and Jerry Ash 13 for the losing cause.

Ellsworth advanced to the Class D finals after clipping Central Lake by a score of 62-35 in the semi-finals. Bellaire eliminated Wolverine by 62-53 in the opening game of the tournament and then took on Boyne City in the semi-finals.

The Eagles came through with a 72-58 victory over the Loggers on Friday night to make their way into the district finals on Saturday.

Government Shirks Its Duty to Island

IF YOU STRETCH YOUR imagination a bit it isn't hard to picture Beaver Island as a desert ship at the mercy of Arctic pack ice during the winter months. Admittedly this is going a bit overboard.

But it isn't going to extremes to state that Beaver Islanders become second rate Michigan citizens the minute the boat makes the last run. No it is out of him to suggest the state can do more than it is to overcome this handicap.

GOVERNMENT (IN SPITE of the welfare state) should keep its nose out of things people can do for themselves. We heartily endorse Thoreau's theory "That government is best which governs not at all." Unfortunately as in the mid-50's, we are not ready for this independence.

While state and federal bureaucracy is taking on more and more responsibility that can, and should, be left with the individual, it is turning a cold shoulder on problems that can be solved only by government. Beaver Island is a prime example of this.

Beaver Island's approximately 200 year around resident can hardly build a bridge to gap the 32 miles to Charlevoix. Nor can they set up their own fish and game commission to establish laws contrary to the state. Islanders, and Charlevoix mainlanders, are fortunate that private enterprise is able to keep dependable boat transportation running to the island eight months a year.

Precisely because private money cannot provide this same service in the winter it is the state's job. Here is something the people cannot do without government. Government is reneging on its duty when it ignores the need.

WE DON'T SUGGEST anything as outlandish as a bridge to Beaver Island.

But we do call on the state to begin an immediate, and enthusiastic study to see what can be done to make Beaver Island a part of Michigan in the winter months. Perhaps a subsidized airline service is the answer. This would call for aircraft of commercial quality that can fly and land in any weather to shuttle passengers to the island and back at a very nominal cost.

This could develop into a very busy enterprise. If Beaver Islanders respond with privately developed winter resort facilities, we can foresee the island fast becoming one of the nation's most exotic hide-aways.

We have been told no one is forcing anyone to live on Beaver Island, so, since they voluntarily live there, why should the state worry about them. This is an absurd argument. Yet the state builds a bridge across the Straits and two major highways into Charlevoix.

AND WHAT ABOUT Archie LaFreniere's suggestion that, the Conservation Dept. be granted legislative authority to set more liberal hunting seasons on the island?

LaFreniere isn't asking for anything extravagant. He would leave the decision on whether to lengthen the season and up the bag limits to the Conservation Dept.'s biologists. If they find the wildlife population will not be hurt by extending the season, or allowing more birds or deer to be taken, then open it up.

This is sound, logical, modern thinking. Certainly it isn't difficult to show Beaver Island in an unusual case, which warrants unconventional treatment. Game populations can be better controlled on an island than the mainland. The wildlife is in a somewhat captive position where biologists can readily keep track of its numbers and conditions. Consequently we can see no risks involved in giving biologists the go-ahead.

WE HOPE SEN. THOMAS Schweigert and Rep. Don Gordon will give Beaver Island some serious consideration in the next few weeks, months and years. We do not feel we have the answers to the island's problems. But we do feel it is their job to have them, or get them.

Campground a Major Bonus

LAST WEEK'S ANNOUNCEMENT that a private developer hopes to build a 300-family campground on Lake Charlevoix, almost within walking distance of the city, could be the most significant news of the year.

Flourishing the campground is only half full (which is unlikely) and each camping family spends the minimum state average of $20 a day. Charlevoix area will benefit to the tune of $24,000 a week. Add this up over an eight week season and it means darn near $200,000.

IF THE CAMPGROUND hits maximum capacity this figure will be up near the half million mark.

Before those who still consider campers to be somewhat undesirable get into full cry let us point out the Courier isn't going to sell anybody out for a paltry $200,000 a year. The fact is a modern campground and family campers are anything but second rate.

Family camping goes hand-in-glove with the finest of American tradition and modern trends. It gives the kids a chance to enjoy the freedom and adventure of the outdoors. Mother finds things almost plush with ultra-modern tents, camp stoves, etc. And she isn't confined to the household chores of a cabin.

These people come from all walks of life. Visit a state campground and you'll find doctors, vice presidents, laborers, college professors. It is the fastest growing family sport in the outdoors.

SO WHAT IS BEING done in preparation for this unexpected bonus?

We suggest the Chamber of Commerce immediately establish a committee to see that campers are informed about Charlevoix area attractions and activities. Arrangements should be made to assure campers they are welcome to Charlevoix.

Though we've never heard of such a thing and it might not be practical, it seems to us an organized weekly "Charlevoix Night" at the campground is worth studying. This could develop into something with kids games, late evening campfire singing, free favors for the youngsters. Who knows what all?

There should also be an awareness on the part of the county, city and township officials that unless properly constructed, the campground could be an eyesore. We very much doubt this is a real threat, but to overlook it would be foolish.

THE CAMPGROUND presents a new type of challenge to the Chamber of Commerce. How it meets it could make a multi-million dollar difference to Charlevoix.

Odd's 'N' Ends

By FRAN MARTIN

When a good part of Charlevoix went to bed Wednesday night there was a little rain mixed with snow. But come Thursday we had one of those March storms... a foot or more of heavy snow, high winds, visibility cut to zero... a foot or more of heavy snow, high winds, visibility cut to zero... a foot or more of heavy snow, high winds, visibility cut to zero...

And if you don't think this spring fever thing had caught on, let me tell you that a certain gal who lives 549 Petoskey Ave. had her yard all raked and was about to oil the lawn mower only to wake up to the white topping... but it will be something I won't have to do later on when everyone else is raking and cleaning up, was Mrs. Robert Howe's comment about the pre-season work...

AND THEN THERE were the daffodils that insisted on poking their pretty little noses out of the leaves despite the warning from Mrs. Leo Allard... Now she's wondering what will happen... The same is true of the crocuses outside our girl Friday's kitchen window... Mrs. Elmer Gibson in case you don't recognize her by our name for her... But these early spring flowers are sturdy varieties and can take a lot... after all, you've got to be tough to be a harbinger of spring in this north country...

With the open winter we've been having, the Sundew has been coming and going but not always to Southern Lake Michigan... In fact, so far, the ship hasn't had a real ice breaking assignment, as far as I know. However, she's been coming and going on occasion... one time through the Straits of Mackinac... a most unusual performance because the Mackinac claims the first trip under Big Mac every season... But this year I'm claiming it for our own Sunday...

SCHOOL REPORT CARD

Child's English Ultimate Concern

By HELEN E. RICHARDS
Elementary School Teacher

In and out of school, the child has and always will have two major uses for the English language. First, it is the chief means of communication with others. He tries to transmit his ideas and feelings to others by talking and by writing. He tries to understand what others mean and what they feel by listening to them talk and by reading what they have written.

SECOND, THE ENGLISH language is the tool the child uses to do most of his thinking. It may be used to build an idea, make a judgment, draw a conclusion, communicate with others, or to think clearly and logically about his problems.

Thus it seems reasonable to conclude that the child must build the control of language which he needs in order to communicate effectively with others and so that he can think clearly and logically about his problems. To help the child build this control of language, the modern elementary school provides instruction in a group of subjects or activities called the language arts. These arts are:

● Talking, including the school subjects commonly known as oral composition, speech and grammar.

● Writing, including the school subjects commonly known as written composition, grammar, spelling, and handwriting.

● Listening.

● Reading.

The school's basic purpose for teaching talking and writing is so that the child can develop the power to engage in the most important communication with others. He tries to transmit his ideas and feelings to others by talking and by writing. He tries to understand what others mean and what they feel by listening to them talk and by reading what they have written.

IT'S YOUR OPINION THAT COUNTS

Taxation Without Representation?

SHOULD 18 YEAR OLDS be allowed to vote? An interesting question, even if it isn't one to which there is a simple answer.

The best you can do is ask people for their opinion. The Courier did just that this week. Ten Charlevoix people were asked their opinion on the 18-year-old voting issue.

The majority of people seemed to favor letting teenagers cast ballots. Probably the most frequently mentioned reason is that if they can serve in the military they should be allowed to vote.

HAROLD (Sonny) LANG contends that if the 18-year-olds can serve their country on the battlefield they should be granted the right to vote.

Some 18-year-olds would be qualified to vote and others wouldn't. MRS. TOM McDANIELS, Michigan Ave., said, Mrs. McDaniels said she doesn't think she was qualified to vote when she was 18. However, many young people take an active interest in government and come from homes where politics is a major concern, which, she feels, makes them more qualified.

If 18-year-olds are old enough to pay taxes, 15-year-olds old enough to be drafted, 13-year-olds old enough to be considered old enough to vote, John contends this is taxation without representation. He also feels that if they are old enough to go in the Army they are old enough to vote.

RUSSELL DOHM, Marion Center Rd., isn't sure the younger people should be able to vote, but he is inclined to favor their side. "If the schools give good, intensive training in politics and government, they might be better prepared at 18 than they are at 21, due to the three year lapse," Dohm told the Courier. Dohm also feels that it is impossible to gauge a person's qualifications as a voter.

"Why don't they take them out of the cradle?" LIONEL McCLANAHAN, Rte. 2, asked when questioned by the Courier. "If they are old enough to fight for their country, why aren't they old enough to vote?" McCLANAHAN however, adds, that 18-year-olds lack experience.

People are more qualified to vote at 21 than 18. MRS. DALE MEREDITH, 203 Park, said, "Between 18 and 21 Mrs. Meredith feels, people are in the world getting practical understanding to go with their book learning and ideals. This, she said, makes them better voters. She agrees, though, that many high school graduates are better prepared to vote than older people. Schools, she said, give the student's good training in federal and state government, but not enough in local and county government.

MRS. RUSSELL LEWIS, 911 State, said, "I think 18-year-olds should be able to vote. They're growing up a lot faster now than they used to and should take an interest in government at that age."

Four years of working for the Selective Service here convinced MRS. GERALD LEFT, 222 Antrim, 18-year-olds should be given permission to cast ballots. "I always thought while we were processing them that it didn't seem fair that they couldn't vote," Mrs. Left said of her former experience with the draft board. "If an 18-year-old is able to go into the armed services I think he should know enough to vote."

Younger people are often better informed than the men of the street, MRS. ROBERT CURTIS, Rte. 1, said. "I think it depends on the individual," Mrs. Curtis said. "Some are fully mature at 18 and some are much older than others at an older age." Mrs. Curtis said she feels she was better informed when she was in high school. Many people let their interest in government slip after school, she said.

MRS. ROBERT RUSSELL, 347 Antrim, points out people under 21 are allowed to get married and hold down family responsibilities. It seems to her if they are capable of handling this they should be able to vote.

OUR READERS

Area Needs Vocational School

TO THE EDITOR:

We have been reading and listening with interest in the proposed plans for a Vocational Training Center in East Jordan. It is good to know that there are several people in the area including yourself that disagree with one of the area's large employers in the resort business, when he states that our part of the state should be left only for the resort trade instead of new industry. This was not only a selfish statement, but his very own reasons backing up this statement have been disproved by almost every new industry coming to our area in the past ten years or so. We do need desirable new industry in the area to boost the whole economy and not just a segment of it.

We by no means count ourselves as a large employer but I'm sure that many other contractors in the area agree that it is becoming ever more difficult to find skilled or even interested craftmen in the area (Masons, carpenters, etc.)

THIS IS WHERE the interest in a Vocational School comes alive in our business as well as other industry. As an example, an article in a recent issue of the American Builder Magazine, stated that the average age of brick masons in the United States is 61 years plus! I'm quite sure that our area is on exception, so need I say more?

The building trades referred to are not at all undesirable when you consider both wages and working conditions, but a Vocational School as proposed by the East Jordan committee would help create some much needed interest in these jobs as well as others.

Let's keep our young people in the area instead of shoving them off to the city to find work!

Very truly yours,
DRENTIL BROS.

Worm Fishing

TO THE EDITOR:

It is with pleasure that I receive the Courier each week. I think the paper is greatly improved. I enjoy your editorials, also the column by Rev. Kohn and Fran Martin is great. If we had a dozen like her in our state department we would be the best loved nation on earth. So please find enclosed a renewal check and keep sending the news. P.S. I remain one of the state's worst citizens. I fish trout with worms.

Adults Going to Dogs

TO THE EDITOR:

It has often been stated that the younger generation is "going to the dogs" but after seeing the reaction of some adults to the conclusion of Tuesday's Boyne - Charlevoix game it is our opinion that some of these adults are headed for the same floggings.

It is extremely discouraging to the students who have accepted the defeat of the game to see an adult (from Charlevoix) being escorted out of the gym by a police man because he isn't mature enough to accept the officials' decision.

THROUGH THE YEARS Charlevoix has been noted for its good sportsmanship and we students wish to have it continue.

So please, adults, cooperate with us!

Life's Turbulence Forges Strong Character

By REV. H. E. KOHN

From my study window I look out upon the unceasing flow of my favorite stream, Woods Creek, colored with sun and shadow, winding its way from nearby springs to a neighboring lake. Upstream a few yards from our house the brook gently glides through deep, green spruce-shaded silence. Directly in front of the window that illumines my desk the solemn stream suddenly breaks into silvery laughter as it plays mischievously with logs, stones and broken branches, and then joyfully skips into a tree-trunked opening where today it is greeted with fair skies.

A few feet downstream the water abruptly becomes serious again, dropping its playthings, forming a tranquil, dreamy pool, perfectly reflecting the unmarred images of birches that grace the snow-cushioned banks. So the stream moves on toward its rendezvous with the der lake, slipping through wind-rippled glades, dancing past snow-and-sun brightened meadow, tro-licking light heartedly in the light sauntering in the shadow. IF ONE WISHES to probe the secrets of a stream like ours, searching for the multitude of living things that inhabit shadow-haunted depths and mystery-pat-terned bottoms for darters and darters, crayfish and crustacea, brook trout and brook trout, the best results are to be found where the waters are most disturbed.

Life is most plentiful and most vital not in the reposeful silence of still, dark pools or in the peace-ful dreamy shadows where the stream moves slowly under protec-tive, overhanging branches or in quiet, sun-dappled stretches of the river—surged brook where life ebbs leisurely swim on bright Winter afternoons, but in the trou-bled turbulence.

The reason this is so? Where wa-ter is most highly agitated it be-comes well supplied with oxygen—a basic necessity for the susten-ance of life. While forests, farms and swamps contribute generous supplies of decomposing vegetation to the streams, adding accumu-lations of poisonous carbon diox-ide and reducing the proportion of oxygen in the water, turbulence cre-ated by water dashing against plumes supplies of oxygen—and makes streams habitable. Scientific experts who deal with water and its properties and effects say that "swift" water swirling and cascading down waterfalls, is filled with healthy oxygen be-cause the turbulence creates a vital con-tact between water and atmo-sphere. While stagnant water may be cured with aerators, tur-bulent water churns into itself the atmosphere that floats just above it.

LIFE'S TURBULENCE, rightly used, lends a similar thing for us. It mixes Heaven into our human situation in a way that peaceful days never do. Obstacles to our comfort, hindrances to our hopes, distresses, afflictions, misfortunes, trials—like breakers in a brook—create the kind of disturbances that can churn the Above into the Below, the Spirit of God into the spirit of man. As Benjamin Frank-lin said, "After crosses and losses men grow humbler and wiser." And Saint Paul, long before Frank-lin, wrote to the Christians at Corinth about the great good that came from his vexation—"I took pleasure in infirmities, in parch-ings, in necessities, in persecu-tions, in distresses for Christ's sake, when I am weak, then am I strong."

James Barrie told of his mother suffering cruelly from the death of her eldest son. "She came back

So troublesomeness earthly sophistication so that Hea- venly answer can be joined to earth's central questions, and Hea- ven's rich grace can be turned in- to our deep spiritual destitution.

It is not by accident that man's profound thoughts have come through disaster rather than through prosperity, that the noblest expressions of the ancient Hebrews were uttered during the Babylonian captivity rather than when they like the atmosphere lingering over the borders of their kingdom, that takes the dashing of our snare the most sublime words spoken in against some dreaded obstructions American were voiced during the to let the Divine resources mingle agonizing evidence of the Civil War with our human weakness so that and not during one of America's great economic flourishes.

In Michigan... after bowling, beer is a natural

After you've bowled a game or two, or when you're winding up the evening at the neighborhood bowling center, it's good to relax with friends and compare scores. What better way to add to the sport and the sociableness than with a refreshing glass of beer? However you take your fun—skiing, skating, or at your ease in the game room—beer always makes a welcome addition to the party.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasant reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

In Michigan, beer goes with fun, with relaxation

LaFreniere contends property value assessments on the island are figured on the same formula used for mainland cottages. Because the island cottages cannot be easily reached on a weekend, or during the winter, they are not as valuable to owners, he said.

The dress revue winner will be selected and she will represent Charlevoix County at the State contest. 4-H members have about a month to finish their projects to be ready for Achievement Day.

VOCATIONAL SCHOOL? This is the building in downtown East Jordan that area education leaders are hoping to convert into a vocational school for students from Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim Counties. The City of East Jordan is willing to donate the unused building, which was started but not completed during the depression. Walter Thomsen, chairman of the vocational school committee, reports efforts are being intensified to obtain a $225 million grant to remodel and equip the building. If the grant can be obtained the school will be operated with money from the various schools sending students to it. (Courier Photo)

Coast Guard to Open Light Stations Early

As the result of the open winter, light stations attached to U. S. Coast Guard Group Charlevoix will open approximately a month earlier than last season, according to Lt. Charles A. Millard, commander of the group which extends from Grand Traverse Bay on Lake Michigan, north through the Straits of Mackinac to Alpena on Lake Huron.

Assignments to new stations within the group are being made among group personnel. Among the first to be made is the transfer of Thomas Pierish Jr. BAH to the Charlevoix River Light. Assistant Station effective later this month. He has been attached to the group since June 1959 and has been stationed at Grays Reef light station, Beaver Island Moorings and the Charlevoix Lighted Station.

ERNEST WILLIAMS, BAH, attached to the Charlevoix Lighted Station since June 1961, has been assigned to Lansing Shoals light station. EXTENSION DIRECTOR SAYS

Overlook Chance to Boost Rural Economy

BOYNE CITY — Charlevoix County's rural residents are failing to take advantage of a major boost to their income, according to Ed Rehman, county extension service director.

Rehman said a huge maple syrup crop is just beginning to be tapped.

IF A CENTRAL evaporating plant were constructed and woodlot owners throughout the county started tapping maple trees, the process is an important step for the rural economy.

The county's maple syrup production potential is virtually untapped, the county top agricultural advisor said.

"We're down at the bottom of the barrel as far as production goes on maple syrup," Rehman said.

For a small investment, he said, families could add between $700 and $800 to their annual income. And this would involve only part time spring work, nothing that would interfere with regular family duties.

THE BIGGEST NEED, Rehman said, is for a central evaporating plant in the county to boil maple sap down to syrup. He estimated such a plant would require an investment of approximately $15,000.

Without the plant it is almost impossible for small scale sap producers to make a profit, Rehman said. Unless a person taps several thousand trees, he cannot afford to have his own evaporating plant.

If a central plant were located in the county, families could make a $700 to $800 annual income from sap collections in an average year.

with no more than 1,000 taps, Rehman said.

Charlevoix County has an unusually large number of maple trees that are potential sap producers. If a person does not own a woodlot, or crown, this means there is a lot of maple trees he can generally rent them from others at a reasonable price. Tapping trees does them no harm.

The profit from an evaporating plant would depend on how much of the processing of syrup the owner would undertake. If he did his own boiling, Rehman said, the profit could be as high as 100 per cent.

Complete information can be obtained from Rehman, extension director, at the county extension office in Boyne City. He said he will also make other visits to various parts of the county to help interested parties.

YOUR LIFE!

What is your life? "It is a vapor that appears for a little while and then disappears," James 4:14. It doesn't take long to burn a match, or to live a life. From twenty to seventy looks like a long road, but from seventy to twenty is a mighty short road.

A match consumes itself to serve others. Every worthwhile life is like that. One either burns out or rusts out. The worth of life is not how long it is but how well it is lived. A good life has a vital glow... many little deeds made meaningful by a few great decisions. Decide now to attend church regularly. A match doesn't burn very long. Life is short. Eternity is much longer.

Six Teachers Included in Budget Hike

Intermediate District Spending Will Triple

A budget that is triple last year's has been approved by the Charlevoix Intermediate School District, Supt. Charles Robinson reports.

The Intermediate District Board of Education, and representatives of all local boards have approved a $63,530 budget for 1964-65, Robinson said. Last year's budget was approximately $20,000, he said.

The $43,000 increase will employ six teachers for handicapped students. Robinson pointed out. It will all be paid by the State.

THE INTERMEDIATE District will be the first in this area to employ such teachers, the two-county school chief said.

The six teachers will be two reading teachers and four speech or psychology. They will serve children throughout the two counties who need special training.

According to Robinson the entire program, which is the only reason for the tripled budget — will be paid for by the State.

He said the program is possible only because the Charlevoix and Emmet Counties joined to form the new district.

FIVE YEARS AGO Charlevoix County School District, under Robinson, started a speech correction program, but had to drop it because the county wasn't big enough to maintain it.

The $63,530 budget includes $17,963 from the State and $15,557 from a one-eighth mill property-tax levy in the two counties.

The $20,000 that will not be used for the visiting and speech correctionists, will be used for salaries and routine operations of the Intermediate District offices in Charlevoix and Petoskey.

Hiring the six teachers does not eliminate the need for a special education program, Robinson has pointed out.

The Intermediate District will ask voters in June to approve a half-mill levy to establish a special education district. This would serve children who are mentally handicapped, but educable, crippled, or have special health problems, blind or near-blind, deaf or hard of hearing and emotionally disturbed.

Complaints Filed to Block Campground

Rezoning Hearing April 3

19 Protest Camp Plans

Objections to plans for a private campground on Lake Charlevoix in Marion Township will be aired at a public hearing 8 p.m. Friday, April 3.

Township Clerk Charles H. Mascho reports he has received complaints about the proposed campground from 19 property owners.

RICHARD ROGALLA, of Romeo, Mich., is asking the township to rezone 31.6 acres on Lake Charlevoix, along M-66 north of L-66 Farm from residential to commercial. Rogalla said he plans to build a campground on the property with 300 camp sites.

In compliance with law the township advertised its intention to rezone the property. Anyone objecting to the zoning change was invited to voice their complaint at a public hearing.

Mascho said, when the notice of intent to rezone was announced in the Courier, he did not expect objections. However, last week he reported 19 property owners filed complaints.

These persons, and others in favor of the campground, will have an opportunity to outline their views at the April 3 public hearing. The township zoning board will decide whether to authorize the rezoning after hearing arguments for and against the proposal.

OBJECTIONS to the campground, Mascho said, appear to be largely because people in the area are worried about what it will develop into.

Though he made it clear he is only speculating, Mascho said these objections can probably be overcome if some written guarantees the campground will be closely controlled.

Rogalla has said the campground will be almost identical to state park campgrounds. Facilities and other services will be at least equal, he said.

Charlevoix County Health Department John Reynolds reported the campground will have to provide water and toilet facilities adequate to serve all campers.

THE CAMPGROUND, Rogalla said, will be almost invisible from M-66 when trees are in full leaf. If the rezoning is approved, Rogalla hopes to have 150 campsites ready for use this summer.

The City of Charlevoix, which saw a ten percent increase in the city's utilities business.

DEPUTY CITY CLERK Herb Campbell reports campers used approximately ten percent more electricity, water and sewage treatment from March 1, 1963 to Feb. 29, 1964 than they did in the previous 12 months.

USE OF ELECTRICITY climbed from $20,626 in 1962 to $25,721 in 1963. Campbell said. An increase of $25,000.

The City sold $11,386 worth of water in 1963, compared to $11,633 the year before.

SEWER bills last year totaled $10,072, in contrast to $18,291 the year before.

Spring or Not, Band Sets Easter Concert

There will be music in the Charlevoix air next Wednesday.

THE 161 YOUNG musicians of the senior and reserve bands will team up to present their Easter Concert 8 p.m. Wednesday.

The 90 minute program will feature the music Charlevoix bandsmen played when they won fourth place at the recent quad-city festival.

This is a program that will please all musical tastes. Odmark promised.

Tickets will be sold at the door by band members. No admission charge. The concert will be held at the Charlevoix High School.

AT INTERMISSION Odmark and Band Parents' President Chas. H. Mascho will speak.

Also in the 87 piece Senior Band will be a group of color guard in presentation of the U.S. flag. The group will be led by Betty Charles (Pete) and a group of color guard in presentation of the U.S. flag.

Gordon Out of GOP House Race

It's a wide open race for State Representative from the Charlevoix District.

Incumbent Don Gordon, R-Leland, opened the door this week for Republicans hopefuls to seek his seat. Gordon announced at Courier press time that he will not seek reelection.

Though Democrat Irving Smith has announced he will seek Gordon's seat, the district is predominantly Republican, making the race much more enticing for a GOP candidate.

GORDON SAID HE will seek the Republican nomination to the State seat held by William G. Milliken of Traverse City. Milliken said he will try to defeat his opponent.

A 40-year-old Republican incumbent, Gordon is serving his first term.

Though he made it clear he is only speculating, Mascho said these objections can probably be overcome if some written guarantees the campground will be closely controlled.

Rogalla has said the campground will be almost identical to state park campgrounds. Facilities and other services will be at least equal, he said.

Rambling with shop

MICHIGAN LEGISLATORS acted arbitrarily last week and then only half did the jobs when they passed tenure for all qualified school teachers. At least that's the way this column sees it.

As Charlevoix District Rep. Don Gordon remarked, more than 3 million Michigan voters were denied the right to vote on the issue. Some 325,000 people (600 in Charlevoix County) signed petitions asking that tenure be brought to a vote of the people.

This request was rebuffed. The Legislature chose to ignore the clear desire of the public to vote on the issue.

"It's a little like saying to the ballot box, here comes the people," Rep. Gordon said.

Gordon had the courage to vote no on tenure. This is going to make him unpopular in some circles. He wanted to see tenure taken to the voting booth. Last year Gordon said he did not feel there was a need for mandatory statewide tenure.

Remember, as the local school from Leland point out, voters in Michigan school districts have had the option to authorize tenure for their teachers since 1937. In Charlevoix taxpayers and parents wanted, or needed, tenure they could have put it in.

Wants Permit For Boat Basin Near Beet Plant

Bill Forberg has asked the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers for permission to build an enclosed breakwater and dock beside the City's launching ramp on Lake Charlevoix.

The boat basin will be privately owned by persons who purchase homes. Forberg plans to build on the site of the old sugar beet plant. Twenty-two year around homes are planned for the 17 acre lake front parcel.

THE BOAT BASIN will be enclosed with four breakwater walls made partially of material from the sugar beet plant. Forberg said he will begin razing the plant this spring.

According to the Corps of Engineers the boat basin will be approximately 400 feet wide with 14 docks.

Persons having objections to the breakwater and docks must file written objections by 4:30 p.m. March 23, with the Corps of Engineers, 150 Michigan Ave., Detroit.

DON GORDON Seeks Senate Seat

Dem. Teacher Eyes Lansing

BOYNE CITY — Though he isn't sure what the prize is, or when the election will be, Irving Smith is vying to be a Democratic candidate for State Representative.

While Michigan politicians are tumbling and stewing because legislative apportionment is still undecided, Smith has made up his mind. He will seek the Democratic nomination in whatever district Charlevoix County ends up in.

SMITH, 28, IS A Boyne City grade school teacher. He's called Shorty. Maybe the nickname fits him, and maybe it doesn't. He's 5 foot 8 inch frame might qualify him for the Shorty handle. On the other hand his four years of football, basketball and baseball and a Golden Gloves title in a Boyne City High School student — could make him a tall target. The boxing title was "49 pounds ago" he admits with a grin.

His qualifications as a politician are more in doubt. He admits this and is determined to change it.

"Politics is the most important part of our country, so I would like to take part in it," he said, explaining his reason for running.

SMITH SAID HE announced his candidacy this week, before it is known what counties Charlevoix will be added with to form a legislative district, because he needs a head start on better known candidates if he hopes to win.

Should Smith come through the primary battle with the Democratic nomination there is no way of knowing who has Republican opposition will be. The Michigan Supreme Court will not decide for several in the Charlevoix District, Smith's bid to endorse Smith's bid for the position of LeBlanc said he is familiar with Smith and feels he will be a good candidate. If many Democrats declare themselves LeBlanc said he and the Democratic party will also welcome them into the race.

The primary election is scheduled for Aug. 1. However, state officials are reported trying to get it moved a month or more due to the fact that in legislative apportionment.

Smith outlined his strategy, though somewhat skeptical that it is worthy of definition.

HE WILL CONCENTRATE on winning the people in Charlevoix County to find out what they want from a state representative, and what they feel are the major issues of the day.

He said he has been doing this for the last month. "Nine out of 13 people I've talked to feel our children are our biggest problem," Smith said.

Other major concerns he has found among people questioned are education, especially vocational training, and taxes.

"I am going to go to the people to get their ideas and then take a program back to them. Then I will be able to tell them what I would like to do for them. If they think this is what they want, and I'm qualified to do it, they will elect me. If they don't, I won't be elected," Smith said.

I'M NEW AT THIS thing, I want to represent the north. When I find out what the people up here want, I would like to go to Lansing and do a job for them," he added.

A lifelong Boyne City native, Smith graduated from school there in 1953. He spent most of the next two years with an Army artillery unit and then attended Northern Michigan University at Marquette.

His first teaching job was at Boyne City two years ago.

Mrs. Smith is the former Betty McRoberts of East Jordan. They have three children, Kirk, 6, Mac, 5, and Kelly Sue, six months.

Teaching, his family and politics do not take up all his time. He is also a skin diver, and he works evenings after school and weekends at a Boyne City auto and trailer sales.

Rambling

levies — chose to take on public position on tenure. Too tough.

Perhaps due to teacher organization propaganda, people immediately suspect someone who takes an anti-tenure stand is against teachers getting a fair break from the school board. Nuts!

This couldn't be further from the truth. In this column's experience in school districts employing hundreds of teachers and in those having less than a handful, it has never seen a teacher railroaded.

Of course, this has happened, but it is damned rare. And any citizen — including a teacher — has the right to go into court for redress if they have been slandered. This is all the protection anyone in a highly skilled trade such as teaching, needs in a democracy.

No one guarantees a doctor, lawyer, watch repairman, druggist, editor, etc., that people will be willing to pay for his wares. Of course people protected by labor unions do get this security. However, the unions clearly spell out what standards a man must meet to qualify for this kind of tenure. The Legislature failed to do this with teachers. Which is only proper. How can you equate education in black and white terms? This sometimes works with machines, but never with people.

But enough. This is not a crusade against teachers or education. Though, perhaps, it is a somewhat disgusted comment on the arbitrary action in Lansing.

This column always will champion teachers and schools. If the youngsters aren't taught to read the Courier will find it sell without a market.

THE NORTHERN Michigan Pharmacists Assn. is promoting President Johnson's "pill" in the form of a Poison Prevention Week, March 15-20, local druggists tell us.

A lengthy news release on protecting children from the medicine chest — and other poison centers — was handed to us. It we printed it, much of the local news would be left out this week. However, the subject is definitely worthy of local attention.

Approximately a half million children will be victims of home poisoning this year. Of these 500 will die. Would you ever be able to stand eye-hall to eye-hall with your conscience again if one of these infants was yours?

Frank Oehs advises parents to never refer to medicine as candy. We've all seen this one, and maybe been guilty of it. How could we blame a toddler for getting into the candy (baby aspirin?) jar?

KEN STALEY has the answer to the beer bottle litter problem, he tells this column with a sly grin.

Ken would do away with the law making it illegal to have empty bottles in a car. This way he subtly points out, people who need alcoholic nourishment in the road would buy returnable bottles to save the money and no longer pitch the cans and no-refund bottles out the window.

Of course, the long proclaimed law that people are not to drive while on the road is a better solution. But there's about as much hope for it as there is that the Courier editor will quit dreaming about ten pound brown trout.

It's also true Ken's only kidding. Just like the editor is kidding himself about those fish.

ELMER GIBSON, and I suppose others, tell the story about the Denver Island visitor who landed on the dock and asked a native, "What's the population here?"

"Mostly hemlock and hardwood" was the answer.

LAST WEEK'S REPORT that Charlevoix is hoping to get a federal grant to build water lines because we have been proclaimed a "disaster" area was a dandy Courier mistake.

However, can't see as how it will hurt us any. If Charlevoix survived being a "distressed" area it can get by being labeled a "disaster" area.

term as the Charlevoix District representative in Lansing.

Charlevoix County Republicans are expected to encourage local candidates to seek Gordon's position. However, there were no immediate predictions Wednesday of who they might be.

The squabble over legislative apportionment also makes it uncertain what counties will be included with Charlevoix to form a House district. It is almost certain the present district will be broken up. The Charlevoix District now includes Antrim, Benzie, Charlevoix and Leelanau Counties.

WITHOUT AN INCUMBENT face, all Republicans can be considered to have an equal chance. Should it well-known local politician enter the contest, the odds would probably be in his favor.

Gordon said he will not begin his campaign for the Senate seat until his duties as representative from the Charlevoix District have been fulfilled.

Gordon, formerly administrative assistant to Congressman Robert P. Griffin, is author of the Minimum Wage bill, backed by Governor Romney. The bill has been described editorially by the Detroit Free Press as a good bill with excellent chance of passage.

As a member of the House Committee on Economic Development, Gordon has cosponsored several bills aimed at helping industry to establish new job opportunities.

The Senate district seat Gordon seeks includes Grand Traverse, Wexford, Antrim, Benzie, Leelanau, Kalamazoo and Muskegon counties. Both the Senate and House districts are expected to be changed through redistricting.

GORDON IS A GRADUATE of Michigan State University, where he specialized in Government and Journalism. For 13 years he was editor and publisher of the Leelanau Enterprise, a Tribune, after which he became assistant to the president of the Parsons Corporation in Traverse City and president of Leelanau Industries, Inc.

He has served as Leelanau County Republican Chairman; has been a board of education member; director of the Leelanau Improvement Association and of the Leelanau Harbor Association. He is a District Lay Speaker for the Methodist Church.

emblems and instructions available at our pharmacy

Statistics released from the United States Public Health Service show that there are 500,000 accidental poisonings in this country each year. This staggering figure can easily be reduced by taking the necessary precautions in the storing and disposing of potentially dangerous products in your home. Make a periodical check of your medicine cabinet and get rid of those old medicines you no longer use. Just as important, discard those medicines in the proper manner. Instead of carelessly discarding the medicine in a trash can or garbage pail where a child can get to it, flush it down the drain. Then you can be sure the curious child will never see it. If you must store left over cleaning solution, leave it in its proper container. Above all, store toxic materials out of the reach of the curious child. This week is National Poison Prevention Week. Check with our pharmacists for further preventative steps. Make your home "poison proof."

Our recipe this week is from Mrs. Karl Purdy for Beef and Bean Casserole.

Brown in frying pan: 1 lb. hamburger and 1/4 cup chopped onion. Mix lightly the following ingredients and then add to the first mixture.

1-12 oz. package frozen green beans (thawed)
1 can Mushroom soup
1 tsp. salt
1 tsp. Worcestershire Sauce
1/4 cup grated cheese
2 tablespoons pimiento or green pepper

After mixing all of the above, place in a baking dish, cover with buttered bread-crumbs. Bake in 350 oven for 20 minutes.

This may be cooked on top of the stove instead of the oven, by heating the soup with 1/4 cup milk, then add cheese, stirring until cheese is melted. Cook the green beans separately, also cook the pimiento or green pepper with the hamburger and onion when browning. Then mix all the ingredients together, and heat thoroughly. (A cheese sauce may be used instead of the soup.)

SEASON OPENS FRIDAY

Odds Favor Beaver Trappers

Charlevoix County beaver trappers tomorrow (Friday) open what is expected to be their best season in years.

On Beaver Island the season opens April 1, with more liberal bag limits.

Conservation Officer Harley Harris reports conditions are ripe for excellent trapping.

Snow depths are already far below normal throughout the county and no heavy snow fall or rain is forecast during the season.

Barris said some 20 men are expected to trap beaver and other in Charlevoix County this season. Living up to their name the Beaver Islanders, he said, will probably draw a dozen of the trappers.

Another six or eight will trap on the mainland. Trappers will concentrate on the Jordan Valley. They will also make sets along the South Branch of the Boyne River.

Barris said small creeks in the Charlevoix area will produce a few otter. He knows of no beaver concentrations in the Charlevoix area.

Beaver and otter pelts are expected to bring higher prices this year, according to fur market reports. However, veteran trappers say this is an "annual before season" prediction.

The trapping season on the Beaver Islands opens April 1 and ends April 16. Trappers can take eight beaver and two otter on the islands.

On the mainland the season ends April 10. The limit here is four beaver and two otter.

levels and good access on back roads Harris said trappers should have little trouble. Beaver and otters are also expected to be on the move, making them more vulnerable to trappers.

City Prepares Annual Audit

Work has started on the annual City audit, Deputy Clerk Herb Campbell reports.

This audit, to be published in the Courier, will outline all spending and income of the City, including utilities, from March 1, 1963, to Feb. 29, 1964.

CAMPBELL SAID he does not expect it to be completed for several weeks.

City Supt. James Taylor is working on the 1964-65 budget. Councilmen are expected to work on the budget for a month, or more, before having it in final form. Last year's City budget was $253,000.

Officials to Attend Traverse Township Meet

Charlevoix County Clerk F. R. Balow reports he expects between 15 and 20 township officials to attend the district conference of Township officers in Traverse City Friday.

Among Charlevoix County township officials expected to attend are John Howard of Chandler, Joseph Topolanski of Boyne Valley, Clarence Rabacki of Charlevoix, Hugh Graham of South Arm, Mrs. Rose Bergmann of Charlevoix, and from East Jordan William D. Taylor, Robert F. Barnett and Barney Milstein.

Will Attend Church Confab

The Charlevoix Episcopal Church will be well represented at the 90th Diocese of Western Michigan convention in Traverse City May 19-21. Rev. Alexander Wood reports.

In addition to Mr. and Mrs. Wood local delegates to the convention are Mrs. Tom Carey, Mrs. James (Barbara) Gallagher, and Tim Bassett. Tom Carey is an alternate delegate.

Some 700 Episcopal men and women from 63 parishes and missions from western Michigan will attend the convention.

Garden Club Studies Quiz

Mrs. Harley Ochs conducted a prepared garden quiz for the 20 members of the Charlevoix Garden club at the home of Mrs. A. H. Cameron with Mrs. Ted R. Miller as co-hostess.

Plans were made for the next meeting to be held at the home of Mrs. David Fowler at 1:30 p.m. on March 31.

Forensic Students Make Bid

Charlevoix High School students who will participate in the district forensic contest at North Central Michigan College April 7 were selected a contest Monday. Mrs. Robert G. Martin, faculty advisor reports.

Winners in four categories from 17 entries include: humorous readings: first place, Sherry Holborn; second place, Sherrell Pearson; declamations: first Kathy Arbuckle; second, Janice Sundberg.

INTERPRETATIVE READING: first, James Stewart; second, Barbara Wood; extempore speaking: first, James Curtis; second, Susan Pearl.

Judges were Mrs. Robert Hamilton, Mrs. William Ratigan and Mrs. Harry Stewart. The latter judged all but the interpretative reading.

Ray Kroll served as chairman of Monday's contest with John Bicha as timer for the speakers. A large group of parents and interested spectators attended the contest.

Charlevoix will be among five area schools entered in the district meet at Petoskey. District winners will advance to regional competition. This is the third year local students have participated in forensic circles.

Ellsworth Bows In Region Bid

The Ellsworth Lancers, D-line Class D winners in the local tournament, were knocked out in competition for a regional title by a Leelanau quintet that entered the game with a sting of 19 wins.

Leelanau dumped the Lancers, 70-56.

HOWEVER, THE COMETS fell victim to Suttons Bay the following night as the latter racked up a 64-61 victory to capture the regional title at Traverse City and advance to the state semifinals against the U.P. representatives, Pickford.

Pickford edged Mackinaw City by a score of 59-55 in the quarterfinal to take the U.P. regional crown.

Ellsworth looked like a winner as the Lancers romped to a 17-12 lead over Leelanau in the second quarter. But the Comets came back to tie the score, then outscored the Lancers 18-7 for a 23-21 halftime advantage. They then increased their advantage to 50-31 at the three-quarter mark before rolling to a 74-56 victory and a berth in the Class D final.

THE LANCERS, coached by Bob Dandridge, had upset the Leelanau Gaylord St. Mary Snowbird, 66-61 in the opening Class D game.

The Lancers jumped to an early lead and were ahead 21-12 at the quarter, 37-27 at halftime and 52-24 going into the final period over the favored Gaylord outfit.

Larry Brock paced the winners with 18 points followed by Gary Torgun, Chet Dreth and Steve Elzinga with 11 points each. Jack Nook led 23 for the losers.

The tournament at Traverse City ended the prep school careers of those regulars in the Lancers squad, Larry Brock, Chet Dreth, MISS THE FOLKS? Many people who don't see their out-of-town relatives or friends often have developed the pleasant habit of visiting them every week at the same time—by telephone. Knowing that the person they want to talk with will be there at that time, they call station-to-station instead of person-to-person. "Station" calls cost less than "person" calls. And they go through faster, especially if you give the Operator the Area Code and number you're calling.

CAN'T FIND A BABY-SITTER FOR THE DAY? Never mind. You can stay home with the children and still get your day's shopping done... by telephone, of course! Amazing how many errands your phone can run for you. Try it next time you are busy at home, or the weather's bad.

"NO CHARGE, MA'AM!" Here's a repairman who never sends a bill. He's your Michigan-Bell telephone man and his repairs are included in your service at no extra charge. But chances are you rarely need to call him. Today's telephones are that trouble-free! And they're improving all the time. Our goal is to bring you dependable service that remains low in cost while becoming ever more valuable and pleasant to use.

IN COUNTY SCHOOLS

Jobs Secure for Teachers

Charlevoix County school teachers last week were assured of almost unquestionable job security. In the future it will be impossible for an area board of education to arbitrarily fire or refuse to rehire a local teacher.

However, a check by the Courier of teacher organization leaders in Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix indicates tenure is not being zealously heralded in any of these districts.

BOYNE CITY'S MICHIGAN Education Assn. (MEA) president, Herbert Parrott, said "I am personally very glad to see it pass, though I don't think there was any particular need for it in this area."

Parrott's comment echoed that of MEA chapter leaders in East Jordan and Charlevoix.

The Legislature last week approved tenure for all fully qualified Michigan teachers. Tenure outlaws firing school teachers without "good reason" after they have passed a two-year or three-year probationary period.

The tenure law does not spell out specifically what "good reason" is. The three Charlevoix County MEA leaders contacted by the Courier said they cannot define what justifies a teacher being dismissed by the board of education.

EVIDENTLY SUCH vague terms as "poor teaching," "ethics," "morality" are the closest the tenure bill comes to spelling out the answers to this question.

Any teacher dismissed by a board of education will have the right to a public hearing and appeal to the State Tenure Commission.

Charlevoix — Emmet Intermediate School District Supt. Charles Robinson said he is not opposed to the tenure, but has not actively campaigned for it. "I don't know of a single case where a teacher has been dismissed who wouldn't have been under tenure," Robinson said. "I don't think most of our teachers tell they had to have it to keep their job."

CHARLEVOIX PUBLIC School District MEA chapter President, Mrs. C. A. Odmak, agrees with Robinson. "For the most part a lot of them (Charlevoix teachers) have been here for a long number of years, even though it hasn't been written down," she said.

However, Mrs. Odmak said she feels tenure is a good thing because it gives teachers a measure of security. It will insure young people to go into teaching who would not have before due to lack of security, she said.

Charlevoix County teachers, both Mrs. Odmak and Parrott, said worked very hard to get the tenure law introduced. They collected more than 600 signatures in the county on a petition asking the Legislature to put the question on the ballot.

Petitions with 325,000 signatures were presented to the Legislature demanding a public vote on the tenure question. Rather than vote the issue to the people legislators passed the tenure law. Several Lansing observers point out, was

Stop Parking On US-31 in Atwood Area

ATWOOD — Parking along US-31 will be prohibited here by order of the State Police and Highway Dept.

An investigation by State Police is reported to show that cars parked on the highway in the village area are creating a danger to pedestrians and through traffic.

Off-highway parking is available in the area.

State Police Commissioner Joseph A. Childs and State Highway Commissioner John C. Mackie signed a joint order prohibiting parking between Rex Beach Rd. and a point one-half mile south. The order becomes effective as soon as no-parking signs are erected.

BOYNE CITY — 4-H Club experience in agriculture and home economics can be a valuable resource in the developing nations of the world.

Men and women, 18 years or older, are building 4-H type rural youth education programs like those in Michigan in other countries through the 4-H Peace Corps.

These programs have spread to about 70 countries of the world and are credited with making substantial contributions to the improvement of farm and home methods and to community development in new and developing nations.

OVER 100 VOLUNTEERS are now serving in 4-H Peace Corps projects. Among the Michigan 4-H Peace Corpsmen taking an active interest in foreign agriculture are: Allaire Schlicher of Lansing, who is in the MJA program in Uruguay; Robert Harter of Carson City, both in 4-H in Brazil; and Maurice Spencer of Kalkaska, who is working with group leaders in 4-H in Venezuela.

As 4-H volunteers, they are helping organize clubs, recruit and train local volunteer leaders, and assist members with their projects, demonstrations, exhibits and recreation.

Four-H volunteers serve two years. Their 4-H experience and agricultural backgrounds are essential tools needed to aid developing nations. After a short initial training period in the United States, these men and women are sent to needy countries.

In addition to full expenses and medical care, workers are provided a clothing allowance, forty-five days leave and a $75 reimbursement allowance for each month of Peace Corps service payable at the termination of their experience.

Charlevoix county high school graduates with agricultural and home economics training and experience, plus 4-H, FFA, or FHA training, are needed for the 4-H Peace Corps. Anyone interested should write or contact the extension office here.

SUPRISE!

For the first time kindergarten students in Charlevoix have their own periodical which is named "Surprise!" according to Glenn B. Snider, Elementary School principal.

As the name indicates, it features new things in all fields.

In a recent issue, the subject of taste was featured. After some discussion by the teachers, Mrs. Dorothy Meltzer and Mrs. Kathryn Smith, relating to the sense of taste, the taste buds and related information the children participated in an experiment involving this sense.

As part of the experiment, they were blind-folded and given such simple things as samples of dried potatoes, carrots and lemon juice to taste and identify.

Some county teachers have suggested that they be given a sense of security that the school board is almost hamstrung unless it can prove an ethical or moral charge. There is virtually no accepted criteria established by the MEA to prove whether a teacher is doing a good job of educating students.

An estimated 18,000 Michigan school teachers were already covered by tenure in their local districts. State law since 1937 has allowed local voters to approve tenure for their schools.

Charlevoix's Board of Education her student teaching at LaLe did not take a position on tenure (11) Junior High School. Student Board members have informally stated they do not think Charlevoix North Central College to receive teachers' fees abused or in need of a teaching certificate.

Irish from the 'Bayvers' Have Big Time in Lansing

By WM. J. DUCHAINE
Lansing State Journal

EAST LANSING — The Boyle, Gallagher, McElroy and McDonough clans came down from "Bayvers" for the fourth annual banquet of the Beaver Island Civic Assn.

When they assembled at the Inn America, however, the island natives found themselves far outnumbered by the "furners."

The Egberts, Nelsons, Mayers and other summer folks with non-Irish names.

BUT LARGE GREEN shamrocks decorated the tables. Green paper hats were the favors. On the dining room wall was a large Irish welcome sign, a contribution from Doyle C. Fitzpatrick, Oldsmobile art director and Beaver Island cottage-historian.

It was strange, though, nobody thought about singing an Irish song or dancing an Irish jig.

The 200 Beaver Islanders—natives and immigrants—were too busy exchanging pleasantries and reporting the latest weddings, births, deaths and other news.

A half dozen new summer

James are being built on the island. Mr. and Mrs. Perry Crayford, Rochester, are completing the third Erin Motel on the St. James waterfront. The Harbor View has expanded from four to ten units and Archie LaFreniere has added two units to his Haven. Honey Allen is planning to add a swimming pool, clubhouse and more cabins to his resort.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH has a new rectory. And Lloyd Gilbert of East Lansing has had a new frame cabin built for him on the island.

Mrs. Vera McDonough Wojan attended the reunion wearing a beaver coat made of pink petals of beaver her husband, Walter, trapped on the island last spring. David E. Wilson, Ferndale, who has a cottage on the island, said Beaver Island has a strong attraction for him because it offers a haven from the busy city life and an opportunity to "blend" with the friendly, seafaring Islanders. He finds the King Strong lore interesting.

Shortly after James Jesse Strong founded Beaver Island in 1847, the island population surpassed the mainland portion of Emmet County. As a result, Strong was elected to the Legislature where, it is recorded, he proved an able legislator.

AS A LAWYER, said Wilson, "I am particularly interested in the foreclosure law that was enacted in Strong's time. One can detect Strong's fine hand in the exception that no foreclosure on land contracts could be made on any island more than ten miles from the mainland during the period from November through May. Of course, the only island affected is Beaver Island."

To VICTORY

...that is the cry of the multitude. Today we join the happy throngs around the earth as we shout together, "Hosanna!" Whatever the morrow may hold of suffering, today we declare to the world... "Christ has come." Because we are in His company, we know that God ultimately will be sovereign over all the world. We are confident that goodness is stronger than evil. We are sure love will triumph over hate. Whatever a Friday of crucifixion may bring of temporary defeat, we know life will triumph over death, and the Christian way will resolve itself supremely in the final destiny. Then Palm Sunday is a day to celebrate and set up our banner of hope. "For right is right as God is and right the day must win." This hope will convert, for us, spiritual defeat into eternal victory.

Cross Is A Challenge To Forgive

By Rev. Alexander Wood
Christ Episcopal Church

Good Friday! Why do we speak of the cross as good? Certainly the crucifixion of an innocent person was anything but good. The hate and jealousy of his accusers who nailed him to the cross was not good.

The key that unlocks all our questions is the person that hangs on the cross Jesus Christ. Out of all the darkness that surrounded the cross-hate, jealousy, pride, stupidity, and ignorance, it is the glow of His divine personality that turns the crucifixion into good. The love of God shining thru turns the cross into a challenge for good.

ONE OF THE FIRST words He spoke was, "forgiveness." To those who had crucified Him He said, "Father, forgive them for they know not what they do." None of us in our moments of hate, bitterness, anger, and stupidity know what we do. It was equally true of Christ's accusers. And so from the depths of His divine love He forgave them for He knew that what they were doing did not represent the highest and best, the justice and righteousness of mankind. "Father forgive them for they know not what they do."

Resurrection Supreme Sign Of Divinity

By Rev. F. E. Denay
St. Mary's Church

The Resurrection of Christ is contemporary to all men of all ages, even to all who lived and died before His day. The reason is because both His death and resurrection are for all men. Hence two events stand out in sharp contrast on Easter Sunday: Calvary and the empty tomb. The two are inseparable. In fact Calvary is the prelude to the glorious Resurrection.

To Nicodemus our Lord said, "As Moses lifted up the serpent in the desert, even so must the Son of Man be lifted up, that all who believe in Him may not perish, but have life everlasting." Of Calvary Christ prophesied: "As Joas was in the whale's belly three days and three nights so also the Son of Man will be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth." This was a SIGN to the Pharisees. Then to His disciples He declared: "It must needs be that the Son of man go up to Jerusalem, be crucified and the third day rise again."

IN A SENSE, THEREFORE, Christ had to rise from the dead since He made His Resurrection the test of His Divinity and His mission among men. It was the supreme sign to the stiff-necked Jews of His own time. Without His resurrection His doctrine and life would have been only another passing event in the long history of false prophets — down to our own day, who leave their followers feeling more and more foolish and angry at having been duped by one who did not keep his appointment.

The Mother of Christ in her triumphant song had said of God that "He exalted the humble and COMMENT: The ice is out of Round Lake and largely honeycombed on Lake Charlevoix. Henry Stephan last week reported five rabbits in his yard one morning. This morning (Wednesday) there is a very light snow in the air. Birdhouses and discussions on new birds are becoming more and more common.

Several thousand Charlevoix area people will join with nearly a billion Christians around the world to observe Easter and other Holy Week services.

Charlevoix churches have planned extensive programs for Holy Week and Easter. A complete breakdown of each church's plans is presented here:

EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Christ Episcopal church will begin the observance of Holy Week today (Maundy Thursday) with a Holy Communion service at 10 a. m., and the library and meditation on "What the Resurrection Means" at 7:30 p. m.

Good Friday services will be held at the church from Noon to 3 p. m., with meditation on "The Seven Words from the Cross."

Easter services will begin with Holy Communion at 8 a. m., followed by the Easter message at the 11 a. m. worship service. The church choir, directed by Mrs. Chester Bode, will have the Easter music, including the anthem "Christ the Lord is Risen Today."

The church's school session will be omitted on Easter Day. There will be a special Children's Easter observance April 5.

ST. MARY'S
Holy Week services at St. Mary's Church will begin with Mass at 7:30 p. m., Thursday with Communion only during the Mass. The solemn services of Good Friday will begin at 12:30 p. m. and continue until 2 a. m. when the Way of the Cross will begin.

Mass on Holy Saturday is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. There will be three Masses on Easter Sunday at 7, 8:30 and 11:30 a. m. Confessions will be heard before and after the 7:30 p. m. Mass on Thursday; after the Good Friday services until 4 p. m.; from 4:30 to 5:30 p. m. before and after the 7:30 p. m. Mass Saturday.

LUTHERAN CHURCH
Bethany Lutheran Church will join with Christians all over the world as they bow in deep humility as they gather in the shadow of the cross to contemplate what suffering and death mean to them. At the Good Friday Service to be observed at the church at 7 p. m., the Rev. Raymond Noller of Bay City, interim pastor, will speak on the theme "Allegiance to the Crucified Christ."

At the 9 a. m. worship service on Easter Sunday his sermon, large will be "Easter Gladness."

C&O RR Plans No Change Here

CLEVELAND, O. — The Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad has no plans to abandon service in the Charlevoix area, Howard Skidmore, company vice president, assured the Courier last week.

Skidmore expressed confidence C&O sees no reason to pull out of northern Michigan.

HE WAS REPLYING to questions from the Courier, brought on by turmoil in central and eastern northern Michigan by railroad efforts to abandon lines.

"Our position is and always has been to provide the best possible service to our customers consistent with the traffic that is available," the C&O vice president added. "Local C&O people tell us there is no reason to be concerned about business potential in your part of Michigan," he stated.

Harbor Escapes Problems Caused by Water Level

All Faiths Prepare for Holy Week

Predict Boaters Face No Crisis

Other Lake Michigan Ports May Be In For Serious Hardships

Water is lower in Lake Charlevoix and Round Lake than anyone can ever remember.

However, there seems to be little concern that the record low water will cause more than minor harassment for Charlevoix boaters and waterfront home owners.

Due to its unique inland harbor, Charlevoix will not have the hardships faced by communities with ports directly on Lake Michigan, observers point out.

EVERYONE CONTACTED by the Courier agreed Lake Charlevoix is lower now than ever, even in July, August and September. Water levels now should be nearing their high point for the year, due to spring runoff and rains.

This, they point out, means it should be considerably lower in the dry season—September to the middle of winter, with little snow to melt, and fast falling water levels will get so low as to create critical problems for other northern Great Lakes ports.

The Army Corps of Engineers, reported predicts the water may actually rise — if we get even normal April and May rains.

Robert Sommerville, who takes local water level readings for the Corps of Engineers, reports it is down nearly a foot from last August. Sommerville said the level has been dropping all winter and is still going down when it should be rising.

MAYOR E. D. HAWLEY said low water will create some minor inconveniences for fishermen on Round Lake, but there will still be plenty of water for navigation. The biggest problem Hawley foresees is that boat docks will be considerably below the dock level. This, he said, will be overcome by putting ladders on the docks.

Hawley said the Pine River Channel may have to be dredged so coal and oil boats can enter Lake Charlevoix.

Reactor, Builder Earl A. Young said Charlevoix is fortunate to have its protected harbor. Places like Traverse City, he said, are really hard hit by the low water.

Veteran commercial fisherman John Cross said the water has never been this low. He agreed, Charlevoix boaters will not be seriously bothered by the condition.

COTTAGE OWNERS will probably find the low water forces them to extend docks. But, at the same time, it will give them more frontage.

FERRY MAY NOT RUN The Ironston Ferry sits at its ramp, surrounded by ice, waiting for word from the County Road Commission on whether it will operate this spring. Road Commission Supt. Jack Fitzgerald said the water level may be so low the ferry will not be able to operate. Fitzgerald said he does not know if the county will appropriate funds to rebuild the ramp to get the ferry in operation. (Courier Photo)

Could Double Area Business in Winter

Charlevoix could probably double its winter business if it had more luxury motel facilities and better promotion.

This is the opinion of executives at both the Lodge and Weatherlaine Inn.

THIS WINTER, Brian Seymour of the Lodge and Earl A. Young, owner of the Weatherlaine report has been the best on record. Seymour said the Lodge's motel business increased an estimated eight percent. The Lodge rented accommodations to 2,500 skiers. It also booked lodging for others at Charlevoix motels and rooming houses when the Lodge itself was full.

Young did not leave immediate figures on the Weatherlaine Inn's total winter business. But he said it will top other years.

Seymour said Charlevoix and the Lodge have done little in the way of outside advertising this winter. The business increases, he feels, is because skiers who came here before passed the word about Charlevoix's central location and excellent facilities.

HE CONTENDS accommodations in Charlevoix are the "best for the price anywhere in northern Michigan."

The backbone of the Lodge's ski business is package charters by loads from Chicago and other out-of-state and downstate areas.

HOWEVER, HE ADDED, it is almost impossible to get this kind of publicity.

Files $10,000 Suit Against Boyne Mountain

BOYNE FALLS — Boyne Mountain Lodge is being sued for $10,000 by an individual who alleged he was injured due to the ski resort's negligence.

Larry H. Sergeant, Wailout Lake, has filed suit against the ski resort claiming he suffered injury when he fell at the resort while attending a private party, Sept. 1, 1963.

COME FRIDAY evening April 3, Marion Township will hold a public hearing in the finest grass roots style to determine if a plank for the township should be developed into a private campground.

The Courier has editorially endorsed Richard Rogalla's plan to develop camping facilities on the site for 300 families. And though this rambling and Courier editorials come out of the same typewriter, this column is pleased that some 20 people have filed objections to the project we endorsed.

If it were not for these complaints, the public hearing would not be held next Friday. The township for Rogalla would go through without a hitch. For even though we favor the campground, we feel it is far more important that anyone who has a chance to air their opinion.

The Courier, it should be noted, has been blamed for making the public hearing necessary. Several people (Not Rogalla) have made it clear they feel we should not have run a story on the campground until the rezoning was completed and it was too late for anyone who disagreed to get a hearing.

We proudly plead guilty to these charges. Our big headlines announcing Rogalla's plans brought the project to the attention of neighboring property owners and they reacted by calling for the public hearing.

Which makes us guilty of creating a major problem for something we favor.

It also makes us guilty of meeting the responsibilities that go along with freedom of the press, the public's right to know, and all that.

We do not feel that just because we favor something people who disagree with us are second rate citizens, or shouldn't be given a chance to be heard. On the contrary, we feel their right to know what's going on and to legally oppose the campground is more important than all the tourists in Michigan.

Those persons who told us how wrong we were in writing the story before the rezoning was finalized should have more faith in the democratic process. It's a marvelous thing, even if they cannot dictate their wishes.

It should be further noted that people who favor the campground—and stand to gain by it—have a responsibility to attend the public hearing and back up Rogalla. If they come armed with constructive argument they can be a big help in getting the rezoning approved. If they stay home and gripe we consider them deserters.

From what this column can determine the biggest reason for complaints to the rezoning is several unanswered questions.

Neighboring property owners fear the campground will turn into a year-around trailer park or haven for summer long term campers.

I would have the same worries if I owned property in the area. So would you. Therefore, it seems only reasonable for Rogalla, and his supporters, to come equipped with promises of regulations to avoid this.

This column hopes to see Rogalla get the 20 ahead to build his campground. But it also hopes to see its neighbors in time to enjoy their summer on beautiful Lake Charlevoix.

brought down the mighty." And Jesus himself said: "He who humbles himself shall be exalted." Yet in His own way He foresaw the blindness of men in their attempt to dodge the difficult truth of His Resurrection. There was a Divine and a human nature to Christ. So some would question His humanity; others His Divine nature. God left no doubts. If men escape this truth it is only by falsehood.

Hence if Christ had come out of the tomb at once, the guards could have said His death was a trick. If weeks had gone by, hope would have been abandoned. It was, of course, for Christ to choose the time of His Resurrection—the third day. The absurd gesture to the Christ in Gethsemane was no more absurd than sealing the tomb and guarding it.

IN DEATH MAN can do nothing for himself. Lazarus came forth from the tomb only at the command of Christ. Now the body of Christ as such could do little for itself. It is only because His body and soul were united to His Divinity that Christ by His own power walked from the empty tomb.

His Resurrection, therefore, is the foundation of our belief—and the most authenticated fact of history. Thousands saw the risen Savior! To them and for us, He said: "Touch" and see for a spirit does not have flesh as you see I have." Then to the doubting Apostle Thomas, He called out: "Bring here thy finger and see my hands; and bring here thy hand and put it into my side; and do not be unbelieving, but believing." Thomas answered and said to Him: "My Lord and my God!" May none of us deserve the loving reproach the risen Christ spoke to Thomas: "Because thou hast seen Me, thou hast believed, blessed are they who have not seen and yet have believed."

IN CONTRAST—ONCE they recognized Him in the breaking of the bread—the high hearts and eager steps with which they rushed back to Jerusalem show us to what height faith and hope can reach when confirmed by the risen Christ. No hours are too long, no fasting too great because with Christ we have risen from the death of sin and the bright goal of eternal life lies invitingly ahead.

It was at the tomb of Lazarus that Jesus said to Martha: "I am the resurrection and the life: he who believes in Me, even though he be dead shall live—Believed thou this?" As a matter of fact Christ had tried to ease the reception of the news of His Resurrection by "irrelevant sessions" of raising Lazarus, the son of the widow of Naim and the saints who walked the streets of Jerusalem after His death. Of course, these were only rehearsals because these had to die again. Only Christ rose from the dead immortal. This Mother thought Christ shares His glory and all who thy of Him will one day share that goal of immortality.

Special Ed. Subject at PTA Meeting

What is Special Education? will be the theme of the program at the April 8 meeting of the Charlevoix P.T.A. in the high school cafeteria 8 p.m. Wednesday, Apr. 8.

Charles A. Robinson, superintendent of the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School district, will explain plans for establishing special education on an Intermediate School District basis. He will also speak on the June election to establish a Special Education District.

Harry Scheidt, speech correctionist in Emmet county, will describe the work of a speech correctionist. He will tell how to determine when a child needs help and how a child can benefit from such a program.

The election of officers will be held during the brief business meeting that will open the meeting. Nominations will be accepted from the floor in addition to the following slate of officers that has been offered by the nominating committee: president, Mrs. Clarence Smith; first vice president, Rev. George L. Majors; second vice president, Mrs. Ralph McRae and secretary, Mrs. Dale Boss. The post of treasurer is open.

concern as seen from the cross.

THE CROSS also tells us of God's power to redeem our sins. To the penitent thief our Lord said: "Today thou shalt be with me in paradise." For an honest acknowledgment of his own misdoings and a sincere desire to turn away from all his past wrong—Christ gave the penitent thief the opportunity to come back into full reconciliation with God. For the sin of the world—the guilt we have made between ourselves and God—Calvary provides the bridge for us to cross the ditch of our own sins and find our way back to God.

Forgiveness—compassion—redemption—these are a few of the factors that make it possible for us to say "Good Friday." There is one more to be mentioned—Trust. With a sense of accomplishment He said: "Father into Thy hands I commend my spirit." He had in the moment of decision in the Garden of Gethsemane accepted the hour of the cross and now that this hour had been fully accepted completely—"It is finished."

★ Skiers

ing and promotion is regular display ads in Sunday editions of metropolitan newspapers.

The Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce does not send out regular news releases to metropolitan papers, or have an advertising program with them. To boost the area's advantages most north country chambers, including Charlevoix, send out brochures and answer queries.

Another asset in boosting ski business would be more year-round liquor licenses. Seymour said. He pointed out the Weather-vane close its bar Mar. 1. This, Seymour said, made it necessary to bus skiers to bars further away.

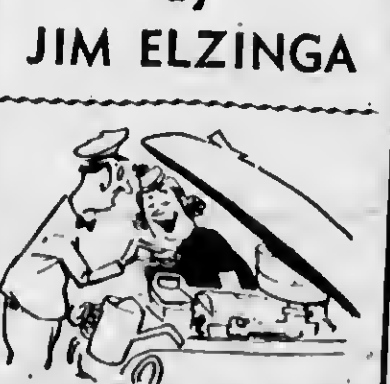

A MAJOR STUMBLING block to constructing more luxury motel units is the lack of off-season (spring and fall) business.

Seymour said this could be overcome with proper promotion and advertising of the area's spring and fall golfing, and autumn color tours.

Business and industrial growth would also make it more profitable for motels to operate during the week in the winter and spring and all because it brings in salesmen and others, Seymour said.

Sub-Standard Houses Create Health Threat

Charlevoix County Health officials Monday asked City Councilmen to take action to eliminate substandard housing in the southwest section of the city.

John B. Reynolds, county sanitarian, said there is a threat of communicable health problems in the area due to lack of proper plumbing, sewage and water facilities.

According to Reynolds, Charlevoix should adopt a housing ordinance, setting up minimum standards. Dwellings that do not meet these standards should be condemned after a period of time.

Councilmen were also requested to consider extending sewer lines further into the area.

Reynolds said the substandard housing is not unique to Charlevoix, but is a problem in almost all communities. Though the southwest part of town is the worst, he said elsewhere in the city there are houses in a deteriorated state.

Hillbilly Woos Debutante

The three act comedy, "Headin' for a Wedding" has been selected as the Junior Class play with April presentation date.

At Dem. Fund Raising Fete

Mr. and Mrs. George LaBlance and son Steven attended the Democratic party's Jefferson - Jackson dinner in Detroit March 21.

LaBlance, who is Charlevoix County's Democratic chairman, and his family were among some 3,000 Michigan party followers at the annual fund raising dinner. Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn. was the main speaker. Michigan Senators Pat McNamara and Philip A. Hart were also on the program. Democratic candidate for governor, Neil Staeble spoke.

THE LABLANCES visited the Jack Stokan family, former Charlevoix residents now living in Detroit.

10 tentatively scheduled as the debutante presentation date.

Featuring a hillbilly background, paralleling that of a popular television show, "Headin' for a Wedding" tells the story of a mountain boy, Homer Hollowbone, and the difficulties that arise when he falls in love with a New England debutante, Melissa Dugan, whose picture he found wrapped around some salt mackerel.

IN HIS LETTERS to the girl of his dreams he portrays himself as a southern plantation owner with a mansion instead of a mountain cabin. It never occurs to him that she might fall for his tall stories and decide to travel to West Virginia to meet him. The rest is a secret but it promises a million laughs as the plot unfolds.

Following tryouts last week, Mike Arbuckle was selected to play the role of Homer, while Sandy Sundberg will assume the role of the debutante.

Others in the cast of the play which unfolds in the Hollowbone mountain cabin are his mother, played by Veronica McClanaghan; his father (Warren Belding) his sisters, Sarah Jo (Sherrel Pearl), Grace Hay (Barbara Dohm), Fannie Jane (Sherry Holborn), his little brother, Pepper (Joe Olsen) and his little sister, Sis (Mary Ann Cummings).

Others and the roles they will play are Don Smith, grandpappy Hankley; Eleanor Ordway, Widow Blair house; Janet Schofield, Bertha Blairhouse; Randy Carey, Slim Blairhouse; Robert Hiller, Hortense Todd, an old maid from New England; and Nancy Snider, as her sister, Isabel.

IN PREPARATION for the presentation, the cast is rehearsing nightly and stage crews and others are hard at work assembling props, building sets, and working on sound effects as well as handling tickets.

publicity and program.

The play is under the direction of H. E. Bingham, Don Carey, Leonard Staley and Dr. and Mrs. William Ratigan.

Rosemary Loder is serving as student director; Barbara Wood as student producer; Melvin Matchett as stage manager and Jim Curtis and Marilyn Majors as prompters.

For every man who ever fell in love with a Jeep—a new kind of family station wagon has been born. The Jeep Wagoneer. It's the first station wagon ever built to offer the comfort, silence, speed and smoothness of a passenger car—plus the traction and safety of 4-wheel drive.

It's sheer pleasure to drive. Simple too. One lever puts you in 4-wheel drive. So at a second's notice you can shift into greater safety...from wheel-spinning in mud or snow...from skids on slick surfaces...from getting stuck or going out of control on the highway or off!

The Wagoneer really makes a demonstration worthwhile. It'll be your most exciting 30 minutes behind the wheel in 1964. Also in 2-wheel drive models. See your 'Jeep' dealer.

Myths, Illusions Threaten Strength

WE ARE NOT PREDICTING doom-day, or anything of the sort, but we do feel the following list of myths cited by American University Professor Harold B. Weiss are worth every Charlevoix citizen's consideration.

Government Is To Big

GOV. GEORGE ROMNEY recently passed along to weekly newspaper editors some of his views on big government vs small government. Agree or disagree with the governor the following words, which are his, are worth considering:

"One of the strongest forces at work to undermine this nation's morality is the relentless growth of Centralism, with its corresponding decline in individual responsibility."

THE QUESTION today is whether Centralism — the excess of sovereignty of the federal government is going to be so concentrated that it will destroy state, local and individual responsibilities.

I have witnessed the continuing and ceaseless expansion of federal power to the point where now, unless we first slow it, and then halt it, and reverse it, it will destroy what the Founders established.

"Federal encroachment is developing rapidly along these routes:

1. Increasing federal government take-over of the powers, functions and responsibilities of the states. If this growth continues, it will destroy our federal structure and nullify the Constitution of the United States."

2. PUTTING INDIVIDUALS on the federal payroll as mercenaries to stimulate others to exercise voluntarily their citizenship responsibilities.

3. Extending federal programs for local governments that completely bypass state governments and make local governments increasingly dependent on federal funds and subservient to federal officials.

The closer people are to government, the more familiar they are with its operations, the more interested they are in its efficiency, and the more effectively can they control its size and power.

Least we in Charlevoix ignore Gov. Romney's warning, remember he isn't talking about the loss of something as far away as Lansing. He means this threat faces City Hall, the County Building and Township Hall.

might even recognize yourself believing some of them.

PROF. WEISS, IN CITING them, pointed out history is full of examples of great civilization that disintegrated because they lived by myth and illusion. The myths and illusions he sees as a threat to our civilization are:

1—Our official theory that nations which stay neutral will stand with us on moral and ethical grounds in time of crisis.

2—The fiction that labor unions need government protection.

3—The myth that "we can spend our way recklessly to prosperity and expansion."

4—The belief that if we appropriate more and more federal funds we will "buy" better education.

5—THE MYTH THAT the federal government can do all things better than the state, local community and individual.

6—The theory that high taxes distribute wealth in a society which has been built by millions of center of individual initiative.

7—The notion that the federal government is going to discover "new frontiers," which it has not done in the past and will not do in the future.

8—The pressure for conformism as a way of life, in disregard for history's testimony that significant achievement has been accomplished by the individual and that a society built on conformism where the individual is afraid to disagree or depart from the group's opinion is a static society, bound to deteriorate.

9—THE MYTH THAT our freedom derives from the government instead of being derived from the people, leading us to a point where the individual has abdicated personal responsibility.

10—The build-up of an inferiority feeling in comparing ourselves with other nations when to be a great nation we must learn to be our true selves.

Some of the professor's points seem to be a bit far fetched and "unimportant" from our small, but beautiful nook between Round Lake and Lake Michigan.

But they're not. Though we can see no reason to get alarmed, we do feel these are points that every citizen should take the time to consider. If we lose our national strength because we are putting our faith in the professor's myths we will all suffer.

AND CHARLEVOIX, to us, is the most important part of that "all."

Reading Laboratory Bolsters Ability of High School Pupils

By MRS. LAURA COURTADE
CHS English Teacher

To help meet the ever increasing demand for reading skills in all walks of life, the Science Research Reading Laboratory was added to the 8th grade English program this year. Under the supervision of Mrs. Courtaude the unit proved to be an immediate success and is now being started by Mrs. Marion Kohn's group.

When introduced to the Reading Laboratory each student takes a preliminary test so that he is able to start the program at his own current reading level. As he progresses, he moves to a more difficult level. There are ten levels of increasing difficulty, making it possible to accommodate a class with a wide range of reading ability.

ONE OF THE WAYS used to start group discussions about the new Reading Laboratory is to ask the boys and girls, "Is reading more important or less important than when your parents went to school?"

The teacher then gives the Science Research answer to the above question about one of the greatest problems of our era:

"Reading is more important today than ever before. Even though we have television and radio, more books, magazines, and newspapers are being sold and read than ever before in history."

"Every new invention or idea adds new words to our language. For example, radio has added over 5,000 new words to the dictionary during the past several years. Just a little over a hundred years ago, the Library of Congress contained only 3,000 books. Today it has over 31 million separate publications, contained in 250 miles of bookshelves."

READING IS BECOMING more important as a means of holding a job. Twenty years ago, there were three small companies in the country that printed all the manuals used by employees in their jobs. Today there are more than 200 such companies. Employees must read manuals of operation in clerical jobs, mechanical jobs, and service jobs. They must read reports, directions and statements of company policy."

The new Reading Laboratory has supplied built-in motivation. Every student, by and large, has been eager to do his best, because each learner meets success at his own rate and feels responsible for his own progress. He corrects his exercises and charts his daily progress in comprehension, vocabulary, and reading rate in his Student Record Book. In doing this he learns to evaluate his own work, and to set new goals.

As part of the learning experience, the boys and girls are asked at the end of the unit to give their frank opinion about the Reading Laboratory. They were invited in mid-March, for instance, to answer the question: "What have you gained from this work so far?"

The typical response in Mrs. Courtaude's group went as follows: "I can read a lot faster and I know what I've read when I'm through."

ANOTHER STUDENT, perhaps not as grammatically but just as enthusiastically, wrote: "My reading level has went up."

To a second inquiry, "Has your reading work helped you in doing other school work?" the boys and girls in general gave affirmative replies:

"I read my assignments faster and understand them more."

"In civics I am reading and remembering the things I read."

"My reading work has helped me in science and English."

Judging from the above responses, the Science Research Laboratory has been of definite value in the 8th grade English program and has extended benefits to other subjects in the curriculum, but it would be undemocratic not to quote a minority opinion. In response to the question, "What did you like best about your work with the SRA Reading Laboratory?" one sturdy individual wrote:

"Pichers."

From Charlevoix's Past . . .

Two landmarks seen in this old picture from the late Capt. Don Campbell's collection were a major part of Charlevoix's lifeblood for years.

The Hotel Alhambra came down with the bridge. It stood on the southwest bank of Pine River, across from the Weathershane.

A pontoon bridge was used temporarily while the new bridge was going up. The bridge here swung from the middle to let boats through.

Happy Easter to you . . . that is, if you're in the Easter spirit which I haven't been able to find because whoever heard of Easter arriving when the weather forecast is for a snowstorm coming in from the west . . . But it is that time of year . . . despite the snowbanks, the lack of green grass and daffodils, Easter bunnies and corsages . . . but despite the weather, there is one place that has the spirit of the season . . . the elementary school where you'll find colorful egg trees, Easter bunnies the likes of which you'll never find anywhere else, giant size eggs in the wildest

When I saw it my reaction was "So they're really doing something worthwhile" . . . I'm sure you'll feel the same way when you see the full page ad in the March 20 issue of Life telling the whole world about Michigan . . . Urges CC Offices on Waterfront

TO THE EDITOR:

We have noted with great interest the plans to construct a building for shower and toilet facilities for boatmen on the site of the old laundry, as well as the construction of slips north of Antrim Street. We feel that this will be an excellent addition to our waterfront and enthusiastically welcomed by our visiting boatmen.

However, in our opinion, it would be a great mistake not to include in this building an office for the Chamber of Commerce, and we feel also that there is a need for a room in the building to serve as a lounge for these boatmen, where they can congregate in rainy and cold weather, which can also be used as headquarters for the harbor master, and year round as a meeting room for the Chamber of Commerce. The old Chamber of Commerce building surely is not representative of our progressive and beautiful Charlevoix, it would be expensive to remodel, especially for winter use, and it is too small. An office and lounge overlooking our beautiful waterfront would be a great addition to our business section and I am sure we could interest our Marine Club members in helping to furnish such rooms.

Newspaper Fills Gap

TO THE EDITOR:

As president of the Shakespeare Study Club I wish to express the appreciation of the club members for the fine cooperation we received from your newspaper. The amount of space given annually to our club projects is inestimable.

With all the communications media available these days it still is the newspaper that puts information into our hands in retainable form, to be read, digested and kept.

THE SHAKESPEARE Study Club is a member of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, the largest group of organized women in the world, having 11,000,000 members in 15,500 clubs in the United States and 54 other countries. The General Federation programs in this administration highlights an extensive campaign to eradicate illiteracy from the United States and throughout the world; a Dimes for Liberty project to help build encourage them to linger in Charlevoix, spending their money. Our beautiful park, our golf courses, our shuffleboard court, all these are wonderful when the sun shines, but there is no place for them to get together out of the weather. We have spent thousands on our waterfront, the slips, the park, the service facilities. Let us spend a few thousands more to keep these visitors coming and to keep them lingering here in our harbor. No one advertises his appreciation more than the boatman, and he advertises where it counts.

We have noted unhappily a recent trend which has taken a number of our regular summer boats over to Harbor Springs to establish their summer base. We do not like to see the boating center move to another area when we have so much to offer in Charlevoix. Let us offer just a little more to keep them here.

Yours truly,
FAIRPORT of Charlevoix

Economic Boon
To the Editor:
We have been reading, with deep interest, your frequent articles on Beaver Island. The one about the Outdoor Writers coming here—the one in the March 12 issue with special reference to the Conservation Dept. having control over the wildlife here.

If this could be accomplished, it would do a lot to fill the gap in our economy which was left there when the perch runs dried up.

We wish to thank you for your efforts in our behalf—we appreciate it.
Thanks,
R. W. Carlisle,
Co-chairman Beaver Island Game Club.

Higher Pay for Teachers is Issue

WOULD HIGHER PAY for teachers mean a better education for our children?

The Courier asked this question of ten Charlevoix residents. Of the ten persons contacted in this week's public opinion poll eight are inclined to feel higher teachers' salaries would result in benefits for pupils.

Though they are not giving a blanket endorsement to upping faculty salaries, people favoring this feel it will result in more qualified persons entering the teaching profession.

CHARLEVOIX TEACHERS have asked the Board of Education to consider salary increases. The teachers, however, have made a point of not making demands on the board or using any type of public pressure.

The salary program suggested by a teachers' committee would concentrate on higher pay for seniority and provide incentive to those who continue their formal education.

The board has appointed three of its members to work with the teachers' committee in an effort to arrive at a conclusion that is possible in lieu of the school system's budget.

This year the board reports it expects the budget to balance. However, unless voters approve a millage issue this spring the district will lose 1.5 mill ($30,000) in operating taxes. To increase teachers' salaries will, probably, require even more money than the system now gets.

LARRY FEINDT, 213 Bridge St., said he has always felt teachers should make more money. If they did, Feindt feels, more good people would go into the profession. Good teachers, he said, are hard to find. This, he contends, is largely due to low wages.

MRS. ROBERT HOLTZMAN, 101 E. Lincoln, said she thinks teachers get plenty of play for the time they spend working. Mrs. Holtzman thinks Charlevoix teachers are good enough and they wouldn't be better if they received higher pay.

If teachers don't get adequate pay, coming generations will suffer. MRS. WALTER JARVIS, 302 W. Hurlbut, said. If teachers aren't paid enough Mrs. Jarvis said they will find other work, or leave Charlevoix for school districts that pay more. She also feels fewer qualified young people will be attracted into teaching if salaries are low.

When considering salary increases for teachers the Board of Education should look at three important points, MRS. TED MILLER, 700 Park, said: 1—High wages do not necessarily make a good teacher; 2—A town should have a pay scale high enough to attract well trained, competent teachers; 3—The school should offer incentive pay so good teachers will want to go on and improve themselves.

MRS. ARNOLD LOPER, 221 Division said more people would go into teaching if wages were higher. This, she feels, would result in schools having a wider choice of candidates for teaching jobs and give them a chance to be more selective. This, she definitely feels, would benefit children. In comparison with other occupations, Mrs. Loper said, teacher salaries do not stand up very well, which is why many highly qualified people go into higher paying jobs.

Increased teachers salaries would get more teachers and more good teachers, MRS. DAVID VAN DREUMEL, of 113 Eaton told the Courier. People with the right qualifications wouldn't be so reluctant to go into teaching if they could make as good a living in schools she said. "I think it would be fair," Mrs. Van-Dreumel added.

MRS. EUGENE TOWSLEY, 767

Grant, said she feels teachers are underpaid for what they do for our children. "We put our children in their hands for a good part of the day and they play a very, very important part in our children's lives," she said. Mrs. Towsley told the Courier she wouldn't mind paying higher taxes to give teachers more pay. She also added she doesn't think Charlevoix could get any better teachers than we now have.

The more you pay, the better people you can hire, SAM SERNA, US-31, said. He said that if Charlevoix paid teachers more it would get better educated people. But, he added, salaries can be raised so much they result in overburdening the taxpayer.

VERSAL SEYMOUR, 106 Audl, said higher salaries for teachers will not, in all instances, guarantee a better education for our children. But in general he feels it will attract better qualified teachers. It will also give teachers an incentive to better their education if this means more money, he said. How much children would benefit from higher teachers' salaries depends a lot on the school board, Seymour said. He feels it would take some time for higher salaries to attract more qualified persons into the teaching profession. Younger teachers, he said, are generally more qualified to work with our younger generation.

One of the persons contacted by the Courier who does not feel children will benefit from higher pay for teachers is MRS. JOHN SLADEK, US-31. Mrs. Sladek feels Charlevoix has a pretty well established school program as it is and that she is satisfied with it. Higher salaries for teachers would not make it any better she said. If a person wants to teach, Mrs. Sladek feels that is his profession and he should give it his best.

Scanning Northern Michigan News Highlights

EAST JORDAN — The Chamber of Commerce here is compiling a list of all community organizations in an effort to produce a community calendar. Chamber president and professional photographer Bill Luckie said East Jordan retail merchants are being urged to more actively participate in the chamber affairs.

BOYNE CITY — Retail merchants here, through the Chamber of Commerce, have launched an intensive program to tell people the advantages of "shopping at home."

It is pointed out Boyne City's 110 businesses pay 25 percent of city taxes. If more Boyne City area residents do more of their buying locally, Chamber president Steve Moody contends, businessmen will be able to provide a better selection of merchandise at better prices. He said there is no advantage to driving considerable distances to a shop. Shopping out of town, he said, so points out, benefits the citizens of another community because their merchants then pay more local taxes. The business district's assets — and the reasons for shopping at home — were outlined in a full page newspaper ad.

EAST JORDAN — Little League President Joseph Hummel reports the annual meeting will be at 7:30 p.m., April 3, in the high school. Interested boys and parents are asked to attend. Hammond is East Jordan's police chief.

BELLAIRE — The Antrim County News and Mancelona Herald's weekly newspapers, have been sold by Ken Parker to Mr. and Mrs. Berne Schorsch of Antrim, Ill.

EAST JORDAN — A woman's gym class is being offered evenings at East Jordan High School. The six weeks class includes ping pong, volleyball, badminton, and exercises. Details are available from Willa Brinall and Mickey Hamerski.

BOYNE CITY — Jim Bates has been elected president of the Community Chest. Other new officers are Donna Moll, vice president; Betty Hammonree, secretary and here.

GAYLORD — An Otsego County Senior Citizens Club has been organized with officers and plans for summer and spring activities.

GAYLORD — An epidemic of basketball fever struck this community last week as the high school Blue Devils fought their way to the State Semi-Finals. Girls were reported tiring their legs in the colors of the school — blue and gold. A parade of automobiles lined up in the downtown area to cheer the victors on their return from the regional victory.

BOYNE CITY — Adult welding classes have been started in Boyne City Public schools. The schools are also offering adults classes in typing and physical fitness.

MANCELONA — The Antrim County Board of Supervisors is studying the possibility of getting federal funds to build a new post office and U. S. office building here.

County's Road Chief Prepares for Summer

BOYNE CITY — Jack Fitzgerald, Charlevoix County's new Road Commission chief, didn't have any time to "get acquainted" when he landed in his Boyne City office.

Fitzgerald took over the county's top road job Jan. 27. He immediately stepped into the critical work of preparing the 1964 budget and construction program.

THE WORK HAD TO BE DONE by March 1. Last week Fitzgerald finally had enough breathing time for newspaper interviews.

Fitzgerald was hired to replace George Granger, who resigned last fall for a job in Big Rapids. During the period before Fitzgerald arrived, Road Commission Secretary Ralph Hamilton filled the superintendent's desk.

The new budget calls for the commission to spend approximately $500,000. Of this $100,000 is from the state for highway maintenance and snow removal.

The county will receive approximately $360,000 in State Motor Vehicle Funds (gas and weight tax) this year.

FITZGERALD SAID the budget is only tentative, until approved by the State.

He expects $48,000 to be spent for new construction on primary (county) roads.

The biggest single project will be regrading 2½ miles of Korth-Rd from Deer Lake to the county line. This will include $32,000 of county and state funds and $32,000 from the federal government.

Other primary road construction projects tentatively planned are six miles of seal coat on road constructed last year and $16,000 for regrading 1¼ miles of Springvale Rd.

MAJOR ROAD construction projects will be on local (township) roads. Fitzgerald expects $72,000 to be spent on these for construction. The townships match the county on the cost of local road construction.

Maintenance of primary roads is expected to cost $113,000. Another $126,000 of local road maintenance is planned.

The decision on local road construction will be made at the Road Commission's April 13 meeting. Hayes Township, Fitzgerald said, will probably receive more local road improvements than any other township because it has more money to spend due to taxes from the Consumers Power Co. Big Rock Point nuclear plant.

The commission will also receive bids on a rubber tired bulldozer at its April meeting. The dozer will cost approximately $30,000.

FITZGERALD SAID HE applied for, and took, the job here because the State Highway Dept. was about to transfer him to the Detroit area.

The Fitzgerald family spent the last five years at Dowagiac, Mich. He said he has always lived in the country and did not relish the idea of moving to the metropolitan area.

During his years as a State highway engineer, Fitzgerald said, he often heard Charlevoix County's Road Commission described as one of the best in the state. His experience since coming here confirms this, he said.

The Fitzgerald family expects to settle in Boyne City. He said they have not decided if they will buy or build a home. They are now renting.

THE COUNTY ROAD Commission has its headquarters in Boyne City.

Feed Grain Plan Deadline Here

BOYNE CITY — Friday, March 27 is the last day for filing an application to take part in the 1964 Feed Grain Program.

Robert Reid, chairman of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation County Committee reports, Reid urges growers who are interested in the program to call at the ASCS County Office as soon as possible.

As last year, Reid said, the Feed Grain Program covers corn and barley. Minimum diversion under the 1964 program is 20 percent of the individual farm's total feed grain base.

For diverting more than the minimum acreage from feed grain production into a conserving use, the diversion payment will be figured at a higher rate. If the diversion is 40 percent or more, the higher rate applies to the whole diversion.

Besides the diversion payments (part of which may be paid in advance if the farmer requests it).

a participating grower also earns price support payments on the normal production of the acreage planted to one or more of the three feed grains in 1964, and he is also eligible to put his crops under the regular price-support loans or purchase agreements.

The chairman reports farmer interest in Charlevoix County is high. Indications are that the 1964 participation will equal that under the 1963 Feed Grain Program.

"TIME HAS A WAY of slipping up on us even though we think we have plenty of time," he said. "Actually, there is only one working day left in which to sign up for this year's program. We don't want anybody to be disappointed because IRONTON'S BEST winter perch fishing in recent years will be over in another week or so, Mearle Scott predicts.

With ice fishing off the docket for nine months, what does Ironton's fabulous winter perch harvest mean to spring and summer fishermen?

Scott, who owns the tackle and bait shop beside the Ironton Ferry, foresees the possibility perch will return to Charlevoix this spring. But he isn't putting himself on record that they will.

CHARLEVOIX'S Round Lake was renowned for its fabulous spring and fall perch runs until about five years ago when they all but disappeared.

Winter perch fishing also became busy at Ironton when Charlevoix's perch runs quit. Now that Ironton has experienced a winter that sometimes drew as many as 500 to 600 ice fishermen a day, Scott figures it's possible Round Lake will hit the big time again this spring.

During the peak of the ice fishing this winter there were 35 shanties at the mouth of the South Arm. More than 200 people were on the ice at one time on several weekends, Scott said. Last week there were three shanties left.

If the ice holds, Scott figures some of the best fishing of the season is ahead next week.

IRONTON PERCH have been so big they almost looked like walleyes, which are a member of the perch family. The biggest perch Scott saw this winter measured 15 3/4 inches and was caught by Gordon Wolgamott.

Scott didn't want to be quoted on why he feels perch are more abundant this year.

However, Ironton - Lansing resident Harley Perry expressed his opinion. Perry was in Scott's drinking coffee with Hugo Mattson, another Ironton-Lansing resident. They have both spent much of the winter here fishing off Scott's landing.

"It may be only a coincidence," Perry said, "but why are there perch here this winter when the commercial fishermen aren't out because of the botulism scare?"

Perry said PERCH fishing has been poor in other years when Charlevoix's commercial fishermen were allegedly taking perch in Lake Michigan before they entered the inland lakes.

If this is true, Perry asks, "Which is more beneficial to the area: sportsmen or two or three commercial fishing families?"

Pete Bennett, Ironton Ferry operator and former owner of the business Scott now has, doubts the perch caught through the ice are Lake Michigan migrants. "The big perch we used to get had yellow bellies half way up their side," Bennett said. "These have white bellies and dark backs."

District Conservation Dept. fisheries biologist Don Peterson is also prone to discount theories blaming commercial fishermen. Peterson, however, contends no one really knows where the perch came from this winter, or why they haven't been flocking into Round Lake as they did in the past.

Peterson's most "logical" guess is that the perch were born some time ago and during a good survival year and when discovered enough pressure was brought to bear at Ironton to make the fishing good.

The mild winter may also have something to do with it, Peterson said.

Bennett, who has been observing local perch runs for 40 years, said "We'll never have them again like we used to."

We Must Return To Our Real Homes To Find True Values

By REV. H. E. KOHN

While riding in the country in the spring and summer we often come upon frogs lying dead upon the pavement with their skins dried out by the sun. Observers tend to conclude that the frogs have been struck by automobiles and killed. This is not necessarily true. Many of the frogs perish because they hop too far away from the stream, pond or lake which is their native home.

Frogs are amphibians, creatures that inhabit two worlds, a water and a land environment. They hatch from eggs laid in water and live in water through their larval stage when they are tadpoles, when they breathe through gills as do fish. But as the tadpoles develop into frogs their gills are supplanted by lungs which enable adult amphibians to spend some time on land. However, the body fluids of a frog evaporate so rapidly through the frog's skin that the creature must replace these fluids frequently by re-entering the water, or it perishes. A frog can go into the dry world for a short time and survive, but it must return again and again to the water, its real home.

WE ARE ALL amphibious creatures, inhabitants of two worlds. I am thinking now of the two realms of contemplation and of action. Does anyone live entirely in one realm or the other? Dare we try to exist exclusively as thinkers or as actors? If we attempt to meditate upon life's meaning without acting, how will the world's work get done? But if we try to act without considering the meaning of our behavior we are likely to discover that all of our busyness, was futile, having no high purpose and no enduring value.

Not long ago, a prominent American executive died, plagued by disillusionment, although he was widely known as a person of power and achievement. As a lad of fourteen he worked as a bobbin boy in cotton mills. Later he engaged in the fishing business, and as this venture succeeded he used his profits to buy into a watch company. Later he purchased an interest in steamship lines and banking enterprises, and at last bought stock controlling an eastern railway. A short time after making this latest conquest, and having drained his energies in an exhaustingly busy life he died. His last words: "It wasn't worth it." His spirit had withered because he kept hopping from one enterprise to another without frequently immersing his thoughts in the value and meaning of it all.

ON THE NIGHT before his crucifixion, Jesus demonstrated to his disciples the necessity of blending both worlds, the meditative and the active. John's Gospel tells of His dining with his disciples in an upper room in Jerusalem. He was disturbed by their uncharitable behavior toward one another. Earlier, while the little band of men were on their way to this meeting place Jesus had heard them arguing over matters of precedence and making claims to the most prominent places in Christ's coming kingdom.

They were annoyed by each other and suspicious of one another's ambitions. When they reached the upper room where they were to dine together no one offered to perform the customary courtesy of washing the road-dust off another's feet. Irritation, jealousy, and pride stood in the way of so humble a service. So Jesus washed their feet. As the Gospel of John puts it, "Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things unto his hands, and that he had come from God and was going to God, rose from supper, laid aside his garments, and girded himself with a towel. Then he poured water into a basin and began to wash his disciples' feet and to wipe them with the towel with which he was girded."

Jesus performed this humble service in connection with his thoughts of his Divine origin and his Divine destiny. He had come from God, he was going to God; and in the meantime . . . footwashing! His contemplation sanctified his modest chore, so that never again would his disciples think of footwashing in the same light as before that night in Jerusalem. The menial work expressed Christ's inner life, making his love and care visible, making the act sacramental.

Christ submerged his mind in worshipful contemplation; then work became meaningful, having some connection with the eternity behind and before him. He was sent to serve. He would return to God when his service had been rendered. The act of washing feet fitted into his purpose for being here — it was a service suiting his nature. It was all part of the same grand design. The meditative

Industry Balks at Plan To Use City Generators

Discussion of the possibility that Charlevoix will go back to generating its own power has brought opposition from industrial leaders, Mayor E. D. Hawley reports.

Hawley told councilmen he has been contacted by Hoskins Manufacturing, Freedman Aircraft and American Mold executives asking that Charlevoix continue to purchase its electricity from Consumers Power Co.

A CITIZENS' INITIATED proposal that the city study the feasibility of generating part or all of its electricity with natural gas powered equipment kicked off the industrial reaction.

Barnard and Cummings, engineers of Ann Arbor, were asked by councilmen to submit a report on the feasibility of converting unused engines to natural gas.

The engineers' report did not make a positive recommendation; it appraised the engines at approximately $100,000, and suggested a more complete study is necessary to determine if they should be put back in use with natural gas.

Councilmen have advertised the engines for sale for more than a year. No bids approaching the $100,000 figure have been obtained. The engineering firm suggested a better price might be obtained by placing them with a broker.

IN JANUARY THE council formally decided to ask Michigan Consolidated Gas Co. to make a study of the possibility of powering the engines with natural gas.

American Mold, Freedman and Hoskins have all come to me and said they want no part of it (natural gas generation) so I've done nothing about it," Hawley said, explaining why Consolidated Gas Co. has not been asked to make the study.

Councilmen expressed dissatisfaction with the engineering firm's report. They expected a positive recommendation on whether the engines could feasibly be used with natural gas.

At last week's meeting Councilman Jack Gribbough proposed the engineers not be paid for their report. A bill of approximately $360 was submitted.

OTHER COUNCILMEN, however, agreed the bill must be paid, even if it does not tell the city in which direction to proceed.

"I believe our first consideration should be in supplying firm, quality power rather than how much money the electric utility can make," Mayor Hawley said. "No longer can any utility put electricity on the line and satisfy their customers unless the voltage and amperage is held within certain limits," the mayor continued.

"This we couldn't do when we were generating with our present equipment. This fact is verified by the concern expressed by three of our industrial plants when it was announced we were considering a study to convert our present diesel equipment to gas fired."

"One of the conditions put to me by Hoskins Manufacturing Company before building their plant here was that I would work toward correcting the poor quality of power.

or. This, I agreed to do and it has been helped materially with the latter connection with Consumers Power Co.

"I'm sure no informed citizen of Charlevoix who is interested in keeping and encouraging industry to stay or come to Charlevoix, will attempt to promote a backward step such as generating our electricity with the equipment we now have," the mayor's statement concluded.

COUNCILMAN ROBERT Neff said "You've got to make your industry happy," Hoskins, he said, was not satisfied with the power supply under the old system but is very happy now.

The City should take no action on any plans for change until it is time to renegotiate its five year contract with Consumers, Councilman Kenneth Staley said.

"I don't want any part of it and I make no bones about it. I think we're just dreaming," Councilman William Fochtman said. Hawley said he will write to the manufacturer of the engines and ask for their opinion.

THE SUGGESTION that Charlevoix study reactivating its generating plant with natural gas was made by Councilman Don Parsel in January. Parsel said there is a possibility natural gas powered generators could produce electricity considerably cheaper than Charlevoix buys it from Consumers.

Parsel made no comments during the latest council meeting discussion of the subject.

Teacher Salary Study Launched

A three member Board of Education committee has been appointed to work with teachers on salary recommendations. Board members appointed are Dr. Robert Tollas, Darrell Dinwiddie and Dale Boss.

They are expected to meet with teachers in an effort to arrive at a salary plan that is economically feasible for the Board of Education.

SUPT. REX MILLIGAN said the committee will attempt to find out and decide what the school district can do. He suggested a recommendation be made as soon as possible so the 1964-65 budget can be drafted.

Late last month the teachers' committee unveiled a plan calling for raises from $300 to $800 a year. Emphasis would be on higher pay for experience and teachers who improve their education.

Teachers, however, are not pressing the board to accept their plan.

"ALL IN ALL I don't think we're so far off on our salary schedule," board trustee Albert Smith said.

Milligan told the board he sells teachers on coming to Charlevoix from higher paying districts by stressing "fine kids, facilities, area, and community."

This, Milligan said, is "why I came... because I like the area."

Good Year for Maple Syrup

Every day the sap is running some 50 Charlevoix youngsters climb aboard wagons to tour the town, collecting sap from Kiwanis Club maple tree taps.

Afterward Kiwanians gather at their evaporating plant on Division St. to boil the sap down to syrup.

WHEN THE SYRUP'S ready, the children come on for an encore. Their reward is a cup of hot maple syrup, taken directly from the steaming vats.

Kiwanians predict this will be one of their best maple syrup years, probably topping 1,000 gallons of pure Charlevoix maple syrup. The sap is producing approximately one gallon of syrup to 35 gallons of sap.

CHARLEVOIX YOUNGSTERS gather to gather sap from the 2,000 taps the Kiwanis Club has in trees throughout town for their annual maple syrup project. In the upper right they enjoy the frolic of a wagon ride. Above the youngsters pour sap into buckets as they wait for the wagon to come back around to pick them up to move into another neighborhood. Below they get their reward, a cup of hot maple syrup, drawn from the evaporator. In the one column picture on the lower left Gretchen Oleson collects sap from a bucket.

and the active were blended together when Christ put into the chalice of foot washing, a touch of eternity. "Knowing . . . that he had come from God and was going to God, he . . . began to wash his disciples feet."

ONE OF MODERN society's greatest needs is that all men everywhere should frequently cease their frantic activity and take a few minutes to think deeply and greatly about their functions in the light of the God from whom they came and to whom they must answer.

It would make statesmen out of a great many politicians if they would do so. They would begin to think of the next generation as well as of the next election. They would seek political power to be used for God's sake and the people's sake rather than for their own sake. Those politicians who pride themselves on speaking "straight from-the shoulder" would begin talking from a little higher up. One way, or another the world will be politically organized. The character of the politics we have will depend upon the sort of politicians we have . . . whether they are God-conscious as well as vote-conscious. Like foot-washing, politics may seem like dirty work, but it becomes sacramental when a touch of eternity is added.

So with all of our work and with all of our days: the Eternal in the background makes them meaningful and worthwhile. God is our real home, and when we fail to return to God in prayer and meditation we begin to show signs of homesickness; we become weary, bored, frenzied or futile, and—like the frog—too long out of the water—we die.

The cure for our homesickness is to return home, to submerge our thoughts in God. Then all action becomes hallowed, even life's most menial work . . . even washing feet.

The IMMORTAL

...and may we sing Hallelujah! For Christ the Lord is risen. The lilies are in bloom and men and angels are in jubilation.
Because He lives, we know we too shall live.
The Greeks were wrong.
Man is not mortal, but rather immortal.
For God hath set eternity in the heart of man.
This Easter, we share the immortality of Jesus Christ. His journey to Golgotha transfigured the cross forever, turning that symbol of suffering into a symbol of triumphant life.
Then let us live like women and men who expect to go on and on forever... world without end. This is indeed our true Christian hope. This is what Easter means to us today.

Write-In Campaign Stirs Interest in City's Election

THE EASTER STORY — Easter may mean bunnies and baskets to small children, but throughout the Christian world the most important symbol of this spring holiday is family attendance at church. Charlevoix families, such as the Charles Dhaselerers in St. Mary's Church here, were among hundreds who attended the church of their choice Sunday. From left to right are Mr. Dhaseler, Beth, John, Susan, Leslie, Esther, Mary, Elaine, Allan and Mrs. Dhaseler. Two of the Dhaseler children—David and Carol—remained at home.

Two Men Make Bid On Sticker

First, Second
Wards in Race

Maybe Charlevoix politicians have been overloading on vitamins. Or, perhaps, the extended winter weather has them impatient to see some action.

Whatever the cause, the city's general election Monday, April 6, will be anything but the lackluster performance anticipated.

TWO WRITE-IN candidates have launched an aggressive campaign to upset previously unopposed council candidates.

Robert Lieberman announced he will seek election on stickers as second ward alderman. He is challenging Dr. Walter Hoffmann who beat him in the February primary.

In the first ward Gordon Bartlett is distributing stickers in an effort to defeat incumbent Alderman William (Bill) Foehman.

A rash of last minute house-to-house canvassing is expected in the first and second wards. Letters will probably be sent by candidates to all voters.

FOEHMAN AND Dr. Hoffmann's name will appear on the "ballot." Persons voting for Lieberman or Bartlett will either write their name in the blank space or use a sticker. Both are distributing stickers.

As far as is known, all other candidates are unopposed. They are Mayor E. D. (Pat) Hawley, Clerk Hugh Mayne, and Treasurer Annabelle Cunningham.

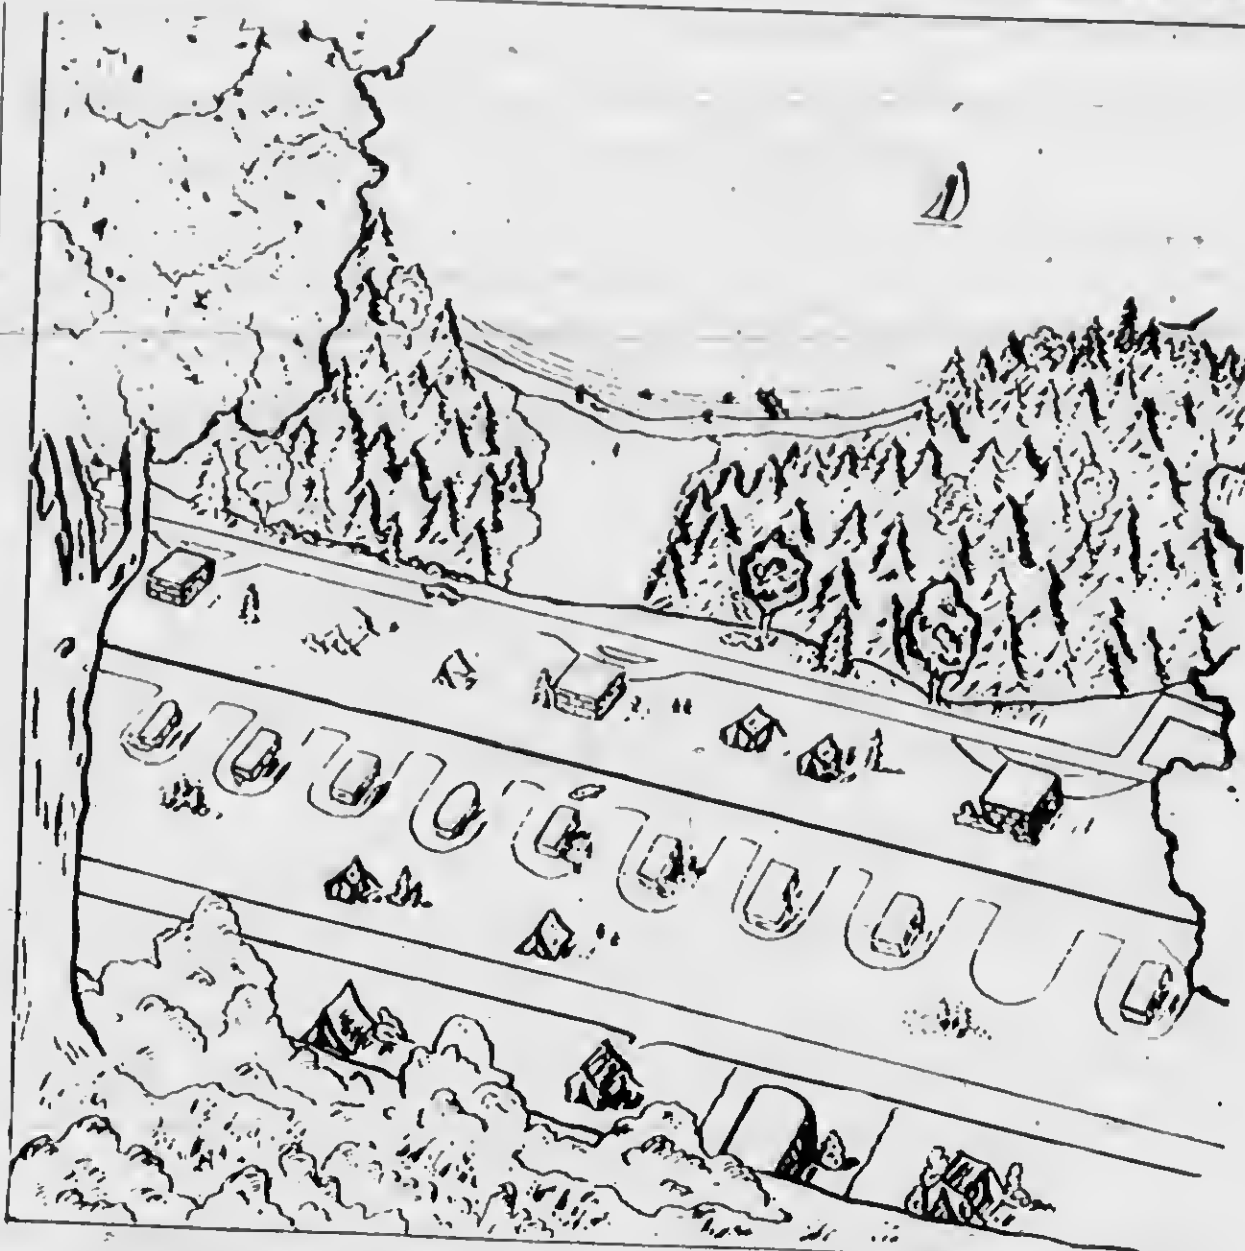

In the first ward Kit Carson is alone in his bid for re-election as supervisor.

JERRY WHITLEY is unopposed for alderman in the third ward. No one is challenging Harry Coe's bid for re-election as third ward supervisor.

The Citizens for Charlevoix Committee is supporting Bartlett, Hoffmann and Whitley.

Bartlett, announcing his candidacy gave the following answers to a Charlevoix Courier "Candidate Questionnaire."

PROPOSED CAMPGROUND — The proposed campground on Lake Charlevoix in Marion Township will reportedly look like this drawing made by Mrs. Dale Boss for developer Richard Rogalla.

Debate Due Friday On Campground Plan

Battle lines will be formed at 7:30 p.m. Friday to determine which side has the best arguments on whether a private campground should be authorized on Lake Charlevoix in Marion Township.

The public hearing is set on a request to rezone a 31.5 acres of land between the lake and M-66 west of the Loeb farm from residential to commercial.

THE HEARING WILL take place in the Marion Township Hall on Marion-Center Rd. All persons affected by the proposal are invited to attend, Charles H. Mascho, township clerk, said.

Richard Rogalla has asked that the property be rezoned. Rogalla said he intends to construct a private campground with 300 campsites on the property.

The campground, Rogalla said, will be almost identical to a State Park. It will offer water, toilet and other facilities to tent and trailer campers. He stated the campground will not be a trailer park.

Persons interested in seeing what his campground will look like and how it will be operated were encouraged by Rogalla to study State Park campground operations.

MORE THAN 20 persons have filed objections to the campground. This forced the township to set Friday's public hearing on rezoning.

The township Zoning Bd. will conduct the public hearing. It will listen to arguments from both sides. Russell Dohm is board chairman. Members are Carlton Smith, Franklin Celler and Sandy Matchet.

Mascho said he expects between 40 and 50 persons to attend the hearing. The entire Marion Township Bd. is expected to be present.

The Zoning Bd. does not make a decision on the rezoning. It recommends to the Township Bd. that the rezoning be granted or denied.

According to Mascho there is a possibility the Township Bd. will meet with the Zoning Bd. after the hearing to decide the question.

Health Dept. officials have stated the campground will have to meet all sanitary standards. It also must take out a trailer park permit.

A City of Charlevoix official is expected to attend the hearing to point out the campground's advantages to the entire community.

Neil Staebler Due At Dem. Meet Here

Neil Staebler, who hopes to be Michigan's next governor, will be the star attraction at an all-star Democratic rally here April 12.

Congressman-at-large Staebler will appear with Attorney General Frank Kelly and Democrat State Chairman Zoltan Ferency at the Charlevoix County Democrat Committee's spring rally. County Chairman George LaBlance said.

THE DINNER AND rally will be one of the top political events in northwestern Michigan during the 1964 election, LaBlance added.

Staebler is the only announced Democrat candidate for governor. His appearance in Charlevoix will be his first major campaign plunge in northern Michigan.

The rally—to which the public is invited—will take place in the Argonne, 5:30 p.m. Sunday, April 12. The tickets are: $8 a couple and $5 for singles.

LaBlance said Staebler will discuss his program for northern Michigan and answer questions. After the dinner he will meet interested persons.

KELLY AND FERENCY will speak on political and economic matters of specific interest to northwestern Michigan, LaBlance said.

Master of Ceremonies will be Raymond Clevenger, Democrat candidate for congress in the U. P.'s 11th district. Clevenger, LaBlance explained, may be a candidate in this area of the Lower Peninsula when the Supreme Court makes a final decision on reapportionment.

Judge OK's Marion Dump

Charlevoix housewives needn't worry about where the family's next can of garbage is going.

After more than a year in court Judge Fenlon decreed the Marion operation is a permissible non-forming land use under Marion Township's zoning ordinance.

The benefits of a Special Education district will be outlined by Supt. Charles A. Robinson at the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District, at the regular meeting of the P.T.A. in Charlevoix High School cafeteria at 8 p.m. Wednesday.

Robinson will also discuss the availability of qualified teachers in the various fields of special education.

ONE OF THESE fields in speech therapy, Harry Scheid, speech correctionist in Emmet county will speak on the children with various defects and how they can be helped.

Frank Boss, president of the P. T.A., asks, all residents of the school district to attend this meeting. The issue will be brought before voters in the June election.

COMMENT: A weekly editor should never comment on the weather. Last Wednesday morning we noted Round Lake was clear of ice. By the time the Courier hit the street Thursday there was six inches of new snow on the ground and the lake was covered solid with ice. Tuesday morning this week two more inches of snow fell. Later in the day the sun came out and a suit coat was all the protection needed.

Charlevoix Garbage Service has been ruled legal.

CHEBOYGAN CIRCUIT Judge Edward H. Fenlon this week decided against Marion Township's suit seeking to have William J. Marme and William G. Marme close their sanitary landfill.

Judge Fenlon decreed the Marion operation is a permissible non-forming land use under Marion Township's zoning ordinance. His long-awaited opinion also stated that the Marme dump on old M-66 avoids "possible nuisance of odor and smoke and infestation by rodents or vermin."

If the Charlevoix Garbage Service continues to maintain its present sanitary landfill standards, the dump may continue to be legal, Judge Fenlon's order stated.

However, the judge stipulated that once the present Marme property is completely used for landfill it cannot be expanded onto adjoining property.

ON THE DAY THE court opinion in his favor was announced, William J. Marme said he is retiring to travel. The Charlevoix Garbage Service will be operated by his son William G. Marme.

Request Jury in Boyne Lodge Suit

A jury trial has been requested in Lacy H. Sergeant's $10,000 suit against Boyne Mountain Lodge.

The request for a jury trial was made by Petoskey attorney Frederick R. Hubbell, who represents Sergeant. Circuit Judge Charles Brown has not scheduled a hearing on the suit.

SERGEANT IS SUING for injuries he allegedly suffered when he fell at the ski resort at a Sept. 1963 party. He contends the fall was caused due to negligence on the part of Boyne Mountain Lodge.

The ski resort denies Sergeant's injuries are as serious as he says and argues the fall was due to his negligence.

Service will be operated by his son William G. Marme.

A Marion Township Supervisor, Clyde Cunningham started the suit against Marme Jan. 31, 1963. The township was represented by James R. Zerafa, Elk Rapids attorney.

The case was taken over by Judge Fenlon because Charlevoix Circuit Judge Charles Brown was away at the time.

Marion Township asked the court to order Marme to close his dump. It contended the dump was in violation of the township's zoning ordinance. The ordinance zoned the Marme property agricultural, which, the township stated, does

Area Could Gain in Re-Districting

By GLEN SHEPPARD
Editor

At worst it seems to be a draw. Charlevoix County taxpayers don't stand to lose much by the Federal Court order to, once again, re-map Michigan's Congressional district lines. And there's the off chance Charlevoix could come out ahead.

Should Michigan's notorious legislators miraculously postpone their dreary battle over who's turn it is at bat, and reach a redistricting decision in time to avoid at-large elections, Charlevoix may have a better chance of gaining than losing.

UNTIL THE COURT ruling Charlevoix's future congressional men were almost certain to come from industrial, agricultural, Bay, Midland or Isabella Counties. The court chanced the picture so that future congressmen will likely come from the Upper Peninsula, where interests are pretty much the same as Charlevoix's.

The court ruled that all Michigan districts must have a population of within a few thousand of 412,000 people. Which means this district will be increased from 394,000 to approximately 412,000. Adding 18,000 people isn't apt to create much indignation about Charlevoix getting less representation for its vote.

Though the population in the district will change little, there will be a complete shift of territory. The entire Upper Peninsula and top seven or eight counties of the Lower will probably end up lumped together.

If this is the decision, it means Emmet, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Presque Isle, Otsego, Montmorency, Antrim and Alpena Counties will be thrown in with the UP to make a district.

Such a district, based on 1960 census figures, would have a population of 413,842 people. Total land area would be 20,922 square miles.

THIS IS IN ALMOST unbelievable contrast to the six Congressional Districts in Wayne County. In Michigan's most populous county one congressman would represent about the same number of people as here, but in an area of approximately 100 square miles.

Charlevoix's congressman will be representing the same number of people in an area 230 times larger than a Detroit congressman. And in several Districts the land area would probably be less than 50 square miles, giving Charlevoix's congressman a territory 418 times as large.

Herein lies the crux of the argument that has given Michigan districts their name.

Charlevoix County high school seniors will get a practical taste of practical government Friday, April 3.

The students will meet at East Jordan High School to study responsibilities of real government.

ACCORDING TO SUPT. Charles Robinson, Intermediate School District, top area and county government and school officials will participate in the program.

Also on the program are Circuit Judge Charles Brown and D. Hale Brake, Michigan Institute for Local Government president.

Students will be introduced to the real problems of government and education by people who work with them daily.

Topics included are Taxation, and legislation, law enforcement, education, conservation and area development, health and welfare, political parties and elections.

EDITOR'S NOTES

Rambling with sheep

HEADLINES last week announcing the tragedy in Anchorage, Alaska, brought to mind an evening when I watched that puzzling northern city fade from the landscape.

I had spread my camp (sleeping bag, pancho and rucksack) on a mountain ridge some 3,000 feet above Anchorage. Looking down on the miniature metropolis man had created in a niche of thousands of miles of wilderness, I couldn't convince myself it was real.

For the better part of 18 months I'd been poking around in Alaska's mountain and tundra burrens. Now, far below my secluded outpost was a modern city of humans harried by social goals and worries.

Maybe because I half feared returning to that world, I looked for the warm glow, red and purple hues of the retiring sun. Arctic sun to wash the signs of civilization away.

It might seem ridiculous — if you've never had a stiff case of hush fever — but as the sun momentarily danced on the hrim of Cook Inlet, the city disappeared. My best efforts to convince myself it wasn't so weren't good enough. The fever had me. For a good minute, or more I couldn't see the city. One hundred thousand souls had disappeared from earth.

Which doesn't prove anything much; except possibly, that Anchorage is a city of illusions and reality.

Most of its citizens know they are sitting on the brink of timeless wilderness. When they dare to give it a thought they are fully aware that most of Alaska's economy and especially Anchorage's, is a flimsy thing. If military troops and direct, and indirect, federal subsidies were halted Anchorage, would become a ghost town. When the telephone lines go out Alaska might as well be on another planet.

★ Write-Ins Spur Election

He graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1933 and is self-employed as a contractor.

HE IS A MEMBER of the VFW, American Legion and Chamber of Commerce. From 1941 to 1945 he earned five campaign stars as an Army sergeant in Europe.

Bartlett said he decided to run for alderman because he was "tired of doing so by a large group of 11 ward citizens who are dissatisfied with the present administration and seek an alderman who will represent them in a fair, impartial, cooperative and progressive manner. I think I can do this and as I am vitally interested in the election."

Bartlett cites his 18 years of business experience in Charlevoix as qualification for seeking the office.

"Apparent need for a change in first ward representation to reflect the wishes of the people and for better cooperation," were Bartlett's evaluation of the major issues in the election.

Lieberman released a statement on the progress of Charlevoix I would like to serve."

My opponent, Walter Hoffmann, stated in his letter to the Courier, on Feb. 13, 1964, that Petoskey's tax rate is lower than ours. THIS IS NOT TRUE! Petoskey is taxed approximately 10.5 mills while Charlevoix is operating on about 9 mills. Petoskey also has the dubious distinction of paying some of the highest electrical rates in the State. Would he suggest we match this too? Besides, what kind of a tax program would we have if we patterned after any other city?

"Further, I am not in favor of spending thousands of dollars to light the golf course for night play. This extravagance does not seem to coincide with my opponents expressed desire to cut taxes."

"Upon reviewing my opponent's newspaper statement I find that persons in the THIRD ward had asked him to run. Whom do we feel he would be representing?"

"Charlevoix has maintained an excellent financial standing. I believe we should be proud of this, and glad that when repairs or renewal of city property is necessary we have the money available to pay for them without having to go into debt, or raise taxes to pay the bills."

"If elected, these are some of the things I would like to see accomplished:

"1. Aid existing industry and promote future industrial growth.

"2. Continue to expand accommodations for yachtsmen."

"3. Adopt necessary building codes for future construction."

"4. Consider revision of personal property laws."

"5. Enforce city codes requiring good property appearance."

C&O Cracks Down On Vandalism

Plagued with severe damage resulting from vandalism, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway reports it has resorted to a modern means of communication to protect its shipments of new automobiles on tri-level rack cars.

Railroad police riding in the caboose of the train are in constant touch, via two-way radio, with other railroad officers driving in cars along roads paralleling the C&O tracks. In turn, these officers are in constant communication with local police.

THAT THE NEW SYSTEM pays off was proved recently, a spokesman said, when several youths were apprehended by railroad police in the act of throwing stones at a moving train which consisted of rack cars with new automobiles.

planet. The much acclaimed fertile valleys of the big state produce huge crops. . . for enthusiastic young couples who are willing to become aged in a decade. These are the realities!

What of the illusions? Almost everyone who makes their home in the 49th State is determined it will someday be in the grips of an industrial and commercial boom. They have built a beautiful city at Anchorage. Gracious homes. If Anchorage were plunked down in the middle of Michigan we would call it a model city. They go to work in rectangles and dine like cosmopolitan folks. They foresee tourists flocking to the state in droves that would overcome Michigan's expectations.

Reality tells you Anchorageites will be too practical to re-build their city on a foundation of dreams. But they will. In Alaska illusions become a reality. This lover of the "monster mountains and deep deathlike valleys" is betting another beautiful city will reappear out of the sunset over Cook Inlet.

Just as it did some four years ago.

Robert Service called it "O'outcast Land! O Loner Land!" He knew of what he wrote. But men will go on ignoring these truths. And they will go on defeating them. Because they are dreamers and dreamers are more potent than reality.

Residents Await Word from Alaska

Telephones started ringing at an early hour Saturday morning, as early risers heard the news of the Alaskan earthquake and started calling families and friends who had relatives or friends in the forty-ninth state.

On Wednesday morning everyone was still awaiting direct word from those who were known to be there.

Among them were Mrs. Victor Douglas, whose daughter, the former Hilda Douglas with her husband, Lt. Benjamin Bosch of the U.S. Coast Guard and their two children were on the island of Kodiak and Mrs. Amandus Evers whose son, M/Sgt. Stanley A. Evers and his wife Ellen, are at Elmendorf Air Force Base outside the stricken city of Anchorage.

Then there are Mr. and Mrs. William Collon and son who had gone to Anchorage in September after he had retired from the Michigan Highway Department. An engineer, he had gone to Alaska to accept a similar position.

There were also a number of servicemen, most of whom are stationed at LORAN stations in the Aleutians. Among them Charles Lent who has been stationed at Adak and who was to be returned here April 1 and Nicholas Crain, grandson of Mrs. Nita Newman, who is stationed there with the U.S. Air Force.

gen solons so much fodder for annual demonstrations popularly known as some kind of real life fairy tale.

Republicans — and some northern Democrats — contend one man cannot equally represent taxpayers if he has to travel hundreds of miles and an urban area legislator only has to walk a few blocks.

FROM INFORMATION THAT comes across newstands in northern Michigan, it appears the courts have pretty well settled this matter. One man to one vote seems to be final.

Charlevoix County could come ahead being annexed to the entire Upper Peninsula. In theory, at least, a congressman from the UP would be primarily concerned with problems similar to those of Charlevoix County.

Since the UP's 15 counties have a population of 305,952, compared to 107,890 in the northernmost eight counties of the Lower, the congressmen would almost definitely come from across the Straits.

It would take a politician of state-wide reputation from the lower eight counties to win the congressional seat.

UNDER THE districting arrangement pitched out by a Federal Court panel last week, Charlevoix was part of a 22-county district extending from Bay City to the Straits. This meant three industrial counties — Bay, Midland and Isabella — were almost sure to dominate, having almost half the population.

Political reality is that congressmen from such a district would be elected from the three big counties. To keep their hometown voters happy they would be primarily interested in industrial, farm and labor legislation.

Though Charlevoix County won't be seeing much of its next congressman, if he's from the UP, chances are better that he will understand and sympathize with local problems than a representative reared in and geared to big city government.

Charlevoix County, and all of Northern Michigan, stand to lose almost entirely if districting is not completed in time to avoid at-large elections. There is a very real possibility a handful of downstate counties will elect almost all 19 of Michigan's congressmen if district lines are not drawn before election deadline.

WHICH POLITICAL party stands to gain, or lose, if Charlevoix is attached to an all-UP district is impossible to determine. However, since Democrats have nothing to lose, they are in a more flexible position to use whatever political advantages they can dig up.

★ Judge OK's Marion Landfill

not include a dump.

THE TOWNSHIP'S suit also argued that the dump does "irreparable injury to premises of surrounding landowners, and constitutes a nuisance."

Both the City of Charlevoix and Marne entered the case in defense of the dump. Charlevoix was represented by attorney Norman Ance and Marne by Nathaniel W. Stroup of Petoskey.

They stated the dump was legal because it was started in 1951, ten years before the zoning ordinance was enacted.

The landfill, attorneys for Charlevoix and Marne stated, conforms with all Michigan Health Dept. standards. Waste material, they said, is compacted and covered daily to make it "vermin proof," and there is no burning odor.

THE DUMP, THE Marines stated, is on low, swampy land unsuitable for raising crops or grazing livestock. This, they contended, makes it impossible for them to make a living from their land by farming. The Marines further pointed out, they have $15,000 invested in equipment to run the dump, Charlevoix, and surrounding homes, are entirely dependent on the dump, the city's brief stated.

Charlevoix, the attorneys said, pays Marne $2,500 annually for use of the dump and has a duty to provide a sanitary landfill for its citizens.

They also argued that the landfill is a "public utility" and it in no way affects surrounding property values. Marne was said to provide garbage and rubbish collection for 500 homes.

"Garbage and refuse disposal essential to society," the attorneys said in their briefs.

Judge Fenton did not own costs to either party.

MARION TOWNSHIP Supervisor Clyde Cunningham would not be reached by the Courier, so it could not be determined if Judge Fenton's decision will be appealed.

Dairy Business Goes Scientific

By ED REBMAN
Extension Director

BOYNE CITY — Curiosity may be harmful to a cat, but no curious young 4-H'ers in the new Charlevoix County 4-H dairy science program, it's providing answers about Mrs. Dairy Cow that have not been understood until now.

The daily life of Dorothy Dairy cow is no longer the stable oriented scene of 50 years ago. Today, she's as mixed up with science as the atom bomb, and many times more numerous.

EACH DAIRY COW produces enough milk for about eleven people. This increase is largely due to new developments in the field of science. Dairying has steadily progressed from a way of life to a science. Many of the modern discoveries in scientific fields such as genetics, physics, chemistry, and bacteriology are used in dairying.

Dairy scientists are now able to explain why a cow can eat green grass and yellow corn with the nutrients from these feeds going into red blood and still produce white milk.

The purpose of the Michigan
Cooperative Extension Service's new dairy science program is to study some of the areas where science is involved in the function of the dairy cow. The young people who take part in it will learn what makes a dairy cow "tick" on the inside, and develop a better understanding of the outside.

THEY WILL LEARN how to select a good cow, why cows give milk and what it contains, how feed is digested and used for energy, how new life begins, and the decisions involved in marketing a healthful product for human consumption.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker and ed to their home in Albion after derSlik back to his home.

LANSING — Experiences of a "horse and buggy" doctor on Beaver Island in northern Lake Michigan were told recently by Dr. Russell E. Palmer, resident physician on the island for 30 years, at a meeting of the Historical Society of Greater Lansing.

Dr. Palmer, who now divides his time between Charlevoix and Lansing, was resident physician on America's Emerald Isle from December, 1923, when the island population numbered 1,000 and the fisheries decline and the population diminished to less than 200. He left the island in October, 1952, and since then has lived here and in Lansing.

quite primitive. We had no telephones, no electric lights, no running water and no sewage system. We used wood for fuel and kerosene lanterns and Coleman lamps for lighting.

The veteran physician described the islanders as "self-reliant, hard-working people."

He went on to say most of the young people went through high school; some went to college and that while he was there four young men became priests, two became doctors, one a lawyer and another a dentist. Many young men became commercial fishermen or went sailing on Great Lakes freighters; some advanced to ship's officers as well as captains and engineers.

Dr. Palmer said Beaver Islanders are proud of their homeland. He told of an incident while talking with Barney Martin, a commercial fisherman who had taken a boatload of fish to a dock in Charlevoix. A tourist asked Barney where he was from and he answered: "The island."

"WHAT ISLAND?" the tourist asked innocently. "Beaver Island!" Barney answered scornfully. "What other island is there?" Dr. Palmer said he delivered 2,000 children in the three decades he was on the island. He made trips by boat in the open water seasons to the various islands and by horse-drawn cutter over the ice in winter.

"When I got a call that a woman was in labor," Dr. Palmer continued, "I'd have to go to the home and stay with her until the baby was delivered. Sometimes I'd stay with her for several hours and even a couple of days. One time I had two women about to deliver at the same time and they lived seven miles apart. Even I was worried. That's what you might call rural delivery," he added, without cracking a smile.

The former Beaver Island physician told about an incident when a father was so nervous while his wife was in labor that he went out to feed the chickens eight times during a day.

AFTER HE FINISHED his talk, a smiling, attractive brunette came up to Dr. Palmer and introduced herself as Loretta LaFreniere, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. D. Archie LaFreniere, who operate the Shamrock on the island.

"Sure, I remember you, Loretta," the doctor said. "I delivered you while your dad was feeding the chickens."

Miss LaFreniere is employed at the Secretary of State's office in Lansing.

Dr. Palmer said he had to do without the modern medical aids when he began practice on the island.

"We had no X-rays, no electrocardiographs and no antibiotics. The doctor had to depend mostly on his thermometer and five senses."

"I REMEMBER THERE was a big fellow, weighing over 300 pounds, who had a big carbuncle on the back of his neck. I had to use a blowtorch to get a soldering iron to white heat. Then, I burned out the carbuncle. The next day his temperature dropped from 105 degrees to normal. It was the only thing I could do to save him."

The physician, who still practices in Lansing and spends summers in Charlevoix, was introduced by George I. Egbert, president of the Beaver Island Association in Lansing.

DR. RUSSELL E. PALMER (center) resident physician on Beaver Island for 30 years prior to his retirement in October, 1952, is pictured here with Loretta LaFreniere, who is now employed at the office of the Secretary of State in Lansing, one of the 2,000 babies he delivered during the three decades he served on the historic island located 32 miles northwest of here in northern Lake Michigan. With them is Charley Earley of Lansing, president of the Michigan Beaver Island Association with headquarters in Lansing where Dr. Palmer addressed the Greater Lansing chapter of the Michigan Historical Society on his experiences as island resident.

In the background is a blow-up of the original manuscript map of Beaver Island made in 1852 which is now in the archives of the Michigan Historical Society.

Girl Scout troop 275 heard Mrs. Ralph McRae speak on her trip to Europe last summer. The talk was illustrated with slides. We also met Maria Kroez, an exchange student from Holland who is spending the school year with Mrs. McRae. She played the violin for us and told us about life in Holland. She also sang a Dutch song for us.

Each of them played the player piano. Mrs. McRae served refreshments. We have been making plans and favors for the family banquet to be held at the Presbyterian church in Bay Shore.

Phone Co. Shows Growth

Streamline Directory, Add 360 Numbers Here

A streamlined telephone directory is being delivered this week which carries concrete proof of Charlevoix County's continued growth. Les Johnson, Michigan Bell Telephone Co. area manager, reports the directory lists 360 new numbers in Charlevoix County.

THIS IS POSITIVE proof of business, industrial and residential expansion, Johnson said.
The directory also has more pages than any in Charlevoix's history. It includes listings for

Les Johnson and Telephone Directory

Pellston, Walloon Lake and Harbor Springs, in addition to the Boyne City, Charlevoix, East Jordan and Petoskey numbers in former books. Johnson pointed out this does not mean Charlevoix can call Walloon Lake, Harbor Springs or Pellston toll-free.
A combined yellow pages section of 108 pages for all seven communities takes up the majority of the directory.

THE FIRST LISTING in the directory is Petoskey, on white paper, taking up 36 pages. Listings for the six other communities are on 44 pages of blue paper and follow the Petoskey section in alphabetical order.
Johnson said 20,500 copies of the directory will be distributed.
He asked telephone users to pay particular attention to emergency numbers on page 1. Space is provided for writing in local fire and police numbers, and the number of the family doctor.
"In emergencies it is helpful to have these numbers readily available," Johnson said.

"IN ADDITION Michigan Bell's operators are trained to handle all kinds of emergency calls whenever 'Operator' is dialed. Our operators enjoy a long-standing tradition of coming to the aid of persons who have dialed '0' in emergencies," he added.
The directory has a blue cover. Big type calls it the "Charlevoix County — Emmet County telephone directory."
Johnson, who has his office in Petoskey, said Charlevoix has 94 more numbers listed this year than last. Petoskey has 214; Boyne City 142; East Jordan, 23 and Walloon Lake 11.
Total numbers listed in each community are: Charlevoix, 2,418; Boyne City, 1,867; East Jordan 1,112; Petoskey, 5,438 and Walloon Lake, 372.

Mothers March

Charlevoix County residents contributed $1,375 to the 1964 March of Dimes, Charles Robinson, campaign chairman, reports.
According to Robinson this represents a 32-cent per capita donation, compared to 29-cents per person last year.
The biggest single source of donations was the Mothers March which netted $1,869.

Girl Scout News

By Susie Smalley

ELLSWORTH — At our last meeting, the Cadette Girl Scouts made plans for our Spring Party April 18 at our leader's home in Charlevoix. We decided to make the party our Social Dependability Challenge. We have earned our Good Grooming badges towards completing the Challenge and will be receiving the badges at a Court of Awards Ceremony soon. Our guests will be the Cadettes from troops in Charlevoix, East Jordan and Bay Shore.

We attended a Junior Fashion Show in Traverse City on March 25. The show was a graduation program for the annual Mid-Winter Good Grooming classes for teenage girls. The subjects covered in the classes were: Hair Styling; Exercise, Posture and Diet; Fashions and Foundations; Modeling Techniques; Poise and Dating Etiquette. There were approximately 80 girls enrolled in the program. If enough interest is shown, sometime in the future some of the material covered in the Good Grooming class series may be presented in the Charlevoix area.

Former CHS Athlete Acclaimed as Coach

Special to the Courier
NORTHBRIDGE, Calif. — San Fernando Valley State College has gained the respect of West Coast basketball coaches with the completion of the 1963-64 season.

DEAN DAVENPORT

These close to the Matador campus insist the reason for this success is the presence of Midwestern coaches Jerry Ball and Dean Davenport, the college's news bureau reports.

COACH DAVENPORT is a native of Charlevoix, where he starred in all sports, the news bureau added. He graduated from Central Michigan University where he lettered three years as a Chi-pewen guard. After graduation he spent successful coaching seasons at Potosi, Key, Grant, and Traverse City. He came to San Fernando Valley State College in the fall of '63 as freshmen coach and varsity assistant to new head coach Jerry Ball.

Davenport's freshman team posted an impressive 16 win 9 loss season with key games against UCLA and highly ranked Jr. College powerhouse Antelope Valley.

Davenport is reported to be optimistic about next season as the varsity loses only one man from this year's team.

REGARDLESS OF NEXT year's results, there's been a rebirth of basketball at the large Northridge campus and most people there will agree it's the result of hard work and the enthusiasm Davenport and Ball, the news bureau stated.

Sundew Takes Crews To Light Stations

The U. S. Coast Guard Cutter Sundew began the first of its spring duties Monday when it departed the local harbor to transport lighthouse crews to their respective stations in northern Lake Michigan and Lake Huron.

Crewmen who left here aboard the cutter for the three stations in Lake Michigan after being assigned by Lt. Charles A. Milrad of the Group office include those assigned to White Shoals light station: Robert J. Smith, BM1, Harry W. Towne, BM2, Leland O. Steele, EN1 and Marshall E. Henize, FNEN, who was assigned to Beaver Island Mooring last season.

After the above-crews were taken to their respective stations and the equipment on each checked by technicians, the ship proceeded to Charlevoix to pick up crewmen for northern Lake Huron light stations.

Eight new men were assigned to the Mackinac Island lightboat station, one of two lightboat stations in Group Charlevoix. They were Adolph Mercer, BMC, who will be the new officer in charge, George H. Linacre, BM1, Richard S. May, Jr., EN2, Clyde R. Coff, EN2, Dennis C. Pyle, George P. Ness, Jerome L. Pie and Lawrence T. Nelson, all Seamen Apprentices.

LAND STATIONS within the group are: Forty Mile Point light station; Presque Isle light station; Cheboygan River light attendant station.

Only two men have been assigned to Beaver Island Mooring which is scheduled to open early in May. They are Donald P. Thornton, BM1 and Alfred C. Anderson, SNBM who are returning to the island facility which is open from early May until early December. Three other members of the crew will be assigned at a later date.

Personnel at the Charlevoix Lightboat Station includes: Edwin Pyzanski, BMCP, Robert Baker, BM1, David F. Radatz, BM2, Elwood R. Wade, BM2, Richard H. Ross, BM3, Max F. Selfridge, EN1, Donald A. Kane, SA and Richard R. Felski, EN3.

LT. Milrad is Commander of Group Charlevoix of which the above units are a part. CHBOSN Raymond J. Gorman is executive officer at the Group office. Robert L. Williams, YN2DV and Howard N. Sly, YN2 are assigned as yeomen.

FRUSTRATED TRACKMEN — Northern Michigan's losing struggle to oust old man winter is frustrating these Charlevoix High School trackmen. Due to cold and snow the CHS squad hasn't been able to practice on the outdoor field yet. The season opens April 9.

Track Workouts Underway

With snow still covering patches of the track and adjacent field and temperatures too low for outside work, more than 60 aspiring trackmen have been working out three nights each week in the high school gymnasium, reports Dell Terrill, who has taken over the duties of track coach held so many years by the late S. E. "Irish" Coleman.

The group, which includes a strong nucleus of seasoned athletes, is devoting its efforts to conditioning and coordination exercises in preparation for the time when they can move out doors.

TIME IS GROWING short. The 1963 season opens Thursday, April 9 when the Flyers host Boyne City in a meet at Kipik Field.

Coach Terrill said the entire group was working hard and he is confident the veterans, as well as the underclassmen, will be ready for the first meet, though it is only two weeks away. He added that a break in the weather is the thing that is needed now.

A full schedule has been adopted and includes, for the first time, the Oscoda Relays on April 25 and the Central Michigan Relays.

Meets are scheduled with a large number of northern Michigan teams, among them Traverse City, St. Francis and Kalkaska, in addition to area and league schools on the schedule in the past.

THREE OTHER major events on the roster are the N.M.C.C. Conference meet at Gaylord May 11, the Class C regional meet at Traverse City May 16 and the Petoskey Relays on May 19. The state meet on May 23 at a site to be announced will close out the 1964 season.

Among the seniors who are out for the spring sport are Andy Carey, Nick DeYoung, Larry Ed-

The junior candidates are Mike Arbuckle, Bob Bergmann, John Duerr, Rich Grunich, Ed Holm, Melvin Matchett, Tom Maxwell, James Racignol, Dave Smith, Del Terrill, Jack Uhrick, Jim Uhrick, Denny Warner, Doug Winnell and Drew Young.

The sophomore class has a large number of candidates including some big boys whom Coach Terrill feels will do much to fill the gap created by the loss of last year's seniors. Among them are Steve Ager, Mark Bourgoin, Pon Crandall, Neil Cross, Eric Drost, John Ferguson, Bob Foster, Bob Holtzman, Gary Kanoff, Kenneth Mousseau, Bert Paulone, Donald Potter, Greg Seese, Ted Weidman, Dave Zipp and Mike Moore.

Hard Work Behind Scenes

While the cast of the hill-billy comedy, "Headin' for a Weddin'" is rehearsing regularly in preparation for presentation April 10, other Juniors are working equally hard behind the scenes.

Rosemary Loder, student director, and Barbara Wood, student producer, as well as Melvin Matchett, stage manager, receive reports almost daily from working committees on the progress of various assignments.

AMONG COMMITTEES serving behind the scenes are Kay Kroll and Carol Fratrack who are working on tickets and programs; William Simpson, John Bleha, Delbert Terrill and Bob Bergmann who are assembling properties; Dave Norton and Tom Maxwell who are in charge of sound effects; Shirley Gibson, Marcee Wallace and Linda Campfield who are assigned to the wardrobe division and the all-important stage crew faced with building and painting flats, gathering furnishings and other tasks; Dennis Warner, Jack Uhrick, Drew Young, John Duerr, Richard Heeres, Edward Holm, William Simpson, David Norton, Tom Maxwell and James Uhrick.

Others are Patti Penn and her committee in charge of art; Carol Moore, the set; Pauline Oliver, Loujean Scott, Gayle Riley, Carol Fratrack and Jody Warner, make-up: Gail Allison, Joan Louiselle, and Tahyna Lunuett, posters; Edward Holes and Richard Heeres, publicity; while promoters, James Curtis and Marilyn Majors as well as Nancy Novak, Janice Vandenberg and Noreen Wojan are on call as stand-in for various roles. The three act comedy is being presented under the direction of H. E. Bingham, Don Carey, Leonard Staley and Dr. and Mrs. William Raligan.

Campground Should Be Good Neighbor

TOMORROW EVENING (Friday) some 20 Marion Township landowners are expected to appear at a public hearing to protest construction of a campground which would benefit thousands.

It is a common theory that our government is based on majority rule. It is not.

Promote With Imagination

CHARLEVOIX, there can be no denying, has unusual wares to sell tourists and visitors.

When you have an unusual product you need a sales program that has bold imagination. If you give it serious thought doesn't it seem absurd to try to sell a product that is unique and, perhaps, unequaled, in the same dreary, traditional manner everyone uses?

CHARLEVOIX HAS THIS product. Our conversation last week with Lodge executive Brian Seymour added strength to our conviction that Charlevoix's year-round tourist potential hasn't even been tapped.

The problem is we don't get our story to enough people who haven't heard it before. We don't hit them with the kind of daring newness that brings dividends in a competitive industry. And tourism is as competitive as any industry.

Thousands of brochures and letters are sent to people who request them. Charlevoix is following a long established procedure in doing this. People who have been here, or are already thinking about coming, probably, find the brochures interesting.

But these brochures and letters do nothing to sell the thousands of people who are not thinking about Charlevoix. These are the people who must be interested in Charlevoix is tourist business is to increase.

IF WE PROMOTE our community in the conventional manner they have no reason, whatever, to suspect we offer anything but conventional attractions.

But, if we hit them with bold promotions of daring new events through newspaper advertising and publicity, how can they help but suspect Charlevoix has something different?

We do not have to rely on corny tricks to do this. We have the real thing. Tell people about it. But deliver the message with imagination to the millions of people who are not now thinking about Charlevoix.

The possibilities are unlimited, as Seymour pointed out. They only have to be developed. To do this someone must distribute news releases and advertising that will get printed and READ. This publicity must tell a story that no one else has to tell.

THERE ARE LITERALLY thousands of people who would thank us if we got them coming to Charlevoix for their vacation — winter, spring, summer or fall. Why not break tradition's bonds and give them the opportunity to be great grateful?

And this is one of its strongest assets. The 20 people in Marion township whose land will be most directly affected by the campground have a right to protest.

THOUGH THEY ARE A small minority, they are individuals. As such, our government assures them of equal rights. The Courier feels that this is something akin to sacred.

We would not condone anyone riding roughshod over an individual, or 20 individuals, for the sake of a thousand times more people.

Our investigation and contact with the campground developer, Richard Rogalla, leads us to believe his intentions are to provide facilities that will enhance neighboring property and bring good citizens (and good dollars) into Charlevoix.

We haven't a moment's doubt but what a modern campground can be a good neighbor.

HOWEVER, WE JUST AS strongly feel those persons who have filed protests to the campground should receive positive, legal, assurance that their property will maintain its value and that their summer tranquility will not be coarsely invaded by litter, vandals, drunks and worse.

There can be no denying that the possibility that a campground could draw a permanent summer population of gypsies, and rowdy people. Nor should it be blindly overlooked that the campground could develop into a year-round trailer park. Other undesirable possibilities present themselves as we stretch our imagination.

So, it seems only just to agree that people who will be neighbors to the campground should be on their guard to prevent these things. This is why the law allows for public hearings on zoning changes. Minorities — who are a part of all majorities — get preferred treatment in our nation's unique experiment with democracy.

The Courier does not have a lawyer to write its editorials. Consequently we cannot outline the exact procedure for giving the protesting property owners legal guarantees that their fears will not be realized.

WE ARE, HOWEVER, sure that this can be done. Some sort of legal document, or amendment to the zoning ordinance, can be agreed upon by Marion Township and Rogalla that will overcome all reasonable objections.

If we are right in our judgment that Rogalla wants nothing less than a first rate campground — with top quality campers — he will be eager to accept such regulations. Even though they may call for a curfew hour after which loud commotions will not be allowed. This, and other stipulations of the agreement, would have to be policed by legally constituted authorities.

Progress on the campground and neighborhood accord will be realized much faster if both Marion township officials and Rogalla come to the public hearing with definite proposals to overcome the protests.

There may be a further lesson in the Marion Township case. Charlevoix County townships might be wise to begin writing and adopting campground zoning in their zoning ordinances. Such a section would have avoided current problems.

Odd's .. 'N' .. Ends

By FRAN MARTIN

As you noted in last week's Courier, it's maple syrup time in Charlevoix . . . if you live here you were already aware of that for there are pails on trees all around town . . . Which brings me to a little something relating to this project . . . Over on Prospect ave. on the north side there's a pail on a tree that, thus far, hasn't given up any sap . . . and over the pail is a little note stating "I am an ash tree" . . . and on a street near mine someone else noticed a couple sap pails on an oak tree. . . Perhaps Ed Shanahan who's taught me a lot about sugar maples which, incidentally, are native to North America, should conduct a little class in tree identification before another spring rolls around! . . .

IT'S MARCH AND in northern Michigan anything can happen in this month which rules with the most vicious of the year . . . So no one should have been surprised when the snows came late Wednesday . . . But of course everyone was . . . seems most everyone hopes it won't happen . . . But I don't ever remember an Easter in March when we didn't have snow . . . Tried to tell some of these gals they wouldn't have need for an Easter bonnet but they wouldn't listen. . .

After several months of comparative quiet from the skies, we're about to experience the return of those noisy little critters known as Husters . . . the Air Force's B-58 . . . Now I have a healthy respect for anything mechanical, having no talents or inclinations along these lines . . . But after reading an article in the most recent Reader's Digest entitled "The Bomb Carrier Nobody Can Stop," I'm going to look with even greater respect on these little monsters . . . The article tells you about the plane itself and its crew . . . of three, with every last one of them with no less than 10 years of service . . . and why we have this demon . . . I think that many people just naturally dislike or complain about things they don't understand . . . Though you may not feel any different about being scared out of your wits by sonic booms, I'm hopeful that you'll be a bit more tolerant of them . . . And just between you and me, I'm more than a little glad they're ours . . . So don't forget to look it over . . . since you're going to be going regularly with these Husters beginning next week. . .

AND ISN'T IT good to see the harbor lights blinking again . . . Both the ever-beaming red light on the south pier and the revolving white one on the breakwater just make me feel as though things are back to normal . . . Missed them during the off-season of navigation. . .

And speaking of navigation, it's opening almost a month earlier than last year . . . A year ago now Lake Michigan was still frozen all the way to the Wisconsin shore, in case you've forgotten . . . while this year the Sundew's been transporting crews to light stations and bringing to put down the first of its buoys. . .

Went to the spring band concert the other night and, in addition to enjoying the wonderful music by the two bands, always a treat . . . I couldn't help but be entertained

School Report Card

Learning to Read a Thrill

By Constance Snider, Elementary Teacher

What event in the life of a child can compare with the excitement of learning to read? This is why children come to school—to join the company of those who can read books.

We all know young children differ widely in physical, mental, and emotional development, in experience, and background, and in competence. Yet children who are ready for school have many things in common. Most of them live in a world of their own. Most of them have much to learn about sharing, taking turns, and about finding their place in a group. Some of their common characteristics affect their progress in learning to read; for example, they are restless and their attention quickly wanders. Their eye and hand coordination is still crude. Even marking a page can be an arduous task. But they are full of questions, like to new ideas, and above all, they are eager to learn.

MOST SCHOOLS HAVE a pre-reading program as does Charlevoix. This is a program of preparation, of developing readiness for reading. One purpose is to help children develop and practice many of the skills necessary in reading; for example, children learn how to handle a book, learn to start at the front and proceed toward the back, looking first at the left hand side of the page, and proceed from left to right and from top to bottom. Most adults have forgotten they had to learn these things before they tackled the actual reading of printed words. Children must learn to find a certain page, a particular place on that page, and keep their attention on that place while it is being discussed.

Children are encouraged to talk about things they have seen, made, or done. Talking helps them learn to organize their ideas and acquire facility in the use of language. They listen to stories and tell them so that they can begin to get a feeling of orderly progress in narration. They dramatize stories, work puzzles, play word and memory games. Such activities develop children's language, stimulate their thinking and cultivate the visual discrimination needed in recognizing patterns in print. Most important of all to a child and to his future attitude toward reading is the growing sense of confidence — he gets from successful participation in these many activities that prepare the group for reading.

Perceiving printed words requires highly developed visual discrimination. Children who are getting ready to read must learn to notice and think about small differences in the way things look. Variations in shapes, in size, in internal detail in arrangement of parts are all important. One little line makes all the difference between "cat" and "eat".

Learning to listen carefully is another part of getting ready to read. In getting ready to read learning to hear likenesses and differences in the way words sound is important. "Hear" sounds different from "here" and the child learns that these small differences in meaning make a large difference in meaning. A child must learn to discriminate between words that differ in only one sound at the beginning of the word, or in the middle of a word, or at the end of a word. The reading readiness program has many opportunities to practice this.

How can you help a parent? Encourage your child to be self-reliant. Learning to read is an independent thing. No one can do it for him. Teach your child to listen attentively and to follow simple directions. Much of his instruction in school will be oral and how well he listens will help determine his success in reading. Provide a reading environment. Read aloud to him. Let him choose the story and add his comments. Give him books and a place to keep them. Make a game of making signs, praise him when he recognizes words on signs or television. Include reading in the family pattern of living. Answer his questions or help him answer his own by relating a new situation to a familiar one and giving correct names for things.

Something for Everyone May 17-23

By WALLY LODER, Michigan Week County Chairman

Michigan Week, May 17-23, is planned to give as many people as are interested a chance to participate in some manner.

A wide variety of programs is suggested in looking at the seven special days of Michigan Week and how Charlevoix County individuals and groups can take part in them.

EACH DAY OF Michigan Week has a special designation. A broad program embracing all people and every segment of the community's economic and social life can be built around the seven special days.

Michigan Week opens Sunday May 17, which is Spiritual Foundations Day. This gives all religious groups an opportunity to emphasize the important part that people of all faiths have played in the founding and development of the state.

Monday is set aside as Government Day which is featured by the traditional exchange of mayors and village presidents. It gives local committees an opportunity to place the spotlight on government at all levels, to that citizens may become better acquainted with the roll of government in their daily lives.

HOSPITALITY DAY is Tuesday and this gives all people, businesses and organizations a chance to do the things that will best express the community's friendliness, especially to visitors from other towns and other states.

Industry, business and agriculture come in for special attention on Wednesday, observed as Our Livelihood Day. It is the day to focus attention on how people earn their living, and to give special recognition to the institutions that provide jobs.

While schools play an important role in Michigan Week from start to finish, Thursday is designated as Education Day, giving all educational institutions an opportunity to put their best foot forward—to hold open house and do the other things that will emphasize the great part that education plays in Michigan.

Friday is set aside as Our Heritage Day with special emphasis pointed toward history, local, area and state, and the proud heritage of people of many backgrounds who have played an important part in building the state.

Saturday is Our Youth Day, bringing the week to a close with all the emphasis on youth and the part young people take in community activities.

Since the start of Michigan

Week 11 years ago, Sunday has been designated as Spiritual Foundations Day with widespread participation by all faiths. This day in 1964 will be Sunday, May 17.

Churches should lead Michigan citizens on this opening day of Michigan Week in paying tribute to the part that faith, religion and the churches have played in the exploration, settlement, history and development of the state and its communities.

ALL RELIGIOUS groups in the area should observe the opening of Michigan Week with special sermons, prayers and songs. Churches are asked to join in the observance in many ways. Some of the suggestions made by the committee follow: Each church or parish should give special attention to its own beginnings in the community and the individuals who were its founders. Groups might join together in a community-wide, inter-faith program with clergymen of various faiths and massed choirs participating. Special programs by church youth groups are advisable.

Government at all levels will come in for special attention on Monday, May 18 of Michigan Week.

While the traditional exchange of mayors and village presidents is a feature of the day in Charlevoix and more than 300 communities, the main objective is to focus attention on the role of government in the lives of all citizens.

OPEN HOUSE and guided tours of all departments and facilities of local government are advocated to better acquaint citizens with all phases of government service.

Military establishments should be included in areas where they are located as the Government Day program embraces all the federal units as well as the township, village, city, county and state institutions.

Students and other citizens should be encouraged to attend sessions of their government such as meetings of the board of supervisors, village and city councils, township board and all branches of the court. Service clubs have an opportunity to salute municipal officials and employees.

Hospitality Day, May 19, of Michigan Week. Communities have entertained newcomers in a variety of ways, such as giving them a tour of the area, entertaining them at civic luncheons or banquets and in many ways letting the new residents know they are welcome.

In many neighborhoods residents get together and hold receptions on Hospitality Day for people of nearby neighborhoods.

Hospitality Day is also a time to give full recognition to the state's growing tourist and resort business, and in many areas this kind of program has unlimited possibilities.

Recognition of the industries, agriculture, businesses and institutions that provide jobs in Charlevoix County feature observance of Our Livelihood Day on Wednesday, May 20 of Michigan Week.

While all days of the week have their own significance, none is of more importance than the one which recognizes how citizens earn their living. It is a time for all of us to take stock of the industries, businesses, agriculture, resorts and institutions that make up our economy.

MANY EVENTS ARE held annually in all parts of the state to focus attention on the source of people's livelihood. In many ways there can be a salute to industry, business, a university or whatever it is that contributes vitally to the economy of the community.

Public display of products of the community or region attract much attention. These can be in store windows, public buildings

Michigan Week Projects Sought

TO THE EDITOR:

Michigan Week - 1964 theme "Michigan - Great in Resources and Opportunities" - is sponsored by Greater Michigan Foundation, Lansing and is scheduled May 17-23. Response and cooperation of everyone and particularly the various Chamber of Commerce in the county is needed. It is understood neighboring Counties are well on their way with plans for celebrations, various programs and contests. You all surely have something to be proud of and well worth while. Arouse local concerns and let it be known to your friends and neighbors. Promote your community.

April 10 is the deadline for county judging of "Product of the Year," "Agricultural Development of the Year," and "Community Economic Achievement." Regional judging deadline is April 15. All 16 region entries must be available at the State Committee by April 24. The Awards Committee will have the awards presented during Michigan Week.

A STATE-WIDE COMMUNITY Action Conference on school drop-out problems at Flint April 2 and 3 is sponsored by Greater Michigan Foundation. Conference host will be The Mott Foundation of Flint.

The Charlevoix County chairman is seeking for volunteers with good talent to take part in this most important meeting. If you have a suggestion please quickly contact him.

Michigan Week will include Volunteer Leadership Awards. The Greater Michigan Foundation through this program is conducting a statewide search for those individuals who have, by their individual efforts and example, made significant contributions in community leadership. There is very much need for volunteer community leadership. Further information may be had from your local Chamber of Commerce or Michigan Week, Charlevoix County chairman.

Appropriate gay colored promotional advertising material is available at a very reasonable cost through the Chamber of Commerce.

Promote and sell our area to Michiganders. It is much needed. Then a better job can be done over the borders where it is also needed. In the present cycle of living there is much competition, local, county, state and country.

Wally Loder, Michigan Week Charlevoix County Chairman.

OUTDOOR RAMBLING

with Glen Sutterland

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY fishermen whose casting wrists are getting the pre-season jitters are in for a bonus Saturday, April 4. But they'll have to have a hardy, patient disposition to cash in on it.

Two nearby streams have been opened to early angling for Lake Michigan resident brown and rainbow trout. The trout will be legal quarry as they move into the streams from the big lake on their annual spawning runs.

THE CONSERVATION DEPT. has authorized the early season for lake run "bows and browns" on a 100 yard section of the Bear River in Petoskey and an equally short stretch of the Elk River at Elk Rapids. Fishermen will be allowed to take trout from the Lake St. Clair on the Bear River to the mouth of Lake Michigan and from the power plant to Lake Michigan on the Elk River.

District Fisheries biologist Don Peterson isn't optimistic about the fishing. "I doubt if there will be too much of a run," Peterson told this column.

However, he sees the possibility there will be a few hunkers trying to make their spawning runs. Since they cannot complete their goal due to the dam, Peterson said the Conservation Dept. opened the season in an attempt to let fishermen "utilize as much of the resource (trout) as possible."

The few trout Peterson expects to enter the streams from Lake Michigan will probably start their runs about mid April, he predicted.

THE BIOLOGIST doesn't look for much in the way of spring "steelhead" runs until the sea lamprey problem is whiped.

Frank Dufon, Emmet County conservation officer, said fishermen will work hard for the few fish they get in the short stretch of the Bear River. However, he expects the few determined anglers to get a few trout that may run up to eight pounds or more.

More important than a chance to catch fish, Dufon feels the early season gives the impatient anglers a chance to start fishing and bone up on their skills.

Salmon eggs, veteran anglers and Peterson and Devon agree, will be the best bait. Devon said his observations indicate egg sacks get more fish than single eggs.

BROWN TROUT, he said, probably come into the Bear to feed on the rainbow spawn. The Bear River in the opened stretch is wadable in sections. Most anglers will fish from the bank.

Though eggs have long been the favorite with lake run trout, fishermen, nice fish are caught on such artificials as flatfish, spinners and spinner-streamer fly combinations.

Probably the most practical tackle is an open face spinning reel on a stout rod with 20 yards of eight pound, or heavier monofilament line. A big fish can strip 100 yards of line off the reel before the angler has time to maneuver into a fighting position. Due to crowded banks a fly rod is often almost impossible to handle a fish on under these conditions.

IF YOU'RE BUYING new tackle, don't overlook one of the first retrieve spinning reels. When a really big fish gets on, the difference between keeping him and losing him can be the speed with which you recover line when he turns back in your direction.

In the days before the sea lamprey Michigan's early spring trout fishing was one of the most exciting spectacles in U. S. angling lore. Fishermen literally lined the banks of Great Lakes streams. Fish of great size and tenacity were hooked sending hordes of fishermen into a panic as they coaxed and cheered.

I once hit on spring rainbow fishing that I doubt I will ever see equalled. It was on the Gulkana River, west of Sourdough, Alaska, and southeast of Mt. McKinley.

The Gulkana River in spring (June) comes roaring out of the Alaska Mountain Range like nothing a Michigan angler can imagine. Boulders that would make Earl Young envious are pushed along by the current as it thunders out of the rugged mountains on earth. The current was so strong you couldn't wade above your knees without being thrown off balance.

A STREAMER FLY was a long shot. The water pulled so hard at the leader you didn't recognize a strike until suddenly a rainbow broke through the froth.

It's honestly conservative to say the "bows must have averaged five pounds."

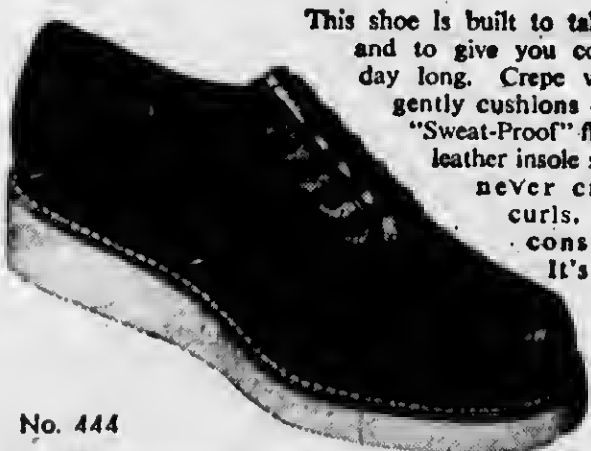

I didn't keep track of how many fish I landed, but I was the one who finally called it quits, not the fish.

It's impossible to describe (and almost impossible to believe your memory). The combination of wild water and savage fish doing aerobatics above it at the end of a fly rod made such a mad experience it starts typing fingers trembling to write this about it.

If you have the money, and the stamina for it, stop in. I'll be glad to show you where it was. It's doubtful anyone has fished it since.

Schools will have their special day during Michigan Week on Thursday, May 21.

While local schools, their staffs and pupils take a leading part in the entire week long celebration, the one day is set aside each year to focus attention on education at all levels and its importance to the future.

All schools are urged to have open house, display student work and present programs related to Michigan. Public officials and civic groups will be encouraged to participate in the school activities.

MANY ACTIVITIES can be planned for the day. These include special recognition for long term educators and teachers, special programs by school affiliated groups such as P.T.A. and panel discussions by students of community problems.

Civic groups will be encouraged to present Michigan flags to schools that do not have them.

In general, Education Day is a day for the schools to tell their story, to let the people know what they are doing and to make citizens conscious of future needs.

Friday of Michigan Week, on May 22, has been designated as Our Heritage Day.

While the state's dramatic past and dynamic future are a moving part of the entire Michigan Week observance, Friday is set aside for serious attention to the proud history and heritage of the state and its communities.

Libraries can give special attention to books on Michigan history and some historical films are available for local programs. Full cooperation may be obtained from the Michigan Historical Commission in the Lewis Cass building in Lansing, whose chairman, Willard Williams, is state chairman for Heritage Day, or from the Michigan Historical Society located in the Civic Center building at Lansing.

Youth will have its day during the 1964 Michigan Week celebrations on Saturday, May 23, which as usual, will be known throughout the day as Our Youth Day.

The keynote of this day is the community's own future — its youth. While Saturday is set aside especially for youth, active participation of all young people in the entire Michigan Week program is most important.

Youth organizations use the day and the week as an occasion to present the story of their activities through displays, talks and events. Youth Day parades are held in many areas and athletic events are featured. Radio and television stations cooperate providing youth with an opportunity to present programs.

Lift for Living

By REV. H. E. KOHN

Now with spring's gay arrival, the world is full of the promise of better things. Bare tree boughs will soon burst into bloom. Daffodils, hyacinths and tulips sprout and pledge that their blossoms will presently paint the earth in vibrant color and grand style. Frogs awaken from winter sleep and will shortly shout their choruses from swamps and marshes.

Expectation, excitement and wonder are springtime moods. Something miraculous transpires before us, and man has little to do with it, excepting to respond to it with awe and appreciation. Man has no hand in bringing spring to the world, for spring comes with the equinox, when the earth moves into a certain precise alignment with the sun, so that days and nights are of equal length, and man cannot push the earth into its proper relationship to the beneficent sun. Man cannot force a tulip to bud or compel a hyacinth to blossom. The best we can do is to commit bulbs to the good earth, trusting to forces far beyond our ingenuity or strength to bring glorious life from the apparent deadness of bulbs. We cast grass seed on our lawns and leave it there, believing the faithfulness of earth and skies will transform somber, seemingly lifeless seed to green, growing grass.

IN A WORLD THAT often seems to be a man's world, governed by man for man's small purposes, springtime is a reminder of man's littleness and God's greatness, man's incompetency to work the elemental wonders and God's sufficiency to provide the mighty mercies. Spring is God's doing. It is the new life that Merciful Heaven brings to earth.

Easter and springtime belong together, for Easter is the celebration of the New Life that follows the winter of the soul—death. For twenty centuries a major theme of the Christian Church has been the helplessness of death to do permanent damage to the souls of God's children. On that first Good Friday death had seemed so strong—an invincible. Death had hounded the steps of God's Best the One the disciples had counted on to redeem their nation. Death had menaced him, threatened him, bullied and browbeaten him and had taken him from them. And if death could finish this strong Son of God then it could destroy anyone. So the disciples, no less than Christ's worst enemies, went to their beds on that Friday night convinced that Christ was utterly done for—finished.

But on the first Easter morning, when Christ's disciples went to the tomb to mourn, they were overcome with wonder and joy. The tomb was empty, save for a heavenly messenger who announced "He is not here. He has risen." Eleven depressed and disillusioned men, hiding in abject terror from their enemies, were quickly transformed into courageous, heroic evangelists who proclaimed abroad the joyous news of Christ's resurrection. Death was no more the enemy of the faithful. From that Easter henceforth disciples treated death as a friend who came bearing gifts. For the faithful death became a cordial messenger from God bringing liberty to the enslaved of body and mind, bringing welcome rest to the weary, the end of struggle to the embattled, fulfillment to the unfinished, home at last to the homesick and lonely, joyous reunion to those who had been separated, and above all—the eternal company of God and of his Christ. Of all the differences Christ's coming to earth had made in the hearts of his disciples, none was more surprising than the transformation in their attitudes toward death. Death became God's way of bringing men to New Life.

I'll never forget my astonishment when I was an extremely young minister and asked a throng of adolescents "How would you like to live forever?" and was answered with a chorus of "No." So young they were, so full of life, and already they had their fill of some aspects of it so that they hoped that kind of life would not and our experiences sometimes wound our spirits, leaving them stained, bitter, disappointed, distressed, disillusioned. But God does not leave us that way. The message of Easter is not the solemn announcement of life's infinite extension, but rather the good, glad news of life's renewal. "He is risen," said the Easter morning message. And by God's grace that is still the tomb-side Gospel for every faithful child of God: "He is risen."

Children Show Talents for Easter

By FRANK MARTIN—
Chill winds may still blow and there may be snow but at Charlevoix Elementary School there's no doubt about the season of the year, for at every turn there are signs of Easter and Spring.

A camera tour through the early elementary grades reveals these samples of the work of the various classrooms which could qualify as an annex to the Easter bunny's workshop.

A VISIT TO the kindergarten (above) found Denise Ross, Mary Pinkston, Ed Donaldson and David Peterson ready to display Easter eggs they had made from paper mache. On the table are painted eggshells resembling bunnies, filled with soil and grass seed and held in place with a collar of paper. The reminders of Easter were made under the direction of their teachers, Mrs. Dorothy McRae and Mrs. Kay Smith.

Display cases in the hallway (first picture below) bear more evidence of the season. Here Trudy Ohmer shows classmate David Swanson the attractive basket she made from a starched material dried over a form with a colorful pipe-cleaner as a handle. This work was done under the supervision of Miss Anita Roberts, fourth grade teacher.

A second display case (bottom picture) holds attractive egg tree done in a rainbow of colors, tree-hand Easter bunnies and an Easter greeting which (l to r) Rochelle Webster, Patrick Whitley and Susanne Donaldson are admiring. The case was arranged by Mrs. Ryan's and Miss Frances Miller's second grades.

In Miss Miller's second grade room Kevin Martin, James Potter, Randolph Webster, Deborah Powell, Ronald Kewachken, Robert Hess and Kenneth Kewachken were quick to display the egg tree, the basket of lovely egg shell flowers and the Easter bunnies their class was making. Elsewhere in the school, other classes made equally as attractive holiday reminders or had already taken them home.

St. Mary's Launches Fund Drive

In Charlevoix and 189 other parishes and missions of the Grand Rapids Catholic diocese, Sunday, May 17, commences the 10th annual Diocesan Development Fund Campaign. Fr. E. Francis Denay, reports.

INAUGURATED IN 1955, this fund-raising project provides revenues for educating young men for the Catholic priesthood, for Catholic Charities and for religious instruction of children. Before his departure for Rome in February, Bishop Babcock authorized plans for this drive. He was due to return March 14 after attending sessions of the Commission on the Lay Apostolate of the Second Vatican Council.

Don't Swear!

It's a Bible command... a common-sense law of life. "Thou shalt not take the name of The Lord Thy God in vain." THEN WHY DO YOU DO IT???

Careless habit? Limited vocabulary? Calloused soul? ... JUST WHY DO YOU DO IT? "The Lord will not hold him guiltless that taketh His name in vain." Man, too, will hold you guilty. The members of your family, — the fellows in your office, — the stranger on the street ... none of them like it! Your family deserves better of you. Your neighbors expect better of you. God requires better of you. Go to church and break the swearing habit. Learn to respect and honor and reverence God's name. Please don't swear!

A Piece of History Falls

There are those who said Hal Forbrig couldn't do it. But as these pictures show, he has.

AFTER SITTING in on a portion of last week's campground zoning hearing, this columnist can't help but feel Marion Township people should be proud of their officials.

The township's Zoning Board and Township Board handled themselves with dignity and unusual compassion. They managed to remain impartial, and showed the greatest courtesy possible.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rogalla also must have felt this. The Rogallas walked into an apparently 100 percent hostile crowd of some 100 people, and yet the Zoning Board treated them like first rate, number one, citizens.

Township officials had little alternative but to deny the request to build a campground. Even though they perhaps thought the campground would be a good thing—and wouldn't reduce property values—the people they represent didn't want it. They obeyed the will of the people. No official can do more.

COMMENT — The weather this morning (Wednesday) is what Courier bookkeeper Hilda Gibson calls "hateful." A fresh blanket of snow fell during early morning and has accumulated to almost an inch. Warm temperatures and rain Sunday and Monday took snow off the ground. There were high hopes that spring had arrived. But will be a little longer.

Beet Plant Wall Splits, Thunders Down

Gallant Stand Topples

Write-In Effort Is Futile

870 Voters at Polls Monday

A near-record city election turnout of 870 voters Monday provided no upsets, but plenty of excitement.

Last minute campaigning that was often hard for opposing camps to identify or pin down led to large write-in votes against two of the city's three candidates for alderman.

HOWEVER, ALL aldermen nominated in February's primary election were victors Monday. Two new aldermen, Jerry Whitley, third ward, and Dr. Walter Hoffmann, second ward, assumed their council duties this week. Incumbent William Fochtman was re-elected.

Both Fochtman and Hoffmann were challenged by write-in candidates during the closing days of the campaign. Gordon Bartlett launched a move to beat Fochtman on stickers and Robert Lieberman distributed stickers in an effort to upset Hoffmann.

Fochtman won easily over Bartlett, collecting 213 votes to Bartlett's 120.

In the second ward Lieberman got 182 sticker votes to Hoffmann's 238 votes.

THOUGH HOFFMANN and Fochtman were the only candidates on the ballot seriously challenged by sticker opposition, rumors of other candidates and secret meetings were common conversation throughout town last week.

A last ditch effort to upset incumbent Mayor E. D. Hawley was falsely predicted by many.

The alderman campaigns reached high pitch over the weekend. Hoffmann posted a $1,000 certified check in a downtown store window offering to give it to anyone who could prove claims made by Lieberman.

Controversy centered around interpretation of words, and, consequently, appears as though it will never be settled.

LIEBERMAN contended Hoffmann's statement that Charlevoix's "tax rate" is higher than Petoskey's is inaccurate, because Charlevoix levies eight mills and Petoskey ten.

Hoffmann declares this means the total taxes a city resident would pay on property of equal value.

Supervisors elected Monday were Kit Carson, re-elected in the first ward; Harry Gohau, re-elected in the third ward and Harold Totten, elected in the second ward. The biggest vote getter of the day was city treasurer Annabelle Cunningham, who was re-elected.

Quarnstrom Suggests More Area Promotion

Many influential, wealthy men who have fallen in love with Charlevoix have left a lasting mark on the community.

But few have had the impact of I. T. Quarnstrom has.

QUARNSTROM FIRST sighted Charlevoix less than 12 years ago. In that time he has played a pioneering part in the area's post-war economic recovery, become our biggest employer, built the newest, most exclusive resort in the region and is something of a living institution to Charlevoix people.

"His name is heard often, his luxurious yellow motor-sailing yacht 'My Dream' is a summer landmark of sorts.

Yet this dynamic Detroit industrialist who has adopted Charlevoix, remains obscure. He shuns publicity—even in Detroit.

"Mr. Q," as his executives call him, is an interesting paradox. He considers his 800 room Whittier Hotel in Detroit a hobby. However he continues to be the driving force behind a wide-spread industrial empire.

THOUGH HE CALLS the hotel and resort a hobby, he leaves the immediate impression accepting such challenges and then making a success of them is his idea of fun.

This sounds like the classic description of an eccentric millionaire. But it isn't. Instead, it is more accurately a classic example of an American success story.

Quarnstrom, 64, came to Detroit from Sweden when he was 24. His first Christmas his change purse would only buy a pancake supper. He took a job in a tool shop until he learned to speak English. Then he went looking for richer fields to conquer.

He found them. Today, among other things, they include the six manufacturing plants of Detroit Mold Engineering (DME), the Whittier Hotel, American Mold and "Water's Edge" resort on Lake Charlevoix.

Now all of his hundreds of employees receive a Christmas turkey in memory of their boss' first Yule in the U.S. In the past 27 years he has no laid off one person for lack of work.

ELEVEN YEARS AGO he came here to establish American Mold, which employs 110 people, and, in his words, fell in "love with the people and country."

Quarnstrom is mildly critical of Charlevoix because it has "failed to capitalize on its God-given assets." Round Lake, he says is the "best harbor on the Great Lakes" and it hasn't been developed to its

Industrialist Urges Support for Medusa

It took two men six weeks of full-time looking before they recommended I. T. Quarnstrom build his American Mold plant here.

And then, Quarnstrom said, what finally convinced him to settle on Charlevoix was the late Mayor John Knight's enthusiasm and assistance.

"He loved Charlevoix so much and was so sincere and eager to have us locate here," Quarnstrom said. He chose Charlevoix, though other communities made more attractive offers.

AMERICAN MOLD, with its 110 employees, was Charlevoix's first important industry after the war. It immediately had its impact on the community in stabilizing the year-around economy.

Quarnstrom said he had two men on the road six weeks looking all over Michigan for a site for American Mold. They finally recommended Charlevoix.

Fire Permits

Ed Hartnell, Conservation Dept. fire officer, asks that all Charlevoix County rural residents get a fire permit before burning.

Hartnell said permits will be issued by telephone if persons will call the Bayne City office, JU 2-6681. This makes it possible for the department to recognize authorized fires, rather than dispatch fire fighting equipment on false alarms.

All That Remains Today

Bleak Walls Cursed

Symbol of Once Grand Hopes

The series of pictures above and below tell the story of the plant for processing, this story graphically report a chapter of Charlevoix history that is sure to amaze today's youngsters when they grow up to show them to their children.

The Sugar Beet Plant, on M-66 at Ferry Ave., was one of Charlevoix's most outstanding (and disliked) landmarks. Since 1911 the huge plant has stood neglected and slowly crumbling.

BUILT IN 1902, the plant was the largest Charlevoix has ever had. The exact number of persons employed is unknown. Farmers from throughout the area brought sugar beets to the plant for processing.

In 1911 the plant closed. Since then it has remained a decaying symbol of once grand hopes. The bleak walls were cursed by many as an eyesore.

Plans to build 22 year-round homes on the property and a marina were revealed. Debris from the plant will be used to build an approximately 400 foot square marina into Lake Charlevoix.

IN ADDITION TO the marina, a trout pond and recreation center for home owners is planned.

Forbrig reports the once mighty building was on the verge of collapse when he started battering it down last week. Whole sections of wall literally swayed when struck by the weight swung by a crane. Bob Sarasin and Floyd Sutton were crane operators. The walls were so flimsy Forbrig said he felt pressed to get them down before they fell on someone.

On its part, this column still feels the campground would have been a worthwhile addition. Experience in other areas leaves no question here but what a well administered and somewhat restricted campground is an asset to a community and its property values.

Other north country communities have already found this out. Charlevoix will in time. That wasn't the time, or maybe, the place.

Some of the opposition to the campground seemed to feel campers are a low caliber of people. If this is in their mind they need to be set straight... and fast. I have made camp with men who walk in the highest echelon of Michigan life and who could buy or sell all but possibly one man at the hearing.

Had Rogalla done a better job of defending campgrounds and telling the real story about campers and campgrounds the outcome might have been different. But as it is, this column cannot blame those who opposed it. They were given no good reason to believe their fears are misplaced.

But, more important than anything else, is the fact that the whole affair was handled fairly and sanely.

American Mold, he announced, will add new machinery this fall to increase its production capability without increasing the plant's size. It will mean an increase of 25 jobs for area people.

IN ADDITION to being president and manager of American Mold, Quarnstrom holds the same position with the Detroit Mold Engineering (DME). He founded the company during the depression, after coming to Detroit from Sweden as a youth.

DME includes six manufacturing plants and six warehouse and distribution centers. It employs approximately 600 people. DME, he says, takes most of his time.

Quarnstrom warned Charlevoix to beware of encouraging large industries to this area. Companies with large payrolls often have a fluctuating employment factor that is not healthy for a community, he explained.

Small firms, with steady employment, are most desirable, he said.

TO BE SUCCESSFUL in North Michigan a firm has to produce a product that is very costly per pound, can be made by semi-skilled workers, Quarnstrom said.

He explained transportation costs which a firm that produces a product that is not high-priced for each pound of material.

He definitely feels Medusa Cement Co.'s proposal to build a quarry, dock and cement plant on South Point warrants the community's support.

However, he cautions local leaders to be sure to get assurances there will be no pollution of air or water—or anything else that will be harmful to Charlevoix's natural beauty.

"Before Charlevoix accepts Medusa it should have positive assurance that it will do nothing in the future that will in any way hurt Charlevoix as a resort center," he said.

full potential. He makes this point in the matter of fact manner of a man who is used to recognizing opportunity and knowing how to take hold of it.

Saturday, Quarnstrom set aside more than an hour to discuss his plans in Charlevoix and thoughts on the area's future. People closest to him here said they think it is the first time he has submitted to such a lengthy, informal newspaper interview.

AMONG HIGHLIGHTS of his conversation with the Courier's editor in one of the villas at Water's Edge were:

• The tourist industry will always be the most important factor in Charlevoix's economy.

• It is necessary to accelerate promotion and advertising of our tourist attractions.

• Charlevoix should improve and add to its facilities to attract and hold tourists.

Water's Edge now has three plush villas, and what he calls the "best private dock in the north."

When it is completed there will be 12 villas.

ASKED HOW MUCH Water's Edge will cost when completed, he said, "I don't dare mention that figure; it will be high."

The villas are of different design and luxurious throughout. They are being built on more than 400 ft. of frontage he owns behind the American Mold plant.

He asked that the Charlevoix area be alert to "cheapening of the area by inexpensive building, trailer camps, and so forth," such as the recent proposal in Marion Township.

"I would perhaps curtail my interest in developing a summer resort in Charlevoix," Quarnstrom said.

"I THINK MORE development

Staebler Fete Set

Democrat candidate for governor Neil Staebler will be in Charlevoix Sunday, April 12.

County Democrat Chairman George LaBlance said Staebler will speak at a Democrat party dinner in the Argonne Inn at 5:30 p.m. Tickets for the fund raising event are on sale at $8 a couple, or $5 for singles.

AT 4:30 P.M. prior to the dinner, Staebler will be at the Argonne to discuss personal problems with Charlevoix area citizens, LaBlance said. As Michigan Congressman-at-large, Staebler represents all areas of the state.

Other top ranking Michigan Democrats are also on the program.

His yellow yacht "My Dream" is a familiar sight in Charlevoix's harbor. Due to his interests in yachting, he said he has noticed numerous boats enter Round Lake and leave because they couldn't find a ship.

"I offered the city a donation of $5,000 for a down payment on the north shore of Round Lake for docks and said I would finance the balance, but it wasn't even brought up at Council," Quarnstrom said.

THIS WAS DURING James Hiller's administration as mayor.

At that time, he added, the city could have purchased the property for "next to nothing." It would have cost little to develop it into docks with state help, he said.

Now that Earl A. Young owns the property Quarnstrom points out the cost of such a project would be much higher. However, he still feels it is necessary.

He endorsed the city's current move to construct showers, and other facilities to make yachtsmen comfortable. If yacht facilities are increased and improved he feels confident it will bring more retail business to Charlevoix.

HE COMMENDED Charlevoix's marinas for providing outstanding service to boatsmen.

He said his Water's Edge Resort on Lake Charlevoix, behind American Mold, is evidence yachtsmen are eager to come to Charlevoix.

Quarnstrom said he takes advantage of every opportunity to come to Charlevoix. "Every opportunity," he pointed out isn't always enough. "I feel right at home here he added.

Though he is "sojourning" Quarnstrom has started extensive rebuilding at the Whittier. He since buying it. When he is rebuilding his "hobby" he declared will turn into the "best in the country."

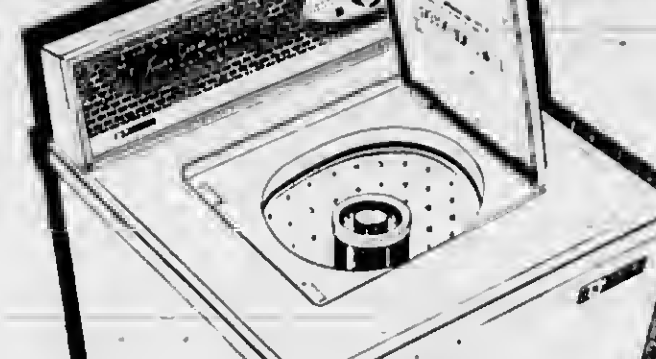

The hotel will include a ballroom with seating capacity for 550 people and a 16th floor lounge, dancing with a view of the Detroit River and city at night.

He represented his township on the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors for 17 years; was a member of the Charlevoix County Fair Board for many years and served a six-year term on the Charlevoix County Road Commission. As a young man he worked with his father, the late Robert Pearsall who was a veterinarian.

Mrs. Pearsall, the former Ethel Painter, was born in Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 14, 1896, and came to the East Jordan area as a child.

Among those who will join them in the observance of their fiftieth wedding anniversary will be their four sons, Claude, Jr., and Robert of East Jordan, Donald of Boyne City and Harry of Charlevoix. They also have 15 grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

THE FAMILY HAS issued an invitation to relatives and friends to join the couple in the observance of this memorable occasion.

Missionary Talks At Sunday Service

Ellen B. Lang, a missionary nurse in India for 30 years, speaks at the 11 a.m. worship service of the Congregational Church Sunday, April 12.

An informal discussion period with Miss Lang will follow the service during coffee hour in the Friendship Hall. Rev. Robert Harrison reports.

dry may not dry for days. Another unusual feature of the hospital, according to Miss Lang, is that, in accordance with local custom, relatives and friends move right in with the patients. As a result, the wards are crowded, noisy and full of confusion.

ELLEN B. LANG

THIS IS MISS LANG'S first visit to the United States, Rev. Harrison said.

Miss Lang, who serves in India under the United Church of Christ, is nursing superintendent of the 320 bed Christian Mission Hospital in Madurai. She supervises 40 nurses on the hospital staff and helps in the training of 60 student nurses in the hospital's nursing school.

A native of Australia, she is one of few nursing superintendents helping to operate a hospital as large as Christian Mission Hospital without the help of running hot water or a laundry.

The washing for the entire hospital, she explains, is done in large pots over fires built in the yard and is dried on trees and bushes. The rainy season complicates matters, she said, since then the laun-

Church Women Make Plans

Reports on the accomplishments and future activities were told by representatives of the Women's circles at the April meeting of the Women's Fellowship of the First Congregational Church held at the home of Mrs. Ted R. Miller.

The Mary Burns circle has purchased beautiful new church doors which have done much to improve the entrance to the church. They were seen for the first time on Easter Sunday.

THE REPORT BY the Margaret Parker Circle revealed its members have taken cookies to the Grandview Medical Facility and spent a day cleaning the church kitchen. The group will have charge of the May dinner honoring June graduates.

The church nursery curtains have been washed, pressed and re-hemmed by members of the Pilgrim Circle which also is making plans for the Cheboygan Association dinner Apr. 26. The circle also has Raggedy Ann and Andy dolls for sale and is planning a rummage sale for May 15-16. Contributions to the sale would be appreciated.

It was announced that Dr. Fred Hoskins would be the guest speaker at the Cheboygan Association dinner. Mrs. Eugene Bergmann and Mrs. James Jewell are taking reservations for the event.

The date of the Mother and Daughter banquet was changed to May 11.

MRS. KIT CARSON, who was in charge of the program, told of the plight of minority groups whose religious views conflict with established government policy. She mentioned in particular, the Amish people whose beliefs do not permit them to take part in Social Security or any insurance plan.

Mrs. Carson also asked for written opinions from Fellowship members regarding the establishment of a church library.

The Rev. A. Robert Harrison opened the meeting with a prayer. Mrs. Harry Ladd presided at the meeting. Mrs. James Smith was co-hostess with Mrs. Miller.

Plans for the next meeting, the annual May breakfast at the church May 6, were announced.

Show Slides Of Europe

Mrs. Ralph McRae showed slides and told of her trip through Europe last summer at the regular dinner meeting of the Past Noble Grand Club hosted Thursday by her mother, Mrs. Floyd Ikens, at the McRae home.

Rita Kroetz, exchange student from Holland who is with the McRaes, played several violin solos, accompanied by Mrs. McRae for the entertainment of the 13 members who attended the meeting.

AT THE COOPERATIVE dinner which preceded the program, the birthday anniversary of Miss Frances Durance was honored with a decorated birthday cake.

Mrs. Birdie Gleason presided at the business session at which the chaplain, Mrs. Ikens led the prayer and Mrs. Glenn Rose led the devotions.

Other members present were Mrs. Luther Hannaford with whom the club will meet next month, Mrs. William Ager, Mrs. Lillian Moore, Miss Lillian Flanders, Mrs. Gerold Murdick, Mrs. Charles Evans, Mrs. George Cook, Mrs. Elfred Ostrum and Mrs. Raymond Seymour.

Exchange Nuptials Saturday

By Mrs. Thomas Maxwell
The First Methodist Church of Charlevoix was the scene Saturday evening of the wedding of Miss Barbara Davis and Michael Baker both of Bay Shore.

Parents of the couple are Harvey Davis and the late Mrs. Davis and Mr. and Mrs. James Baker of Bay Shore.

THE REV. RAYMOND McBratnie officiated at the single ring service in the presence of 125 guests. Vases of flowers and candles decorated the altar for the service.

Mrs. Gordon Willis was the organist and played traditional music and Jay Oliver was soloist, singing "I Love You Truly and O Perfect Love."

Given in marriage by her uncle, Jack Davis, the bride chose a waltz length gown of white lace over tulle, with three-quarter length sleeves. A tulle secured her short bluish veil, and she carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations and roses.

Miss Donna Beck of Bay Shore was maid of honor and wore a pink organza gown with matching headband and white accessories, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink carnations.

James Baker, Jr., assisted the bridegroom as best man. Leon Pearson and Darrell Somerville seated the guests.

MRS. BAKER, MOTHER of the bridegroom, selected a blue wool suit with matching accessories for her son's wedding with a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed at Harmony Hall, with Mrs. Nathaniel Smith cutting the cake, and Jayce Ann and Lorraine Davis serving. Those helping to open gifts were Gwen and Gayle Baker, Margo Smith and Sandy Somerville.

For her wedding trip, the bride wore a red and white knit suit with white accessories. After a brief trip the couple will be in their new home at Bay Shore.

Out of town guests attended from Flint, Detroit, Cadillac, Traverse City and Muskegon.

Archie Wasegishik, 41, was released from jail Saturday, March 28, and returned April 1 for parole violation, Rose said. He was picked up for alleged drinking. The Sheriff said he had served a four month term for furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors.

Campground Plan Defeated

Richard Rogalla's proposal to build a campground in Marion township on Lake Charlevoix was defeated at Friday's public hearing of the township Zoning Board.

An estimated 100 persons turned out to oppose the campground. It was to have been west of the Loeb property on M-66.

NOT EVEN ROGALLA made a determined effort to defend the campground. All other persons speaking were against it.

Among those who stood up to ask the Zoning Board to recommend rejection of the plan were Dean Davenport, for the Chamber of Commerce; Lee Moerland, speaking for the Belvedere Club; William Drost and Dawson Way, for property owners in the immediate area; I. T. Quarnstrom; Norman Ance, attorney for the Chicago Club and Loeb family; and John C. Clark, attorney, for the Loeb family.

The Zoning Board also received five telegrams and several letters from summer residents, all opposed to the campground.

Rogalla, of Houghton, Mich., requested that the 31.6-acre site be rezoned so he could construct a 200 camp site campground. He stated he would comply with all health restrictions and state regulations.

A MARCH 5 Courier story and public notice, announced Rogalla's plans, and the proposed location of the campground.

Persons speaking against the campground said it would lower property values, discourage future building in the area, cause crowded boating conditions and lower the potential school tax collection from the property.

Several said they bought and built in the area with the understanding it would remain intact, restricted to residential building. Moerland and Quarnstrom said it would discourage future construction of plush resort developments and summer homes.

Ance stated the campground could lead to something worse. He added that resort lakes in other areas have been ruined by campgrounds because they brought in so many boaters summer residents and were discouraged and moved.

Davenport said he did not know where the campground was to be located when he supported it a week before the hearing, and was now opposed to it on the Lake Charlevoix site.

SEVERAL SUGGESTED campground development should be centered on Bells Bay, along Lake Michigan.

Rogalla said experience in other areas shows property values actually increase near a good campground. Other communities have encouraged him to build a campground, Rogalla said. He chose Charlevoix because it lacks such facilities.

Rogalla said he spent a year and a half looking before deciding on the Lake Charlevoix site. He added he will not appeal the township's decision, but will look elsewhere.

He had an option on the property, but did not purchase it. Rogalla outlined his plans to the Zoning Board and persons at the hearing.

"I request the rezoning for the purpose of operating a tent and trailer campground, to be run similar to a state park. I will comply with all state and health dept. regulations pertaining to campgrounds. License for the campground will be obtained from the State Health Commissioner as required."

"The campground will consist of approximately 300 campsites and the service facilities to accommodate them. The service facilities will consist of three buildings, approximately 24 feet by 40 feet, of masonry construction, which will contain toilets, wash basins, and showers.

"The water and sewage facilities will be installed as required by health department regulations. Each of the three buildings will be spaced to the radius of approximately 300 feet from the tent and trailer site which it will accommodate."

"My idea of constructing this campground is to leave as much natural terrain and primitive beauty as possible."

"Each campsite will be provided with a picnic table."

"A paved right-of-way from M-66 will be provided as specified by the State Highway Department to the entrance of the campground."

"The grounds will be policed daily for litter that may accumulate accidentally as there will be trash cans provided by the campsite for the purpose of collecting daily waste or litter."

"I plan to operate this camp as a summer project. At this time I see no demand for year-around operation. However, if summer campers choose to reserve a campsite yearly for the purpose of enjoying a few weekends of winter sports recreation, such as skiing or fishing and there is enough demand to make it economically feasible to maintain a snowplow operation and winterize the service buildings, I would be more than willing to accommodate the possibility."

Bay Shore Site Critical to Free World's Defence

BRISTLING ANTENNAS—Trying to see if one of the bombers the site is "scoring" is in view, are Sr. Master Sgt. Kenneth Oliver and Lt. Edmund Taggart. On the roof of the RBS site are a complex network of antennas and radar scopes used by the electronic equipment.

May Stay Five Years

Air Force Unit Increases Payroll

Overlooking Lake Michigan at Bay Shore is one of the most compact, critical and complete unit in the Free World's global defense network.

Eighty men, in a half dozen trailers, are responsible for determining if our bombers can fulfill their mission if they are ever called on to back up the U. S.'s determination to exist as a democracy.

THE LITTLE KNOWN, never before photographed Air Force Radar Bomb Scoring (RBS) site at Bay Shore has received word it will be a part of the Charlevoix community for another five years, Lt. Col. Joseph C. King, commander, reports.

Col. King, who has moved into the former Sucher home across from the Hospital in Charlevoix, said the RBS site is increasing its manpower from 80 to 110, or more, men. The annual payroll this year will probably top $300,000.

Much, if not most, of this is spent in Charlevoix. Col. King said more than 80 percent of the site's men and their families live in Charlevoix.

The site tests, Strategic Air Command (SAC) bombers on their ability to drop bombs on targets.

ONLY, IN THIS CASE, the "bomb" is no more than an electric signal. The B-47, B-52 and B-58 bombers do not carry bombs.

Using intricate electronics equipment, the site zeroes its radar in on an approaching bomber. The bomber has been ordered to drop a "bomb" on a target in northern Michigan.

Lt. Edmund Taggart explains the target may be any one of several. Some of the targets are actual physical structures. Others are mere points on the map.

When the bomber pilot figures he is near the mythical target he switches on a high-pitched signal which is picked up at the Bay Shore site. The instant this signal quits being heard at the site it means the bomber has theoretically released its bomb.

ELECTRONIC COMPUTERS go to work at Bay Shore determining if the "bomb" would have hit the target. Wind, and other factors, Lt. Taggart said, are taken into account.

If the bomb missed, it means the airplane crew needs more training before it can be relied on to carry America's "big punch" to strategic enemy targets.

Without the Bay Shore site, and approximately 16 more like it in the country, S. Master Sergeant Kenneth W. Oliver said the Dept. of Defense would have no way of knowing if our bombers can actually deliver a retaliatory blow if we are ever attacked.

Sgt. Oliver has been with Air Force bomb scoring units for 18 years, making him one of the first to enter this field. Several years ago, he said, bomb scoring sites were located throughout the country near major cities.

NOW, DUE TO congested airways near metropolitan areas, the sites have been moved to more isolated areas.

Charlevoix people are unaware of the vast majority of planes "scored" by the site. B-47 and B-52 bombers have been flying over Lake Michigan many times a day all winter dropping make-believe bombs on make-believe targets, Lt. Taggart said.

The slower-flying B-47 and B-52's make some of their bombing runs at 15,000 feet. However, high-speed B-58's fly at above 35,000 feet.

Sonic booms follow the B-58's wherever they fly, Lt. Taggart said. It is not something that happens suddenly as they approach the target. For this reason the Air Force attempts to schedule B-58 flights during specific months and working hours of the day. B-58's were not practicing here this winter.

THE SOUND BARRIER is not broken by B-47 and B-52 bombers. Consequently they do not "drag" a sonic boom behind them.

The Bay Shore RBS site has a second mission. It grades bombers on their ability to use electronic equipment in the airplane to "jam" enemy radar installations. This is called Electronics Counter Measure (ECM).

The ECM operation is housed in a separate truck trailer. However, all of the site's trailers are linked together by open corridors, most of them paneled. The trailers form one building, with somewhat complicated corridors and cubbyholes. All are air conditioned.

The site is directly under the command of a squadron commander at Carswell AFB, Ft. Worth, Tex. It is partially supported by Wurtsmith AFB, at Oscoda, Mich. The site has direct teletype contact with Carswell.

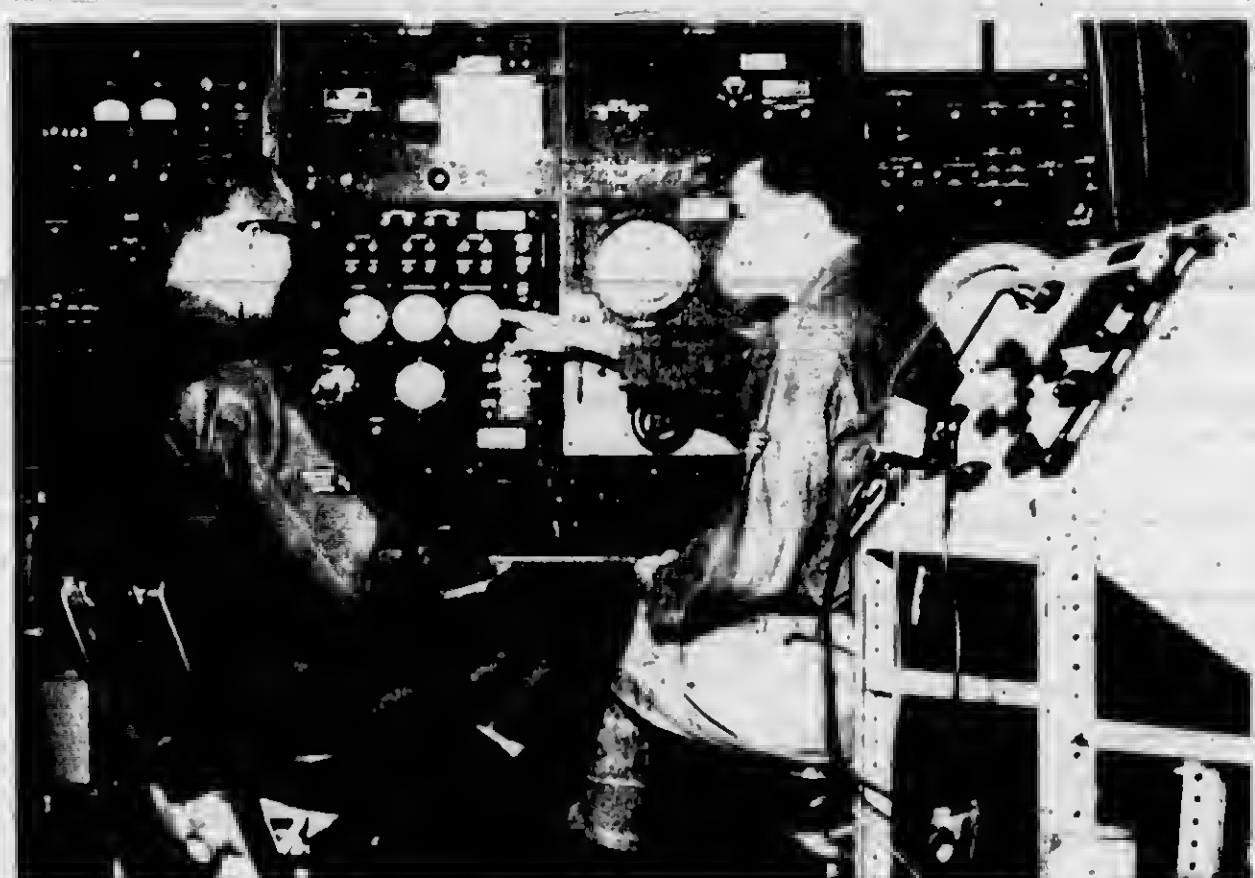

The site moved to Bay Shore from Ironwood, Mich., last summer. The location was picked because the air corridor for bombers would not interfere with commercial planes, Lt. Taggart, a former enlisted man, said. Lt. Taggart was with the site at Ironwood.

AF Men Live Here

Headquarters personnel of the 12th Detachment, 10th Radar Bomb Scoring Squadron, a Strategic Air Force Command unit with headquarters at Carswell, Tex., are Lt. Col. Joseph C. King, Major Woodrow H. Wilson and Lt. Edmund J. O. Taggart.

Senior Master Sergeant Kenneth W. Oliver heads the non-commissioned officers. Others are James E. Grechius, Edward P. Linse, Franklin T. Basham, Jon S. Hansen, Garfield E. Larson, Gerald G. Northcutt and Ray L. Perry.

Airmen Have Impact On Charlevoix Area

By FRANK MARTIN

In August 1962 it was announced that a Radar Bomb Scoring squadron, then stationed at Ironwood in Michigan's Upper Peninsula, was being transferred to Charlevoix.

Details were sketchy but since this announcement had come from Washington, it seemed a certainty that the Air Force unit would come here.

AS PLANS PROGRESSED and property for the site at Bay Shore was purchased, the transfer of the unit from Ironwood to Bay Shore came closer to becoming a reality.

Finally, last June, an advanced echelon moved in to make a survey of available housing as well as living costs for this was a unit without barracks or commissary facility. It was a unit that would live off the economy of the community.

By July 1 the first men arrived from Ironwood and began the long process of becoming a part of Charlevoix. Today all but seven of the 81 men assigned to the squadron are living in the immediate area which includes Bay Shore.

The transition was not an easy one for these people and understandably so. In Ironwood housing

CHARLEVOIX, BY contrast, is a resort town and, when these people arrived, it was the resort season and housing was not only at a premium but expensive. Furthermore, food, utilities, services and other items counted in the cost of living were more expensive here. Though they receive subsistence pay for housing and food, they found it hard to adjust. It often did not compensate

Congressman's Value Depends on Person

FREQUENTLY VOICED alarm that Charlevoix and other northern Michigan counties are losing their voice in Congress due to redistricting appears to be little more than political whitewashing.

There is no denying Charlevoix's congressman will represent approximately 170,000 more people than Victor Knox does. However, it seems rather doubtful we could prove our voice will be any less potent on Capitol Hill.

THIS IS A RATHER confusing statement. But consider that before we can lose something we have to be getting something worthwhile. We can't see how Charlevoix County could possibly have any less say in Congress than it now has.

If our delegate to the House of Representatives spoke for a million people we doubt Charlevoix would see fewer results from him than it does from Rep. Knox.

A highly competent, aggressive congressman, though he had a million constituents, could, conceivably do a better job for Charlevoix County.

It is too late now to do anything about redistricting. There are going to be around 400,000 souls in our next congressional district. (The present district has 240,800 population.)

THERE WAS A VERY real possibility

Kiwanians May Have Answer

THE KIWANIS CLUB'S maple syrup project may offer considerable potential for bringing spring visitors to Charlevoix.

People who make their living catering to tourists tell us livelier spring seasons would be a major asset in expanding facilities for visitors.

OTHER MICHIGAN communities — with obviously less to offer than Charlevoix — do a right spritely business by promoting maple syrup harvesting. By teaming this up with other activities, perhaps, Charlevoix could fill this spring gap we so frequently hear discussed.

Charlevoix Kiwanians being what they are there isn't a minute's doubt in our mind but what they would enthusiastically pitch in on such a project if it meant even the slightest chance to help our community. (And can't you imagine the fun outsiders would have listening to Barney and arguing with Ralph while helping to collect sap and cook it down?)

Whether such a project would pay dividends however, depends on the people who are paid to promote and advertise it. Maybe it would take too much of their time for the returns it would bring to Charlevoix.

ity several years ago this could have been avoided. But Michigan solons preferred to play their happy little games rather than get the job done. Consequently the labor-dominated segment of the Democratic party has things its way.

All that outstate Michigan can do now is accept this and do the best it can.

This means putting the heat on party leaders (or maybe picking new ones) to come up with quality candidates for Congress and the Legislature. Enough of political hacks and "safe" candidates. Let's see the Republicans put up a doer, who can match wit and know-how with well-schooled Democrats.

Let's see a candidate of Robert Griffin's caliber step forward to try for the GOP nomination from our new district. If Republicans continue to figure they have northern Michigan voters in the bag and can put up anyone with a GOP label, let's show them we're not satisfied.

THE REDISTRICTING formula, that entirely ignores area, based only on population does not seem equitable to us.

Union bosses argued that taking territory into consideration in drawing congressional district lines meant "equating people with land." They managed to make something ugly out of this.

We do not like this approach. We resent it. Our forefathers came to Michigan because of the land. Because of the land they made it a great place to live and for democracy to thrive. From them came the ambitious, daring, men who pioneered and made the auto industry. Without them Mr. Scholle wouldn't have thousands of laborers to control.

We mention this only to show that "one man-one vote" crusaders are belittling our heritage and the beautiful pines, birches and blue water we hold so dear.

IN REPLY TO THEIR argument we believe it is insincere to suggest a congressman who must drive six hours to meet with constituents in opposite corners of his district can give every taxpayer as much attention as the representative who must only take a short bus ride.

This, then, means that a Detroit resident is getting a much better break than one from Charlevoix. It makes a farce of the theory that "one man - one vote" means equal representation.

Add to this that people in 22 counties have a far wider range of economic and social interests and problems than those in a few square blocks of downtown Detroit and we come out as even more second-rate citizens.

This is not to say the former districting formula was fair. It went too far in the other direction. By stubbornly holding to it for so long representatives have forced the other extreme upon us.

Odds...

'N' .. Ends

By FRAN MARTIN

After a few hectic days during which everyone was concerned, and with reason, about their loved ones in the Anchorage area following the earthquake, everything's turned out OK for most everyone as far as is known.

One of the first to be heard from was Stan and Ellen Evans who came through without a scratch though they were at nearby Elmdorf AFB. Then there were the Dale Russell's (she's the former Sally Keiser) ...

They live in a trailer outside Fairbanks and, as she wrote her parents, the Willis Keisers, they experienced about five minutes of real "rock and roll" ... At first her husband thought something bad caused him to become dizzy but when he saw the pictures on the wall swinging, they both realized that it was earth tremors that was causing the sensation ... It wasn't long before the first bulletins came over the radio and they knew what had happened ... Sally wrote that people in trailers got out but fast and that persons driving on the highway were forced to stop for fear of having their cars overturned ... and this was miles away from the site of the earthquake ...

Though she has had no direct word from her son-in-law and daughter, Mrs. Victor Douglas has had word of Lt. and Mrs. Ben Beech and children through the Red Cross ...

Mission Beach outside San Diego is a long way from Anchorage but they were touched by the earthquake ... according to Susie Duerr who teaches in the west and who lives on a narrow peninsula with a gulf on one side and the Pacific on the other ... In the middle of the night all Mission Beach residents were ordered to evacuate ... Susie and her roommate were awakened by a friend who came with another friend and her boy friend to take them to higher ground ... outside San Diego ... Police, with sirens screaming, were going up and down the streets and knocking on all doors telling people to leave the area, because of the threat of a tidal wave ... "We were told to take our valuables and get to higher ground," she wrote. "Never having been evacuated before, I wasn't sure what to do so I grabbed my toothbrush, the most valuable thing I could think of at the moment, and left with the others."

They drove to an area outside the city and sat in a drive-in until the "all clear" signal was given and then went home to bed ... The next morning they were told that they'd been sent back to Mission Beach an hour before they should have been ... but the tidal wave never came though the tides did a lot of damage and were anything but normal ...

Now I'm one of those people who, if I have a complaint, register it with the proper authorities and then do what I can about it ... The last few days has found me in the book binding business as I put my directory and others where one can find Charlevoix where it belongs ... And as long as I'm sounding off I'll mention the color of some of the pages ... a horrible blue ... I wonder, why, when millions have been spent on research to determine what colors are easier on the eyes and easier to read ... and I don't ever remember that this shade of blue was among them ...

And don't forget, the directory is merely a courtesy offered by the company ... so won't you please appreciate that book ... though you may not appreciate other things about it.

From Charlevoix's Past ...

The ice harvest was once big business in Charlevoix, reports Charles Heise, who brought this picture to the Courier. It was taken off what is now the Ferry Ave. boat launching-ramp.

The ice harvest employed about 28 men and required, ten teams of horses, Heise said. "We usually started to harvest ice when it was about 28 days. There were many ice houses to fill in those days, such as Booth Fisheries, Robbins Fish Co., Belvedere Hotel Ice House and others."

"We had many experiences that still live in our memory. Like the time Shapton's (Beaufort) broke through the ice and nearly drowned."

"Those were hard days but we enjoyed them. This business is gone forever, as are many others."

School Report Card

Serve Hot Lunches to 94,000

BY JANET ODMARK
Home Economics Teacher

According to "Food, The Yearbook of Agriculture, 1959," serving food in schools has become a generally accepted part of the American school system.

Several factors have brought about this development. Primarily, larger numbers of children cannot go home for lunch, due to consolidation of school districts; secondly, nutrition authorities and educators have given support to the idea of a school lunch as a way to teach the facts of food; and, finally, State governments have been willing to contribute substantial sums for direct support of the program. Also, Congress, with the passage of the National School Lunch Act, has recognized the school lunch program as an effective means of increasing consumption of agricultural commodities. It has given substantial support to the program in the form of donations of surplus foods.

TO PARTICIPATE in the National School Lunch Program, a school must agree to operate its lunch program on a non-profit basis, serve nutritious lunches that meet the standards established by the Dept. of Agriculture, and offer the lunch at a reduced price. The standards, as established, provide for protein-rich foods served in a main dish or in a main dish and one other item (such as peanut butter sandwiches); two or more vegetables or fruits; or both; whole grain or enriched bread; butter or fortified margarine; and fluid whole milk served as a beverage. The lunches generally meet one-third of the daily dietary allowance recommended by the National Academy of Sciences National Research Council.

MAJOR RESPONSIBILITY for the program rests with the State and local governments. A planned informational program is provided to individual lunch programs on such subjects as planning menus, purchases of food and equipment, sanitation practices, and management.

In 1959, the National School Lunch Program was in operation in public and private schools, in all fifty states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands and Guam.

School lunch programs make contributions to the health and general welfare of children and the community, and they also expand the school's role in the introduction of new foods such as orange juice concentrate, dry milk and stabilized dried eggs. In addition, the service of more and better balanced lunches at school means more food purchased in local markets. Most of the food used in school lunch programs is purchased in local markets. In 1958, participating schools spent more than $69 million dollars for food from local suppliers. This did not include donated food valued at $9 million dollars.

Schools represent a sizeable market for livestock, poultry products, fruits and vegetables. About 4.5 of the fluid milk consumed by the non farm population is marketed through schools.

Charlevoix Public Schools have participated in the School Lunch Program for two decades, and are, at present, also providing a daily hot lunch program to St. Mary's Catholic School. The food is prepared in a central kitchen at the high school and dispensed to the other schools in insulated food carriers.

DURING 1962-63 a total of 94,165 hot lunches were served and as of March 1, 1964, 57,074 hot lunches have been served. Revenues for 1962-63 (including Federal Aid of $7,796.24) amounted to $34,565. Expenses were $33,995.54, leaving a net balance of $569.54 as of July 1, 1963. The Charlevoix hot lunch program employs three full-time cooks and three part-time cooks, as well as providing lunch and an hourly wage to about 15 students who assist in the serving and dishwashing.

The daily menus are planned by Mrs. Marie Blissett, assisted by Mrs. Norma Cunningham and Mrs. Rose Hilton, full-time cooks at the high school, and Mrs. Ellen Copeland, Mrs. Ellen Plum, and Mrs. Ruth Swanson, part-time cooks in charge of serving at the Elementary School.

IT'S YOUR OPINION THAT COUNTS

Hear Few Squawks on Sonic Booms

SOME SIX MILES above the blue waters and timber of northern Michigan, three men guide a machine designed to kill thousands of people, should it ever be called on to fulfill its dreadful potential.

To people quietly working, strolling the beaches or sitting in small fishing boats around Charlevoix thoughts of nuclear terror and 1,300 mph airplanes are far removed.

THEN COMES THE shock. It's as if an automobile had just crashed into the wall of your building, or a giant meteor had fallen on the ground near you. This reaction is gone in a fraction of a second for most Charlevoix people; this week's Courier public opinion survey indicates.

The Courier asked ten persons how the sonic booms caused by B-58 bombers making mock bomb drops at Bay Shore affect them. The majority clearly felt they are accustomed to the booms and that they are necessary.

The booms are caused by the speed of the airplanes flying above 35,000 feet. They rattle, and sometimes break windows and startle humans and animals.

HAL FORBRIG said if the B-58 flights are necessary he would personally rather have them than not. He doesn't feel the booms hurt anything.

Though he doesn't mind the booms, ROBERT MATHEW, 46, said he suspects they are harming fishing for pike and other warm water fish in Lake Charlevoix. Mathew said he wasn't certain of this, but several Charlevoix area fishermen have linked poor angling to the sonic booms. Mathew said he "imagines they are necessary" so doesn't see how we can do away with them.

It's wonderful to have the Air Force and its long range bombers, R. K. GUNTER, 100 E. Lincoln, said. However, he said, they interfere with tv. "If they only came over two or three times a day it would be nothing, but when they come over 10 or 15 times a day it's too much," he said. "Why don't they practice somewhere where they won't interfere with anybody? There are plenty of places out west where they could bombard as much as they want and not bother anybody," Gunter said he feels it is unnecessary for the Air Force to practice over Charlevoix.

"I don't exactly like the cracks in the walls," MRS. JOHN BASCOM, Norwood, said. Mrs. Bascom added that she doesn't mind the booms because they are necessary to the nation's strength and she has gotten used to them.

MRS. EDWARD J. BEENE, Ironton, said she "kind of misses them when they stop." The flights, she said, are something useful in our country so we shouldn't mind them. Mrs. Beene pointed out she lived near Detroit before moving to Ironton and sort of "missed the planes when we came up here." She's glad to have them back and know that when we hear them it is because they are protecting us.

The Air Force was commended by FLOYD BLACK of Marion Center Road for scheduling the flights so they will end in early summer. They got to practice, someplace, he told the Courier. "You get used to them after while so they don't bother you," he said.

MRS. JOHN WITTE, 213 W. Huribut, said she would rather have them "up there looking after us" than not have the noise. "I just like to know they're up there," she added. Mrs. Witte doesn't feel the noise the planes cause does any real harm. "I think it's a good thing," she said.

The sonic booms are very hard on people with jittery nerves, MRS. ED THORP, 209 Meech, said. Mrs. Thorp said the booms startle her so much she drops dishes. "But I know our country is on the ball when they are going over and looking over us," she added. For people with calmer nerves Mrs. Thorp doesn't feel the planes cause any discomfort. Though she said the booms cause her some personal grief, and she feels the Air Force could fly somewhere else: Mrs. Thorp did not say she wants them to leave.

"They don't bother me a bit," MRS. CHUCK CAREY of Carey's Boot Shop, said. "If it's something that's going to be here why should we get upset about it?" she asked. "I think everyone got used to them real fast. And, they are beautiful when they fly over. Everyone stops and looks at them."

"The noise bothers some people, but it is just one of those things we have to put up with," MRS. BERT WARNER, 106 Robinson said. She added the booms do not bother her and she has no complaints on them. They must be necessary or the Air Force wouldn't be doing it, she said.

OUR READERS Write

Beaver Need Protection

TO THE EDITOR:

Although I seldom take pen in hand to protest against anything, your article in the March 19 Courier on beaver trappers has raised some questions in my mind.

Years ago, when we lived in a wilderness type area, this was a business and a necessary one as beaver and other skins became important clothing items to keep a person warm. Now this is no longer needed, in fact the limit of a beaver island and 4 on the mainland would not even provide a smart jacket for mild.

IN YOUR EDITORIAL of the same paper you encourage citizens to accept the challenge of change, namely to put out the welcome mat to Midwest Airways in the hopes of expanding opportunities for Charlevoix citizens. I am in favor of this for Charlevoix as it denotes progress, but by the same token I am in favor of dropping those practices which really only benefit a very few and in this case decimate the beaver population. Furthermore, you are reproducing themselves and thereby possibly in the case of female beaver taking more than one. They are over the years, decreasing in numbers so before it is too late let us do something to prevent this happening, at least in Charlevoix and on Beaver Island.

Calls for Return to Teaching Only 3-R's

To the Editor:

Please print following your paper viz:

Am very much amused, but not surprised, by Guest Editorial March 19 issue, which reads in part, by poll taken Nationally, among High Schools Seniors, with the result 62 percent stated a business could run without profit. This points out the flaw in Higher Education as it is today. I believe a teacher should teach the three R's and subjects that arise in our way of living, and that there is too much amusements, and unnecessary activities in our schools.

ASK A HIGH School student, Quote: If eggs were selling for 45 cents a dozen how much would three cost? Or if Coal was selling for $20 a ton how much 150 pounds cost? Or how much is 6/8 of a dollar. See how long it would take him to give a correct answer without pencil or paper. Several students tried guessing several times and admitted they GAVE UP. These are all third or fourth grade questions. What is WRONG? Still these same students know all the latest dances, baseball, football, basketball, etc.

I do not believe a raise in the teachers pay would help the student, I do not think it advisable to employ a college graduate to teach the first 8 grades, a 12th grader would be satisfactory. If the teacher actually taught the three R's instead of unnecessary subjects, they may never need in their lives. A college Degree does not necessarily mean they know more. I would hate to have a college degree man, doctor, fix my car, build my house, or do my plumbing, if he did not have EXPERIENCE, therefore I say teach what we will need in living, the playing comes naturally.

If a person can do the work that is what counts not the school degree if they do not teach the three R's sufficiently, there will be many students waving diplomas that don't mean a thing.

Good Reading
TO THE EDITOR:

I have been reading the Courier with great interest. I notice great improvement in many places. There is much good reading in it, such as Rambling, Fran Martin's column and Rev. Kohn, among many more we enjoy. All the photos of happenings and some folks add much to the interest. Keep up the good work.

Airmen Have Impact On Charlevoix Area

The increased cost of living, these people, however, are typical service people and adjust to their surroundings. Today you will find their children in local schools or playing in the other youngsters in the park; many wives may be found in local offices and other places of employment; one is a teacher at the elementary school here, and will find Air Force parents at P.T.A. meetings and other community events and you will see in attendance at most of Charlevoix's many churches.

Though the Air Force wives have an organization that meets regularly, the families are, in most instances, completely integrated with many friends among local and area residents. Many make friends with Coast Guard families who have been a part of this community for many years.

hopes where they find it less expensive to prepare their own meals, to entertain and to live like the rest of their fellow airmen. They work on a shift basis and as a result find it easier to sleep, because of their erratic hours, in their own quarters.

Though Charlevoix has played host to Air Force personnel from Bay Shore site for nearly 10 months, few people realize that they are some of the most select men in military uniform.

Men attached to the unit have all been "schooling in ground electronics" and are highly skilled in a technical field. Lt. Edmund Taggart, one of the three commissioned officers attached to the Detachment, pointed out.

According to Lt. Col. Joseph C. King, the men are of a "much higher caliber," as far as skill level goes, than at most military installations.

Several of the unit's non-commissioned officers have been in radar bomb scoring units since this phase of the Air Force was established in the mid-1940's. This, Lt. Taggart said, makes them a part of a very small but select group.

SINCE THE SITE does not maintain its own quarters, commissary and other facilities, non-technical personnel is not required.

Though some of the men and their families miss the social life and economic advantages of a large military installation, they try to compensate by joining in community affairs. Lt. Taggart stated.

The unit personnel have been extended the use of the Charlevoix gymnasium; they have joined bowling teams. The Air Force has made available to them two outboard motor boats on trailers, fishing tackle, golf clubs and other recreation equipment. Perhaps this summer they will have their own softball team. One thing is certain, youngsters of Air Force families will participate in the softball and swimming programs as well as in other recreational events planned for community youngsters.

Charlevoix has been a service town of sorts since the first Life-Saving Station was built here nearly 75 years ago. Since this became the homeport of the Cutter Sundew in June 1958 and the site of the 12th Detachment, 10th Radar Bomb Scoring Squadron, in 1963 it has become a real service town.

THIS HAS DONE much to bolster the economy not only in Charlevoix but in the entire area. It has brought people to this community from throughout the United States, thus speaking the fame of this northern Michigan city and making it the most cosmopolitan in the north.

A Lift for Living

Supreme Business of Life is Taking Care of Our Soul

By REV. HAROLD E. KOHN

Some time ago a cartoon appeared in a national magazine showing a very little boy attempting to lead a huge St. Bernard dog on a leash. The dog was persistently protesting and insisted upon trying to drag the boy off in the opposite direction. The lad suddenly braced his feet, turned upon the dog and angrily exclaimed: "Let's get this straight! You are my dog, I'm not your boy."

Some such sacred stubbornness as the boy showed is needed by all of us. We are often hauled off in some direction we should not go by powers unworthy to be our leaders. Some of these leaders are in politics, some in education, some in religion and some in entertainment, but most often they are INSIDE US. The beasts that tug us away from our best course are our selfishness, vulgar wishes, untamed emotions, primal passions, fears, hostilities and all those other inner refusals to be what we ought to be and do what we know is best. We need the perspective of the lad with the dog, so that the soul will say to every other aspect of our human nature, "Now, let's get this straight. You belong to me and not I to you." Soul is master here. It is the ongoing thing, the lasting reality, and should be in control.

THE WORD "SOUL" is a rich old word that is heard too seldom these days excepting in poetry and religion. Perhaps the reason for its rare use now is that it has had so many meanings that we cannot be certain which definition another person has in mind when he is using the word; therefore the word has been dropped from some people's vocabulary for clarity's sake. Primitive people thought of soul as a shadowy, misty replica of the body, much like breath. It was capable of leaving the body during sleep and returning before a person awakened. Many Greek philosophers understood the soul to be a man's essence, his life, consciousness and intelligence. Plato believed the soul existed before the body, and Aristotle taught that the body's purpose is to exist for the soul's use.

The Biblical use of the word "soul" varies from passage to passage. In the Old Testament it basically means the life principle of the living being, and it has much the same significance as our word "self," being the center of urges, emotions and purposes. The New Testament word "psyche" often translated "soul" usually means the inner vitality, the life of a person that is hidden within the body, but expressed through the choices and the place where the destiny-determining decisions are made. This does a prosperous man use the word "soul" in the Gospel of Luke (Luke 12:15-21). His crops have been abundant and his barns and barns have overflowed with harvest. "And he said, I will do this: I will pull down my barns, and build larger ones, and there I will store all my grain and my goods. And I will say to my soul, Soul, you have ample goods laid up for many years; take your ease, eat, drink and be merry." But God said to him, "Fool! This night your soul is required of you. . . . That man's soul was the essential substance, the decision-making part of the man that determined what would happen to his crops, his barns and his life and his destiny. The soul is that essential selfhood that is intended to lead all other aspects of our lives. We get into trouble when life's other aspects lead the soul, when more crops and more barns lead us away from God, for example.

LONG AGO, WILLIAM James of Harvard insisted in his lectures that the body appears to be more of an instrument anything else. It is to be used by the mind as a man uses a tool. Observation provides abundant evidence that James was right. When wisely used, the body serves the higher inner nature. We use eyes to see with, hands to feel and to work with, lips to speak with. We command our feet to "Go there" and if all is well with us, our feet go where they are told. The purpose of an athlete drives his body to astonishing lengths, so that long after the body is fatigued from running, the miller continues to run. After the body is tired of swimming the competitive swimmer swims on. The bone-tired doctor watching over his gravely ill patient denies his body rest, and the body obeys the physician's high intent.

The supreme business of life is to see that the soul is healthy and controlled by the consciousness of God; and that the soul makes the best use of the body to advance the soul's high purposes and to fulfill its glorious possibilities. Then our primal passions become the servants of our souls rather than their masters; spirit triumphs over wayward urges of the flesh; holiness over sin, trust over fear, love over hostility, hope over discouragement, joy over misery and eternal life becomes victorious over time and death.

One of life's pivotal decisions comes when a soul says to the body "Let's get this straight. You belong to me, not I to you. . . . we both belong to God."

If Someone Knocks On Your Door And Asks You To Change Your Heating System Ask Him These Questions

1. Will your heating fuel cost more than my present fuel oil heat?
2. Will they guarantee in writing that it won't cost more?
3. Will I have to install storm windows and insulation to meet your cost estimate?
4. Will my heating supply be cut off, if due to loss of job or sickness, I am unable to pay my heating bill when due; or, will it continue during the emergency period as is the present situation with my fuel oil supply.
5. Will you guarantee in writing the BTU content of the natural gas delivered?
6. By using modern oil heat, I am free to buy both fuel and service where I choose. If I am displeased with your heating fuel or service, can I change to another supplier?
7. My oil fuel gives me plenty of hot water fast? Can your system match this?
8. Will you give me a written guarantee that heating costs under your system will not exceed your estimate.

Big Question On Track Team

Except for a few thinclads who have proven themselves on the track or in the fields, this year's Rayder squad is untried, track coach Del Terrill said this week in discussing the team's chances for the season.

Auto Boom Shared by Charlevoix

Charlevoix County shared in Michigan's greatest automotive year, 1963. Secretary of State James M. Hare reports.

Hare said the state collected nearly $80 million in taxes and fees directly related to the boom in auto sales.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY had 5,381 passenger car registrations and nearly 3,000 on other vehicles, for a total of 8,033 motor vehicles registered in 1963.

The county took in $127,465 in taxes and fees for automobile registrations, sales and use taxes on vehicles and titles, transfers and operator's licenses.

The state registered a total of 3,147,747 cars, an increase of more than 130,000.

Charlevoix County's 5,381 passenger car registrations compares to 4,347 in Antrim County, 6,569 in Emmet County, 3,143 in Otsego County, and 5,538 in Cheboygan County. The high and low counties in the state are Wayne County with 1,011,683 and Keweenaw with 294.

With a track meet scheduled for Thursday the boys have been out only three times and that was in mid-March before the snows came, he said. He went on to say that nearly the entire squad is untried, at this early date. However, he did name aspirants and the events in which they would likely participate today.

88 yd. run: John Ochs, Bob Odmark, Bob Bergmann, Dave Smith, Del Terrill, Eric Drost, Bob Foster, Don Potter, Hal Hill, Dick Kenney, Perry Oswald.

IN THE MILE WILL be Bruce Kroken, Vance Wood, Dick Getz, Mike Arbuckle, Floyd Parsons, John Duerr, Ed Holm, Gary Young, Mike Moore, Larry Feindt, Roger Grunich, Andy Peters, Gary Plumm.

Candidates for the shotput will be Larry Edwards, Gary Zipp, Rick Grunich, Melvin Matchett, Winnell, Tom Maxwell, Foster, Jack Bergmann and Aaron Bruck.

McBRIDE, WHO SET a new league and regional record in the pole vault last season will head the list of four candidates for this event. The others are Dave Smith, Lusk and Steve Smith.

Today's meet will be the first of 14 meets scheduled for the current season.

At 4 p.m. Tuesday the Rayders will host a triangular meet with Harbor Springs and East Jordan at Kipke Field.

Rambling

SPRING ALWAYS seems to be a surprise. I am never ready for it, or able to believe it's as good as it is.

Most everything else in life turns out to be just a shade less than we expected. A good steak never tastes quite as good as we thought it would, a weekly newspaper editor is never satisfied with the paper, a new dress is seldom everything it was supposed to be, and etc.

But with spring it seems to be just the opposite. For months we've been looking forward to it. Yet when it came last week, not did anyone really remember it as being as wonderful as it is.

Clare Staley expressed it pretty well Saturday evening: "I couldn't live away from these lakes!"

Wouldn't it be awful to become so grown-up you accepted spring as stoically as you do the lumps in life?

THE TRAGEDY of the week was the up to 15 year prison term received by 16 year old Richard Mapes of Boyne City. Circuit Judge Charles L. Brown and the police can in no way be held responsible for the wretched future this young teenager faces. If Judge Brown had any other choice he would have used it. He spent long hours trying to find another solution.

Unfortunately our society and government doesn't offer one. We've learned how to do all sorts of wonderful things. Maybe soon we'll be able to cure cancer. But we're no nearer to knowing how to make good guys out of bad guys than we've ever been.

MRS. JAY ORDWAY was in Saturday morning to tell us about a group of boys having "the first picnic of the year" at South Point. She thought it would make a dandy picture and was thoughtful enough to let us know.

Unfortunately when I finally got away, the boys had finished their sandwiches and gone. Hope they had a good time. And thank you Mrs. Ordway. We appreciate people passing along picture ideas and feel like loaves when we can't take advantage of them.

A COUPLE OF AREA weekly newspaper editors have been singing the martyr's lament because a daily newspaper had the audacity to stick its nose in their towns.

It always pains me a little to see fellow editors sniffing all over their readers about competition. Putting out a better paper is the answer. But it's probably easier to sit back and coast than to go to work and give your readers the kind of coverage a daily can't match.

Staebler Calls for More Tourist Advertising

North Giving More Votes To Democrats

The need for more tourist industry advertising and gains by Democrats in northern Michigan were cited by Neil Staebler Sunday at a press conference in Charlevoix.

Staebler, congressman-at-large, is bidding for nomination as Democrat candidate for governor. So far he is unopposed.

HE WAS IN Charlevoix to address a county Democrat dinner at the Argonne Sunday afternoon.

County Democrat chairman George LaBlance said the dinner was the biggest party function of its kind in history, with tickets costing from $5 to $8 and 150 persons attending.

Staebler answered questions asked by the Courier at a pre-dinner meeting in the LaBlance home on Park Ave. Highlights of the interview included:

• Redistricting congressional and legislative districts on a 100-percent population formula will cause hardships.

• Democrats are gaining more of the vote in Charlevoix County, and all of the northern Lower Peninsula.

• The tourist industry is underdeveloped and underadvertised, both on the state and local level.

• He will do more campaigning in the northern lower than other Democrat gubernatorial candidates have.

AT NO TIME during the 45-minute interview was Staebler sharply critical of Republican Gov. George Romney. When he did make mildly critical comments about Romney he referred to him as "the present governor."

"We should capitalize on the romance of the Great Lakes," Staebler said. Other states, he added, have developed one or two specific tourist attractions to the point (Continued on Page 2)

School to Ask Voters For 3/4-Mill Increase

Charlevoix school district voters will be asked in June to authorize a three-quarters of a mill increase in the tax levy.

The Board of Education Monday moved unanimously to put the proposal on the June 8 school election ballot.

IN CONJUNCTION with the action, board members unanimously adopted a $31,572, balanced budget for 1964-65. The budget is based on voters approving the millage increase.

Supt. Rex Milligan said the millage hike would mean the school district's tax rate will go up from last year's $13.99 per thousand of equalized valuation to $14.65 per thousand.

The budget, which is dependent on voter approval of the millage increase, is $29,000 higher than this year's $402,000.

This, Milligan said, will be received from the higher operating millage, increased property valuation in the district and more state aid.

MAJOR INCREASES in the budget are $4,200 for capital outlay, $4,200 for teachers salaries, $20,000 for deficit payment and $7,500 for increased faculty.

Mrs. C. Smith PTA President

Mrs. Clarence Smith was elected Charlevoix P.T.A. president at the April meeting in the high school cafeteria Wednesday.

Other officers named are: first vice president, Rev. George L. Majors; second vice president, Mrs. Ralph McRae; secretary, Mrs. Dale Buss; treasurer, Mrs. Maurice Dixon.

A REPORT ON THE results of the annual Fair held in February revealed that the fund-raising projects had netted $1,018, plus an inventory of $25 worth of merchandise, which has been stored for use at next year's event.

Mrs. Smith will succeed Franklin Boss as P.T.A. president.

The new officers will be installed at the May meeting in the elementary school cafeteria, May 6. The program will be on "Vocational Education."

COMMENT - Though a visitor might not be convinced, spring has arrived in Charlevoix. Temperatures soared to the 70's under clear skies last weekend. Monday and Tuesday it did a turnabout and pounded Charlevoix with winds gusting up to 55 mph. This morning it's cool and rather dreary.

Sneathen Gets Third Term as County's Chief

See Need to Put Life in Library

The Board of Education Monday set teachers salaries and described the public library's interior as "deader than dead."

Teachers salaries for 1964-65 were approved with no increases over the pay schedule adopted last year.

DURING a lengthy discussion of the library, board member Dale Boss said the interior of the building is "deader than dead."

MRS. L. T. HOOPER, board member and chairman of the Library Advisory Committee, said there is increasing demand for improvements to the library's inside appearance.

"People are becoming increasingly aware of the dearthiness," Mrs. Hooper said. "As people who haven't been in the library for a long time, read the list of new books (in the Courier) and come in they are commenting on it."

The library committee, Mrs. Hooper told board members, feels non-essential work on the exterior of the building should be put off and more money devoted to the interior.

BOSS SAID the entire inside of the library should be redecorated and new lights put in to "liven it up."

He also urged the board to take (Continued on Page 2)

Airmail from Charlevoix can reach either the east or west coast by morning of the day after it's mailed, due to new connections. -Postmaster Pete Timmer reports.

Timmer last week said the post office has made an airmail connection out of Pellston that makes this new service possible.

HOWEVER, MAIL must be submitted to the post office no later than Noon to get this service, Timmer added.

DAVID C. McPHERSON, 19, of Boyne City, was sentenced to from 9 to 12 months in the County Jail for driving under the influence of alcohol.

ARCHIE WASHGESIC, 41, of Charlevoix was sentenced to six months in the County Jail for probation violation. Washgesic was arrested last week, one day after he finished serving a four month term for furnishing alcoholic beverages to minors.

CONSEQUENTLY, THE board is asking for 1 mill more than it received for operation this year. This will only total .75 of a mill in the total tax levy because debt retirement millage will be reduced from this year's .312 to .314. (Continued on Page 2)

Will Head County Bd. For Year

Annual Meeting Will Last Week

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors has re-elected Lee Sneathen, Jr., to his third term as chairman.

Sneathen was re-elected to the post he has held for two years in the board's first action Tuesday morning.

TWENTY-TWO OF Charlevoix County's 25 supervisors met for their annual meeting in the County Building Tuesday. First order of business was electing a chairman for 1964-65.

Sneathen, Hayes Township Supervisor, received 15 of the 22 votes cast for chairman. A farmer, Sneathen was elected to his township's top post on the Democrat ticket.

Others nominated for county chairman were Joseph Topolinski of Boyne Valley Township and John Kujawski of Boyne City. Topolinski received four votes and Kujawski two.

Harry Gebeau, City of Charlevoix supervisor and grocery store owner, was re-elected Board of Supervisors vice-chairman. Kujawski received eight votes for vice-chairman and Gebeau 13.

REV. ROBERT HARRISON, of the Charlevoix Congregational Church gave the invocation.

Supervisors will meet daily for the rest of the week. Major items of business will be review of expenditures from all county departments and reports from townships.

Sneathen named the following committee chairmen:

Agriculture: Clyde Cunningham, Marion Township.

Conservation: John E. Connaghan, Peaine Township.

County Roads: Larry Matthew, Melrose Township.

Claims: William Vrondran, Jr., Wilson Township.

Await OK on Harbor Plans

A plan to build slips for 26 more boats on the City's Round Lake harbor has been submitted to the Michigan Waterways Commission.

Engineers estimate the cost will run between $100,000 and $150,000. Of this the Waterways Commission will pay at least half, if they approve the plans.

IN ADDITION to 13 new piers, extending from the foot of Clinton St. to the commercial docks, the plan calls for construction of a 1,200 square foot service building for yachtsmen.

The building would provide toilet, laundry, shower and lounge facilities for boatmen. Added waterfront parking space and landscaping is also included in the plan.

Councilmen last week discussed the possibility of making it illegal for yachtsmen to operate their high-speed toilet facilities while in the harbor here.

Staebler Urges Promotion

where they are undoubtedly included with this state throughout the nation.

Instead of doing this Michigan has an incoordinated program with no standard attraction.

The said Michigan does not have a comprehensive picture of its tourist attractions to show people, which hinders it from doing a selling job.

MICHIGAN, STAEBLER said, spends far less per capita advertising its tourist attractions than the other major tourist states.
Some states, he pointed out, spend as much as 80 cents per capita on tourist advertising, while Michigan only spends 10 cents.

No industry is clearly going to boom and develop as is the tourist business, he added. This should cause state and local tourist leaders to be thinking in terms of needs in 1980 and 2000.

Moreover, Staebler said, has given recognition to these needs. However, he does not feel Romney has been persuasive enough in requesting more money for advertising and development.

IF HE IS ELECTED governor,
Staebler said he would favor improving and expanding state park conglomerates, fishing sites, historical sites, and other public land purchases.

He also feels that the state should step up its program to match local municipalities in building tourist attractions—such as docks and parks—where there will be a sound investment.

NEIL STAEBLER
REDISTRICTING

Redistricting congressional and legislative districts on a strictly population basis will make it hard for representatives and candidates to get around to their constituents, Staebler said. "Geography is significant," he added.

This will be especially true if the Upper Peninsula and portions of the lower — including Charlevoix County — are combined in one district, as proposed. The U.P. in spite of its sparse population, should be one district, Staebler said.

Michigan Democrats, under the leadership of minor leader, Gus Schille have denounced this district as formed with equal population the only consideration. Private courts have recently upheld their arguments.

DEMOCRAT GAINS
The Democratic party is gaining in Charlevoix, and other outstate regions, he said. Where some areas of the state were once "lost" Republican only one is now as much as 2:1.

Staebler attributes this to more interest in politics and government and the fact that it has become more sophisticated and respectable. People are no longer blindly following their "inherited" political tendencies, he added.

We said national progress of the Democratic party that help depressed areas and people with the most need are gaining support in rural areas. He cited area development, small business loans, help for the unemployed, and efforts to get hospital insurance for the aged.

EDUCATION
"Property taxes have become a burden and are going to get worse under the present governor's program," Staebler said.

He declared the state should support burgeoning costs of education through income taxes. Republicans, he said, are "confusing responsibility with burden."

Despite the optimistic national picture, the country and Michigan face serious problems in the next few years.

There has been a disturbing tendency of the present Republican administration in Lansing to obscure our areas of need under a haze of economic superlatives.

NOW IS THE TIME to make use of our economic growth; to turn it into a weapon against unemployment, poverty and second-rate education.

Despite the claims of progress coming out of the Governor's office, Michigan has dropped from a leader to a follower in the field of higher education.

We are faced with 57,000 new students each year in our public schools; we need 2,400 classrooms just to keep up; we have shortage of 6,450 classrooms. In addition to this, the burden of the support of public education continues to fall more and more upon local communities.

Jobs and education are tied closely together.

THE BABY BOOM which followed World War II is now having an impact at the college-age level. The number of young people reaching 18 will jump nearly 50 percent between now and next year—from 2.6 million a year to 3.8 million a year.

Compounding the problem is the fact that at the time when more jobs are needed, we actually are seeing a decline in demand for untrained and inexperienced labor.

We must act now, not only to meet the educational needs of our expanding 18-year-old group, but to provide even greater educational opportunities.

We have the means and there is no excuse today for allowing our educational standards to decline.

THE FEDERAL government has reacted to its responsibility with the passage of programs to aid medical education, higher educational construction, and expansion of vocational education.

Michigan must accept its responsibility to take action balancing its economic resources against its mounting educational requirements.

next year.

If the Board of Education fails to reduce the deficit next year by $20,000 all of the money raised by the proposed millage hike would go for that purpose. One mill in tax levy raises $1,000 on every $1 million of valuation.

The district has a deficit of approximately $59,000. This year's budget is expected to balance, causing no increase to the deficit.

Figuring the average home has an equalized valuation of $5,000, the increased millage for school operation would be 3.75 a year more in school taxes.

DARRELL DINWIDDIE, board president, said the Citizens Advisory Committee recommended the board ask voters for the 75-mill increase. According to Dinwiddie the committee was unanimous in its recommendation.

Dinwiddie said committee members felt that though the school might need more money than it is asking for, voters would not be receptive.

Supt. Milligan said pamphlets explaining the millage issue will be prepared and sent to each voter.

Opens Season

10 Days Early

The 1964 navigation season between Beaver Island and the mainland at Charlevoix opened Friday, 10 days ahead of 1963, according to James W. Gallagher, manager of the Beaver Island Boat Co.

Fields of drift ice outside the harbor and ice in the bay at St.
James kept the motor ship, Beaver Islander, at its winter berth several years after it was loaded and readied for the initial trip of the season.

GROCERIES, BARRELS of diesel fuel oil and building supplies made up the first load to the island which had been dependent on air service since Dec. 31 when the ferry made its last trip of the season.

In preparation for the present season the vessel overhauled and painted while at the dock there.

The ferry will operate three days weekly, Monday, Wednesday and Friday, weather permitting, until May 1 when it will run daily except Sunday. The craft will operate out of St. James harbor, arriving here at 11 a.m. and departing at 1 p.m. until its summer schedule becomes effective in mid-June. At that time it will begin operation out of Charlevoix.

PTA Hears Explanation Of Special Education

By FRANK MARTIN

The purpose of a Special Education District is to establish a financial base whereby programs may be provided in schools with the assurance that their cost will be reimbursed with state monies, Charles A. Robinson, Supt. of the Charlevoix - Emmet Intermediate School District, told the Charlevoix P.T.A. last week.

He went on to say that up to 75 per cent of the cost of the majority of the programs available under special education can be reimbursed if the Intermediate District gives it stability through the approval of the Special Education District.

BECAUSE THESE monies are available and because the programs they provide would mean so much to children in the two-county district, the Charlevoix - Emmet Intermediate District board of education voted to place the proposal on the ballot in the school election in June. The proposal will ask for the adoption of a Special Education District and up to one-half mill to underwrite its cost.

If voters approve the proposal to establish a Special Education District, Robinson said, programs likely to be approved at once would provide four speech correctionists, two visiting teachers who would work with students, teachers and parents to solve various problems and provide a program for the last segment of district to gain assistance, the mentally handicapped.

In dollars and cents, the one-half mill would cost up to 50 cents on every $1,000 valuation, $2.50 on property valued at $5,000, or $5 on property valued at $10,000, he explained. It could result in reimbursement of $3 for every $1 of local money spent. Certainly this is an excellent return on money invested to aid children who need it most, those who are handicapped in some way, Robinson added.

Harry Scheid, Emmet County speech correctionist, spoke of the speech correction program now provided in Emmet County and added that "when you consider that six million Americans have a speech handicap, 2 1/2 million of them with relatively serious problems, this becomes a serious situation." After speaking briefly on the program, he played a tape of children with various types of impediments and explained how each was being helped.

ROBINSON CLOSED the meeting with a few remarks including the fact that 47 counties have taken advantage of the Special Education District to obtain assistance in providing these and many other programs for children, and others are vying to establish Special Education Districts as they re-organize.

PRECAUTION The sun should never be observed directly through a telescope, even if the eye is protected by a darkened glass. Instruments that are used by astronomers, otherwise their eyesight would be impaired.

Brownies to Fete Fathers

Charlevoix's Brownie Scouts will entertain their fathers and "fathers-by-proxy" at the annual Father and Daughter banquet to be held at the high school cafeteria at 6:30 p.m. Friday.

Each Brownie will provide a box lunch for herself and her guest. The dinner will be served at tables decorated by the various troops.

CHRISTY HAMILTON of Cadette troop 264 will be mistress of ceremonies for the brief program which will include a flag ceremony by Troop 260, group singing led by Becky Gallagher and Betty Brown of the Cadette troop and special entertainment by Brownie Troops 261 and 266. Troop leaders and troop committee members will be introduced.

The Rev. George L. Majors will give the invocation. The dinner will close with the Juliette Low fund march and the singing of taps.

Other members of Cadette Troop 264 will serve coffee during the dinner.

Farmer, Dieter, Builder?

By ED REBMAN, Extension Director

BOYNE CITY — Regardless of whether you live in the city, town or country, there is a multitude of valuable information available for you at the Charlevoix County Cooperative Extension Office here.

They have information covering nearly all topics from appliances through zoning regulations available free of charge — or in some cases, for a slight fee — in the form of bulletins and pamphlets.

AND NOT ALL the information is of interest just to the farmer. There is plenty of information for the homemaker, the do-it-yourself, amateur gardener, youngsters and other interested groups.

For instance, if you were looking for information on starting a new lawn, lighting the patio, paving the driveway, controlling weeds in the lawn, starting a vegetable garden or cooking outdoors, it's available at the extension office.

They also have information for the housewife wondering how to select T-shirts for junior, what to look for when purchasing a new clothes dryer, or refrigerator, stretching the food dollar, counting calories or just nutritionally balancing the family's meals.

There is also information on building codes, milk ranching, part-time farming, growing Christmas trees, sweet corn, raising bees and many other items.

FOR THE FARMER, there is information on nearly any agricultural subject such as building new barns, problems of dairying near cities, determining interest rates for loans, controlling weeds, raising apples and many other problems.

Information for youngsters in getting started in farming, selecting a career, drawing up a father and son operating agreement or just taking care of the family house is also available.

The county office also has a listing of all available publications prepared and issued by the Cooperative Extension Service and Agricultural Experiment Station at Michigan State University which are available through their office.

A total of 11,191 such bulletins and pamphlets were distributed to county residents last year from this office.

Ellsworth Play Set Fri., Sat.

ELLSWORTH — The Ellsworth High School junior class will present the comedy, "Inner Willy" at the gymnasium 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday nights.

Under the direction of Mrs. Sandra Sivits, the play relates the antics of the "inner self" of a well behaved young man, Willoughby Adams, played by John Hastings, whose inner self will be played by Walter Kooyer. What happens when the inner self takes command of young Adams and the difficulties this causes him results in an unbelievable series of events, that provides many laughs for play-goers.

OTHER MEMBERS of the cast are Patsy Sitzema, Nancy Peebles, Darlene Klooster, Judy Shooks, Carl Goeman, Marvin Vandenberg, Janice Evans, Joyce Campau and Diane VanderArk.

Mary Beth Wallack is student manager for the presentation, which may be seen on both Friday and Saturday evenings.

City to Sell Fuel Tanks

Though uncertain, but aware, of public sentiment against selling portions of the electric utility plant, City Council last week voted five to one to dispose of 20,000 fuel oil drums.

"If we have absolutely no use for them then we should get rid of them. There certainly can't be any criticism of that," Dr. Walter Hoffmann said. It was Hoffmann's first council meeting since being elected April 6.

COUNCILMAN WILLIAM Fochtman said they should "beware of public sentiment against selling portions of the plant." Unless the city gets top dollar for the tanks, Fochtman said, selling them is not worth the controversy it could create.

It was pointed out the city has two 40,000 gallon tanks at the plant in addition to the 20,000 gallon tanks.

A minimum bid of $500 for each 20,000-gallon tank was set. Bids must be submitted by April 20.

The motion to sell was made by Robert Neff and supported by Don Parsel. Fochtman was the only councilman to vote against selling.

Cutter to Cutter in Rescue

The Coast Guard Cutter Sundew, commanded by Cmdr. F. J. Mann, returned to port late Sunday after assisting in pulling its grounded sister ship, the Cutter Mesquite out of Sturgeon Bay, Wis., from 11 Foot Shoal 8 1/2 miles south of Escanaba.

The ship went aground on the shoal at mid-afternoon Friday while setting buoys in the area. A Roen Shipbuilding Co. tug the John Purvis, dispatched to assist the disabled vessel, also went aground. The cutter Sundew departed this harbor at midnight Friday to assist in the operation, arriving at 7 a.m. Saturday.

TIE SUNDew, AFTER snapping several hawsers, successfully pulled the Purvis from the shoal about 3 p.m. Saturday and then assisted the vessel in the removal of the grounded cutter from the shoal at 9:05 p.m. Saturday.

The Purvis towed the disabled Mesquite to Escanaba for emergency repairs before towing it to the shipyard at Sturgeon Bay where it will be placed in drydock to repair the 12 ft. gash in its side and the damage done by water that flooded engine room and other sections of the ship.

The cutter Sundew shared its food and other supplies with the men aboard the Mesquite when the latter's food storage compartments were damaged in the crash, thus discrediting the news release that the crew of the Mesquite had gone hungry during the operation.

The Sundew anchored off Escanaba Saturday night before docking Sunday to pick up a hawser and pump from the Mesquite. The ship then departed for Charlevoix, arriving here at 5:15 p.m. Sunday. The Cutter Woodbine, which joined in the operation, was dispatched to Grand Haven earlier in the day.

Extend Kohn Award to All County Students

The Harold E. Kohn award, made annually to a high school graduate preparing for a church-related career, will be available to graduates of any high school in Charlevoix County following action by the administering committee, Mrs. Charles A. Duerr, chairman, reports.

Until now it has been available only to graduates of Charlevoix High School.

THE AWARD MAY be granted to an applicant of any Protestant denomination without reference to financial aid. To be eligible, an applicant must be a graduate of a high school within the county, a "B" student based on grade average for the 11th and 12th grades, or have a high recommendation by the faculty, and must be accepted as a student at a degree-granting college or university.

Any recipient of this award may expect it to continue at the rate of $500 per year as long as they are in college and career plans remain unchanged.

Former graduates of county high schools may make application any time during their college career. Final decision on applications rests with the administering committee.

THE AWARD WAS established four years ago by one of the women's groups of the Congregational church, which continues to support it.

Anyone wishing more information regarding the award may ask their minister, high school principal or contact Mrs. Duerr at 209 Dixon Ave., Charlevoix, phone 547-2603.

town newspapers will start asking the government to guarantee them to an exclusive franchise. Radio and TV do it now. Experience has shown me the biggest and wealthiest daily newspapers can't hold a candle to in-depth reporting and local news by a weekly paper. So, it doesn't seem unbelievable that any weekly editor would concern himself about competition from northern Michigan's low-editorial budget, poorly staffed daily papers.

Neel Staebler's visit to Charlevoix County was a good example. Agree with him or not, Staebler is news. He set aside 45 minutes Sunday afternoon to meet with county newspapermen. Only one figured his readers were worth taking time out of a beautiful Sunday afternoon to get the story from Staebler.

As his party left the George LaBarge home, he stood looking out over Lake Michigan. Asked if he was going back to Washington early this week he answered in the affirmative. But, with emphasis from a sigh, he remarked he sure envied those of us who could remain in Charlevoix.

KEN STALEY was handing out a little booklet the other day, titled "Etiquette of the State and Stripes". You ought to ask him for one.
Now that Ken's retired from City Council it would seem that he should have plenty of time to show a newspaper editor, where those big bass are he's always talking about.

Firm May Hire 100

The still very tentative possibility that an electronic assembly plant, employing between 50 and 100 local people, was discussed by Councilmen at last week's meeting.

Council has indicated it will earmark two acres of land in the industrial park on M-31 north of town for the firm.

A SPOKESMAN for the proposed plant asked that detailed plans not be revealed until they are more nearly completed.

However, he did say that the plant, if it locates here, will employ between 50 and 100 people. No decision is expected for six months.

The Charlevoix Industrial Development Corp. is working with the firm.

City Attorney John Michael told Councilmen they have never officially earmarked the industrial park property specifically, and only, for that use. He recommended they make such a resolution at a meeting in the near future.

MICHAEL SAID the city has authority to give away, sell or lease the property to an industrial firm.

Winds Lash Charlevoix

Full gale warnings, with winds up to 60 miles an hour that shifted from the southeast to the southwest over a two-day period did extensive damage throughout northwestern Michigan.

In Charlevoix Freedman Aircraft was without power early Tuesday when power lines, leading into the plant, shorted out as they were slapped together by the gusty winds. Tin was torn from the side of Earl Young building at 215 Antism st. and hurled into the street; a large maple tree on Division ave. near the Moonlight Gardens was ripped apart by the wind and the highline between the Bellaire hydro plant and Charlevoix was damaged by the wind.

ELSEWHERE IN THE county more than 2,000 customers of the R.E.A. were without power from 2 to 8 p.m. as all but one of the company's sub-stations were damaged by the storm. In Boyne City the company's office was without lights and emergency generators had to be turned on. Among the patrons without service was the U.S. Air Force R.B.S. site at Bay Shore.

In Boyne City proper Consumers Power Co. lines were out from 1:50 to 4 p.m. Monday.

All marine traffic was halted because of the gale conditions. Fish tugs operating out of Charlevoix, the Beaver Island ferry which now operates out of St. James Harbor and the U.S.C.G. Cutter Snedew which had been scheduled to start setting buoys for the season were all harbor-bound by the storm which subsided late Tuesday.

Shorty Smith Makes First Major Speech

Irving (Shorty) Smith, Boyne City school teacher and the only announced Democratic candidate for the state legislature from this district was on Sunday's dinner program with Neil Staebler.

It was Smith's first major political appearance.

IN ADDITION TO reiterating his intention to run "no matter what district Charlevoix County ends up in," Smith talked with Staebler at a pre-dinner session.

The following is the text of Smith's remarks at the dinner in the Argonne:

Since announcing that I will be a candidate for the State Legislature I have had many people ask me, "Why do you want to get involved in politics?"

I have answered this question with a question. How important is Politics? To me, politics is one of the most important in politics. To me, politics is one of the most important things in our lives. It affects us in our city, our county, our state, and of course in our country. It determines the laws we will obey and the taxes we will pay. It affects us in almost everything we do, from stopping at a stop sign, to paying our income tax.

BECAUSE IT IS SO important I believe we should all get involved in it. I don't mean everyone should run for a political office, but, when election time comes, register, study the facts, the candidates, and then vote. This is an honor and privilege our country has fought to preserve.

I am concerned about our elderly people living here in the north, the state and in all parts of the nation. Some of these elderly people are living on $60.00 and less a month. This is terrible. I don't believe we should let our elderly live under these conditions.

IRVING SMITH

I am also getting involved in politics because I am concerned about our youth. We need to provide an education for those who are not college bound and for those who have dropped out of school. I believe we need to set up a vocational education training program in our state to train these people. The education of our people is what has made and will continue to make this country the greatest in the world.

I am also getting involved in politics because I want to represent the people of the North and try to enact progressive legislation the people living here want.

I HAVE GIVEN you some of my views on the importance of politics in our lives, my concern for the elderly, and the challenge facing us in education.

I would like to close by paraphrasing one of President Kennedy's very famous remarks, "ask not what politics can do for you, ask what you can do for politics."

Big Rock Will Boost Power

After its first full year of actual operation, Charlevoix's Big Rock nuclear power plant is preparing to tackle even bigger challenges during its second year.

Big Rock Supt. L. M. (Lee) Hauser reports the Consumers Power Co. plant will hit its full stride for the first time this summer or fall.

THE PLANT'S EXTERIOR appearance and location on the rugged and secluded Lake Michigan coast have made it a notable symbol of 20th Century man's conquest of nature.

When Jean Nouet to report his 10th day of Lake Michigan today, Big Rock would certainly be one of the most noticeable sights of his expedition. Yet last year, the plant was viewed by 73,000 people.

Since the plant's Information Center was opened in June, 1961 during the plant's construction, it has played host to 227,208 people, Denny Custer, information director reports.

These nearly quarter million people come to Big Rock from all 50 states and many foreign countries. Some of them stopped at Big Rock as a side trip during their vacation in Charlevoix. Others came to the Charlevoix area specifically to see the plant.

CONSUMERS POWER CO. went to elaborate steps to inform visitors and make them feel welcome. The Information Center is considered a model of its kind.

Hauser reports the company found it faced little opposition in the Charlevoix area. In other parts of the nation, pressure groups have caused so much concern about radioactive contamination that nuclear power plant plans have been scrapped.

The plant is directly under the eye of the Atomic Energy Commission (AEC). Elaborate safeguards, that almost seem petty, are taken to protect all Big Rock employees and visitors against radioactive contamination.

AEC inspectors and visitors from other nuclear installations are often amazed at how "clean" the Big Rock plant is of radioactivity, Hauser said.

WATER THAT CIRCULATES within the plant systems and is potentially "contaminated" is collected, monitored for radioactivity and diluted so much before it returned to Lake Michigan, Hauser said.

This is checked regularly by the AEC and health officials. Hauser said the plant is primarily on a research and development mission. This will continue for at least another three years.

Though it feeds power into Consumers' lines when it is operating, the company does not rely on Big Rock. The plant, Hauser said, is too small to be economical. "For Consumers the plant is a way to get into the nuclear business, get its feet wet and learn it."

THE NUCLEAR-POWERED turbine generator is shut down now for overhauling and new parts. When the uranium fuel is once again activated, probably in June, Big Rock will begin the second year— "Phase II"— of its program.

The plant's full potential will be around 75,000 kw. This, Hauser said, is approximately enough to supply the electric needs of everything in the Lower Peninsula north of a line from Ludington to Alpena.

During the first year of operation, Big Rock's maximum production was 50,000 kw. This will be boosted 50 percent under Phase II.

All of the first year's goals were reached, Hauser said. The only real problem was encountered last summer when the plant was shut down for two months. After some modifications in the reactor— requiring work by deep sea divers — it went back into operation and has caused no trouble since.

THE "FUEL (URANIUM) bunnies" are under water in the huge green dome that characterizes the plant.

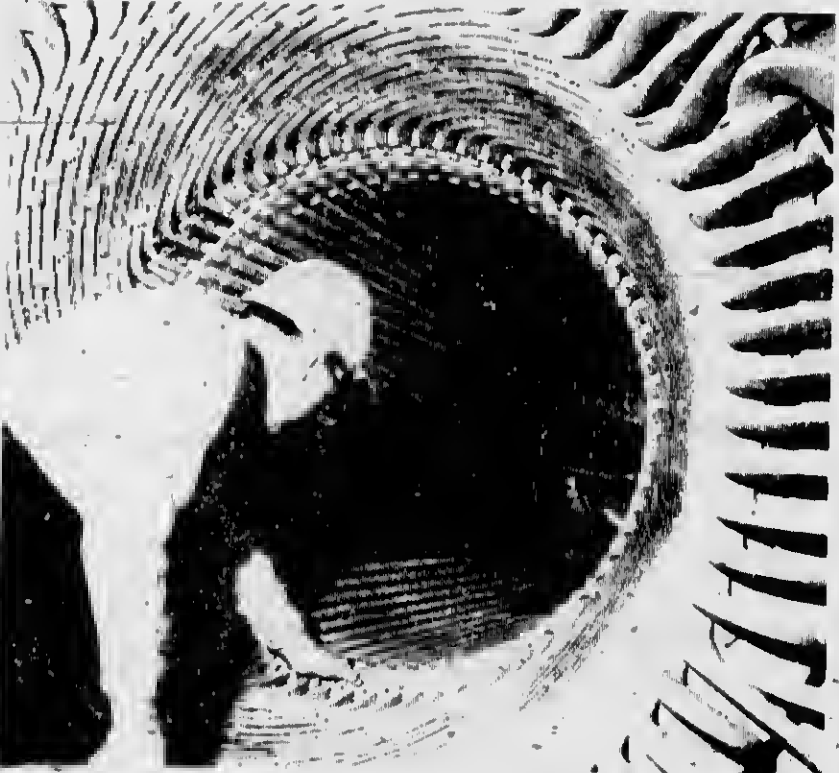

Hauser said all of the original uranium bunnies are still in the reactor and have life in them. When the plant hits full production he estimated it will be necessary to partially reload the plant approximately once a year.

Among the plant's research and development projects is testing of different types of fuel bunnies. Consumers would like to know how uranium can most economically be packaged and used.

The AEC has authorized Big Rock to operate at 75,000 kw until the year 2000, Hauser said.

NUCLEAR AGE DOORS L. M. Hauser, Big Rock Supt., steps out of one of the doors into the reactor portion of the plant. A person must pass through two of these mechanically controlled, full sealing doors to enter or leave the reactor area. The doors open and close by pushing buttons. Red lights blink and horns sound when the doors are being opened. Only one door can be opened at once.

INSPECT TURBINE Inspecting the interior of the turbine's cone is Big Rock Supt. L. M. Hauser. The turbine will be reassembled in June.

Plant Spreads Word Of Area's Beauty

Consumers Power Co.'s Big Rock nuclear power plant is the most dynamic symbol of the 1960's in northern Michigan. It has been noticed throughout the world by nuclear engineers and scientists.

All of this is a part of Charlevoix.

PICTURES OF THE plant that have circulated worldwide, not only bring attention to Consumers' progressive policy and faith in northern Michigan. They also dramatically tell the story of Charlevoix's beautiful scenery.

Part Big Rock is an integrated part of Charlevoix, is immediately evident by scanning the employee roster. Of the 54 people on the payroll, all but 15 live in the Charlevoix area.

These men probably constitute the most elite group of technical and engineering skill in northern Michigan. They are literally pioneers in the peaceful use of nuclear energy.

Plant Supt. L. M. (Lee) Hauser, his wife and 11 children, live in Petoskey at 601 Michigan.

HE CAME TO BIG ROCK as its number-one man after a two year training period. Nearly all other personnel have also had lengthy schooling and training to learn their jobs.

Big Rock may become a training center itself. Last week, a Japanese engineer was at the plant on a month-long study mission to determine if such operations would be practical in his country. Foreign observers, Hauser reports, are common.

Plant employees who live in Charlevoix and their jobs are:

Vern A. Avery, shift supervisor; Vera L. Baker, clerk; Thomas

G. Bassett, reactor engineer; Robert L. Beardsley, control operator; James G. Beards, machinist; Robert R. Biggs, mechanical engineer; Harold E. Black, repairman; William Blissett, utility; Al L. Chipman, utility; James H. Dearth, radiation protection technician; Donald E. DeMoore, electrical engineer; Ralph W. Doan, shift supervisor; Eugene A. Dear Dick Affair

RICHARD DONALDSON
"GO OUT GIRL"

Dear Dick: The minute my husband gets home he sits down to watch television and the most I hear is a grunt for the rest of the night. This one-eyed monster has almost separated us. Shall I break the set?—TV WIDOW.

DEAR TV WIDOW: Not take the kids and go out somewhere every night. Say nothing when you leave . . . if he asks where you're going, grunt or nod your head. If he doesn't respond, you'll still have a man to pay the bills. And believe me, they're not hard to pay when you buy your new appliances from PUFF'S APPLANCE CENTER. Their TERMS will fit the budget and you can buy a household of appliances for a few dollars a month.—DICK.

In Michigan... at a picnic, beer is a natural

When you're relaxing at your favorite outdoor beauty spot with friends or family, and your thirst's whetted by fresh air and exercise—that's the ideal time for a cool, refreshing glass of beer. In fact, you can name your recreation—swimming, hiking, or just watching TV—and chances are nothing in the world fits it quite as well as beer.

Your familiar glass of beer is also a pleasant reminder that we live in a land of personal freedom—and that our right to enjoy beer and ale, if we so desire, is just one, but an important one, of those personal freedoms.

In Michigan... beer goes with fun, with relaxation

Council's Duty to Appoint Justice

JUSTICE COURT was not created to provide economic or political security for justices of the Peace. It is intended to dispense justice in matters of minor violation of the law. Our dictionary says justice is "Administration of law, according to the rules of law or equity."

Mayor Hawley Gets Our Vote

WHEN A POLITICAL observer sees an election in which the major candidate is unchallenged, he immediately suspects local citizens lack interest in their government, or the community is content to slumber along at a pre-war pace.

The only other answer, of course, is that the people have such confidence and trust in the lone candidate that there is no reason to oppose him. This is seldom the case.

HOWEVER WE strongly suspect it is why Charlevoix's Mayor E. D. (Pat) Hawley was re-elected in last week's general election, and February's primary. We know there are those who disagree with City Council policy, and with Pat Hawley. Certainly, we will at times.

But we strongly question there are more than a handful of Charlevoix citizens who honestly doubt Hawley has the best interests of the community at heart, and is capable and selfless in his efforts to serve them.

A look at the record shows us Hawley has the almost unique quality of courage in a small town government. And, making him even more unique, he manages to have courage without arousing angry emotion and bitterness.

BEING IMMEDIATELY familiar with government's communities both considerably larger and smaller than Charlevoix, we can easily show you that many of them have been floundering for years because no one stepped forward with the calm, determined, voice Hawley gives to the mayor's chair.

We are proud to have a man of Hawley's stature as our mayor. We respect his counsel and appreciate his confidence and friendship.

E. D. HAWLEY

Much to our regret we find Charlevoix's justice court has become one man's political dynasty. Justice of the Peace John Connolly again this week flaunted his claim to sole possession of justice in Charlevoix.

THOUGH HE HAD NO intention of holding the post, Connolly ran for the unexpired justice of the peace term, and was elected, on stickers. Because his present term lasts longer than the one he was elected to last week, he refused to take the post he sought election to.

Since state law orders Charlevoix to have two justices, the term Connolly won continues to remain vacant. And Connolly continues to be Charlevoix's only justice. By doing this he can continue to perpetuate himself as Charlevoix's only Justice of the Peace indefinitely.

We have no argument with Connolly's court procedure or decisions. The majority of the Justices of Peace we have met are nowhere near as well studied in their job as Connolly. Our experience tells us Connolly is sincere and able.

We would not want to see Connolly out as a Charlevoix Justice. But we do not feel he should be allowed to decide for the people of our town that he is the only one who will determine what is, and is not, justice.

COUNCILMEN HAVE told us it is too much trouble to have two justices. In the past the existence of two justices has created some knotty problems for councilmen and law enforcement officers.

We have also heard arguments that there isn't enough justice to dispense to make a living for two justices of the Peace.

However, we do not feel it is possible to evaluate justice in terms of practicality or money. Justice simply is not practical or profitable. It was not intended to be. If it was mankind would have never rebelled against dictators who simply ordered heads hacked off when they felt wronged.

The simple truth is that the law calls for Charlevoix to have two justices. As the City's top officers, Councilmen have an obligation to the law, and the public, to see that Charlevoix has two justices.

PEOPLE BEING creatures controlled by widely different reactions and emotions there cannot help but be some honest conflict between certain persons and Connolly. These citizens should have the right to select another Charlevoix Justice if they must go into court.

This is not a problem of great complexity. There are any number of people in Charlevoix who have the qualifications to serve as our second Justice. City Councilmen know these people well.

Councilmen have the power and the responsibility to appoint someone to fill the second Justice's term. If this person never gets a case (which is awful unlikely), or hold court at home (which is legal), it does not matter.

At least justice will be served.

Band's Thanks

TO THE EDITOR:

On behalf of the entire Band Parents Organization, we wish to express our thanks to the Charlevoix Courier and to you for the opportunity given the Band to raise additional revenue, and for your generosity in giving them the bonus of a much wanted instrument in spite of the fact that the number of subscriptions sold fell considerably short of the quota set.

WE REGRET THAT the plan met with disapproval on the part of some, but we'll know that we can't please everybody at all times.

Thank you again for your check and instrument, and for your support of our band during all of their fund raising projects. We feel we have a band of which we can all be proud.

Sincerely,

Island Clerk Replies

TO THE EDITOR:
About two weeks ago, some of you were rather shocked at a letter published in your paper describing the lack of cooperation of the Township Board of St. James in regards to a road past the property of the writer, W. H. Adams.

Stymied!
I wrote to your Chamber of Commerce in an effort to get some information concerning accommodations for this summer. I received practically nothing.

Would you be so kind as to run a classified ad in your paper to get me some information? I don't know anything about Charlevoix except from having driven through it. If there are cottages on Lake Michigan in that area I think that is what we would like. Otherwise, Lake Charlevoix or other location might be satisfactory. Would prefer something not too far from Charlevoix so as to be convenient for golf and shopping. We need room for two adults and two children, preferably a cottage where there are facilities for bathing. I will leave wording of the ad to you.

IF YOU WILL tell me what the cost of running an ad or two is, I will send a check.

Thank you very much for your trouble.

us were rather shocked at a letter published in your paper describing the lack of cooperation of the Township Board of St. James in regards to a road past the property of the writer, W. H. Adams.

We feel that a word or two in defense of the Twp. Board is in order. First of all, this matter never has been brought before the Board of St. James in the form of a letter or in person. I am certain if the party would contact the Board in either of the above mentioned manners, rather than through a newspaper, it would be glad to take action on this matter.

THE STATEMENT that Township funds are used only to pay salaries, is rather humorous in as much as the tax spread to operate the Township amounts to only $2,899.57, including the salaries of the five member board. We are still in the black with a respectable balance. This certainly doesn't leave room for anything other than token salaries. Our books are open to anyone interested. We certainly hope to straighten this matter out and extend the offer to help anyone with problems under the jurisdiction of the Township Board.

Sincerely,
Philip R. Gregg,
Twp. Clerk

Another sign of spring was heard Friday... the whistle of the Beaver Islander, as the boat made its first trip to Beaver Island after waiting several days for satisfactory weather conditions like ice and a northwester... And the fish tugs are again coming and going... It's beginning to look a lot like spring.

And here's one I could hardly believe but I saw it with my own eyes... In the midst of what I hope will be our last snowstorm last Wednesday... with snow blowing down the channel and the weather as wild as you could imagine, I saw two ducklings... wild ones, of course, peddling around the channel outside the Weatherlane Inn as though it was mid-summer.

I WASN'T ALONE in my surprise but someone with a knowledge of such things said the wee ones looked about three weeks old... there was no doubt that they were this year's ducklings... must belong to the small flocks that been swimming around in the open water all winter... Don't ask me what kind they are 'cause I don't know, but they sure are cute though out of place in the midst of the storm...

Would certainly have liked being at the Fish Hatchery one day recently... As most of you know, it's a federal hatchery operated by the Fish and Wildlife Service of the Department of the Interior... it's a most interesting place to visit... Recently the more than 100 kindergartners took a field trip—a visit to this wonderful place that few of them get to.

It's Your Government

Let your representatives know who they are working for and where you stand on issues. It doesn't take much effort to keep democracy alive. A frequent letter to these men can be a major part of your contribution.

Most kids these days know quite a lot about the birds and bees... but along the line someone has neglected to tell them about the fishes and when the manager at the hatchery started explaining the operation of the hatchery he found himself being bombarded with questions I'll bet he never had tossed at him before.

When he said the eggs were taken from the mother fish and brought here to be hatched these youngsters wanted to know "how come?" and why did the mother let them take the eggs and where was the daddy that he didn't help protect the eggs... Their dad dies wouldn't let anyone take them away when they were babies... and why were they so mean to take the babies away from their mothers and who cared for them... I'll bet hatchery personnel were mighty glad to see the last of that group of kids.

What are the Tigers going to do this season? Baseball fans are elated that the season has opened... and it is a long one... from April 14 to early October... Now if it was football that would be a different story... but baseball... No, thank you... But to those who are fans I hope your favorite team wins the pennant.

INTERESTED in having a foreign exchange student next year? Marge Duerr who is heading up the Youth for Understanding program under the Michigan Council of Churches is seeking people to take these students for the year... It's truly a wonderful experience... for the host family, the students and the community... If you've any interest in this program at all, give Mrs. Duerr (Charles A. in the phone book) a ring and she'll be happy to fill you in on the details.

I'm looking for some information... Had a request a while back from Guy Eccleston, a former resident now living in Indianapolis, regarding Skilakage, now an unmanned light station near the Straits... He wanted to know the origin of the name, that is, and what it means... Actually it is Ile Aux Galets... shortened to Skilakage by someone who's French wasn't what it should have been... 'tho' you'll admit it has a much more musical sound... If any of you all salts know the answer, how about passing it along to me? I think a lot of people might be interested.

From Charlevoix's Past...

This picture was taken about 1884, Mearle Scott of Ironton tells us. It shows one of Ironton's once-booming iron furnaces.

Iron ore was brought from the Upper Peninsula to Ironton. At Ironton it was made into pig iron. Ships then came in and picked it up for distribution throughout the Midwest industrial complex.

Ironton in those days, was Charlevoix County's biggest community, local historical facts tell us. Today, it is not for Ironton's beautiful setting on the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, and the well known Ironton Ferry and excellent fishing, visitors would hardly give it a glance.

Scott supplied this picture to the Courier from Ralph Price's collection.

Report Card

Accredited Since 1902

By HARRY E. BINGHAM
CHS Principal

The North Central Association of Secondary Schools and Colleges was organized in 1885. Including our own State of Michigan there are nineteen states. Among these at the more distant points of the area are Arizona, Colorado, Oklahoma, West Virginia, and Wisconsin.

Charlevoix has been a member since 1902. This accreditation is for an indefinite period since the certificate of approval is in force as long as the high school satisfies the conditions set up by the State and Regional committees.

REPORTS REFERRING to details of each school are forwarded to a State Committee. Michigan high schools send their reports to the committee offices at the University of Michigan in Ann Arbor.

Some guide lines that are used to assist schools in securing a good balance in the total educational program refer to both the general and specialized needs of students. There is to be a variety of learning experiences in the classroom, extra curricular and guidance services. Provisions are to be made for students of varying talents, intellectual capacities and future interests.

Each member school is to offer at least twenty-six subjects. These are to include English, science, mathematics, social studies, foreign languages, music, art, drama, business, industrial arts, home-making, health, and physical education.

Charlevoix has a preliminary enrollment of all students during the second semester of each school year to provide sufficient time for a wise selection of courses. The interests and abilities of individual pupils are taken into consideration. All faculty members are brought into this important service through the guidance and counseling program. Records of students are of considerable help at this point.

SCHOOLS ARE EXPECTED to maintain a balanced program of extra classroom activities, based on well defined purposes and designed to serve important educational needs of its pupils. The athletic program, the Future Homemakers of America, Class Plays, Varsity Club, Student Council, School Annual, school newspaper, musical concerts, National Honor Society, Future Teachers of America, United Nations Pilgrimage, Spanish Club, Debate Club, Ski Club, 4-H boys and girls scouts, social activities of each class, etc., represent Charlevoix's participation in this area.

The administrative policies and procedures for North Central schools are centered in the Board of Education. The Board of Education in cooperation with the staff prepares policies that serve as a basis for the administration of the school and as a guide to the superintendent and other employees in conducting their respective duties. These policies are to be such as to attract and retain the services of well qualified and competent employees. The administrative head of the school is responsible for the selection and assignment of school employees, management of the school plant and equipment and the administration and supervision of the educational program. Official business with professional staff members and other school employees is to be handled through the administrative head of the school system. The administrative head is to prepare and submit annually for the Board's consideration a budget of anticipated income and expenditures. He is also responsible, with proper Board authorization, for the expenditure of, and proper accounting for all funds in accordance with the budget.

Requirements in regard to the school staff are that the superintendent and principal are to hold a Master's degree with at least twenty semester hours of graduate work in professional education with emphasis on administration and supervision. All teachers are to have baccalaureate degrees from colleges or universities accredited by the North Central Association or a similar accrediting agency. There is to be additional emphasis in the guidance and counseling service and the library. The ratio of pupils to teachers, and other professional staff members is not to exceed twenty-seven to one.

STATE COMMITTEE members representing the North Central Association make it a point to visit high schools often enough to encourage them to improve their educational services where possible. Detailed reports are submitted each year. These reports serve as a base for further recommendations.

How Other Towns Solve Downtown Problems

Act to Overthrow Retail Doldrums

By INK WHITE

Publisher, St. Johns Republican - News

NOTE — The recent move of Puff's Appliance Store once again focused attention of merchants and shoppers on the need for expansion and improvement of Charlevoix's retail business district. The following story tells how St. John's, Mich., met a similar challenge. After extensive planning St. John's merchants agreed to pay the bulk of the cost of refurbishing their modern downtown area—ED.

This is the story of how St. John's pulled itself out of the doldrums and started going places toward a goal of a better and more progressive community. St. John's is the county seat of Clinton, I. has many of the same problems that face Charlevoix.

St. John's people do not think they are going to change the world but they are in the midst of a campaign to change their city—make it more attractive to visitors, make it more progressive. And they are modest about their efforts.

I don't think many of us who are residents of St. John's think we're so hot. We find fault with ourselves and our town regularly.

"We are told that we lost retail business to stores in neighboring towns. We believe it because the sales tax figures indicate we are not getting our share of the spendable dollar available in our community."

Citizens began to talk — talk about why their town was in the doldrums.
